SHIPPING BOARD ASKS SEATTLE AID.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, July 21.—The Seattle Chamber of Commerce today received the following telegram from the United States Shipping Board:

"Gen. Goethals asks you to use your good offices to get the employees and employers together. Everything possible must be done or the government's shipbuilding programme will be seriously blocked."

The Seattle Building Trades Council has threatened to call a sympathetic strike in behalf of the striking carmen of the Puget Sound Traction, Light and Power Company and such a strike would be likely to extend to the great shipbuilding industry of Seattle, which employs 12,000 men.

England's Answer.

SPEECH OF MICHAELIS CALLED A SUBTERFUGE.

British Premier Insists Freedom Must Prevail Throughout the World.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, July 21.—The British Prime Minister, David Lloyd George, speaking at a great patriotic demonstration in Queen's Hall this afternoon in commemoration of "Belgian Independence Day," characterized the speech of the German Chancellor, Dr. Georg Michaelis, as a mere sham and declared that he did not want the Germans "to harbor any delusion that they are going to put Great Britain out of this fight until liberty has been re-established throughout the world."

Great Britain will make peace with a free Germany, but with a Germany dominated by autocracy, declared the Premier, there never could be peace.

The Germans, said the Premier, were making the same mistake in underestimating America's efforts in the war as they had made about Great Britain in the beginning.

BRITISH EXAMPLE.

"They said that we would not fight," continued Mr. Lloyd George, "and if we did, we could not. We had no army and could not raise one and they need not worry about Britain. I think they have discovered their mistake about us, and they are now just going through the same process with America.

"I want to put this to them: If Great Britain, not a very large country, while she is maintaining and equipping and even building up equipment for an army of millions afield and in reserve in full fighting array; while she is maintaining the largest navy in the world, can organize in the third year of an exhausting war to turn out millions of tons of new shipping, is America, with twice the population of this country, with endless natural resources, going to be beaten merely because she puts forth no effort? The man who talks like that knows not America; otherwise he would not say it."

ANSWERS SNEERS.

Referring directly to the German Chancellor's sneering remark that America has no ships and no army and that when America has an army it will have no ships to bring them across the sea, the Premier said: "He knows America just as little as the Germans knew Great Britain."

Far from being starved by the U-boats, Mr. Lloyd George declared, Great Britain's food supply for 1917-1918 was already secured, production was increasing and losses at sea were diminishing. He had sought in the Chancellor's speech for something which would permit him hope for the ending of the bloody struggle.

"But," he declared, "I see in it a sham independence for Belgium, a sham democracy for Germany, a sham peace for Europe, and I say that Europe has not sacrificed millions of her gallant sons to set up a sanctuary for sham."

Mr. Lloyd George asked what hope was in the Chancellor's speech of peace.

FACES ALL WAYS.

"I mean an honorable peace, which is the only possible peace," he said. "It is a dexterous speech, a facing-all-ways speech. There are phrases for those who earnestly desire peace, many of them, but there are phrases which the military powers of Germany will understand, phrases about making the frontiers of Germany secure. That's the phrase which annexed Alsace-Lorraine; that's the phrase which has drenched Europe in blood since 1914; that's the phrase—if they dare—that will annex Belgium and Courland; that's the phrase which will once more precipitate Europe into a welter of blood within a generation unless that phrase is wiped out by the statesmanship of Europe.

"There are phrases for men of democratic minds, but there are phrases to satisfy the junkers, and there are other phrases which mean nothing. It is the speech of a man waiting on the military issue. It is a speech that may be made better by improving the military situation, and if the Germans win in the west, if they destroy the Russian army in the east, if the Turks drive Great Britain from Mesopotamia and if the U-boats sink more merchant ships, then that speech, believe me, means annexation all around and military autocracy more firmly established than ever.

MANNER OF GOVERNMENT.

"What manner of government the Germans choose to rule over them is entirely a matter for the German people themselves. But as to what manner of government we can trust to make peace, that is our business. Democracy is in itself a guarantee of peace, but if it cannot be got in Germany, then we must secure other guarantees as a substitute."

The speech of the German Chancellor, continued Mr. Lloyd George, meant that for the moment the military party in Germany had won and showed that those in charge of affairs had elected for war. There was no hope for Belgium in the Michaelis speech, but the determination of the Allies, said the Premier, was that Belgium must be restored as a free and independent country.

"We must not have a Belgium scabbard for the German sword," he declared. "The scabbard must be Belgian, the sword must be Belgian and the soil must be Belgian.

"The Chancellor tries to stimulate and encourage his people by doping them with illusions, and Germany will find that her hopes are just as much illusions as others which have been dispelled. Owing to submarine attacks we cannot last much longer, according to the German Chancellor. We will, I am sorry to disillusion him at the outset of his career, but truth compels me to do it."

U-BOAT WAR.

Turning to the Chancellor's statement regarding the U-boat war, Mr. Lloyd George said that April was the height of German piratical triumph. The Germans could look back to that month as a month of glory.

"Since then," he continued, "we have gradually decreased our losses.

"This year we have turned out four times as many ships as last year. In the last two months of this year we should turn out as many ships as we did in the whole twelve months of last year. Next year we should turn out six times as many ships as last year.

"Our food supply for 1917-18 is already secured. With reasonable economy there is a programme of cultivation which will make the food supplies for 1918-19 secure, even if our losses are greater.

"Germany is not going to drive Great Britain out of the fight until liberty has been re-established throughout the world. The Ger-

SUBMARINE SITUATION SERIOUS FOR ALLIES.

That the United States will not Have Two Hundred Thousand Troops in France Before September Next Year is Asserted by High Authority and Same Source Declares England will Have Quit at Saloniki.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 21.—That the United States will not have 200,000 troops in France before September 1, 1918, was asserted here today on high authority.

When the German submarines destroy 1,000,000 more tons of British shipping, England will have to abandon the Saloniki campaign, was another declaration from the same source, which declared that the seriousness of the submarine situation cannot be minimized.

These statement were made to show that this government is fully aware of the difficulties facing America's participation in the war.

To serve the national army which will be sent to France, if peace is not concluded within a year, 5,000,000 tons of shipping will be required, a figure far beyond the present resources of the Allies and America, taking into consideration the necessity of supplying the Allied forces already in the field.

The fact stands out, it is declared, that comparatively few more troops can be dispatched to France within a year, and adequately supplied, while the further condition obtains that there is not now under construction, sufficient tonnage in the Allied countries, America, and the neutral countries whose shipping is available for Allied uses, to accommodate America's national army of 500,000 men at the beginning of September, 1918, unless submarine operations cease.

The attitude of the State Department towards the suppression of information relative to the critical nature of the submarine campaign is believed to be that best purposes of the Allies and America are not served by it, but inasmuch as the information is furnished to this government "confidentially" by Great Britain, the United States has no choice but to observe the confidence. This government makes public every sinking of an American merchant ship, preferring not to follow the British practice of concealing the name and tonnage of the victim.

FIRST DRAFT SUMMONS AFTER NEXT TUESDAY.

Lists of Exemption Boards Already in the Printer's Hands.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Owing to the fact that officers and clerks of Provost Marshal General Crowder's office worked all last night to complete the drawing that fixed the order of military liability of 10,000,000 registrants, the tally sheets had been compared and corrected before dark tonight and the master list was in the hands of the printer. Copies will be mailed to local exemption boards beginning not later than Tuesday and the summoning of the first draft of 687,000 men can begin.

Gen. Crowder tonight issued the following statement:

"The drawing is complete and has been apparently successful. The official tally sheets have been compared, sent to the printer and the proof is being received. Final copies will be ready for distribution not later than Tuesday.

TO CERTIFY RESULTS.

"The next step will be the certification of the results of the drawing to 4557 local boards and the application by each board of its chart to its serially-numbered list. This need consume but little time and when done the order of priority of the nearly 10,000,000 registrants to report for examination will be revealed. Such additional drafts as may be ordered by the President will be filled by calling men in the order of this established priority and no further drawing will be necessary. Each local board, upon receipt of its chart and upon notification by the Governor of the quota to be raised by it, may proceed at once, under regulations already promulgated to summon men for examination.

"We have now passed the stage in the execution of the selective service act when we must have concert of action by the States. In raising State contingents the race is to the swiftest.

"I cannot let this opportunity pass without adverting to the very great value of the assistance which has been so earnestly and efficiently rendered by the press.

"Without the systematic campaign of public information that prepared the country for the registration, the enrollment of 10,000,000 men on the fifth day of June would have been impossible. The generous support of the newspapers throughout the period since registration day is appreciated and only the most thorough efficiency could have placed upon the streets within a few hours the first number was drawn lists for each registration district, showing the names of the persons who would be summoned for examination on the first call of the local boards."

THE REGULATIONS.

Gen. Crowder also made public the text of the regulations for their application which will accompany the master lists. The only new feature shown is the plan for handling cards that are found to have duplicate numbers or are otherwise confused, and also of dealing with those received July 10, when the local boards closed their lists to begin numbering.

By the plan worked out these additional cards will be given an order of their own by lot and then will be added to the lists of the districts from which they come and be affected by the drawing precisely as though they had been received and numbered before the board lists were closed. Where several cards bear the same serial number, one will be drawn from the group and

SLAVS STILL RETREATING IN THE GALICIA SECTOR.

Bavarians Take Advantage of the Disaffection in Enemy's Country.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

IN ITS review of the war dispatches for the past twenty-four hours, the Associated Press says:

Prince Leopold of Bavaria is making the most of the disaffection that under extremist influence developed in the Russian army in Northeastern Galicia, and is pressing into the Russian lines along a twenty-five-mile front between Ziochoff and Tarnopol.

The Russians were in retreat in this sector all day, Friday, according to their own account, which lays the brunt of the blame upon the failure of certain commands to obey orders. The Russians burned villages and wrought havoc in the countryside as they fell back, the Berlin statement reports.

Apparently toward evening the Russian commanders were able to rally their forces and check the retrograde movement, as the Petrograd report speaks of a Russian pause along a definite line.

Saturday evening's supplementary German statement, however, says the advancing Teutons had reached the vicinity of Tarnopol.

POSITIONS RECAPTURED.

Berlin announces the recapture of positions north of Brzezany lost at the beginning of the Russian offensive on July 1, the capture of the village of Babin, south of the Dniester, and of heights near Novica, on the front of Gen. Korniloff's advance on the Lomnica front.

The Rumanian front now is witnessing active infantry operations, although not as yet on a large scale.

WEST FRONT.

The situation on the Franco-Belgian front presents much the same features as for some time past, with frequent German attacks on the French lines, particularly along the Chemin des Dames in the Aisne region, and continued play of the heavy artillery on the British front, notably in Belgium and the sectors immediately to the south of the Franco-Belgian border. Yesterday's official statements recorded no changes of ground.

The Russian internal situation seems to be resolving itself satisfactorily to the forces of order. The chief powers of the government now are in the strong hands of Kerensky, as Premier and Minister of War and Marine, and the authorities appear to be grappling more boldly than previously, and with entire success so far, with the extremist forces which caused the recent turmoil.

PETROGRAD REPORTS

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, July 21.—A further retreat has been made by the Russians in Eastern Galicia, the War Office announces, because the troops did not show the necessary stability and at points did not fulfill commands. The Russians paused on the line Hlatiki-Popropnvna-Vybndow.

Fighting was begun yesterday on the Rumanian front. Austro-German troops made an attack which was met by a Rumanian counter-attack. The Rumanians drove back the enemy and restored the situation.

BERLIN REPORTS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via London) July 21.—German troops in Eastern Galicia have crossed the Zlochoff-Tornopol line, in a front of forty kilometers, army headquarters announced today. They found burning villages and great destruction in their path.

The German advance was effected on both sides of the town of Jezierna. (Jezierna lies twenty miles northwest of Tarnopol and thirty-five miles southeast of Zlochoff.)

Today the advancing German troops reached the vicinity of Tarnopol, says this evening's supplementary headquarters report.

The German statement also announces that Austro-Hungarian forces yesterday recaptured the positions north of Brzezany which they had lost to the Russians on July 21.

ITALIAN ACTIVITY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, July 21.—Increased activity on the Julian front all the way from Vertoibizza in the Gorizia area to the Adriatic, is reported by the War Office today. Two hostile airplanes were destroyed.

SLAV DRIVE REACHES ITS CRUCIAL POINT.

Teutonic Forces are Clinging Stubbornly to Brzezany, Which is an Important Position in View of the Russian Advance—Retirement from Kalusz Caused by Swelling of the Stream.

BY A MILITARY EXPERT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 21.—The Russian drive has reached what may well be termed its crucial point—the line of the Lomnica River. In the first part of the week the advance continued without check, the front expanding as the troops moved forward.

The Teutonic forces are still clinging stubbornly to Brzezany, the crossing of the Zlota Lipa, in spite of the Russian attempts to dislodge them. And it is almost certain that with the evacuation of this town, which is on the west bank of the stream, the line of the Zlota would be cleared for almost its entire length of German troops. As the Russians advance north from Halicz along either the Gnila Lipa or the Narajuvka, the Brzezany position becomes more and more insecure. The railroad line through Rohaytn becomes affected and the troops holding the Zlota Lipa line north of Brzezany are subjected to a fire almost directly from the rear. It is because of this that the Germans are holding the village so tenaciously under the Russian attacks.

ARREST PLOT LEADERS, ORDER OF KERENSKY.

Premier Declares Russia has been Brought to Brink of Precipice by Treason and Directs that Conspirators be Brought Immediately to Petrograd for Trial—Warns Country of German Offensive.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, July 21.—Premier Kerensky has addressed an order of the day to the army and navy, directing:

First, the dissolution of the Central Committee of the Baltic Fleet and the election of a new committee.

Second, the issue of a notification to all detachments of the ships of the Baltic fleet that "I desire them to remove at once all persons suspected of inciting to insubordination against the provisional government and against our offensive, and to send these individuals to Petrograd for trial."

Third, detachments of Kronstadt and of the battleships Petropavlovsk, Republic and Slava, the names of which have been disgraced by the actions of counter-revolutionists, shall arrest within twenty-four hours the ringleaders and send them to Petrograd for trial, thus giving assurance of complete loyalty to the provisional government.

"I hereby notify the Kronstadt detachments and crews of those ships," the order continues, "that if this order is not carried out they will be branded as traitors to the country and to the revolution and that most vigorous measures will be taken against them.

"Comrades, the country has been brought to the brink of a precipice by treason. The German armies and artillery have taken the offensive on our front. At any moment a decisive action may be forced by the enemy's fleet which may try to profit by the confusion of the moment. Drastic measures are necessary once for all to put an end to this confusion. The army has already done something in this direction and the fleet should follow suit."

FINAL DRAFT NUMBERS FOR NEW AMERICAN ARMY

Men Who will Have to Meet Force of Kaiser in Order of Preference.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 21.—When dawn was heralded today, America's gigantic military lottery—the greatest juggling with human destiny the world has ever known—had been accomplished.

At that hour, Fate, blind to favor, had decreed the order of the liability for military service for 10,000,000 young men.

Scarcely had the newspapers of the country conveyed the details of the new national army draft to waiting millions than the cables from Europe ticked off Germany's response to this climax in America's first experiment with selective conscription.

Germany's counter-move against the draft, it is declared, is a call of 2,000,000 of her youngest men to the colors. This information in confidential advices reached the War Department's officials today.

The German younger classes, it was declared, will be called to report to the colors next March, or about the time that the new national army of the United States can be expected to be ready to be transferred to France.

Officials decline to say what classes are to be called up, but it is believed that they will be well below 21 years of age.

Many incidents relating to the draft are pouring into Washington from all parts of the country. Secretary Baker thought one of them merited publication, so he gave out the following telegram from Samuel Sangines, a Spaniard, of New Orleans, who was drafted on the first number drawn yesterday.

"You drew my number first and, although I am not an American citizen, but a Spaniard, and have never applied for naturalization papers, to be first one drawn I consider it such an honor that I beg to offer you my services."

THE CONCLUDING NUMBERS.

Censorship.

CHARGE PRESS IS THROTTLED.

Capital Invisible Censorship Scored in Appeal.

Say Newspapers Know More Than They Dare Print.

Failing Against Submarines Warning to America.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 21.—The newspapers of America "know more than they dare to print, but are throttled by the invisible censorship controlled in Washington," declares an appeal to patriotic Americans headed "America is Not Winning the War," sent broadcast over the country today by the executives of the National Committee of Patriotic and Defense Societies, the Patriotic Education Society and the Conferring Committee on National Preparedness.

"Talk and indecision reign supreme in Washington," says the appeal. "Our chiefs are not strengthening the weakest lines of our chain of offense and defense. Bickerings and delays are tolerated.

"Americans, awake! Demand facts! Not the optimistic imaginings with which officials fill our press. What behooves it to have an army if it cannot be shipped to meet the foe? . . . We are failing in our part against the submarine despite our Navy Department optimists. . . .

"This war will be lost, or victory deayed, at frightful cost.

"(1.) For lack of business management in high places.

"(2.) For want of ships to enable American men, supplies and food to support our allies and hammer our enemies.

"Be not misled. We are not getting ships. Nobody has yet totaled the vast tonnage needed for carrying out present plans. No programme yet presented includes all the ships that could be built. . . .

"Members of our patriotic and defense societies, make your local newspapers give you the real truth, the whole truth, untinged with July Fourth complacency. They know more than they dare to print, but are throttled by the invisible censorship controlled in Washington. . . .

"Italy, Russia, France, are staggering for want of coal or other things carried in ships. Will you let them fall and bring the fight to your own shores?"

The appeal was addressed: To every patriotic society in the United States.

FREE CHAMPAGNE FOR OUR TROOPS.

STAFF ACCEPTS LIQUID GIFT OF FRENCH GOVERNMENT.

Red Wines Prove Welcome Variant from Salty Filtered Water, and Men Enjoy Change. Need of Our Soldiers Now Appears to be Reading Matter.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, July 21.—This was champagne day for the American soldiers. After a long discussion, the American staff decided to allow the soldiers to accept the champagne and red wines which the French government presented to them July 14, Bastile Day.

The liquid delicacies were distributed during the forenoon and proved a welcome variation from the customary filtered water with its slightly salty taste. Gift wine, however, was not the only wine drunk by the men, who, their pockets filled with the money from yesterday's pay day, soon ehausted the normal wine supply of the near-by city except for champagne, which was cheap and plentiful.

The greatest need of the American soldiers appears to be reading matter. Magazines, newspapers and books are not obtainable here. A movement is under way to interest Americans in Paris in sending old magazines and books to the camp.

The representatives here of the Y.M.C.A. hope to be able partly to make up the deficiency in reading matter before long.

In their spare time—which is not superabundant—the men have developed a veritable passion for letter writing, which has swamped the company censors. Many soldiers turn in a dozen letters daily, most of them written, as one censor explained, to "every queen the men have met on their way here."

A rule has been made, therefore, that the letters must be inclosed in a blue envelope and sent to Paris for censorship.

PRESIDENT VISITS HAMPTON ROADS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FORTRESS MONROE (Va.) July 21.—President Wilson visited Hampton Roads today for the first time since the United States entered the war against Germany.

Accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, he arrived on the Mayflower and anchored in the Roads after an uneventful voyage down the Potomac. The President is keeping in touch with affairs at the Capitol by radio.

SOUTHWEST INDIANS WELCOME BELGIANS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

TULSA (Okla.) July 21.—The Belgian War Mission was welcomed into the Southwest today by some of the original Americans. A tribe of Osage Indians, resplendent in gay shawls and beaded clothes, comprised an important part of the Municipal Committee that greeted the visitors. Chief Bacon Rind, head of the tribe, spoke the words of welcome.

Submarine a Failure.

the Conservative leader, that the war would be won in two months through the submarine, and evoked merriment in the house by adding: "Heydebrand, your submarine watch has run down."

As a weapon to end the war this summer, the illusion of the submarine, the speaker added, had broken down, as was inevitable.

Frederich Von Payer said that the new Chancellor took the same position on the peace question as his predecessor and that the next two weeks would show what measure of determination Michaelis was ready to apply to give effect to the programme laid down in the Reichstag resolution.

Herr Haase, radical Socialist, made one of the longest speeches of the day. He attacked the government's home and foreign policy and demanded immediate peace negotiations, atonement for wrongs committed and the establishment of a socialist republic. His speech is dismissed with a paragraph. Herr Haase demanded the release of Dr. Liebknecht and cries from the floor that the prison authorities were starving Liebknecht caused a tumult in the house.

In the roll call the Conservatives and National Liberals voted solidly against the resolution of the majority. Five members of the Center party also voted in the negative.

With the Aid of Her Twin Sister an Ontario Bride Plays Trick Upon Friends Who had Made Plans to Noisily Mark Her Going Away.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, July 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. McCulloch, newly married, the latter formerly Miss Esther Goss, Ontario society girl, gave pursuing college friends the slip in unique fashion and said friends had a merry chase for nothing last night. Miss Elizabeth Goss, a twin sister of the bride, and Herbert McCulloch, a brother of the groom, posed as the newlyweds, and departed in the groom's motor car, which had been decorated by his friends.

The wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Otis Goss, No. 945 North Euclid avenue. When, late in the evening, Miss Elizabeth Goss, who so much resembles her sister that members of their own family can scarcely distinguish between them, descended the stairway wearing a long coat and was joined as she left the house by the groom's brother, the friends assembled about the gardens at once thought them to be the bride and groom and when they departed in the groom's car, the wedding guests followed.

With the pursuing guests safely out of the way, the real bride and groom departed quietly in another car, which was waiting for them.

SECOND APPEAL BY KERENSKY.

German Agents Stirred Riots, He Tells Russians.

Rally Round the Government, Word to Democracy.

Korniloff Commander-in-chief in the Southwest.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, July 21.—The recent disturbances in Petrograd were instigated by agents of the German government, said Premier Kerensky in a message to the sailors at [illegible] Helsingfors and other ports. The new Premier appeals to all democrats to stand by the provisional government. His message reads:

"It has been established without doubt that the disturbances in Petrograd were organized by agents of the German government. The disturbances now have been suppressed completely and the arrest of the leaders and those guilty of the blood of their brothers and crimes against the government and the revolution is proceeding. Arrests also are being made among the sailors who acted contrary to their civic and military duties.

"I appeal to all true sons of democracy to rally around the provisional government and the democratic organizations throughout Russia to save the country and the revolution from the enemy without and his allies within."

Lieut.-Gen. L. G. Korniloff, commander of the Eighth Russian Army, which recently advanced successfully on the Halicz-Stanislau line in Galicia, has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Russian armies on the southwestern front. He succeeds Gen. Goutor, who was appointed to the command early in June.

FLOUR AND OATS MAY GET CHEAPER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 21.—Lower prices for flour as a result of the Senate amendment to the food bill today fixing a minimum of $2 a bushel on best grades of wheat, were predicted by President J. P. Griffin of the Chicago Board of Trade tonight.

While refusing to hazard a guess as to what effect the action of the Senate would have on other grains, Mr. Griffin declared that consumers could look for a drop in flour to $10 or $11 a barrel.

"Oats also should be cheaper owing to the large crop," he said. "I believe the price of oats will be around 50 cents a bushel as soon as the new crop is on the market."

MILLION-DOLLAR WAR FUND TO BE RAISED.

A Nation-wide Campaign to Secure Money to Furnish Recreational and Social Facilities at the Various Military Camps to All Men Regardless of Creed will be Inaugurated by the Knights of Columbus.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) July 21.—A nation-wide campaign to raise a million-dollar war fund to be used to furnish recreational and social facilities at the various military camps to all men regardless of creed and for the safeguarding of their morals in this country and in the trenches is to be started tomorrow by the Knights of Columbus. It will last a week, ending July 29.

This activity, it is explained in a statement by William J. McGinley, Supreme Secretary of the order, is in co-operation with the government's commission on training camp activities, and has the approval of the War Department.

It is also stated that the order's Committee on War Activities, with headquarters at Washington, already has contracted for the erection of buildings at the sixteen national army cantonments, and plans to establish centers in the National Guard encampments, regular army expansion camps and the naval stations of other units of the service. It is also planned to establish intelligence bureaus at the front to provide for communication between men in service and relatives at home.

Indications, according to the statement, are that the fund will be oversubscribed. New York City, it is stated, plans to raise $[illegible]; Detroit $100,000, St. Paul $[illegible]; Denver $25,000, Indiana $[illegible]; Massachusetts $100,000, [illegible] $25,000, Pennsylvania $100,000.

FOLLOWERS OF VILLA MOVING ON TORREON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ, July 21.—Villa followers to the number of 6000, under command of Francisco Villa and Canuto Reyes, are reported moving on Torreon from the north and the south along the Mexican Central Railroad. Jiminez, which was occupied by Villa a few days ago, has been evacuated by the rebels, and Gen. Francisco Murguia has [illegible] his headquarters there from Chihuahua city. The capture of Torreon by the rebels would isolate Northern Mexico from the capital.

mans are making the same mistake in underestimating America's efforts in the war as they did about Great Britain. It won't be long before Michaelis will have to deliver a different speech. That is what we are waiting and fighting for. The freer Germany is the better we like it.

"We could make peace with a free Germany. Germany dominated by autocracy we can never make terms with."

Mr. Lloyd George paid tribute to the patriotic work of the brilliant Russian statesman Kerensky, in his leadership of the Russian democracy.

"The future of mankind," concluded the Premier, "is ours to maintain and defend."

NEED MANY MILLIONS FOR WAR PURPOSES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Secretary Daniels today submitted to the House estimates aggregating $137,366,177 for war needs of the navy, including ammunition, ordnance supplies, improvements of yards and docks, clothing and enlargement of the navy yard and gun factory here.

ASK LOAN OF COOKS TO HELP FEED ARMY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Quartermaster - General's department has sent out telegrams to presidents of fifty-eight hotel associations throughout the country requesting the "loan" of 3840 experienced cooks to superintend the kitchens in the sixteen cantonments for the new national army.

REVOKE GERMAN LICENSES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21. — Licenses under which German chemical firms have been exporting to the United States through Northern European neutral countries, serums, vaccines, anti-toxins and other biological products were formally revoked today by the Treasury Department. The order of revocation cites the inability of treasury inspectors to inspect the plants of the companies because of the war.

CREDIT FOR HOMESTEADERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21. — A House and Senate conference report agreeing upon a bill to give full credit for all time spent in the army or navy in the war to homesteaders was filed with the House today by Chairman Ferris of the Public Lands Committee.

The harvest also is very poor in Eastern Prussia, owing to adverse weather conditions and even potatoes promise only a minimum production. Many people are starving in Poland.

Tension between Austria and Germany is declared to have grown so that suspected Austrians are now being interned in Germany.

The centrist leader Erzberger, is reported to have charged the government with manipulating U-boat statistics, to have given warning that the monarchial sentiments of the people are diminishing daily and to have advised the government never again to threaten German strikers with machine guns as had been done at Settin.

Sixty-fifth Congress.

SENATE PASSES THE FOOD BILL.

Measure may Reach Wilson in the Next Ten Days.

Broad Authority Conferred on the Executive.

The Manufacture of Distilled Beverages Stopped.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The administration food control bill, virtually rewritten after five weeks' bitter contest, was passed today by the Senate, 81 to 6. Conferees from House and Senate will begin work early next week and leaders are hopeful the measure may be in the President's hands in ten days.

As revamped, the bill gives the President broad authority over foods, feeds and fuels, the latter including kerosene and gasoline; provides for administration by a food board of three members instead of an individual; authorizes Federal fixing of coal prices, requisitioning and operation of mines and authorizes a minimum guaranteed price of not less than $2 per bushel for wheat at primary markets.

The Senate prohibition section, prohibiting manufacture of distilled beverages during the war and directing the President to buy all distilled spirits in bond, was substituted for the House "bone dry" provision and will be one subject of difficulty in conference.

AGAINST THE BILL.

Senators voting against the bill were: France, Maryland; Hardwick, Georgia; Penrose, Pennsylvania; Reed, Missouri; Sherman, Illinois, and Sutherland, West Virginia.

Scores of amendments were disposed of today, but the principal features were the incorporation of the amendment authorizing the minimum wheat price and another by Senator Pomerene greatly broadening the government's power to handle the coal situation. The government guarantee for wheat would be payable at all principal interior primary markets until July 1, 1919. The Senate rejected, 46 to 33, an amendment by Senator Norris to have the food board, instead of Congress, fix the minimum price.

The Pomerene coal amendment, incorporated by the overwhelming vote of 72 to 12, directs the President, through the Federal Trade Commission or other agency, to fix coal prices, wholesale and retail, regulate the entire industry and, if necessary, to take over and operate coal mines and fix prices of labor.

ON FINAL VOTE.

On a final vote the Senate refused, 60 to 23, to place the bill's administration in the hands of an individual. Senators understood today the administration would endeavor to have the conferees substitute the original House provision for a single administrator.

This will be another source of conference trouble. Appropriation in the House bill of $150,000,000 was left unchanged by the Senate, which added an appropriation of $10,000,000, however, for Federal purchase and sale of soda nitrates for fertilizer.

Another important Senate addition to the bill provides for a joint Congressional committee to supervise war expenditures. It was proposed by Senator Owen, a Democrat, and incorporated by a vote of 53 to 31, several other Democrats voting with the solid Republican membership.

The Senate also added provisions against hoarding of foodstuffs and for regulation of grain exchanges, authorizing the President to close them if necessary to stop speculation in futures.

The bill limits government control virtually to the original subjects of the House measure—food, feeds and fuels.

In lieu of the House bill's bread provisions for licensing food dealers, the Senate bill limits Federal licensing to the following agencies and these only which have products in interstate or foreign commerce: Wheat elevators, cold storage and packing-houses, farm implement factories, coal producers and dealers, and wholesalers of designated necessities.

The House bill's provisions for Federal requisitioning of necessaries are limited by the Senate to foods, feeds and fuels and other supplies for military purposes only.

Government purchase and sale of foodstuffs to maintain reasonable prices also is limited by the Senate bill to fuel, wheat, flour, meal, beans and potatoes.

The House provision for authority to requisition factories generally was curtailed by the Senate to factories, packing-houses, mines and other plants needed for military or other public use connected with the common defense.

A Senate amendment regarding government war supplies purchased through the defense council's advisory commissions would prevent members from soliciting Federal contracts in which they are pecuniarily interested.

Among important provisions of the House bill stricken out was that establishing a general government control of all "necessaries."

Neither House nor Senate draft contains the original administration proposals for government control of clothing and maximum price fixing.

REMODEL TUSTIN SCHOOL BUILDING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUSTIN, July 21.—The public school building here is being remodeled to meet the demands of the school for the coming term. The library-room is needed for school purposes and the books are being removed to another part of the building. New quarters for the domestic science department are being fitted up in the basement where a complete equipment for cooking is being installed. In the change provisions are being made for the new kindergarten department. The building is new, having been used for only one year.

UPHOLD COAL RATES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Recent increases in freight rates on bituminous coal from mines in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee to points in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan were upheld today by the Interstate Commerce Commission with certain minor exceptions.

First Draft.

retain the duplicated number, while the others will be regarded as unnumbered and the process of adding them to the lists be followed.

DISTRICT BOARDS.

Another step accomplished during the day was the appointment of the district boards of thirty-two of the States and announcement of the names of the five men who will compose each of them. Some States have six or eight boards to ease the task. Federal judicial districts, the areas used for geographical distribution of the boards, are divided into two or three sections for that purpose and a separate board named for each.

These district boards will have no function until the local boards in their territory have begun to certify to them the men found fitted for military duty physically and not burdened with dependents. The higher boards are courts of appeal, either for the individual or for the government, against the findings of the local board.

The question of industrial exemptions has been turned over to these district boards. They will be sole judges of any registered man's field of greatest service to the nation, whether in the army or in the munitions factory, business house or other civilian occupation in which he is engaged.

MISSING NUMBER.

The first purpose today in checking the tally sheets was to discover one missing number. A blank capsule was found in the drawing. At the time a notation was placed on the tally sheets showing that the blanks had come up to No. 10,004. The drawing was carried through, however, without regard to the blank, the next number announced being placed as No. 10,004. It appeared more likely that an empty capsule had been placed in the jar inadvertently than that a numbered slip had been lost. The empty pellet was put back each time it came up thereafter with the hope that it would be found to be 10,501 when the drawing was finished.

When No. 10,499 had been drawn, however, the empty capsule was all that remained in the jar and it was known that one slip had not been placed in the drawing. Today's checking showed the missing number to be 4664 in the serial lists of registrants. That number will be placed as No. 10,004 in the liability lists on the official records, and all numbers drawn after that will be moved down one point, so that the present last number 3217, now posted as No. 10,499, will become No. 10,500, completing the drawing.

MINOR CORRECTIONS.

There will be also other minor corrections to make. Until the official list is published, however, no definite statement of the probable number of revisions can be made. Indications are that it will be very small and that the tally sheets were kept so carefully that a practically perfect result was obtained immediately on the discovery of the missing number.

Registrants will not be advised officially to appear for examination before local boards until the master list of the drawing has reached the local boards. The names of those to come forward will then be posted and any man who fails to appear when notified will be promptly hunted down and the penalties imposed for attempted evasion exacted.

Word of the registration in Porto Rico came today from the Governor, who reported that it would far exceed estimates. 104,550 men had registered when the count was made, and additional cards expected by mail will bring the final figure perhaps to 110,000.

Registration in Alaska is proceeding slowly and the total may not be available for some time.

MILITARY STUDIES STARTED BY MANY.

DEMAND FOR HELPFUL BOOK OF ARMY LORE IS KEEN.

With Thousands of Young Men Certain They will be Called to the Colors, Thoughtful Ones Begin Preparing Themselves for Their New Duties.

With the great draft completed and the army of civilians first subject to call cognizant of the fact that they will be actually called to the colors within a few weeks, hundreds of the men are already beginning to acquaint themselves with military duties and are learning what will be required of them, by studying the contents of Capt. A. L. James's interesting guide book, "Selective Service Manual."

All day yesterday clerks at The Times main and branch offices were kept busy distributing copies of these interesting volumes, but the big rush for them is expected tomorrow, when the seriousness of the draft is fully realized and the official notices to report before the boards are being put in the mails. The draft has brought home to the minds of those of selective ages most forcibly the fact that the country is at war and needs the help of every eligible, red-blooded American.

SEATTLE RIOT DURING STRIKE.

Twenty Persons Injured in Downtown Streets.

Attempt to Run Street Cars Proves Disastrous.

Flying Bricks and Stones are Hurled by Workmen.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 21.—In a riot today in downtown streets twenty persons were injured by stones and bricks and others were cut by shattered glass when an attempt was made by the Puget Sound Traction, Light and Power Company, to operate cars through the business district.

The company's conductors and motormen have been on strike since last Tuesday for recognition of the union and higher wages.

When the first car left the barn this afternoon it was not molested seriously until it reached Jackson street near Second avenue, where it was surrounded by thousands of workmen who had just left the shipyards. Stones came from all directions and the windows were speedily wrecked. The car managed to move a few blocks and then encountered another crowd. Motorman Schlater was struck on the head with a brick and fell to the floor unconscious. A. Bibbans, conductor, was struck many times by stones and bricks but stuck to his post. One hundred police charged the mob, and many rioters were beaten. Plate glass windows all along the route of the car were demolished. Twenty-two arrests were made.

BANKER'S WIFE DIES.

Long Beach Woman Who was Hurt in Fourth of July Accident at Denver Passes Away Owing to Clot of Blood Forming on Brain.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DENVER, July 21.—Mrs. Charles H. Wheeler, wife of a banker at Long Beach, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Rich, No. 2825 Clearmont street, Park Hill, from injuries received in an auto accident while motoring between Parker and Castle Rock. The death of Mrs. Wheeler was unexpected, as she appeared to be improving, after suffering a broken arm and several bruises about the body.

On the afternoon of July 4, while on a holiday excursion in company with Miss Dora Moore and Chester Wright, both of Denver, the automobile in which Mrs. Wheeler was riding slid into a ditch and she was thrown out. She was brought to Denver to the home of her daughter. Attending physicians attribute her death to a clot of blood forming on the brain.

Mrs. Wheeler was well known here as Mrs. Fred Butler, when she took an active part in club work, social service endeavors and in the Pingree garden movement. In 1913 she was married to Charles H. Wheeler, a Greeley banker. They removed to California, where Mr. Wheeler engaged in the banking business. He has been notified of his wife's death and is on his way to Denver.

GETS DAMAGES.

Mrs. Anna Mazuba was given a judgment in Judge Barber's court Friday for $750 damages against the Garden City Van and Storage Company. In the complaint filed by Attorney James Brunken, Mrs. Mazuba alleged that she stored her furniture with the concern in 1911 with the understanding that the warehouse was fireproof. It burned in September, 1914, and her furniture was lost. She asked $1500 damages.

WHITTINGTON FREED.

Calvin K. Whittington, who was brought here from Texas to face a charge of having slain Mrs. Frances Harrison and was cleared of that accusation, yesterday won his liberty by habeas corpus proceedings in the Appellate Court, where he was opposing an effort to have him returned to Texas to face a charge of fraud. The court held that as he was sent out of Texas for trial, he is not a fugitive from justice there and so can not be extradited.

SUDAN HAY-
-the money-maker of 1917!
YOUR COUNTRY NEEDS HAY
GROWS 5 to 6 FEET in 40 days!

Never in the history of the country have hay prices been so high—the nation is suffering from a scarcity of hay caused by unfavorable weather and other conditions. The California farmer has a chance to profit heavily by this nation-wide hay famine—if he plants Sudan Seed at once. This means a big crop of rich, sweet, nutritious hay in 40 to 60 days, with irrigation.

Sudan hay yields eight to ten tons per acre per season. It far outclasses timothy, barley and rye in nutritive value and stock relish it keenly. It is sweet and succulent and stock thrives on it without a grain ration. Recommended by all leading agricultural authorities. California and Arizona State Experiment Stations have made wonderful records with Sudan. It grows five to six feet high in 40 days—grows thick—crowds out all weeds—easy to raise and handle—sells readily—will command high prices this season.

The time to plant is now—means easy money for farmers who act quick. Big free illustrated folder by return mail.

Special Prices For July:

Single pounds (enough for 50x50 feet)—36c.
10-lb. lots (will plant half an acre, sown broadcast)—34 cents per lb.
25-lb. lots—32 cents per lb.
100-lb. lots—28 cents per lb.

Baldness

—Is rapidly increasing — says Prof. John H. Austin, Chicago's bacteriologist, hair and scalp specialist of 38 years' practice—and is in many, many cases directly or indirectly caused by——A very common scalp trouble.

Alopecia Pityrodes—

—It starts with a scaling of the scalp, sometimes slight, called "dandruff," sometimes abundant—producing thick, grayish-white, dry or greasy scales—which leads to falling of the hair.
—At first, when the hair starts to fall, it is hardly noticeable, but as this ailment, "Alopecia Pityrodes," becomes more deeply seated, and the germs multiply, as they always do, the falling of the hair increases rapidly, and in time the top of the head becomes entirely bald. Both men and women of all ages of life are subject to Alopecia Pityrodes, but particularly those between the ages of 20 and 35 years.
—Prof. Austin, who is now at Hamburger's, says that people who are at all troubled with any kind of hair and scalp trouble, such as

—Itching Scalp —Falling Hair
—Excessively Oily Hair
—Dry and Brittle Hair
—Dandruff
—Split Hair
—Gray or Faded Hair

—Should have their hair examined at once under his powerful microscope.
—Professor Austin says that the use of mange cures, dandruff cures, hair tonics, vaseline and elixirs is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.
—During the past two years at Hamburger's, Prof. Austin has made thousands of free microscopic examinations of the hair and scalp.
—Prof. Austin invites both men and women to take advantage of the FREE MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATIONS of the hair and scalp this week in his private office on the Second Floor of Hamburger's. Hours: 10 to 12 and 2 to 4 daily.

To Look and Feel Bright in Hot Weather

This is the season when she who would have a lily-white complexion should turn her thoughts to mercolized wax, the firm friend of the summer girl. Nothing so effectually overcomes the soiling effects of sun, wind, dust and dirt. The wax literally absorbs the scorched, discolored, freckled, withered or coarsened cuticle, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft and girlishly beautiful. It also unclogs the pores, removing blackheads and increasing the skin's breathing capacity. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, applied nightly like cold cream, and washed off mornings, will gradually improve the worst complexion.

When depressed by the heat and you want to freshen up for the afternoon or evening, bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. You'll find this more refreshing than an hour's rest. It is fine for soothing out wrinkles, even the deeper ones.

Girls! Use Lemons! Make a Bleaching, Beautifying Cream

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold cream. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is simply marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

NOT A SPEEDER.

President of Big Automobile Distributing Agency Wrongly Accused Through Confusion of Identity with Another.

Among the prominent men who were called early in the draft day before yesterday is Earl Van Orman Armstrong, president of Earl V. Armstrong, Inc., distributors of Chandler automobiles and employer of about 1500 men. Through an unfortunate confusion of identity with another man of the same surname, The Times yesterday referred to Mr. Armstrong as having been frequently charged with violating speed laws.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Armstrong is known to his many friends as a most careful and conservative driver. He has residences in both Pasadena and Santa Barbara and was in the latter place yesterday when informed that his number had been drawn. Although within the draft age limit he has earned the reputation of an able and successful business man. He is married and has two children. Even if he declines to claim exemption his friends believe that the government is not likely to accept a man who gives employment to support so many families and whose services in the automobile field are so valuable.

GERMANS PENETRATE FRENCH TRENCHES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, July 21.—In the course of violent fighting last night on the Aisne front, southeast of Cerny, the Germans twice penetrated French trenches and were driven out by counter-attacks, the War Office announces. Several other attacks at different parts of the front were repulsed by the French, who inflicted heavy losses on the Germans.

FINLAND EXPECTS FIGHT WITH RUSSIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

HELSINGFORS (Finland) July 19.—A conflict with Russia is regarded as inevitable because of the action of the Finnish diet in adopting a bill granting independence to Finland.

Slav Drive.

Kalusz and Perchinsko advanced into the bend of Lomnica and occupied Novica they have been occupied in beating off counter-attacks by the newly-arrived German reinforcements. It is unfortunate that just as the Russians were having everything their own way heavy rains turned the rivers to floodtime conditions. Every river barrier was thus made doubly effective. The western bank of the Lomnica is high, the eastern bank is low; the result has been that much of the eastern bank which is normally dry has been turned into marshes, the way through which is exceedingly difficult.

But there was another result even more important. The Russians, after taking Kalusz, appeared to be well established on the west bank of the Lomnica, from its mouth near Halicz almost to its headwaters. The swelling of the stream, however, made communication between the forces in Kalusz and their supplies difficult. Therefore when the Germans also moved forward from behind the Siwka and seized the woods to the north of Kalusz, almost surrounding the town on the northern side, the Russians fell back out of the town, presumably across the river to the east bank. It is in the vicinity of Kalusz that the Lomnica is really formed by numerous small streams flowing together. All of these find their origin in the foothills of the Carpathians, and, while they are small, in weather such as has prevailed they are apt to form practically a continuous marsh. This feature is indeed characteristic of most of the Galician rivers. The same thing happened last year while Brussiloff's great offensive was under way, only in this case it was the Dniester which overflowed its banks and hindered his operations.

GREAT BATTLE FOUGHT.

The Russians appear to hold the west bank of the river south of Kalusz about Perchinsko, but north of that point it seems that the German reaction has completely cleared the western bank. A great battle is being fought at Novica in the bend of the river, and has been going on for several days without advantage to either side.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC SURVEYS ROUTES.

GLENDORA TO BE CONNECTED WITH SAN DIMAS.

This will Place it on Through Route Between Los Angeles and San Bernardino—Switching Facilities for Citrus Union Packing-house to be Provided.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDORA, July 21.—If plans matured are carried out, the extension of the Pacific Electric from Glendora will only be a question of a short time. San Dimas is on the Los Angeles, Pomona, Ontario and San Bernardino electric line. It is intended to fill the gap between Glendora and San Dimas. Glendora will then be situated on the through trolley line from Los Angeles to San Bernardino, the eastern terminus of the road, as it was originally intended to be. The officials were thwarted in their purpose of making connection with San Dimas, along the foothills, by claims for damages for right of way that were regarded as inhibitive.

The engineers sent afield have surveyed two routes lower down in the valley, both of which tap the main line at the Lone Hill station, just south of San Diemas. No heavy grades were encountered on either route gone over but what can be easily overcome, so it is but a question on the part of the officials of choosing the most direct and feasible route.

The project includes switching facilities for the Glendora Citrus Union packing-house by the medium of a spur track to be less than one mile in length. That would then give the Pacific Electric shipping connection with all of the association packing-houses in the Glendora district.

GIRL CARED FOR BY AN USHER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, July 21.—Frances Tyson, 16-year-old high school student, who disappeared after leaving a weird note in which she referred to "human devils, making terrible threats," has been found. She was brought back to Los Angeles late yesterday by Capt. C. E. Webb of the police department. The girl seems to be in a highly nervous condition and is under a doctor's care. Her mother, Mrs. F. E. Tyson of No. 942 Seventh street, said that her daughter was found in a dazed condition in a theater in Los Angeles, where she had gone alone.

One of the ushers, a Mrs. Montgomery of Huntington Park, took charge of the girl, and not knowing where to look for her people, took her home for the night. The morning papers solved the mystery. The girl was then turned over to the juvenile authorities and her family notified.

The police of the bay cities and Los Angeles, the school authorities and members of the Mothers' Congress, of which Mrs. Tyson is the vice-president, had joined in the search for the young woman, who left home while her mother was in Los Angeles attending a meeting of the Mothers' Congress.

WOMEN RESUME THE PICKETING.

Twelve Suffragettes Take up the Silent Vigil.

White House is Again Under Feminine Watch.

Wilson Orders that They be Dealt with Leniently.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21.—"Silent picketing" at the White House gates was resumed by twelve members of the Women's party today without interference from the police or citizens. It was the first time since the women staged their suffrage demonstration for the benefit of the Russian mission that the women had been permitted to parade on a week-end cruise. The demonstration was a protest against the President's action in pardoning sixteen of their number from the workhouse recently.

It is understood that since President Wilson pardoned the sixteen members of the Women's party sentenced to serve sixty day in the workhouse for their activities, the police have been ordered to pay no attention to the "pickets" so long as they do not display banners with inscriptions insulting to the President, or treasonable.

All of the suffragists left the picket line during the middle of the afternoon, their day having been without incident. They announced that they probably would resume picketing Monday.

INSPECT ELEVATORS FOR SAFETY FIRST.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—The bill passed by the last Legislature providing for the inspection of elevators and stipulating that no power or hand-power elevator shall be operated unless a permit has been issued by the Industrial Accident Commission, following inspection by a State inspector or one holding a certificate of compentency from the commission, becomes effective July according to announcement of the commission today.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor to operate elevators without the permit, and each day of operation without such permission constitutes a separate offense. Provision is made in the law that no penalty is attached where an elevator is operating without a permit if application for inspection has been made.

SUMMER RESORT WIPED OUT BY FIRE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—One summer resort was wiped out and others were threatened from a forest fire raging on a six-mile front along the Russian River from Healdsburg, Sonoma county, according to reports reaching here today.

No loss of life had been reported. It was said that between 500 and 600 men were fighting the fire in addition to fire-fighting apparatus from the near-by towns of Santa Rosa and Guerneville. An area estimated at fifteen square miles has been swept over, according to reports, and the flames were spreading rapidly. It was said Healdsburg was in no danger unless the flames jump the river at a narrow point.

The fire was believed to have been of incendiary origin in view of the fact that it was said to have started simultaneously in two different sections of timber land.

FICKERT'S RECALL IS THE PETITION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Petitions for the recall of Dist.-Atty. Charles M. Fickert, bearing 15,038 names, were filed with the election commission here today by the Fickert Recall League. The league charges Fickert with "prostituting his office at the behest of certain interests for the purpose of bringing discredit on the ranks of organized labor."

The movement to recall Fickert is said to have been an outgrowth of the subornation of perjury charges against Frank C. Oxman, a witness for the State in the trial of Thomas J. Mooney, under sentence of death in connection with a bomb explosion here last July which killed ten persons.

"The people leading this fight against me are anarchists," Fickert said. "The main reason they want me out of office is because they fear conviction. There were more than ten persons concerned in the preparedness day bomb plot, and it is the anarchistic element, which fears them, that seeks my recall," he said.

Mrs. Rena Mooney is now on trial for murder growing out of the explosion, while her husband, Thomas J. Mooney, and Warren K. Billings, are under sentences of death and life imprisonment, respectively, in connection with the murders.

The State charged anarchistic conspiracy culminated in the explosion.

"WATER JITNEYS" RATE SCHEDULES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Bay ferry craft of the sort known along the water fronts as "water jitneys" were ordered today by the State Railroad Commission to file schedules of their passenger and freight rates. The filing must be done within thirty days starting July 27.

The competition afforded by these small boats, running at will, has been complained of by the regular ferry lines at various times.

STEEL PLANT CAPACITY IS SOLD MONTHS AHEAD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 21.—Canvass of the steel manufacturers develops that all important producers have plant capacity sold for ten to eighteen months ahead, but it is expected that 50 per cent. of this work will have to be laid aside while the mills supply the needs of the United States and its allies.

Contracts for motive power just placed for Great Britain, France and Russia call for the distribution of $40,000,000 among the American manufacturers and the steel mills will be called upon for 180,000 tons of steel for 900 locomotives that have been ordered.

Russia will soon probably close contracts for 10,000 railroad cars. The Hudson Bay Company has ordered 1200 steel gondola cars for shipment to the Dutch East Indies, the contract price being over $3,000,000.

France has ordered 50,000 tons of rails and plans are being prepared for a large number of cars, locomotives, bridges and terminals. The French government has also placed orders for forty cargo boats and 5000 tons of cast iron pipe.

Japanese shipbuilders have purchased 7000 tons of plates, paying 11½ to 12 cents per pound, nearly four times the price being paid by the home government.

The United States government has distributed additional orders for about 25,000 tons of sheets and 25,000 tons of steel bars.

The Navy Department has awarded contracts for about 4000 tons more structural steel for magazines and shell warehouses and for other buildings. Shipyards and manufacturers of ordnance and ammunition are feverishly placing orders for machine tools.

Japanese buyers have bought 6000 tons of southern foundry iron and new inquiries for 30,000 tons have been put out by Japan, Italy, Holland and South America.

UNIONS FAVOR GENERAL STRIKE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, July 21.—The Seattle Building Trades Council, composed of thirty-two unions with 5000 members, last night adopted the following resolution:

"That the secretary send to all unions affiliated with the Building Trades Council a communication notifying them to be ready to answer to a call for a general strike in the building industry until such time as the Puget Sound Traction, Light and Power Company grants the rights of its employees to organize."

The effect of such a strike would be to halt construction work in practically every industrial plant in the city.

The council also adopted a resolution condemning the detailing of policemen to ride as guards on street cars.

The new board of directors includes: Mrs. L. D. Lawhead, Woodland, and L. D. Harris, Sutter City, northern district; N. H. Garrison, Stockton, bay section; F. O. Mower, Madera, central section; F. W. Houck, Fullerton, southern section.

SAFEGUARD HEALTH OF THE SOLDIERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Resolutions pledging the authorities in and about San Francisco to do all in their power to safeguard the health and morals of the men assembling in army training camps in this region were adopted today at a conference of city and county officials and physicians.

BLAZE DAMAGES THE ROLPH PLANT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

EUREKA, July 21.—The Rolph shipbuilding plant here and wooden vessels under construction narrowly escaped destruction early today by fire of unknown origin which burned five houses occupied by employees.

Combined efforts of scores of employees and citizens prevented the spread of the flames to the main buildings and the vessels on the ways.

The plant is owned by James Rolph, Jr., Mayor of San Francisco.

Officials have begun a searching probe to ascertain the cause of the fire.

IDAHO CANYON FIRE THREATENS TIMBER.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

COEUR D'ALENE (Idaho) July 21.—Fire in the Fourth of July Canyon, between Coeur d'Alene and Kellogg, Idaho, has burned over 1200 acres of cut-over land and today is threatening one of the best stands of government timber in Idaho. Mayor H. Wolff, supervisor of the Coeur d'Alene forest, said that careless tourists probably started the fire.

SLAV EXTREMISTS REPORTED ARRESTED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, July 21.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Petrograd says it is rumored there that Lenine, leader of the extremists, and seven of his lieutenants have been arrested while trying to escape to Kronstadt.

GIVE UP ZEPPELINS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

GENEVA, July 21.—The Zeppelin factory at Friedrichshafen has begun building airplanes, the German General Staff being convinced that future supremacy in the air belonged to airplanes and that Zeppelins were of little war value. The Germans are said also to fear an extensive air offensive and to have begun to plan to meet it.

AMERICAN TROOPS EXTEND TRAINING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, July 21.—The American troops here will extend the scope of their training on Monday by beginning to practice bomb and hand grenade throwing. The majority of the officers, including even some from the General Staff, have already experimented successfully along this line and with the aid of expert French assistants will be able to instruct the men.

From all appearances today the Americans should be able to become speedily very proficient in this mode of warfare. The majority of the soldiers have played baseball more or less and naturally throw well. As far as the officers as a whole have pitted their skill against the trained and expert Frenchmen they have easily outdistanced the French throwers and have shown quite as much accuracy in hurling at marks.

ENGLAND REDUCES PRICE OF BREAD.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, July 21.—A reduction of 25 per cent. in the price of bread at an early date was announced today by Baron Rhondda, food controller. A graduated reduction in the price of meat for the army and civilians which by January will mean a 30 per cent. decrease from the amount now paid also was announced.

ABANDON COURT-MARTIAL.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Court-martial proceedings against Capt. George B. Pond, the former quartermaster at Fort McDowell, who is charged with technical neglect of duty, are to be abandoned following orders from the War Department to the effect that the trial would not warrant the time involved. The charge was merely that the quartermaster's department disposed of junk and used the funds to purchase office supplies without formal authorization.

BRITISH CLAIM SUCCESSFUL RAIDS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, July 21.—"We raided the enemy's trenches last night at Greenland hill, north of Roeux. The hostile garrison hurriedly withdrew," the War Office reported today. "Successful raids were made by us southwest of La Bassee and south of Armentieres. German positions were entered on a wide front, a number of the enemy were killed and his dugouts were bombed. Hostile raiding parties were repulsed north of Havrincourt Wood and south of Armentieres."

CONFESSED SLAYER DENIES ANY CRIME.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

JOHNSTOWN (Pa.) July 21.—In his cell in the Cambria County Jail at Ebensburg, crying "I didn't do it; I didn't do it," George Tompkins of Philadelphia, who Thursday confessed to the murder of Edmund I. Humphries, prominent coal operator, Mrs. Humphries and their 15-year-old son, last night, repudiated his confession, according to Warden Knee of the jail, in a statement today. It is believed Tompkins is feigning insanity.

RUSSIAN CABINET MEETING STORMY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, July 21.—The Cabinet meeting leading to the announced resignation of Premier Lvoff sat until dawn yesterday and was somewhat stormy. Minister of War Kerensky criticised the ministers and military authorities for not rising to recent events and for not using their powers to suppress mutiny.

M. Tereschtenko, will remain in office as Foreign Minister. M. Kerensky, besides succeeding M. Lvoff as Premier, will continue for the present his duties as War Minister.

RUSSIANS ARREST AMERICAN CONSUL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, July 21.—The Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin hears that the American consul at Odessa, John A. Ray, has been imprisoned there, with his British colleague, by soldiers for having spoken unfavorably of the revolution. The soldiers, the newspaper says, refused to liberate him.

DISCREDIT REPORT.

LONDON, July 21.—The Foreign Office has no information regarding the reported arrest of the British and American consuls at Odessa. The Berlin report is discredited.

WILSON TO END SHIPPING ROW.

President will Intervene in the Long Controversy.

Goethals Offers to Resign to Solve the Problem.

Difficulties Come to a Head with Recent Order.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21.—President Wilson has made up his mind to intervene in the shipbuilding row and will take steps to resolve the situation soon after he returns from a week-end trip on the Mayflower.

The President's decision to put an end to differences that have halted the government's building programme was made after he had received a letter yesterday from Maj.-Gen. Goethals declaring the situation appeared hopeless, and the general would resign if the President thought that would solve the problem.

Difficulties between Chairman Denman of the Shipping Board and Gen. Goethals, manager of the board's emergency fleet corporation, starting over the board's wooden ship plans, came to a head last week, when the President authorized the fleet corporation to build ships and directed the board to operate them.

Gen. Goethals, taking the order to mean as the general manager of the corporation, he would be given a free hand, announced a building programme which he said he would start on last Monday.

DENMAN ASKS DELAY.

The start was postponed at the request, Gen. Goethals said, of Chairman Denman, who asked a short delay to give the Shipping Board time to go over the plans.

Mr. Denman declared he had asked for no delay, but did ask the general to submit in detail his plan, as the Shipping Board, responsible for the expenditure of the millions of dollars appropriated, wanted to know how it would be spent.

For a week members of the board and Gen. Goethals have been going over the programme. Although Chairman Denman has announced that progress was being made and that a completed programme on which everybody could agree was in sight, there have been persistent reports of friction.

The President's course in settling the situation was a matter of much speculation tonight. It is known the President would be reluctant to lose Gen. Goethals's service. There is reason to believe, too, that the President would hesitate to displace Mr. Denman.

THREE COURSES.

Officials in close touch with the situation think the President may adopt one of three courses. He could leave the status of both officials very much as it is and make a personal appeal to both to bury their differences and work in more harmony. Again, he could give full powers to Gen. Goethals and direct the Shipping Board not to hamper him in any way. Another way suggested is that he could give Chairman Denman full authority and ask Gen. Goethals to render a patriotic service by following the Shipping Board's plans.

Many believe the present disagreement might be settled by the President himself formulating a programme from what both Gen. Goethals and the Shipping Board have to offer, but possibilities of future clashes still are seen by those who believe temperamental differences between Mr. Denman and Gen. Goethals can never be harmonized.

The Magnetic Girl

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE THIN AND SCRAWNY.

Pale, sunken cheeks and thin, scrawny arms and neck are usually the result of a depleted nervous system, faulty metabolism or malassimilation. But being thin and scrawny means more than that—it means that envy springs into the mind of the unfortunate "slimmy" at sight of the well-rounded, shapely, magnetic woman whose health and vitality enable her to be ever on the qui vive for entertainment and the pleasure of life, and incidentally to enjoy far greater popularity than her less fortunate sister. Hence the genuine reason for seeking an answer to the problem of excessive thinness. Fattening foods and scientific execises have their points of virtue, but the real deep-rooted cause of abnormal thinness must be removed, and for this purpose physicians recommend the use of an inexpensive, harmless organic phosphorus and iron preparation, known among druggists as Irophos. The results from the use of this preparation have been so gratifying and the demand has become so great that first-class druggists now carry it in the form of 4-gr. compressed tablets put up in handy packages containing a two weeks' supply. One of these tablets taken at meal times three times per day produces results in many instances little short of marvelous. Pale, sunken cheeks take on the glow of health and beauty, the eyes become bright, thin people gain firm healthy flesh, thus replacing the ugly hollows and angles by soft curved lines of beauty. Strength, vitality, endurance and nerve force are often increased 100 per cent. in a short time.

Special Caution: Irophos mentioned above has proven wonderfully efficacious in the treatment of neurasthenia, nervousness anaemia, irritability, brain-fag, lassitude, insomnia and worn-out, run-down conditions of the system; but owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, it should not be taken by those who do not desire to increase their weight.

Josephine Davis, the charming actress popularly known as the Magnetic Girl, says: "IROPHOS IS REALLY WONDERFUL."

DENOUNCE BRITISH SEIZURE OF SHIPS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN, July 21.—The British seizure of German ships was denounced as a "brutal assault on defenseless merchantmen" and a "profligate act" by Dr. Kriege, director of the judicial department of the German Foreign Office, in replying to a question in the Reichstag. Dr. Kriege added that Germany had urged Holland to demand an apology for this unheard of violation in Dutch waters and a precise assurance that it would not recur.

Dr. Kriege said Germany was entitled to and would expect immediate restoration of the captured ships and compensation for the cargoes of those sunk, also for the wounded seamen and their dependents. Holland, he said, had already expressed regret at the occurrence and declared it would demand the fullest satisfaction.

The Reichstag has adjourned until September 26.

SPANISH SITUATION COMPLETELY NORMAL.

SELECT OFFICERS BY "MAN METER."

PSYCHOLOGICAL INVENTION TO BE EMPLOYED.

Physical Qualities, Intelligence, Military Leadership, Character and General Value to the Service are the Five Points to be Scored in the Test.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FORT SHERIDAN (Ill.) July 21.—Uncle Sam is using a "man meter" in the selection of the officers for the new national army.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, former head of the department of psychology of Northwestern University, now a government expert, visited here today. The "man meter" is said to be his invention—the result of the application of his knowledge of psychology to the task of judging men. At the request of a number of industrial leaders, he used the same plan in connection with big business organizations, but for some time he has been in government service.

His plan was presented to the instructors of the reserve officers' training camp, but it will be used only in part, as it came some time after the selective machinery had been grinding. He previously had presented it at Plattsburg, Fort Myer and Fort Benjamin Harrison, where it is said to have been adopted.

The theory of the "man meter" is the establishment of standards by which a man may be judged. Dr. Scott found a means of doing this. As it is applied to the army's present task, the basis is established by the instructor's comparison of the candidate he is judging with ten army captains under whom he has served.

There are five points to be scored—Physical qualities, intelligence, military leadership, character and general value to the service. Each of the first four is allowed a maximum of fifteen points, and the last a maximum of forty points, making 100 the highest possible, or ideal score.

The things to be considered in connection with each point are outlined. For example, under "intelligence," the instructor considers "ease of learning, capacity to apply knowledge, and ability to grasp readily and solve new problems."

Bisbee to Treat Workless Ones as Vagabonds.

Sheriff Starts a Roundup to Improve Conditions.

Electricians of Butte Vote Against New Contract.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) July 21.—All unemployed men in Bisbee who have not applied to the Investigation Committee for "clearance" cards permitting them to get work were today ordered arrested and charged with vagrancy. The action regarding the men was decided upon at a meeting of leaders of the Citizens' Protective League and the Workmen's Loyalty League, called by Sheriff Harry Wheeler.

A round-up of unemployed men was started by the Sheriff this morning. The plan is that they be taken before a justice of the peace and later either sentenced to jail or ordered out of town.

A picket fired on a man who refused to answer questions last night but the intruder was uninjured and escaped.

Miners reaching here from the Globe-Miami district say the situation there is growing more serious. Feeling between the Industrial Workers of the World and other persons there is bitter, they assert, adding in some instances that they are leaving there because they fear trouble about August 1, when Federal troops are to be withdrawn, according to current talk.

MEETING OF MINERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MIAMI (Ariz.) July 21.—Miners designating themselves as a "committee of American citizens" assembled today in a gully outside the camp of the Federal troops on strike duty here today and discussed ways and means of returning to their employment in the mines and smelters of this district. Their number was estimated at 300.

Following his enunciation of sentiments, the others designated a "wobbly" one of the participants who was ejected from the meeting and army officers ordered the men to disperse, which was done. Another meeting was announced for Monday.

Speakers at the meeting said that there was no hope of a settlement at this time between the mining companies and the labor organizations and that any steps toward ending the strike should come from outside. To this end, a committee was named to endeavor to arrange a conference between the operators and men. The committee was instructed to make its representations as from the "American citizens of the camp" and not as representing any labor organization.

GERMAN AIRPLANE LOSSES ARE HEAVY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, July 21.—The official communication issued by the War Office tonight says:

"In the period of July 11-20 five German airplanes were brought down and eleven enemy machines fell in a damaged condition within their own lines.

"Belgian communication: During the course of the night the enemy artillery violently bombarded our defensive organizations in the region of Het-Sas and in the morning carried out fires of dispersion along the whole front. In the afternoon the enemy artillery likewise continued its shelling with moderate intensity in the neighborhood of Ramscapelle and Pervyse and west of Dixmude. We counter-shelled the enemy batteries.

"Eastern theater, July 20: British aviators continued their successful series of bombardments, which caused fires in enemy stores and depots at Porna and Dedeli. There were patrol encounters and artillery activity in the region of the Vardar. Near Staravina the enemy after a lively bombardment delivered an attack and succeeded in penetrating momentarily some of the Serbian trench elements, but an immediate counter-attack drove them out completely."

LA FAYETTE FLYERS DO STERLING WORK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

FRENCH FRONT IN FRANCE, July 21.—The Lafayette flying squadron made fourteen patrol flights along the enemy's lines during the week ending July 14. Sixty-seven airplanes took part in these flights. The airmen fought fifteen air duels of which Corp. Willis was a participant in five; Lieut. de Maison Rouge in four; Adjt.-Lufberry and Edwin Parsons in two each, and Lieut. Thaw and Sergt. Heaviland in one each.

Several German machines were seriously damaged in these battles and it is believed one machine was destroyed.

DRAFT IS PRAISED BY CHAMBERLAIN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee and joint author of the draft law, who drew the second number for the selective draft, today issued the following statement:

"Everything went off with absolute precision, testifying to the care with which the admirable plans had been formulated by the President under the skillful management of Provost-Marshal-General Crowder. It will prove to the country that the selective draft plan for securing an army is the fairest that could have been devised, distributing the burden of the war, so far as man power is concerned, equitably, evenly and justly among all young men of the country between 21 and 30.

"It is not a conscript system, nor does it provide a conscript army. On the contrary, every man drawn ought to feel honored and I believe will feel honored that he has been selected to serve his country."

LUDENDORFF SPEAKS TO THE REICHSTAG.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, July 21.—Gen. Von Ludendorff, the German Quartermaster-General, in discussing the military situation for the benefit of members of the Reichstag, according to a semi-official telegram received from Berlin, said:

"In starting the submarine war, the supreme army command was guided by a desire to hit the enemy's war industry, especially the production of ammunition. Through the submarine warfare our armies in the west were greatly relieved, and the enemy's production of ammunition having decreased, thus our U-boats fulfilled their task.

"The supreme army command expects the submarine warfare to break England's ability to prepare for war by lessening her tonnage. Fulfillment of this wish will come despite America, and with it the end of the world war and peace, which is desired by the supreme army command."

COPENHAGEN, July 20.—According to the Berlin National Zeitung, Vice-Chancellor Helfferich acted as host at a conference Emperor William had with leaders of the Reichstag today.

Biff!

MY OFFICER SLAPPED BY A FAIR SENORITA.

IANA CARRILLO of Monica, daughter of the Judge J. J. Carrillo of and niece of one of the families in California, before Judge W. A. of Venice yesterday to answer a charge of disturbing the The plaintiff was William B. employee of the San [illegible] City Engineer's office and to the United States Corps with the rank of [illegible]

[illegible] that I slapped his he deserved it," said Miss with flashing eyes, as she of the affair. "If a in the face disturbed Mr. Hall had better keep [illegible]," she added.

Miss Bessie Oliver of No. 415 Wilshire boulevard, Santa Monica, who was with Miss Carrillo at the time of the hostilities, was also cited to appear in court, but the latter did most of the talking. She said that she and Miss Oliver were strolling down Ocean Front in Venice and met Lieut. Hall near the Zephyr-avenue corner. During the ensuing conversation, Lieut. Hall, who is living apart from his wife, according to Miss Carrillo, was told by her that it was no time to be treating Mrs. Hall in this manner, as she is very ill.

"You should be with her at this time above all other times," Miss Carrillo counseled. It was then, said the fair defendant, that Hall made the offending remark, speaking to Miss Oliver, who is Mrs. Hall's sister. Then Miss Carrillo opened the battle with a resounding smack with a tiny, but firm, gloved hand. This was followed by a tongue lashing. The case was continued indefinitely.

Arrested as Peace Disturber.

Miss Diana Carrillo of Santa Monica,

Who administered a resounding smack with her gloved hand to a member of the Engineering Corps, U.S.A., following an alleged offending remark.

FURNISHERS OF LOS ANGELES HOMES SINCE 1870

Extra Low Price Markings for "Midsummer Clearance"

Way back in the days when this city was scarcely more than a quaint little Spanish "pueblo", the Los Angeles Furniture Company opened its doors in the old Plaza district, then the business center of the town—and began furnishing the homes of "the first Californians", the pioneers of the Southland. Day after day, season after season, year after year, this house has "grown up" with Los Angeles. The little settlement of 'dobe houses is now the largest city west of St. Louis, and the "first furniture store in Los Angeles" has grown from a small but sincere beginning into one of the great home-furniture centers of the Pacific Coast. The business integrity and fair dealing that fostered its growth are still the controlling spirit of this organization. This house has withstood the acid test of time. We are furnishing the homes of the grandsons and great grandsons of our patrons of "the early days."

NEW ELEVATOR LAW.

Effective Next Friday and Rules that No Power or Hand-power Lift Shall be Operated Without Permit from Accident Board.

A bill passed by the last Legislature, which becomes effective next Friday, provides that no power elevator or hand-power elevator shall be operated unless a permit to run same shall have been issued by the Industrial Accident Commission of the State, following an inspection by its orders.

Operation of elevators without such permit is made a misdemeanor and each day of failure to secure the necessary authority is to constitute a separate offense.

No penalty is to be attached where an elevator is operating without permit if application for inspection has been made, but has not been acted upon.

COPPER OFFICIALS SORRY FOR ACTION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 21.—Respecting the unwarranted interference with the service of The Associated Press during the recent troubles at Bisbee, Ariz., by subordinate officials of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, the copper mining firm, the officers of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation have apologized and given assurance that the action of their officials was contrary to the policy of the firm and that they must not under any circumstances take part in any like performance in future.

AMERICAN COUNTESS GETS HER DIVORCE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 21.—A divorce to Mrs. Maude Czaky, wife of Count Czaky, hereditary ruler of a Hungarian province and a nephew of the Archbishop of Vienna, was granted by the State Supreme Court here today. Mrs. Czaky was formerly Mrs. Robert D. Inman. Before that marriage, which was followed by a divorce, she was the widow of Montgomery Bryan, of San Francisco. Count Czaky is a cousin of Count Ladislas Szechenyi, husband of the fomer Gladys Vanderbilt.

DANGEROUS CALOMEL IS SELDOM SOLD NOW

Calomel Salivates! It Makes You Sick and You Lose a Day's Work—Dodson's Liver Tone Acts Better Than Calomel and is Harmless for Men, Women, Children—Read Guarantee!

Every druggist here—yes, your druggist and everybody's druggist—has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist. A large family-sized bottle costs only 50 cents and if you find it doesn't take the place of dangerous, salivating calomel you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine, no sick headache, biliousness, ague, sour stomach or clogged bowels.

Dodson's Liver Tone doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all next day like calomel.

Take a dose of calomel tonight and tomorrow you will feel sick, weak and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work!

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up with your head clear, your liver active, bowels clean, breath sweet and stomach regulated. You will feel cheerful and full of vigor and ready for a hard day's work.

You can eat anything afterwards without risk of salivating yourself or your children.

Get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and try it on my guarantee. You'll never again put a dose of nasty, dangerous calomel into your stomach.

WEST IS WELL REPRESENTED.

INTERESTING ISSUE, "TIMES"-UNIVERSAL WEEKLY.

Sidelights on Great War Continue Backbone of Reel News—Progress of Our Affairs Abroad. Transporting of Giant Lens to Mount Wilson is Local Feature.

The West comes in for a large share of footage in the current issue of the "Times"-Universal Animated Weekly. There is a splendid combination of features from many sections in this news issue, which is adding to the interest of the programmes at many theaters in this locality.

Near home is the transporting of the giant lens to the Mount Wilson Observatory. This project entailed great difficulty, and attracted wide attention.

War preparations are still the big thing in the news weekly. A local happening photographed was the construction of the bridge across the lake at Lincoln Park by Company B, Engineer Corps, carried out before a large attendance on the Fourth of July. Another item in the western military activities is the tourney held by the northwestern troops to show their fitness and training for the great struggle. This was at Portland, Or.

The arrival and movements of Gen. Pershing's troops in France continue to provide material for absorbing news pictures. This time the film is concerned with the remarkable efficiency demonstrated in food supply methods.

In France, too, one gets a glimpse of how Gen. Petain is idolized by his fighters. He was on an inspection tour at the time.

The arrival of American medical units in London is presented. Sir Thomas Lipton adds joy to their visit. Harry Lauder wishes them good luck. This was at a reception tendered the units in Buckingham palace.

To return to America—there are two contrasting episodes still to be mentioned. One is the welcoming of the Belgium Commission in St. Paul, a great demonstration in honor of the visitors from the brave little kingdom, the other is a great round-up in San Jose, wherein high-power bronchos are "busted."

MUST WAIT AWHILE FOR REAPPOINTMENT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, July 21.—Venice High School teachers must wait another two weeks before being voted into their jobs for the coming year, the school board postponing action until August 4, as the discussion of the school budget took about all the time devoted to today's meeting. Although the budget was discussed it was not adopted, a number of questions and appropriations being left over for decision later. It was definitely decided, however, to omit from it the linotype machine that has been asked for the printing department.

The lopping off of the linotype from the budget is in line with a policy of rigid economy that promises to cut the school tax rate from 47 cents to 40 cents, notwithstanding the fact that the budget includes the expense of a new $15,000 gymnasium, plans for which were accepted by the board at tonight's meeting.

FIVE PICNICS AT SYCAMORE GROVE.

ABOUT SIX HUNDRED PERSONS ENJOY OUTINGS.

Major Affair of the Group is a Reunion of Former Students and Teachers of Oberlin College, with President of the Institution Among the Speakers.

Sycamore Grove was the scene yesterday of five picnics, each one of which was attended by about 100 persons, with the exception of the affair of the Oberlin College Association of Southern California, which brought out 200 former pupils or instructors of that institution. The other picnics were those of the Tennessee and Kentucky State societies, the Cherokee Iowa Club of Southern California and the Dixon (Ill.) Society.

At the Tennessee and Kentucky picnics there was no formal speaking, but at the long tables where fried chicken spreads were served, different persons were called upon to tell stories of the "old South." Later, the crowds joined in singing old plantation songs.

At the Oberlin College Association picnic President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin made the principal talk. Dr. Carl S. Patton of Oberlin, who is preaching at the First Congregational Church of this city during this month; Dr. T. N. Carver, formerly professor of economics of Oberlin, but now head of the economics department of Harvard, and Wynn C. Fairfield, formerly of the Shan Shi Mission of China, also spoke.

Everybody Happy!

"TIMES" PARTY HAS GAY TIME.

Will Bid Adieu to Yosemite and Start Home Today.

After a Delightful Week in Nature's Playground.

Climbing Record Made by Local Excursionist.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

YOSEMITE, July 21.—The members of The Times excursion party are for the most part spending this, their last full day in the Yosemite National Park, in resting before the journey homeward. A few enthusiastic hikers are climbing the easier trails for a last panoramic view of the valley from favorite vantage points. The great majority have done their sight-seeing and may be found sitting in groups along the Merced River or in the cool depths of the forests near El Capitan Camp, reading and chatting.

Tomorrow just after luncheon the 150 excursionists who comprise The Times' greatest vacation outing party will bid adieu to the beautiful Desmond Park Service camp, in which they have for the past seven days made their homes, and will board auto stages for El Portal. From there the Yosemite Valley and Santa Fe lines will take them back home. The big special train will arrive at the Santa Fe Depot in Los Angeles, Monday morning at 7:45 o'clock.

CHAMPION HIKER.

The Times excursionists were electrified yesterday by the announcement that one of their number, J. Potter Whittren, had broken all existing records for the short trail ascent of Glacier Point, with the wonderful time of one minute and fifty-four seconds. The feat has created a real sensation in the Yosemite Valley, where the climb to Glacier Point has for many years been somewhat of a classic athletic event.

Mr. Whittren is a resident of San Diego, but was until recently editor and manager of the Nome (Alaska) Daily and Weekly Nugget. During his fifteen years of residence in Alaska he became known as one of the best "mushers" in all the territory, holding the record for a day's journey with a dog sled. In 1893 and 1894, while a student at Harvard, he won the intercollegiate all-round athletic record, his specialty being running. He was also tackle on the Harvard football team for four years.

Mr. Whittren heard of the Glacier Peak classic immediately upon coming to the valley and at once set his cap for the record. He started out at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, being checked at both ends of the trail.

FISH IN LAKE.

Irving Smith, advertising manager of The Times, E. W. McGee, general agent of the Santa Fe Railway, and W. H. Smith, a member of The Times party, returned yesterday from a most successful three days' fishing trip at Merced Lake. Each declares he caught the limit of twenty trout each day of the jaunt and they brought back the fish to prove it. Their stories of having had a grizzly bear poke his head in their cabin door and of seeing a gigantic buck posed on a rock and watching them at their angling, while not equally susceptible of proof, are not doubted by any who have seen the beautiful string of fish they brought them over the long trail. One of trout, caught by W. H. Smith, nineteen inches long.

The guests at El Capitan were entertained last night combined dance and cabaret ranged by W. H. Cline of the pheum Theater staff, one of Times excursionists. Several
The Times party were drafted service. Mr. Cline's own name his improvised one-night the "Awful'un," hardly describes show, as a number of those helped in the entertainment most in the Orpheum class.

MANY MAKE CLIMB.

Probably the most notable of the week for The Times was the ascent of the mount Glacier Point on Thursday, fifty-seven of the excursionists, six guides, took horses for the mit of this majestic peak. The took the long trail past Vernal, vada and Illionette Falls on the up and the short trail to the floor coming down. J. T. Boysen Yosemite made a panoramic graph of the whole "57" just the start of the climb.

The excursionists have copies of The Los Angeles daily during their stay in Yo Valley. Owing to wire trouble graphic reports of the party's have been held up, much to the appointment of the excursion agement, as well as that of travelers themselves.

Big Game, Too.

PURITY SQUAD ARRESTS TWENTY CRAP-SHOOTERS

"CRAP-SHOOTERS" engaged in a wholesale game were rounded up like cattle last night and taken to Central Police Station by the Purity Squad. Twenty men were arrested.

The big game was being played in the rear of the Washington ball park, and as the fans were filing therefrom they were attacked on all sides by "bally-hoos," announcing:

"All ready, boys!—big crap game just starting back of the ball grounds. Everybody with dough invited. Good protection from the cops. Let's go!"

About fifty men moved stealthily toward the land of rolling dice. But none of the players noticed the little stranger whose pockets were bulging with greenbacks. So the little stranger took a prominent part in the big "crap game." Twenty joyous fans were snapping their fingerps as the "bones" rolled around a $500 stack of silver and gold.

Perched on the tall fence and in the windows of surrounding houses were the "lookies," the were to forewarn the players

WOMEN WILL HELP TO SAVE FOOD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COLTON, July 21.—With representatives present from every woman's organization in the city a branch of the National Council of Defense was enthusiastically organized yesterday at the headquarters of the Red Cross. Mrs. J. B. Hanna was chosen president, Mrs. S. E. Potts, vice-president; Mrs. James Swinnerton, secretary, and Mrs. M. B. Wood, treasurer. An advisory committee, consisting of a chairman from each organization represented, was appointed by the president. The conservation of food will be among the first things toward which the local council will turn its attention.

SPEAK HIGHLY OF MAJOR'S SERVICE.

OFFICER OF SOLDIERS' HOME GIVEN COMMISSION.

Chief Surgeon, Who has Reported to the Commanding Officer in San Francisco, Proves Efficiency Both as a Physician and in an Executive Capacity.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, July 21.—Maj. B. F. Hayden, for six years chief surgeon of the Pacific Branch, who early in June received commission as major in Medical Reserve Corps, U.S.A., has reported to the commanding officer in San Francisco.

The major's departure was viewed with keen regret by officers and members of the home, and especially so by associate members of his staff in the hospital. Not only has his efficiency in the practice of medicine and surgery been proved in the six years' treatment of veterans at this branch, but, as an executive officer of this large institution, his perception of the necessity of many important changes in buildings under his management has resulted in improvements looking to the greater care and comfort of his aged patients that cannot fail to be remembered to his credit.

One of the first of these was repainting the entire interior of the hospital buildings. When the major entered on his duties in this place the color of woodwork, walls, etc., in the building was so dark as to cause gloominess equal to that of a prison. "Dismal enough to make a healthy person feel as if he were in a morgue," as one permanent old patient described it.

Under Maj. Hayden's administration the interior was decorated in delicate light tints throughout the interior. "Brightness," said the major, "is one of the most successful agents as a restorer of health." Visitors having friends in the hospital were profuse in expressions of praise at the change. Other improvements at his suggestion included purging the hospital of its antique plumbing and installing modern work throughout. He also systematized the duties of the hospital staff, assistants, nurses and attendants, in a manner to meet any emergency occuring at any hour of the day.

FINANCES GOOD.

Auditor Finds Monrovia Board Manages Business Affairs of City in Economical Manner; Eight Per Cent. Saving to Taxpayers.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, July 21.—By careful handling of budgets and finances the Monrovia Trustees have saved the taxpayers over $6000, a net reduction of 8 per cent. over the same period of last year, according to a report just rendered by Frank A. Nance, accountant. Mr. Nance has made a careful audit of all the city's books and finds the various departments flourishing. It cost the city $76,527.20 to do business from June 30, 1916, to June 30, 1917, as against $83,154.94 for the same period of the previous year. By new laws water rates and license taxes have been lowered, which means a direct saving to the people of over $3500.

Mr. Nance declares that on the whole the city's condition is excellent. There is over $22,000 in the treasury, with $15,000 due from various revenues, sufficient to carry things until the next year's tax money is available. Through the diligent work of C. F. Moore, deputy tax collector, the delinquent tax roll amounts to only $1392.59, less than half the amount for the year before.

MONROVIA, July 21.—Answering the call for any kind of skins or leather from which to make linings for aviators' coats, Eugene Memmler and John Mendenhall of this city have turned over to the local Red Cross chapter a quantity of tanned rabbit skins which they have been saving. Other children are collecting old kid gloves for the same purpose.

VOLCANO AT SEA THROWS UP FISH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, July 21.—What is believed to have been a seismic disturbance under the sea has brought an unprecedented quantity of debris ashore. Deep water fish, not disturbed by storms, as the depths are not stirred by what rages on the surface, mussels, shells, chalk, large chunks of white coral, and other deep water marine flora, are among the wreckage found on the beach.

Squatter Who Refused to go Loses His Buildings.

Long Beach Workmen Rip His House to Pieces.

Mayor Directs Wrecking Job on Municipal Land.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, July 21.—Edward Baker, alleged squatter, occupying a house on city property at the intersection of Water street and the municipal wharf, was ordered by the city more than a year ago to move. Since that time negotiations to induce Mr. Baker to give up possession through Commissioner Hargis of the Board of Public Works proved futile, so today city employees wrecked the house and outbuildings and when Mr. Baker came home tonight he found the stars shining over his bed where last night there was a shingled roof.

A large part of the city government was present to witness the razing proceedings this afternoon. The wrecking job was directed by Mayor William T. Lisenby, and included the tearing down of the house, two sheds, fence, pigeon cote and even the uprooting of flowers and young trees in the yard.

Assisting the Mayor were Commissioner Hargis, Public Safety Commissioner James R. Williams, Chief of Police C. C. Cole, Fire Chief G. C. Craw, Street Superintendent A. B. Rothrock, Park Superintendent E. A. Munn, City Wharfinger Glenn Wallace and City Engineer Dan Miller.

Armed with crowbars and axes a dozen workmen ripped the buildings to pieces in short order. The lumber and furniture were placed together in a pile.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected as conference officials for the coming year at the sixth annual meeting of the Brethren churches of Southern California in session here today: Rev. A. V. Kimmell of Whittier, vice-moderator; Rev. Francis J. Feagan of Los Angeles, secretary; Dwight E. Wallaer of Long Beach, assistant secretary; J. H. Gnagey of Whittier, treasurer; T. J. Steves of Lordsburg, N. C. Nielson and H. V. Wall, both of this city, were reelected members of the district missionary board.

OPERATIC CONCERT.

Local music lovers are very much interested in the operatic concert to be given under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening in the auditorium. Signor Florencio Constantino and supporting artists will furnish a series of beautiful musical selections. Among those who will appear is K. Lewis, said to be the only operatic tenor from Honolulu. Following is the programme: "Toreador's Song" from "Carmen" (Bizet,) Len Halsett; "Tosca's Prayer" from "Tosca" (Puccini,) Grace W. Hight; mad scene from "Lucia" (Donizetti,) Lucy Merz; aria from "The Girl of the Golden West" (Puccini,) K. Lewis; trio from "Faust" (Gounod,) Messrs. Halsett and Lewis and Miss Hight; "Cielo e Mar" from "Gioconda" (Ponchielli,) Sig. Constantino; Prologue from "I'Pagliacci" (Leoncavallo,) Mr. Halsett; "Jewel Song" from "Faust," (Gounod,) Miss Hight; Cavatina from "Barber of Seville" (Rossini,) Lucy Merz; "E Lucevan le Stelle" from "Tosca" (Puccini,) Mr. Lewis; quartette from "Rigoletto" (Verdi,) Messrs. Halsett and Lewis, and Misses Hight and Merz; "O Paradiso" from "L'Africaine" (Meyerbeer,) Sig. Constantino.

GOES TO NEW YORK.

Miss Grace Schermerhorn, for the past year head of the home economics departmet of the Long Beach public schools, was today elected to that position the New York City schools, at a salary of $3000 per year.

Miss Schermerhorn is a graduate of the Teachers' College of Columbia University of New York. Before coming to this city she was in charge of the economic critic work at Ames Agricultural College of Ames, Iowa, at the same time acting in the capacity of superintendet of the home economics in the Ames public schools.

Murdered?

FOUL PLAY FEARED.

Ontario Officers are Puzzled at Finding the Body of a Boy in Eucalyptus Grove and the Sheriff has been Asked to Investigate.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, July 21.—Unable to explain the boy's death except on the murder theory and with no known motive for that, Ontario officers are today puzzled over the finding last evening of the body of 11-year-old Sam Garcia in a eucalyptus grove just east of this city.

The disappearance of the Garcia lad was reported to the officers Thursday after he had failed to return to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Garcia, who reside near the big plant of the Italian Vineyard Company on East A street, Wednesday night.

The lad is reported to have visited the home of some friends of his parents in this city and to have started home carrying a small sack of flour for his mother shortly after noon on Wednesday.

The boy's body was in so bad a state of decomposition as to make his features almost unrecognizable and he is thought to have been dead since Wednesday. The package of flour was lying on the ground not far from the body and the boy's hat was also near by.

He was lying on his back with his hands clenched above his head. Foul play is feared and the case is to be investigated by the Sheriff's office at San Bernardino, to which it has been reported. The lad's body was discovered by J. F. Tangney, section foreman for the Southern Pacific. It lay just inside a fence along the Southern Pacific right of way in a grove of eucalyptus trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Garcia say the boy was apparently in his usual good health when he left home Wednesday.

POINT RAISED BY MEXICANS.

Say Trouble may Result if Examinations of Aliens are Insisted On.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, July 21.—Mexican Consul Parades, stationed at Calexico, today warned members of the local exemption board that an attempt to subject alien Mexicans to the physical examination following the selection of their names to the draft might result in serious trouble. Consul Parades maintained that alien Mexicans were not liable for military services in the United States, and therefore it was not necessary for them to be examined before being exempted, as the regulations of the draft process now provide.

C. W. Barton of the board wired the Adjutant-General at Washington for immediate instructions, while the Mexican Consul, it is understood, is taking the matter up with Secretary of State Lansing. According to the figures of the registration, 2300 of the 5500 names on the list are those of aliens, and the greater proportion of the aliens are Mexicans.

THREE SONS OF WIDOW ARE DRAWN.

SANTA MONICA MOTHER PRAYS DAILY FOR PEACE.

She Feels that One of Her Boys will be Exempted Because He has a Wife and Two Children, but if One of the Others has to go She is Willing Both Should.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, July 21.—All three of the sons of Mrs. Louise R. Crampton of No. 1217 Fourteenth street have been drafted, although two of them are not in this district, but live in Yolo county. Notwithstanding the fact that Mrs. Crampton is a widow, she does not want her two younger sons to ask exemption for her sake. "If one goes, I want the other one to fight for peace, too," said the brave widow, "although I am praying for peace every day."

The youngest son, Robert C. Crampton, 21 years old, lives with his mother; the middle one, George, 25 years old, is with his brother Arthur, 27 years old, in Yolo county. The latter is married and has a wife and two small children to support, therefore his mother feels that he would be justified in claiming exemption.

BRIDEGROOMS DRAFTED.

Two Santa Monica bridegrooms were among those drafted here. Forrest Cornett, one of them, was married only last week to Miss Violet Malone, a beautiful young moving picture actress from Universal City, and a former resident of Santa Monica. His father, Rev. W. H. Cornett, is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, and is independently rich. Young Cornett is a widely-known tennis sharp, having won the singles at the recent national tennis tournament at Long Beach, and was one of the best players in college while at Cornell.

The other bridegroom is Gilbert Proctor, whose recent marriage to Miss Joan McCall of this city was the wedding of the season. He is already serving his country in the training camp at the Presidio.

Others drawn in the bay district are Lew E. Lewis, son of Mayor J. J. Lewis of Venice, and Voyle E. Brennen, physical instructor of the Santa Monica High School.

With Fingers! Corns Lift Off

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift any corn or callus right off. Try it!

For a few cents you can get a small bottle of the magic drug freezone recently discovered by a Cincinnati man.

Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn or callus and instantly all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you lift it off with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet, shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. It is almost magical.

Ladies! Keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let a corn or callus ache twice.

WOMAN KILLED AT RIVERSIDE.

Prominent Resident Knocked Down by Automobile.

Becomes Confused when She Sees Car Approach.

Driver of Machine Ignorant of the Fatality.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, July 25.—Mrs. Clara Fanton, 55 years old, was knocked down by an automobile at Eighth and Main streets at 4:30 o'clock this evening and died thirty minutes later in the Riverside city hospital.

A woman giving her name as Miss Slack of Highland was driving the car. She reported the accident to the police at headquarters before continuing her journey home.

Mrs. Fanton was one of the best known women in this city. She was the mother of Dr. G. D. Fanton, a prominent physician here. Mrs. Fanton and another woman were crossing the street at the intersection of Eighth and Main streets. As the automobile approached her she became confused and started to return to the curb. However, she turned again and in trying to reach the opposite side ahead of the car she was knocked down violently and two wheels passed over her body. She was picked up and rushed to the hospital, where she died without gaining consciousness.

The police telephoned to Highland to get in touch with Miss Slack in order to inform her of the result of the accident. In reporting the accident Miss Slack told the police that she had run down a woman but did not think it serious. It was on the face of her report that she was allowed to proceed without a further investigation on the part of the police.

Coroner Dixon stated tonight that no action would be taken in the case until Monday.

BODY OF REDLANDS MAN RECOVERED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, July 21.—A report from Bear Valley today stated that the body of Willis Wiesmore of Redlands, one of a party of four men drowned in the lake November 6, 1916, came to the surface there as a result of dynamiting. The other men were John Conrad, William Buyer and W. E. Springer. The body of Conrad was found floating near the dam several weeks ago. A diver went to the lake recently to search for the bodies, but was unable to locate them.

Movie Actresses and Their Hair.

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture by putting a teaspoonful of canthrox (which they get from the druggist) in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. This full cup of shampoo liquid is enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After its use, the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is, while its luster and softness is delightful.

They are placed one mile apart, begining at the Western-avenue entrance. Following the tree-planting the club members sat down to a luncheon served beneath the trees in the picnic grove.

Ernest Braunton was the principal speaker and took for his subject "Street Tree Planting." Dr. W. S. Clark also made a short address and several members of the club, of whom there were about thirty present, spoke briefly.

Man from the Alkali Country Surprises Hotel Clerk.

Many things have been carried in and out of the Rosslyn Hotel since it has been a Mecca for traveling men, tired and weary, as well as business visitors and good-time seekers. However, last night was probably the first time a real, honest-to-goodness thing walked into the hotel, unattended and without attracting undue attention.

Clerk Billy Horton was somewhat undecided about the name of the thing until he looked twice and asked the gentleman.

The thing accommodated the clerk by telling him the name on the register was F. Thing, Clarkdale, Ariz.

"Just 'any-old Thing,'" said the man from the alkali country.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, July 21.—Declaring that her daughter, Mrs. E. Holder Smith, has repudiated a trust, Mrs. Sallie P. Marsh has brought action against Mrs. Smith to set aside a deed made to her for Mrs. Marsh's two-story residence on South Main street. The complaint states that when the estate of her husband, T. P. Marsh, a realty agent of this city, was being settled, Mrs. Marsh deeded the property to her daughter in trust, and now Mrs. Smith refuses to recognize that her mother has any rights in the property.

HIGHLAND MAN KILLED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, July 21.—William Van Horn of Highland died here today from injuries received when his motorcycle crashed into an automobile. His wife was also injured. They were on their way to Porterville to work.

PINNED FOR HOUR IN AUTO WRECK.

WAITING FOR RELIEF FROM POLICE MACHINES.

Man and Woman Badly Injured are Forced to Endure Great Suffering While the City's Out-of-date Apparatus Creeps to Scene of Disaster.

The police department's deplorable need of dependable ambulances and automobiles was demonstrated last night when an urgent call for many autos reached the Receiving Hospital.

A Vermont Heights street car struck an automobile at Vermont avenue and One Hundred and Second street. One woman dead and five or six persons seriously injured was the report. At least two ambulances and two speedy cars were needed to transport the wounded to the hospital. But all the police could send were a rickety truck masquerading as a patrol wagon, an antediluvian model touring car and a smaller automobile. The regular police ambulance was enjoying its alternate week in the repair shop.

The patrol wagon, designed many years ago by Frank Shriner, a police chauffeur, rattled over the eleven miles at a twenty-five-mile clip. The antediluvian model "died" a mile from the accident. The third automobile, sent out from University Station, reached the scene safely enough.

The accident was not as bad as first reported. North-bound Vermont Heights car No. 656 struck an automobile driven by H. Richard Lewis of Garden Acres. The auto was crumpled beneath the car wheels and dragged for fifty feet. Mr. Lewis and his companion, Mrs. Sarah Colby of No. 832½ South Broadway, lay entangled in the wreckage for more than an hour while the police machines endeavored to reach them.

Both victims suffered fractured skulls. Mr. Lewis also had a broken arm, and Mrs. Colby was internally injured. Two stretchers were needed, but only one was available. Mrs. Colby suffered greatly because she was compelled to sit up in the touring car during the eleven-mile ride to the hospital.

A recent ruling of the Superior Court, warning all police machines not to violate the twenty-mile speed limit, has piled innumerable pains and hardships upon victims of wrecks. A few days ago one man died in the old police patrol while the driver was striving to repair it after it had broken down many miles from the hospital.

The Highland Piper of Los Angeles furnished gay street music for the carnival, Mrs. Lalla Sagge played Polish airs and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman and C. G. Kobladrt sang, the latter Belgian national songs.

Countess Laura de Turczynowicz gave a thrilling account of her personal experiences on the battlefields of her native Poland. Belgian Consul Wenzel spoke of the interrelations of America and the European Allies. The Casa Verdugo National Guardsmen gave exhibition drills and members of the British Ambulance Society demonstrated first-aid work.

WELCOME HOME.

Jinnistan Grotto, No. 76, M.O.V.P.E.R., last night held a home-coming reception for H. W. Reynolds, Monarch of the Grotto, and H. W. Bohrman, master of ceremonies, both of whom have just returned from Washington, D. C., at Hollenbeck Hall, No. 1956 East First street. All Master Masons were invited, and there was a great gathering of these destinguished visitors. Refreshments were served, and a series of entertaining stunts were given by movie stars. The arrangements were made by Bill Osterholt and Mell Bresee, and a splendid evening's entertainment was afforded.

It is a common saying, "I never had a good picture." Mr. Steckel caters to difficult subjects, and it is not an experiment you undertake when having pictures of your children or a portrait of yourself made at the Steckel studio, but a certainty that the charm and beautiful expressions of childhood and individuality in portraits will be faithfully portrayed, and it is well said that when you once have had a portrait or beautiful child study from this justly-famous studio, none other will please. Just Try This When Hairy Growths Appear
(Modes of Today)
A smooth, hairless skin always follows the use of a paste made by mixing some water with plain powdered delatone. This paste is applied to the hairy surface 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain or discomfort attends the use of the delatone paste, but caution should be exercised to be sure that you get real delatone.

Brand New Way to Remove Hairy Growths
(Actually Removes Roots and All)
The vexed question of how to completely banish superfluous hair has been solved at last! By means of the new phelactine process, the hairs entire, roots and all, come out before your very eyes—easily, harmlessly, "quick as a wink." It is so different from the depilatory, electrical and shaving methods, you simply must try it to fully appreciate its remarkable advantages.
Phelactine is perfectly odorless, non-irritating, non-poisonous—a child could eat it without the least injury. It leaves the skin so soft, smooth and hairless, no one could tell you ever had a moustache or other hairy growth. If you will procure a stick of phelactine and follow the simple instructions, you will certainly be astonished and delighted with the result—or druggist will refund the price upon request.

S AMERICAN WOMAN BOUND TO SUSPECTED GERMAN SPY?

ivorce Suit of a Daughter of the Revolution May Fail Because She Married a Teuton and may be Held an Alien Enemy, Barred from Courts.

AN a patriotic American woman who is married to a suspected German spy sue him for ?

she, though a Daughter of Revolution, automatically be- an alien enemy and lost civil because she is the wife of a subject?

These queer questions, new in the prudence of California, are in the case of Capt. and Mrs. Offer, the latter formerly Miss James, who married sudden- San Diego recently after a sen- police raid, who became pals in strange damage suits out of the raid and who are at the threshold of the divorce since suit has been filed by Offer. The husband is under presumably on his way to El- Island for internment. And the position of the American gives to the sequel of the story married life an interest even than that evoked by the cir- ances of the nuptials.

Attorneys disagree as to the status couple, some lawyers holding neither Capt. nor Mrs. Offer can any standing in an American and others saying the mat- actual residence alone will de- the question.

Offer, meantime, has been more than a week at San and in this city and will pre- bly be locked up for the dura- the war.

WHAT LAWYERS SAY.

ey A. J. Morganstern, who s Mrs. Offer, states this is and that as the parties live Diego they have recourse to courts there Attorney Walter L. Praul, repre- Capt. Offer, and to whom latter has given a power of at- for disposal of property and of rights, stated yester- that the ruling that alien ene- have no standing in the courts and will probably be altered He also believed that if a could be brought by Mrs. Of- whom, because of her marriage, considers a German subject, it be defended by the husband. E. P. Mossholder stated the of the two in the courts depends entirely on the legal residence of Capt. Offer. According to the California law, if a person has had residence in the State for one year he can bring suit for divorce. However, merely living at some place does not establish legal residence there, and the judge stated that if Capt. Offer's real residence is in Germany, that is also Mrs. Offer's residence, and so neither can enter a California divorce court.

Another San Diego lawyer declares no alien enemy can make an appearance in court "for profit," hence Mrs. Offer cannot sue for divorce and Offer could not contest such a suit.

Other attorneys agree that an alien enemy cannot make any appearance in court "for profit." Asst. Dist.-Atty. W. F. Schuermeyer is of the opinion that suit can be brought only by Mrs. Offer, whom he regards as an alien enemy, if no judicial notice is taken of the fact. Without judicial notice the case could be tried, just as if both parties were American citizens.

AN AVIATION VETERAN?

Offer, who says he is a wearer of the Iron Cross, conducted the German jewelry exhibit at the San Diego Exposition in 1916, and before that had an exhibit at the San Francisco exposition. He told friends he was a German aviator and that he was taken a prisoner at the capture of Tsing-tao, China. He was on parole to the Japanese government, he said, and hence could not return to Germany until the close of the war.

After the United States declared war he became particularly active among people subsequently arrested as German spies, and he has been

"After the Great War—What?"

WORLD-EMBRACING PLAN TO END WARS.

DRAFTED BEFORE THE GREAT OUTBREAK.

BY GEN. HARRISON GRAY OTIS OF CALIFORNIA, U. S. A.

[A plan which, in the nature of the case, will become timely for practical consideration by the Powers only after the present colossal World Conflict shall have been finished.]

HEART AND CORE OF THE PEACE PLAN.

[SYNOPSIS ONLY.]

FOR the purpose of showing more fully and clearly the plan favored by The Times over all other peace plans thus far projected—over even the practical force plan supported by ex-President Taft and his associates—the plan here presented is again given in condensed form.

There is a preface to the last preceding edition containing later appropriate matter, including various expressions of opinion from high sources, followed by the "Peace Plan" in full, opening with a statement of its "Scope, Aims and Objects." Then comes the "Text of the Plan," with remarks upon each section, the plan being subdivided into articles and sections, enumerated as follows:

ARTICLES.

Section	I:	Fundamental Powers of the Peace Pact.
Sec.	II:	Proposed Organization.
Sec.	III:	The Great Pledge of Peace.
Sec.	IV:	Scope of the Proposed World Government.
Sec.	IVa:	Powers of the World Government.
Sec.	V:	Officials of the World Government.
Sec.	VI:	Ways and Means.
Sec.	VII:	In Case of Possible War.
Sec.	VIII:	Necessary Military Contributions.
Sec.	IX:	Requisitions Upon the Different Countries.
Sec.	IXa:	Reliance Upon the Nations.
Sec.	X:	Looking to Partial Disarmanent.
Sec.	XI:	Adjustment of Quarrels.
Sec.	XII:	Warnings, Investigations and Decisions.
Sec.	XIII:	A Court of Appeals.
Sec.	XIV:	Seat of the World Government.
Sec.	XV:	The World Flag.
Sec.	XVI:	A Universal Seaport.
Sec.	XVII:	A Field Marshal.
Sec.	XVIII:	Enforcement of Neutrality Laws.
Sec.	XIX:	Flags and Uniforms.
Sec.	XIXa:	Assemblying the World Army.
Sec.	XX:	Retention of Military Reserves.
Sec.	XXa:	Reliance by the Nations Upon the World Government.
Sec.	XXI:	Supreme Control of the Seas and of the Air.
Sec.	XXII:	Independence of Each of the Nations.
Sec.	XXIII:	Throwing off National Burdens.

This section is introduced in the following language: "The concluding section is one of high importance. It contemplates an outcome and predicts a result which may be confidently expected to ensue with the adoption of this or some like world-wide plan of peace." The last section reads:

Among the declared aims and intentions of the Alliance is its determined purpose to make it possible for its members—the different nations composing the supreme body—to ultimately so reduce the present heavy cost of their respective military and naval establishments as to lift from the shoulders of all the peoples concerned the insufferable financial burdens [and more important still, the frightful destruction of life] so long borne by them, and at the same time to enable the different states to jointly support and maintain, without seriously feeling the lightened load, a World Government having as its chief aim the securing of the priceless blessings of Universal Peace.

The two following sections are so important that they are also given in full:

Under the subheading of "Flags and Uniforms," Section XIX provides a unique yet entirely practicable method for creating and mobilizing the different military contingents that may be contributed by the several countries; each contingent to be united in the World Army under its own national standards, at the same time giving willing allegiance to the supreme Universal Flag floating over all. The section reads:

The soldiers that may be supplied by each of the respective nations in the Alliance for the common defense may wear their own national uniforms, serve, rendezvous and march under their respective national flags, and man the guns and carry the small arms, ammunition and equipment of their respective countries while serving in the ranks of the Universal Military Pact: provided that the Universal Flag adopted shall at all times be displayed over the World Capitol and over all forts, arsenals and other public buildings of the Alliance, and shall also be habitually borne aloft by the troops above the different national standards.

To Choose Service Branch.

DRAFTED MEN RUSH TO ENLIST; RECRUITING OFFICERS SWAMPED

Have Till Saturday to Join Voluntarily—Artillery Most Popular—New Population Estimates Made—Here are Directions for All Men Called.

MEN who were drafted for service in the great drawing Friday may still make a choice of service by enlisting in one or other of the various volunteer units now being organized, provided their enlistment is made at once and that they are mustered into the service on or before next Saturday, according to a ruling made by Adjt.-Gen. McCane, U.S.A., Washington, D. C.

Enlisting opened with a rush at the various recruiting offices yesterday morning, and by noon the officers in charge were completely swamped. The greatest activity was at the recruiting station of the California Field Artillery, No. 749 South Spring street. All day long young men presented themselves seeking admittance to this crack branch of the service.

A like scene was enacted at the offices of Battery F, California Field Artillery, at room 515 Van Nuys Building. The regular army yesterday had the greatest number of applicants in the history of the office and both the navy and Marine Corps headquarters felt an added stimulus.

The local committee in charge of the enlisting of men for the new battery of California Field Artillery, which is in the nature of a preferred service, as it was organized at the special request of Maj.-Gen. Pershing, who asked that this regiment be recruited exclusively in the West, foreseeing that the draft would have a tendency to confuse men desirous of joining this battery secured a ruling from Washington on the subject through Col. Whitney of the Western Department at San Francisco.

NEW "CENSUS" HERE.

Because the War Department has estimated the population of Los Angeles for draft purposes to be 453,627, City Clerk Wilde yesterday was instructed by Adjt.-Gen. Boree to make a new estimate of the population in each of the exemption board districts. The last government estimate for Los Angeles placed the population at 533,535 and it was upon this basis that the exemption board districts were formed. Whether the action of the War Department will alter the Los Angeles quota of soldiers is a question.

Conforming with the adjutant-general's order, the City Clerk forwarded the following estimates of population in each of the districts:

District No.	Population.
2	2,900
3	16,396
4	11,604
5	13,938
6	19,250

FROM TULARE TO MEXICO.

"Times" Covers Twelve Southern Counties with Alphabetical Draft Lists.

In The Times yesterday were printed complete lists, arranged alphabetically, of the men called first, to the number of twice their respective districts' quotas, from the following: Los Angeles city and county, Pasadena, Tulare county, Inyo county, San Luis Obispo county, Kern county, San Bernardino county, Ventura county, Santa Barbara county, Riverside county, Orange county. Partial—in most cases nearly complete—lists were printed from San Diego city and county and Imperial county, completing Southern California from Tulare to the Mexican line. No other paper even remotely approached this record.

Through an inadvertence, Los Angeles city District No. 15, Riverside No. 1 and San Bernardino No. 3 were referred to as incomplete. They were complete in each instance.

GEN. OBREGON AS GUARD FOR LITTLE CLARY BOY.

Mexican Chieftain May Take Charge of Menaced Los Angeles Youth.

NO LESS a person than Gen. Alvaro Obregon, Mexican military chief, may be charged with the task of guarding 11-year-old Harry Clary, now a student in this city, from the fury of enemies of his mother, "Louisa La Rue," who have tried to do her to the death in New York and are suspected of designs to abduct or kill the boy. Yesterday Charles N. Merralls of New York, the brother-in-law of "Miss La Rue," who is really Mrs. E. P. Clary of El Paso and New York, stated that Harry may be removed from the Page Military Academy here to Mexico City, beyond the reach of the so-called "murder syndicate" of Gotham.

Mr. Merralls is now at El Centro, where he has business interests. He recently hurried from that city to Los Angeles on learning that attempts of the mother's enemies to reach Harry here were imminent, according to messages from Inspector Faurot, chief of New York detectives.

When a mysterious man and woman last week presented to Supt. R. A. Gibbs of the Page Academy supposed credentials from Mrs. Grace Humiston of New York, Mrs. Clary's attorney, and demanded that the boy be turned over to them, Mr. Merralls was here and confirmed Mr. Gibbs's decision to keep the boy's custody at all costs. Triple guards were placed over Harry, and Mr. Merralls returned to El Centro to await developments.

Yesterday in that city he declared the boy's family is on intimate terms with Gen. Obregon and if the danger proves threatening the lad will be removed to Mexico and given there an asylum the New York gang cannot hope to penetrate.

Mrs. Clary's mother is Mrs. N. Tribolet, a wealthy ranch owner in interior Mexico. All news of Mrs. Clary's harrowing experiences in New York and of the son's danger have been kept from the grandmother so far. However, Mr. Merralls stated that if it becomes necessary Mrs. Tribolet will be notified and the necessary arrangements will be made with Gen. Obregon to assure Harry's safety in Mexico.

Mr. Merralls is frankly puzzled by the experiences of his sister-in-law, who was abducted, threatened with death and reduced to nervous prostration that now confines her to a hospital in New York. It is a theory of the police, borne out by her statements, that she was the intended victim of a gang of international white slavers. Mr. Merralls, however, says he is inclined to believe Mrs. Clary's troubles came because she perhaps knew pertinent facts about the murder of little Ruth Cruger by a white slaver—the case that Mrs. Humiston cleared up and that made the woman lawyer famous over night. Mrs. Humiston is Mrs. Clary's attorney in the present case.

For six weeks, says Mr. Merralls, he was ignorant of the whereabouts of Mrs. Clary — the period during which she says she was held prisoner in a cellar, beaten, threatened with death, and finally forced to leap to liberty from a hotel window.

Then Mr. Merralls, in common with the head of the Page Military Academy and with the Los Angeles police, was notified that Harry Clary was in danger of being spirited away and perhaps murdered by the sinister gang. Mr. Merralls hastened to this city and returned to El Centro only when convinced that the precautions that have been taken for the boy's protection here are ample, unless more alarming developments ensue.

COINCIDENCE?

It has been ascertained that the date of "Miss La Rue's" sensational leap from a high window at No. 215 West Eightieth street, New York City, to escape her enemies, was the next day after the finding of the body of Ruth Cruger buried in the cellar of the shop of Alfredo Cocchi, the Italian who subsequently confessed to the crime. Mrs. Clary declares she recognizes pictures of the Cruger girl as one whom she saw while she was herself in the power of the mysterious "count" whom she accuses of various high crimes of violence.

Dist.-Atty. Swann is not satisfied that the truth has been reached in the La Rue case and will continue to examine the different men named by Mrs. Clary until a tangible basis is reached upon which to proceed against the alleged syndicate.

L. E. Carr
A. E. Carr
G. B. Carr, Jr.

The Carr brothers, trio of patriots.

They are the sons and only children of Gilbert B. Carr of No. 131 South Gates street, this city. All three were drafted Friday for the first quota. A. E. Carr had already enlisted and Gilbert, Jr., has tried to. He and L. E. Carr are married, but neither will claim exemption.

have been drafted into service on the first call. A. E. Carr is already in the service, having joined the Ambulance Corps when the call to arms was first sounded. His brother, Gilbert B. Jr., attempted to enlist at the same time, but was not permitted to because of his being married. He protested that his wife would be cared for, but this was unavailing.

L. E. Carr is also married, but the boys say that their families are in no way dependent on them. They will not claim exemption and are proud and willing to serve their country at any time or place that their services are needed.

THE NEXT STEP.

Now that the drawing for the great first army of 687,000 has been accomplished, the next step will be for those whose names have been called to present themselves to their local boards for examination. The official record will be in the hands of these boards about Thursday of this week, with full instructions as to the exact number to be called from each exemption district. Just as soon as these official lists reach the boards they will at once notify the men whose numbers have been called to appear for examination.

In the meantime the names and numbers will have been posted at each exemption district headquarters, but while the boards will notify each man called by mail, the law requires that he personally inspect the lists published and posted, as failure on the part of the notice sent out by the board to reach him will not excuse him from appearing.

Watch the lists at the office of your board and see when you are called for examination.

The immediate foregoing is the substance of the first five articles of a set of instructions just issued by Provost-Marshal-General Crowder to registered men. It continues as follows—every drafted man should cut it out and preserve:

VI. PHYSICAL EXAMINATION.

You must report for physical examination on the day named in your call.

(a) If you are found physically disqualified the board will give you a certificate which will explain to you what your further duties are.

(b) If you are found physically qualified and file a claim for exemption within seven days after your call you will be given ten days after filing your claim of exemption to file proof in support of your claim of exemption. See (VII) below.

(c) If you are found physically qualified and file no claim for exemption, or if you do not appear for physical examination, your name will be posted to the district board as one who was called for military service and was not exempted or discharged. On the eighth day after call, or within two days thereafter, copies of the list of persons so posted to the district boards will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in a place at the office of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to you at the address on your registration card.

Therefore watch the notices posted in the office of the board about ten days after the day you were called and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail.

VII. SEVEN DAYS TO FILE CLAIMS OF EXEMPTION OR DISCHARGE.

[Except for industrial or agricultural reasons.]

NOTE.

(a) No claim of discharge on account of the industry in which you are engaged can be decided by a local board. (See Par. XV below.)

(b) Whether you file a claim of exemption or not, you must present yourself for physical examination on the day named in the notice.

From the day notice that you are called is mailed and posted you have seven days in which you may file a claim of exemption or discharge. The form for filing this claim is simple. If you wish to file such a claim—

(a) Go to the board and get Form 110 for exemption or Form 121 for discharge. If the board has not the printed forms ask to consult the form pamphlet and copy the form shown there.

(b) Fill out the proper form and file it with the board.

(c) Do this within seven days of the posting and mailing of notice to you to present yourself.

The following are the only grounds for exemption:

(1.) That you are an officer, legislative, executive, or judicial of the United States, a State or Territory, or the District of Columbia.

(2.) That you are a regular or duly ordained minister of religion.

(3.) That you were on May 18, 1917, a student preparing for the ministry in any recognized theological or divinity school.

(4.) That you are in the military or naval service of the United States.

(5.) That you are a subject of Germany, whether you have taken out papers or not.

(6.) That you are a resident alien who has not taken out first papers.

In addition to claims for exemption claims for discharge may be made on any of the following grounds, which are the only grounds for discharge by a local board.

XIII. PROVING YOUR APPEAL.

You have five days after the district board receives your notice that you have filed a claim of appeal in which to file evidence additional to that filed by you in the local board, but all such evidence must consist of affidavits.

XIV. DECISIONS ON APPEAL.

The decision on your appeal must be made within five days of the closing of proof, and you will be notified by mail of the action of the board on your appeal.

(1.) That you are a county or municipal officer.

(2.) That you are a customhouse clerk.

(3.) That you are employed by the United States in the transmission of mails.

(4.) That you are an artificer or workman employed in an armory, arsenal, or navy yard of the United States.

(5.) That you are employed in the service of the United States (under certain conditions.) See Par. (e) of Sec. 20, Regulations.

(6.) That you are a licensed pilot regularly employed in the pursuit of your vocation.

(7.) That you are a mariner actually employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States.

(8.) That you are a married man with a wife or child dependent on you for support.

(9.) That you have a widowed mother dependent on your labor for support.

(10) That you have aged or infirm parents dependent upon your labor for support.

(11.) That you are the father of a motherless child under 16 dependent upon your labor for support.

(12.) That you are a brother of an orphan child or children under 16 dependent on your labor for support.

(13.) That you are a member of any well-recognized religious sect or organization organized and existent May 18, 1917, and whose then existing creed or principles forbade its members to participate in war in any form and whose religious convictions are against war or participation therein in accordance with the creed or principles of said religious organization.

These are the only grounds for exemption or discharge by a local board.

Another person can file a claim in your behalf, but must use different forms in filing the claim.

VIII. TEN DAYS AFTER FILING CLAIM TO FILE PROOF.

Your claim of exemption or discharge must be filed within seven days of the day on which notice to you that you are called was posted and mailed. But after you have filed your claim for exemption or discharge you have ten days within which to file proof.

The method of proving claims is very simple but it is rather exact. If you follow the rules given below you will have done what is required of you.

First. Go to the local board and consult the regulations to find out the form number of the affidavits that you must submit for your particular claim.

Second. Ask the board for the blank affidavits that are necessary in presenting your proof; if the board has not the forms, ask to consult the pamphlet of forms.

Third. Have the affidavits properly accomplished and return them to the board within the time limit assigned you—ten days from the filing of your claim.

Remember:

(a) You must submit your proof in the prescribed form and the board has no authority to exempt or discharge you unless you submit all the affidavits required by regulations.

(b) There will be no argument before the board and no proof other than the prescribed affidavits unless the board calls for other proof which it will do in only a limited number of cases.

IX. WHEN CLAIMS ARE DECIDED.

Every claim for discharge or exemption will be decided by the local board within three days after your affidavits have been filed.

X. CERTIFICATE OF EXEMPTION OR DISCHARGE.

If your claim is allowed a certificate of exemption or discharge will be issued to you.

Remember:

(a) This certificate may be recalled at any time.

(b) If it is temporary or conditional, it becomes of no effect when the time or the condition named are fulfilled.

(c) You have been drawn for military service and when the condition that has postponed your posting to the colors ceases you may be recalled at any time.

(d) Remember that your case may still be appealed to the district board by the government and on this appeal your certificate may be withdrawn at once. When so withdrawn you stand precisely as though you had been selected for military service by the local board.

XI. ADVERSE DECISIONS ON CLAIM.

If your claim is disallowed by the local board your name will be certified and sent by the local board to the district board as one who has been called for military service and not exempted or discharged. Within two days thereafter, if practicable, a list of those so certified to the district board will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in the offices of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to the address on your registration card.

Therefore, if you have filed a claim for exemption and proof in support thereof, watch the notices in the office of the local board beginning about five days after you have filed your proof to see what disposition was made of your case and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail.

XII. HOW TO CLAIM APPEALS TO DISTRICT BOARDS.

Claims of appeal may be made by a person within ten days after the day when notice has been posted and mailed that such person's name has been certified to the district board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged.

Therefore if you desire to appeal—

(1.) Go to the local board and get or copy Form 153 or 154 for filing your claim of appeal.

(2.) Get or copy also Form 151 or 152 for notifying the district board of appeal.

(3.) File your claim of appeal (153 or 154) with the local board.

(4.) Send your notice of appeal (Form 151 or 152) to the district board.

(5.) Do this within ten days from the day when notice that your name was certified to the district board was posted and mailed.

Remember:

(1.) You can only appeal the final order of the board exempting or discharging or refusing to exempt or discharge you. You can not appeal other orders or action of the local board.

XV. CLAIMS FOR DISCHARGE ON INDUSTRIAL GROUNDS.

Only the district board can receive claims for discharge on the ground that you are engaged in industry, including agriculture found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency.

Such claims must be filed with the district board on or before the fifth day after the mailing and posting of notice that you have been certified by the local board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged.

If you desire to file such a claim:

(1.) Get or copy at the local or district board Form 161 or 161a.

(2.) Fill the form out properly.

(3.) File it with the district board within five days after the mailing and posting of notice that your name has been certified from the local board to the district board.

See Sec. 44, Regulations.

XVI. PROOF IN SUPPORT OF INDUSTRIAL CLAIM.

Only affidavits can be used in filing proof before the district board of a claim for exemption on industrial grounds. All such affidavits must be filed within five days after the filing of the claim.

XVII. DECISION OF DISTRICT BOARD ON INDUSTRIAL CLAIM.

Within five days after the closing of proof in any industrial claim the district board must decide the claim.

If the decision of the district board is in favor of the claim the board will issue a certificate of discharge. If the decision is against the claim the district boards will so notify you.

Remember that you have been called for military service and that the certificate of the district board is only conditional on your remaining in the kind of industrial service on account of which you were discharged. No such exemption shall continue when a cause therefore no longer exists and your certificate of discharge may be withdrawn or modified by the district board at any time that the district board shall determine that the circumstances require it.

XVIII. APPEALS OF INDUSTRIAL CLAIM TO THE PRESIDENT.

Only decisions of district boards on industrial claims for discharge can be appealed.

If you desire to appeal the decision of the district boards to the President, you may do so within seven days of the date of mailing to you of the decision of the district board. To perfect your appeal—

(1.) Get or copy from the district or local board Form 163.

(2.) Fill out the form and file it with the district board.

(3.) Do this within seven days after the mailing of notice to you of the decision of the district board in your case.

XIX. HOW YOU WILL BE NOTIFIED THAT YOU HAVE BEEN SELECTED FOR MILITARY SERVICE.

As soon as your case is finally disposed of, the adjutant-general of your State will notify you by mail that you have been selected for military service.

Your local boards will post a list of all persons selected for military service in a place at the office of the local boards accessible to public view. The local board will also give lists of persons selected for military service to the press with requests for publication.

XX.

Notice that you have been selected for military service will not necessarily order you into service.

The notice to report for military service will come when the government is ready to receive you.

The Will to Do.

[Minneapolis Tribune:] Jim Smith was notoriously slow pay. He owed quite a bill at the grocery for pork. One day, as his credit was becoming strained, he walked calmly into the grocery, and said: "Mr. Black, I want to pay you for the pork I have had and I want some more."

"Certainly," said the delighted proprietor, as he hastened to wait on his customer.

Taking the package of pork, Jim Smith started to go.

"Wait a minute," said the proprietor. "I thought you wanted to pay for the pork?"

"I do," remarked Jim, as he resumed his homeward way, "but I can't."

Succeeded.

[Pathfinder:] Hamm: My parents did their best to prevent me from being an actor.

Lett: I must congratulate them on their success.

"CUT" IN LIGHT RATE A JOKE?

City Offers to Chop Prices by Ten Per Cent.

Gas Company Brands Movement a Mere Trick.

Says Charges will be Just the Same as Now.

Electrical energy at a surprisingly low figure is offered consumers in Los Angeles in a circular letter sent out by the Department of Public Service. An effort is to be made to cut directly into the business of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, as every patron of this corporation is to receive a special offer, and is asked to co-operate "in making the municipal electric lighting system of the city of Los Angeles a success."

If the consumer consents to sign a form that will be inclosed in the letter, he is promised electrical energy "at rates not exceeding 90 per cent. of the present rates charged by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation."

The consumer who now is using other than the city's power is made to believe that he can secure a cut rate simply by signing the pledge. He is told that his signature does not "oblige him to pay for installation or energy used by tenants." He is asked to sign the permits to install the energy in duplicate, if he is the owner of the premises.

For some time this propaganda has been carried on by agents of the city's Department of Public Service, who have personally called on the owners of buildings and in a few instances have persuaded owners to tear out the local company's meters and sign permits for the installation of city meters. This has proved a boomerang on the city because the promises made by the solicitors have never been carried out, in fact the service has proved so unsatisfactory that in a number of instances application has been made for the reinstallation of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation's meters.

Convinced that only extraordinary efforts will meet with success the present plan was adopted after much deliberation and after one irate consumer had threatened to "tear out the city's meter himself unless the contract was rescinded." In this instance the contract was abrogated because signed by the man's wife, whereas she is a paralytic and could not have signed her name.

PROMISES A CUT.

Now a direct attack is made on the business of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and the promise is made to reduce the rates charged by this corporation.

Following is an exact copy of the letter sent out:

Dear sir: The city of Los Angeles is now securing contracts for the sale of electric energy to its residents, and takes this opportunity of asking your co-operation in making the municipal electric lighting system of the city of Los Angeles a success.

We understand that you are the owner of the premises described in the attached form of permit for installation. Your signing of the enclosed form gives us authority to supply your tenants with municipal light, providing they are willing to contract with us for the use of electric energy, at rates not exceeding 90 per cent. of the present rates charged by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation of this city. This does not obligate you in any way to pay for installation or energy used by tenants. In order that our work may go on without interruption, we would ask that you sign the permits in duplicate and return both copies to us in enclosed envelope. Upon execution by this department, duplicate will be sent to you.

Thanking you in anticipation of your immediate attention, we remain,

Very truly yours,
DEPARTMENT PUBLIC SERVICE.
[Signed]
By L. E. Moselle, Chief Clerk to Business Agent.

Champ S. Vance, vice-president of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, in statement yesterday branded the offer as "false and untrue." He declared that the rate will be exactly the same as that charged by his corporation. He says the 90 per cent. clause is a joker and the consumer will find it out only after he has installed the city's power.

SAYS IT'S FALSE.

"Consumers of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation are to receive this offer by mail," said Mr. Vance. "The Department of Public Service of the city of Los Angeles is mailing to our consumers contracts for the use of electrical energy at rates purported to be 90 per cent of what we are charging.

"This statement is absolutely false. The bureau of power and light is signing any and all contracts at the base rate of 5 cents per kilowatt hour (per K.W.H.) or exactly the same rate charged by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation.

"Nobody will object to fair competition. This corporation has no desire to falsify. Here is a palpable falsehood calculated to mislead the public and hoodwink the consumer. All we want is the truth and we demand that the city be compelled to abide by existing laws the same as any corporate body is obliged to do."

TO INSURE DRAINAGE.

In the event the Board of Supervisors adopts the recommendation made yesterday in a letter filed with the clerk of the board, future subdivisions in the county will not be accepted by the county unless the flood control engineer and the county surveyor have made a favorable report on the disposition of flood waters. Much of the present winter water trouble has arisen, according to statistics in the board's office, by the careless plotting of land, which has been done without allowing for the control of storm waters and general drainage.

Gave Himself Away.

[Louisville Courier - Journal:] "Hubby, you know that letter I said I gave you to mail?"

"Yes, my dear; I assure you I mailed it."

"No, you didn't. I didn't give it to you. I thought I gave it to you, but I gave it to father."

Complete Stock of Waists

At Most Astounding Reductions

¶ Literally thousands and thousands of the smartest blouses ever shown in Los Angeles find their new prices so much lower than regular that we can't recall a single instance when such positively extraordinary waist offerings were made by this house of good value.

All good things seldom come at once. This is one of the "good things" we reserved until last, and because we kept you waiting we have made prices the lower, which means that bargains are the greater. We cannot begin to print an adequate description of each wonderful line because of the exceptionally big assortments. This is the most comprehensive sale of waists we have ever offered to Los Angeles women.

There is not a single waist in our entire stock kept out of the sale for any reason. You will find the most exquisite hand-embroidered blouses of Georgette; charming affairs of crepe de chine embellished in myriad ways; crisp looking taffetas that will bid for business women's favor and scores upon scores of other modes ending with the very simplest of cotton.

More Than 1000 Beautiful Blouses Reduced to $3.95

Every one of them selected from lines formerly selling at $5.00, $5.75 and $6.50. You will instantly recognize the superior qualities of the fabrics—you will be interested in the variety of styles—you will be astonished at the splendid color range. Waists of Lingerie, Georgette crepe, crepe de chine, plain and embroidered blouses, beaded models and a splendid assortment of plain and embroidered nets. After you have seen these you will certainly agree with us that there never was quite so wonderful a sale of blouses at $3.95.

$1.00 for Waists Formerly $1.95 and $2.95

About 350 in this lot including lingerie, crepe de chine and lace waists, as well as a few wool shirts for mountain wear.

$1.95 for Waists Formerly $2.49, $2.95, $3.50

383 waists of lingerie, Georgette crepe, crepe de chine and wash silks. Shown in a wide variety of styles and trimmings.

$4.95 for Waists Formerly Priced at $7.50

A very small lot—only 75 in all—and they will be snapped up quickly because of super-value. Lingerie, Georgette crepe and crepe de chine.

$7.95 for Waists Formerly $9.50, $10, $10.50, $11.50

Dainty lingerie waists; Georgettes in white, flesh and practically all dark colors. A few beaded blouses, black chiffons and laces.

1238 Lingerie and Silk Waists Reduced to $2.95

This is the lot that offers the greatest variety of styles. Not a single one of these dainty waists was priced less than $3.95 and a great many of them formerly were marked as high as $5.00.

Lingerie, Georgette crepe, crepe de chine in a wonderful color variety, sport striped wash silks, many shadow laces, pongees, nets and pretty colored voiles.

HEAVY BUYING BY ANTIPODES.

Our Trade Increasing with Australia, New Zealand

Since the War has Isolated Them from England.

Machinery is Purchased Here and More to Follow.

Further evidence that Australia and New Zealand are buying heavily in the United States since war conditions have isolated them from England was made clear yesterday by C. S. Chambers, representing the Cyclone Proprietary, Ltd., of Victoria, Australia, who was a caller at the trade extension bureau of the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of getting in touch with local dealers with the view of buying large quantities of machinery.

Before leaving the city, the Australian business man placed orders for the equipment of a canning factory and purchased quantities of material for the manufacture of fruit boxes.

Other Australians are expected here within the next few days, as there were twenty-two representatives of large firms on the same ship that brought Mr. Chambers, each of whom is on a purchasing mission to this country.

According to Mr. Chambers, the United States is fast becoming the favorite market of Australians and a steadily increasing trade may be expected if dealers in this country will conform to the requirements of the colonial English customer.

Defeat.

LOSES WIFE AFTER A LONG STRUGGLE.

CLERK WHO WED LITTLE GIRL IS SINGLE AGAIN.

Annulment is Granted to Child Who Became a Bride When Youth Swore Falsely as to Her Age—Agreement not to Prosecute Him is Revealed.

Harold J. Stone lost his long fight for a girl wife when Judge Reeve yesterday granted Marie E. Allis Stone an annulment of her marriage with him. Mr. Stone worked in the drug store of the girl's father. After a very brief romance, the pair ran away from Sawtelle and were married in Los Angeles. Mr. Stone gave the age of the girl as 19 when he secured the license.

He did not receive parental blessings on return to the Allis home. Mrs. Allis ordered the young man out of her house and locked her daughter up. Mr. Stone secured a writ of habeas corpus for the girl and the mother came back with a warrant for his arrest on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and perjury in giving her age as 19.

It was finally agreed, according to information vouchsafed yesterday, that Mr. Stone would not be prosecuted if he permitted the girl to get the annulment. He was not present when this was granted.

Trials.

NAMES TROUBLE HIM.

Man Wins Divorce After Telling of One Unpronounceable Cognomen, Another too Unpopular and a Third Wife Disliked and Left Behind.

George H. Lufkin has had much trouble with his names. Also with his wife, from whom Judge Reeve yesterday granted him a divorce on the ground of desertion.

In making inquiries regarding Mr. Lufkin's past and his right to ask the divorce, Judge Reeve discovered Mr. Lufkin had two other names. First of these was Peter J. Strovinski.

When he joined the army he decided such a name was too difficult to pronounce. He changed it to Peter J. Sinclair. While in the service, he said, he incurred the dislike of many of his army associates. To prevent them from recognizing him, when he quit the service he took the name of George H. Lufkin.

When he married Mrs. Lufkin, she did not take kindly to the name or to the other owner of it, and left him.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED.

Motorist Accused by Widow of Accident's Victim.

Leslie M. Renaker of Monrovia will have to answer a charge of manslaughter. A complaint against him was issued yesterday by the District Attorney. An automobile he was driving ran into a motorcycle on which Harry Mellus was riding. The latter was so seriously injured that he died shortly afterwards. The accident occurred at Lemon and California streets, Monrovia, and according to witnesses at the Coroner's inquest, might have been avoided by Renaker. Mrs. Elizabeth Mellus, widow of the man killed, swore to the complaint.

FOR LOST PROPERTY.

Woman Sues Bank and Real Estate Operator.

Mrs. Mary E. Abercrombie filed suit yesterday against the Title Insurance and Trust Company and Ira H. Stubbs, a real estate operator, to recover $8000 for property which the defendants are alleged to have lost.

In naming the Title Insurance company in her suit, Mrs. Abercrombie alleges a clerk in the employ of that corporation gave the deed to Stubbs. Stubbs, she alleged, then disposed of the deed.

Costly Proposition.

[Boston Transcript:] "My time," said the magnate, "is worth $100 a minute."

"Well," answered his friend, casually, "let's go out this afternoon and play $10,000 or $15,000 worth of golf."

FOR EMMA.

Associate Justice Brandeis has—as might have been expected—granted a writ of error to Emma Goldman, the anarchist, and her man Berkman. "A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind."

WHO CAN TELL?

The way the Reichstag defied Mr. Hohenzollern by adopting the majority peace resolution by a vote of 214 to 116 and then voting without discussion the sum of three and one-half billions of dollars for a war credit seems slightly contradictory. Perhaps der Reichstag do not take himself mit seriousness!

A WRONG IMPRESSION.

No! The bankers and brokers and corporation managers of California are not such knaves and fools that they need an omniscient politician to take charge of their affairs and clap them into jail for lese majeste. But what a wonderful thing it is for an office-holder to be invested with all the acumen and honesty in the State!

BYE-BYE, CHAUTAUQUA!

The Los Angeles Chautauqua course appears to have "died a bornin'." The officers attribute its demise to "the unsettled conditions growing out of the war," but others assert that the sparse attendance at its meetings was due to the fact that its list of orators consisted of too many "has-beens" and altogether too many "would-bes."

NO AUSGLEICH!

The new German Chancellor, Dr. Michaelis, declares that Germany will make peace only on the basis of verstaendigung and ausgleich. The Times has no objection to verstaendigung, but it draws the line at ausgleich, which means that the United States and the Entente Allies shall give Germany everything and take from her nothing—not even an assurance of future good behavior.

NO, HANG HIM!

The citizens of Klamath Falls, Or., are inclined to be slightly strenuous in their treatment of I.W.W.'s. They have forty of them in jail. They propose to hang half of them and drown the other half in Klamath Lake. Their conduct is certainly subject to criticism, but when, in addition to this, they propose to drown any lawyer who may appear to apply to the court for a writ of exeat hoc desperandum in behalf of the incarcerated rope-threatened and moisture-menaced I.W.W.'s, they go too far.

MISTAKEN FINANCIERS.

The subservient and cowardly brokers and bank officers who applauded State Corporation Commissioner Carnahan when he delivered his bitter diatribe against The Times will one day realize the asininity of their mistake. They are addle-headed financiers if they imagine it is desirable to have the impression spread abroad that the banks of California are loaded up with wild-cat securities and the bankers need an all-wise guardian. Our banks and financial institutions have enough misapprehension and stupidity to combat without that added agitation.

JOSEPHUS, THE KNOWING ONE.

In providing brigadier-generals, colonels, lieutenant-colonels and majors for the million of conscripts drawn on Friday it is to be hoped that Secretary Baker will not allow the clamor of deserving Democrats for jobs to cause him to appoint applicants who "Never set a squadron in the tented field,

Nor the divisions of a battle know
More than a spinster."

As for appointing naval officers, nothing can be hoped from Josephus Daniels. He does not himself know the difference between a marlinspike and the maintop bowline, and what he does not himself know he will not require young seagoing Democrats to know.

GO SLOW, GENTLEMEN, GO SLOW!

This means the members of the City Council. The Board of Public Service Commissioners wants to spend the rest of the power money—and the board always was a good spender. It has asked the Council to authorize the sale of more than $2,000,000 of unsold bonds and the authority has been granted. Now comes a citizen who protests because the bonds sought to be sold are not of the type for which the people voted.

There are grave doubts in the minds of many people whether the city has any authority to issue any more bonds under the 1914 authorization. This is because the bonds now held are not what the voters approved. In other words, as succinctly stated in The Times yesterday, short-term bonds have been substituted for long-term bonds.

Some people recall the burning of the power bonds at the police station. It was a play to the gallery gods. The bonds voted by the people were forty-year bonds, running from 1914 to 1954. The authorities took out the bonds running from the year 1942 to 1954 and destroyed them by fire.

But the Board of Public Service Commissioners reckoned without its host. It overlooked the fact that the burning converted the unsold bonds from forty-year to twenty-eight-year bonds, thus entirely changing their character without the consent of the people.

Women are now carrying mail in Lorain, O., a dispatch informs us. That's not new. The woman carries the male everywhere

THE DRAFT—AMERICA'S HOUR OF TRIAL.

I.

AMERICA has summoned her millions of young men by number and by name to carry her Flag forward on the battlefields of Belgium and of France. And they have answered as with one voice. There has been little cheering, no lustful boasts of valor, no wild abuse of the enemy. Our young men have answered quietly, as men are apt to answer when without fury, hate or greed they consecrate themselves to the God of Hosts and go forth to fight for principles and not for plunder.

Strange indeed it is to history when a nation that spurns the intimation of loot, that is uninflamed by hate, and with the full and awful glare of a three years' war in its eyes, takes up arms and prepares to make such sacrifices as have wracked and exhausted a hemisphere.

And yet not so strange or hard to understand when one reads the Constitution upon which our government is founded, and realizes that it was something more than mere high-sounding words that our fathers wrote, to have thus for 141 years held the fervent allegiance of a free people. Not strange when one remembers the ragged patriots that tramped with bleeding feet through the snow of Valley Forge; not strange when one casts back to scarcely more than a half-century ago and reviews the Grand Army that came marching with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" on its lips to uphold the Union and free an enslaved and alien race; not strange when within the memory of almost every one of our living soldiers and sailors we gallantly broke the power of Spain and gave freedom to Cuba and the Philippines.

Neither man nor nation can escape the heritage of centuries. And every battle that our fathers have fought, from Lexington to the Alamo, from Gettysburg to Manilla, has been for liberty.

Those are not only our written traditions; but the younger generation that is now going out to battle has come from the loins of the men that fought those wars. Their heritage is not a thing of ink on books of history; it is bred into their bone and fiber; it was given to them with life in the wombs of their mothers, so that when Germany cried out for "World dominion or ruin"—"Deutschland uber alles"—and smashed through Belgium and into France, the instinctive sympathy of the American people went unerringly to those who fought against invaders.

It would have been folly as well as presumption for us then to have officially cast our fortune on either side of the age-old quarrel in Europe. But when the stars in their courses brought into conjunction a number of powerful influences, America could not longer retain an unsheathed sword. Germany by acts which her false lips deprecated—Germany virtually declared war on us. She sank our ships, citizens, cargoes and crews, and wept explanations between the times that she jeered at us as "too proud to fight"; she plotted within our borders for the destruction of our industries and the harassment of our government; she intrigued with Mexico and Japan for open war against us, and swore to countenance the territorial disruption of this Union. Then Russia wrenched the Romanoff dynasty from a throne three centuries old and declared for a republic; and France, England, Italy, Belgium and Serbia, in clearer and plainer words, swore again that they fought not to revenge the old, old race feuds, but to destroy the last absolute monarchy in Europe, to secure the permanent peace of the world and to establish equal rights for all nations, great and small. Moreover, all the world felt that if America longer remained aloof, Germany's frontiers could not be broken and might be extended until the hordes of the War Lord overran the earth.

So it was that the trial hour for America struck. Duty called. The sword was drawn. The trumpet sounded that shall never call retreat.

II.

YET in this trial hour an enemy is without our own gates. The I. W. W.'s boast that they loathe patriotism. And their boast is not vain. They have proved themselves a sporadic menace when peace was on the land. They may prove themselves terribly dangerous with every resource of the nation strained to meet the gluttonous appetite of War; and they have set themselves to be as dangerous as a natural lust for violence and a swaggering contempt for law will permit. Their depredations are planned on a scale long dreamed of, but never before attempted.

The I.W.W.'s are of more immediate danger to Americans than the German armies. The city of Los Angeles will probably never know what war is like except from the maimed men that drift back from battle lines; but it may know the torture of a water famine if another attack on the great and the chief source of our supply is more successful than that which a few days ago violently wrenched the water-flow temporarily from its course; and if the local water and police authorities are not alert and firm we may soon face greater dangers. An organization that is openly out for revolution and anarchy, that has been apprehended plotting to fire the grain fields of the Northwest, that has wrought strikes from Butte to Bisbee and boasted of impending sabotage that would slacken and stop the wheels of industry from coast to coast, may be expected to attempt special vengeance on the free and open-shop city of Los Angeles.

III.

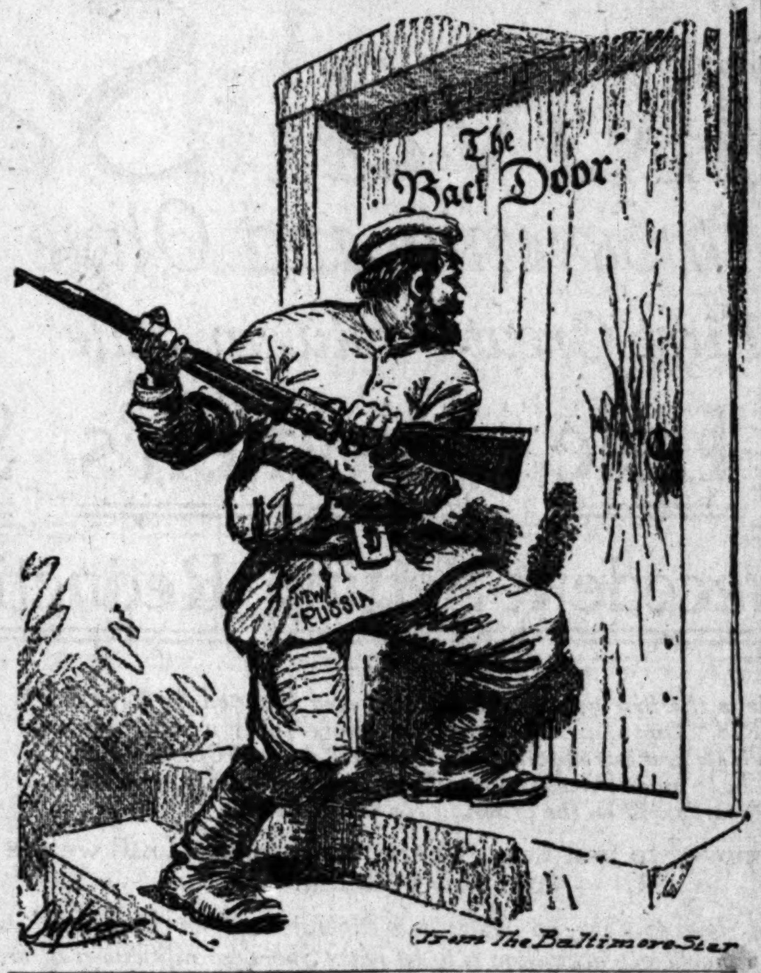
WHILE America goes forward with every expectancy of making all the sacrifices that victory may require, it is a significant fact that we have already delivered one of the hardest shocks that the Germans will ever feel. The Liberty Loan and the ten million draft have struck near despair into the mass of the Germans—not fear, mind you, but hopelessness. This is reflected vaguely in the political disturbances that have been surging about the throne of the Kaiser, and specifically in the words of the new Chancellor, Michaelis, who, less than ten days after his predecessor, Von Bethmann-Hollweg, had declared Germany would not consider peace without conquest and victory, announced in his first speech to the Reichstag that Germany would not continue the war one day longer than she could secure an honorable peace. And no mention was made of conquent. The Reichstag adopted a peace resolution by a vote of 214 to 116. That is an inspiring omen, but America would betray herself into contemptuous dalliance did she put her faith in omens instead of blows. The war must go on until the Kaiser cries out for peace—and such a peace as will give the German people control of their own government. Then, and not until then, will America have won the victory to which she has consecrated herself.

With Germany a bona fide democracy, the United States may smile upon her.

IV.

INTERNAL Russia remains a maelstrom of agitation. Day after day new leaders are tossed up, prominent for an hour while they declare this theory or that, then sink again and are lost from view. It will be a long, long time before Russia has a stable government in the sense that other nations have stable governments. But the danger of a separate peace is eliminated. It has been eliminated by something more decisive than the threats of the Allies; in fact, by the Russian army which has enthusiastically returned to the war and has won ground. Germany, compelled to face the terrific onslaughts on her western fronts, withdrew army after army to check Haig and Petain. And Brussiloff struck. He has again invaded Galicia and is successfully advancing over a twenty mile front on Lemberg. The effect of this renewed activity was instantaneous. Austria was forced to ease the pressure of her massed troops against Italy. But Hindenburg no longer seems in a position to make an offensive even against the Russians whom he once scattered as a whirlwind scatters grain. Germany is gripped with a girdle of bayonets; and even if again possessed of the armies that carried victory to Warsaw, it is doubtful if she would find the Russians so susceptible to defeat. The soldiers know they must win or again have the House of Romanoff set on their shoulders. But more than that, they have ammunition. The Allies have seen to it that Russian armies will not again be forced to retreat with nothing but bayonets to fend off artillery. Still more, American engineers and French and English aviators have strengthened the weakest places in the Russian armies. And the army, at present at least, goes on its way indifferent to the harangue and palaver of the politicians in Petrograd. When victory is won the soldiers no doubt will take a hand in settling the character of the government; but first and with fine heroism they are making sure that they will not have to fight in the Duma the enemy that they can meet on the fields. And like the giant of old who grew stronger each time he was thrown to the ground, Russia seems to rise from each defeat with renewed strength and [illegible] courage.

Where There's a Will There's a Way.



HONESTY AND SQUARE DEALING IN THE NEWSPAPER BUSINESS.

The act of Congress of August 12, 1914, Section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, requires the publisher, editor, business manager or owner of every daily newspaper published in the United States to make every six months, and file with the department, a written statement under oath of the average number of copies of each issue of his publication distributed through the mails or otherwise to paid subscribers during the previous six months.

The Times complied with this law on April 9, 1917, showing the average circulation of its daily issue was 67,907 copies, and of its Sunday issue was 105,410 copies.

To make a false statement of circulation is perjury, for an act of Congress provides that "every person who, having taken an oath before a competent tribunal, officer or person, in any case in which a law of the United States authorizes an oath to be administered, that he will testify, declare, depose or certify truly, or that any written testimony, declaration, deposition or certificate by him subscribed is true, wilfully and contrary to such oath states or subscribes any material matter which he does not believe to be true, is guilty of perjury, and shall be punished," etc.

So that the proprietor of a newspaper who should make and file with the department a false statement under oath that the circulation of his paper was 40,000 copies, when it was only 20,000, and that it was a genuine and bona fide circulation according to the standards of the Audit Bureau of Circulation of the United States, would violate the act of Congress, would commit perjury and would take the chances of being compelled to sojourn for a while in a Federal penitentiary.

A misstatement, under oath or otherwise, as to circulation would also make the liar amenable to the criminal law of the State, for obtaining money under false pretenses.

If a newspaper proprietor makes under oath a statement that his journal has a circulation of 58,000, when it has only 40,000, and on the strength of that statement a merchant pays for an advertisement in the paper, expecting, as a matter of course, to get the benefit of the full circulation stipulated and promised by the person so involved in a dishonest way is guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses and may be punished for that offense.

He ranks legally with the liar and cheat who obtains one hundred dollars' worth of goods from a merchant and gives him in payment a check for that amount on a bank where he has no account.

It may be that a newspaper proprietor who represents the circulation of his journal to be double what it is, and thereby induces an advertising solicitor employed on another paper to throw up his honorable job and enter into a contract with the liar, is not guilty of a criminal offense, but has only inflicted a civil injury for which an action to recover damages will lie.

It was held in Weierbach vs. Trone, 2 W. & S. (Pa.) 248, that putting a brickbat into a tub of butter was only a cheat to which the purchaser of the butter contributed by his own carelessness; because he could, before paying for the butter, have discovered the cheat by probing the tub containing it.

In the suit of Charles C. Rosewater against Edwin T. Earl, the plaintiff charges the defendant with false and fraudulent representations about the circulation, advertising and financial condition of the Express-Tribune and Rural World. If these charges shall be substantiated, Mr. Earl may still find some loophole to escape conviction for perjury or cheating. But he will not altogether escape punishment.

An attempt may possibly be made to throw the responsibility for the falsification of the circulation records upon certain subordinates; but it is authoritatively stated that this effort will be vigorously resisted.

There are offenses against the moral law of which the criminal code does not take cognizance, but which, when detected and exposed, bring upon the offender the well-deserved scorn and contempt of the community. A habitual liar, for instance, who lies for profit will, when detected, be ostracized. If he is a merchant he will lose his customers. If he is a lawyer he will be without clients. If he is a newspaper proprietor the mail will be filled with orders to "stop my paper." When he walks abroad and when he attends a theater or concert, the occupants of adjacent seats will hold their noses.

There are such things as honesty and honor in journalism, and the average citizen has a right to see it in evidence in Los Angeles.

ALWAYS THE BEST.

Thousands of people arose in Los Angeles on Saturday and called The Times blessed. There have been people who have used other words in connection with this newspaper which are not so gentle and pleasing. The particular cause for gratification on Saturday was that The Times gave the people the lists of the drafted in alphabetical order. It was the only paper to do this.

Everybody who read The Times appreciated it. This arrangement saved thousands from making bothersome search and it placed before the people the important news of the day in the most convenient form.

Other papers dumped in long, mixed-up lists through which those who read them had to painfully and laboriously make their way groping for their own names or for the names of their friends. Thousands turned from the other papers in disgust to The Times. Many borrowed papers from the regular subscribers of The Times, in order that they might be saved the trouble and annoyance of hunting for names. They now know what it is like to hunt for a needle in a haystack and then to have somebody suddenly take away the hay and leave the needle right before their eyes.

The Times—pardon us—always does things a little better. In addition to giving the clearest and best lists of the city, it covered Southern California from the Tehachepi to the Mexican border thoroughly and, by way of extra measure, threw in Tulare and Kern counties into the bargain. And, feeling proud of its accomplishments, The Times has no objection to tooting its own horn.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

THE BIG FAMILY.

Our family, in times of peace, has many rows and wrangles; it sometimes takes the town police to quell our little jangles. Then mother, losing all her tact, complains of which and t'other, and father reads the riot act, and sister nags her brother. Sometimes the pans and skillets fly, heaved by indignant tosser, and uncle catches, with his eye, perhaps, a cup or saucer. Sometimes our grandma takes a broom and knocks the dust from auntie, and now and then we wreck a room, and fairly rock the shanty. But if a neighbor seeks our door, with warlike fuss and bluffing, we cease our rows forevermore, and from him knock the stuffing. Forgotten every grievance then, all friction has an ending; the women line up with the men, our little shack defending. In normal times this happy land is full of noisy friskers, who see that harmony is canned, and pull each other's whiskers. A stranger standing on a height, our ways not understanding, would think we lived to whoop and fight, some neighbor's scalp demanding. But when outsiders come along, to mix in, uninvited, we cease to thrash the private wrong, and we all stand united.

WALT MASON.

Jealous of Their Rights.

[Kansas City Star:] The administration policy of saving beer and wines from the prohibition guillotine will not prove popular in Kansas, even among those of anti-prohibition sentiment. Kansas is bone-dry now, and the thirsty ones in that State will resent any privilege from Washington to a Missourian that they cannot enjoy.

Double Trouble.

"Busy days for my wife."

"How so?"

"Has to keep her white shoes powdered as well as her face."—

STREAKS OF WIT.

Worth the Risk.

[Tit-Bits:] For three successive nights the new and proud father had walked the floor with the baby. On the fourth night he became desperate, and on arriving home from the office unwrapped a bottle of soothing syrup.

"Oh, James," exclaimed his wife, when she saw the label, "what did you buy that for? Don't you know it is very dangerous to give a child anything like that?"

"Don't worry," was the husband's tired reply, "I'm going to take it myself!"

The Right One to Switch.

[Boston Transcript:] Irate Parent: I warned you boys and now I'm going to switch you for making such a racket.

Bobby: Well, switch Johnny, we're playing train and he's the locomotive.

Pleasing Prospect.

[Pearson's Weekly:] "My dear," said the banker to his only daughter, "I have noticed a young man in the drawing-room two or three evenings each week of late. What is his occupation?"

"He is at present unemployed, father," replied the fair girl, a dreamy, far-away look in her big, blue eyes; "but he is thinking seriously of accepting a position of life companion to a young lady of means."

Nothing Happened.

[Harper's Magazine:] "This seems to be a very dangerous precipice," remarked the tourist. "I wonder that they have not put up a warning board."

"Yes," answered the guide, "it is dangerous. They kept a warning board up for two years, but no one fell over, so it was taken down."

Tommy Explains.

[Boston Transcript:] A couple of Charlestown kiddies were celebrating Bunker Hill Day by exploding a few torpedoes. Said Nellie: "I don't see how the Germans can blow up a big ship with one of these things."

"Oh, you girls can't expect to understand about such things," said Tommy, with a superior air. "Of course the torpedoes they use are about a hundred times as big and they use a derrick to lift them up and drop them on the ship."

Who's to Eat 'Em?

[Kansas City Journal:] Kansas is ready to harvest the biggest crop of oats in the history of the State. If all the jackasses of the country were required to subsist on oats, the wheat shortage would be felt much less acutely.

Forewarned.

[Boston Transcript:] Mrs. Youngbride: I don't want to have any trouble with you, Bridget.

Cook: Then, bedad, ma'am, let me hear no complaints.

Rather Costly.

[Orange Peel:] "Did you give your wife anything for her birthday, Pat?"

"Oi did thot!"

"And what did it cost?"

"Tin dollars or tin days."

PATRIOTIC NOTION COUNTER.

It is a good thing that the Declaration of Independence was signed on the day it was; it would be so awkward to shout, "Hurrah for the Twenty-ninth of January!"

"Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes," ordered the general. And the Yankees kept on firing until they couldn't see even their heels.

The hardest part of the history of the Revolution to believe is the part about Washington escaping from the British in a fog.

I believe in a sane Fourth, but I am glad that our forefathers didn't.

The fellows who used to hold lighted cannon crackers in their hands to show their courage don't seem to have all enlisted yet.

One reason why Paul Revere got there on time was because he took a horse instead of a Boston surface car.

We won the Revolution and we didn't have much more of an army in 1775 than we had in 1917.

The British thought that the Revolution was going to be a cinch; and then, first thing, they drove into a Bunker.

The Declaration of Independence is a much better lesson in patriotism than it is in penmanship.

Our forefathers fought, bled and died; had they been pacifists they would have thought, fled and cried.

If Benedict Arnold had lived in these days I wonder which State would have sent him to the Senate.

Venezuela ought to be an easy place to organize a chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution.

The submarine has been unable to prevent the importation into Russia of Yankee notions.

Somehow he wouldn't seem so romantic if he had signed himself "J. P. Jones."

As I understand it, what we had in 1775 was the universal volunteer system.—[Douglas Malloch in Judge.

The Next Job.

Mother: Have you practiced Chopin's "Ballad in A?"

Gertie: Yes, mother.

"Have you translated your page of Homer?"

"Yes, mother."

"Have you learned your five problems in Euclid."

"Yes, mother."

"And have you worked out the binomial theorem?"

"Yes, mother."

"Then go and dust the dining-room."

Practical Gardener.

"Going to keep chickens, I see," said Brown, looking over the fence to where his neighbor was busy putting up posts and stretching chicken wire between them.

"Guess again," said his neighbor. "This thing I'm building is not intended to keep chickens in. It's to keep them out. I'm going to have a garden this year. And, what's more, I'm going to get the benefit of what's

TEXT OF ORDER.

The text of the executive order is as follows:

(1.) No person, firm or corporation shall employ or suffer or permit an experienced woman to be employed in the mercantile industry in California at a rate of wages less than $10 per week ($43.33 per month.)

(2.) The rate for learners shall be less than the minimum rate prescribed for experienced workers, provided:

(a) That learners entering employment under 18 years of age be paid an initial weekly wage not less than $6 a week ($26 per month) for the first six months of employment, for the second six months not less than $6.50 per week ($28.17 per month,) for the third six months not less than $7 per week ($30.33 per month,) for the fourth six months not less than $7.50 per week ($32.50 per month,) and for the fifth six months, or when 18 years of age, not less than $8 per week ($34.67 per month.)

(b) That learners entering employment 18 years of age and under 20 years of age be paid an initial weekly wage of not less than $8 per week ($34.67 per month) for the first six months of employment, not less than $8.50 per week ($36.83 per month) for the second six months, not less than $9 per week ($39 per month) for the third six months, not less than $9.50 per week ($41.17 per month) for the fourth six months and thereafter shall be deemed experienced workers.

(c) That learners entering employment 20 years of age or over be paid an initial weekly wage of not less than $8 per week ($34.67 per month) for the first six months of employment, for the second six months not less than $8.50 per week ($36.83 per month) and thereafter shall be deemed experienced workers and shall be paid not less than the minimum wage for experienced workers.

(3.) The total number of adult and minor learners in any establishment shall not exceed 25 per cent. of the total number of women and minors employed. In computing the total number of women and minors, "temporary" and "special" workers shall not be included.

(4.) Where the payment of wages is made upon a commission or bonus system, wages shall be computed weekly and the time wage plus bonus or commission shall not be less than the minimum rate for the wage group in which the worker belongs.

PENALTIES FIXED.

Violation of the minimum wage order of the Industrial Welfare Commission is punishable by a fine of not less than $50, or imprisonment of not less than thirty days, or both.

Experts employed by the commission have estimated that this orders will increase the pay for more than half the women workers in the department stores, millinery shops, 5 and 10-cent establishments and other mercantile places in California. The average wage now paid is estimated at $9 per week.

Two other States are said to have minimum wage scales for women. The Massachusetts minimum wage is $9.25 per week; that of Oregon is $8.50 per week. When the Massachusetts statute was enacted, however, the only penalty it exacted was to publish in newspapers of general circulation the names of offending persons or firms. California goes to the extent of making the violation of the executive order a crime.

Mrs. Edson, member of the Industrial Welfare Board, asserts that 46.6 per cent. of the women employed in mercantile lines in California receive less than $10 per week and that 19.5 per cent. receive less than $8. She estimates, also, that the new order will affect the wages of not less than 25,000 women workers in the State.

Self Denial.

[Washington Star:] "Are you setting an example of heroism and self denial, such as the country now demands?"

"I haven't done anything exactly in the line of heroism," admitted Senator Sorghum, "but I've scored on self denial. I haven't made a long speech in six weeks."

JUDGMENT FOR TWENTY CENTS.

Man Representing Creditors of Dead Company Wins a Doubtful Victory.

Charles B. Smith, representing a number of claimants against the defunct Gem Furniture Company, received yesterday just 21 cents of the $2915.92 for which he sued.

The hearing was before Superior Judge Dewhirst, sitting in Department 3. He ordered that the defendants pay damages in proportion to the amount of their stock. When this was figured out it was discovered they have a very small share in the company and the damages amounted to 21 cents. Judge Dewhirst will have to approve this before the case is closed.

MOVE TO ORGANIZE POTATO GROWERS.

PRELIMINARY STEPS TAKEN AT INFORMAL MEETING.

Members of Defense Council and Others Urge Need of Systematic Co-operation to Prevent Threatened Glut in the Southern California Market for Tubers.

A plea for the organization of Southern California's potato market to avert the threatened glut and assure a distribution that will benefit both producers and consumers, was made yesterday at a meeting of tuber growers, members of the County Council of Defense and other prominent citizens, at No. 719 South Hill street. Steps were taken toward this organization when men from several potato-growing districts were selected to bring the farmers of their sections into line, as a preliminary, to broader co-operation, to embrace the entire Southland.

More than 100 growers attended the meeting, which was addressed by H. A. Miller of Covina, Judge Finlayson, Vice-chairman Hamilton of the County Council of Defense, A. W. Frye, Luther Brown, A. J. Young and others.

Appealing to the patriotism as well as to the commercial and financial interests of southern growers, Judge Finlayson urged upon the people the necessity for organization, saying the world today needs every ounce of food it is possible to produce.

W. S. Rosecrans, chairman of the meeting, who had called the people together at the request of the Foodstuffs Committee of the County Council of Defense, also urged the growers to take immediate steps toward organization. Mr. Miller, a director of the Citrus Growers' Association, told of the remarkable results achieved through that organization.

Responses from seventy potato growers revealed that these men have on hand 5700 sacks, or about eighteen carloads of tubers, ready for the market but, because of lack of inspectors, transportation facilities and other requirements, they have no means of disposing of their product.

Mr. Rosecrans said members of the Foodstuffs Committee had interviewed a number of shipping agents and that one company had consented to handle the present crop at the rate of 15 cents per 100, agreeing to do free loading and to furnish an inspector, whose judgment would be subject to the final decision of the State Market Inspector.

The men selected to head local committees in their respective districts are: For Arcadia, Azusa, Monrovia, Glendora and San Dimas, C. B. Reas of the First National Bank of Sierra Madre; for Buena Park, Artesia, Norwalk and Belleflower, W. B. Couts, No. 1617 South Western avenue, Los Angeles; for Downey, Compton, Huntington Park, Bell, Rivera and Long Beach, A. Winquist, No. 1825 East Sixty-ninth street, Los Angeles; for Ontario and Chino, E. Meredith, Chino.

FEARS GLUT IN POTATO MARKET

Food Commissioner Looks for Big Surplus Here.

Due to Arrival Soon of Crop from the North.

Same Situation is Liable to Face Onion Growers.

That there is danger of the potato market in Los Angeles being glutted upon the arrival of the northern potato in about two weeks is the opinion of W. S. Rosecrans, foodstuffs commissioner for Los Angeles county. The potato yield for Los Angeles county, according to figures compiled by the Foodstuffs Committee, of which Mr. Rosecrans is at the head, is at least 20 per cent. greater than it was last year, and, with the northern potato on the market, where there also has been a similar increase in the yield this year, Mr. Rosecrans fears there will be a pronounced surplus on hand.

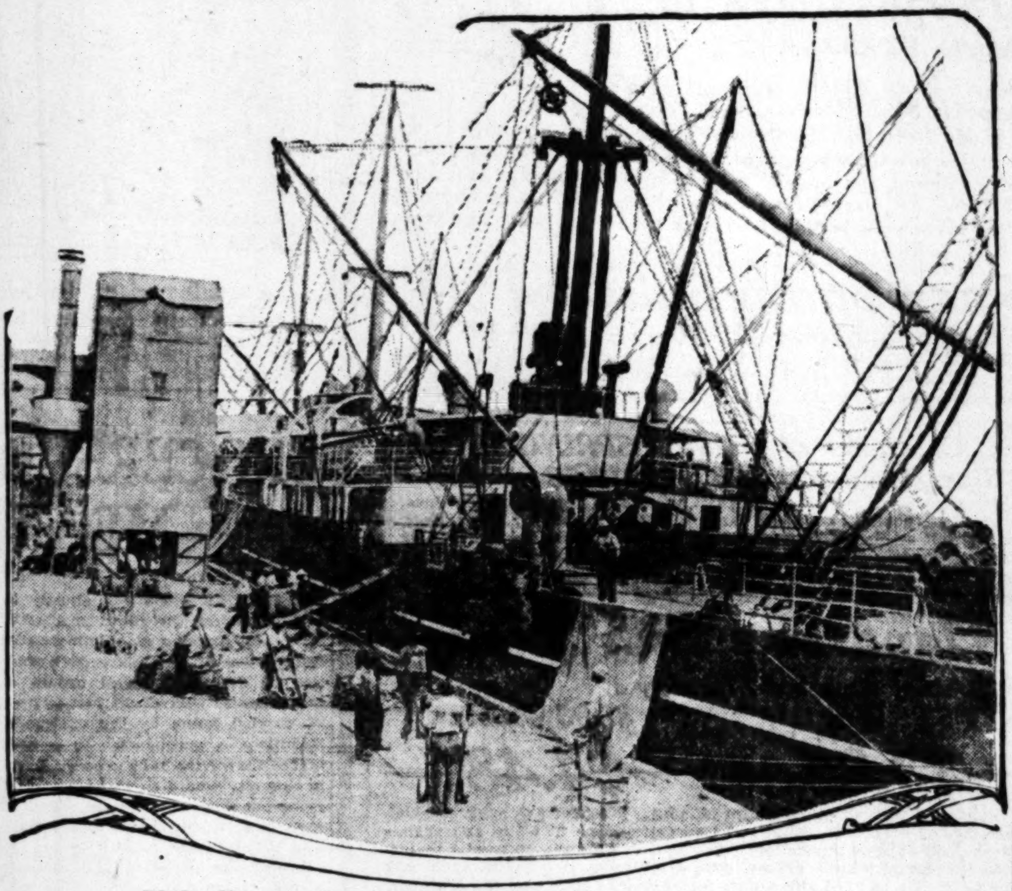
The purpose of the Foodstuffs Committee of Los Angeles county is to protect the producer by giving him advice that will benefit him in the marketing of his product. In other words, it is an effort to assist the producer to get the maximum price for his product obtainable. Mr. Rosecrans has personally made a survey of the potato crop of the county and the marketing conditions that will affect its price. Being a rancher himself, he has been able to get a vast amount of data, based on first-hand investigation.

"Although potatoes are not classed as a perishable product," said Mr. Rosecrans, "the growers are not well enough organized to do much exporting. The government has made no provisions to assist them in this regard, and even if they could make some arrangements for exporting potatoes there would not be sufficient bottoms. There are not enough ships for other purposes. Also, there are no foreign agents in this country buying up potatoes.

"The potato growers of this county already have had several frights because it looked as though the market would drop," Mr. Rosecrans continued, "and only the buying up of what would be a surplus on the market prevented the price from coming way down. But with the northern potato here in large quantities, and the quality of the northern potato being superior, the situation looks somewhat dubious for the local man. We are working very strenuously to relieve this situation, but it is doubtful if we will be successful."

Although the potato yield for Los Angeles county is 20 per cent. greater than last year, the acreage planted to potatoes is fully 50 per cent. greater, Mr. Rosecrans asserted. The cause for this, he explained, is both climatic conditions and the fact that a large part of this acreage has been planted by amateurs.

Mr. Rosecrans fears that the same conditions that prevail for the potato man, that of over-production for the present marketing conditions, will confront the onion man. However, he has not yet made a survey of the onion crop sufficient to warrant this statement. The cause for the present trouble, he said, is indiscriminate planting and no advice given as to which products to plant most.



Unloading soy beans from the Danish motor ship Australien,

At Los Angeles Harbor. The beans are to be converted into oil and cake at a plant at Vernon.

New Era.

ORIENTAL BEANS REACH HERE IN RECORD CARGO.

More than Nine Thousand Tons of Soyas Brought to this Port from Manchuria for Mill at Vernon, Which Extracts Oil Content Partly for the Manufacture of Soap—Experiments for Salads.

MORE than 100 longshoremen are working day and night at Los Angeles Harbor unloading from the Danish motor ship Australian a cargo of 9373 short tons of soya beans from Darien, Manchuria. This is the first shipment of this kind ever brought to this port and the largest complete cargo ever received here from a foreign harbor. Other similar cargoes will follow.

The soya or soja is a little yellow bean closely resembling a common cow pea, although smaller in size. It is creating a tremendous interest in American agricultural circles and doing much to develop the commerce of this port. It yet may give Los Angeles merchants their first opportunity to get regular steamship service to the Orient with plenty of cargo space for Southern California products.

The cargo now being unloaded is for the Globe Milling Company, which last November began the construction of an oil mill in Vernon. This plant now is completed and is turning out oil products from cotton seed and other materials. The soya beans will be handled at this mill. The oil will be produced from them and while a large amount will be prepared for the manufacture of soaps, plans have been made for the conduct of an extensive series of experiments for the production of a palatable cooking and salad oil. The soya bean has a 19 per cent. oil content and all but about 7 per cent. is extracted at the Vernon mills. The remaining substance is converted into bean cake and meal for cattle and hog feed.

CONTROLS OUTPUT.

The Australian is of 10,000 tons capacity and is owned and operated by the East Asiatic Company, Ltd., a Danish corporation, which not only controls the bean output of the Orient through its buying organization, but also owns a fleet of sixteen motor ships and is building twenty more.

The Australian is 450 feet long and is equipped with twin screws and six Diesel engines. The engines are rated at 3200 horse power, but develop the same power as steam engines rated at 15,000 horse power. The engines occupy very little space and the cost of operating is only one-fifth that of steam vessels of the same capacity.

The Australian carries a crew of only thirty-three men. A steam vessel of the same capacity would carry sixty-five men. In five hours the Australian can load 1200 tons of fuel oil or enough to run the vessel 120 days at twelve hours or nearly around the world. The company has a long-time contract for fuel oil with the Union Oil Company at San Francisco made before the recent increase in prices and is enabled to operate its vessels very cheaply.

"California could raise the soya bean, but labor conditions in Manchuria are such that it can be imported in this country and sold at a good profit," said Erik F. M. Krag of San Francisco, Pacific Coast traffic manager for the East Asiatic Company, yesterday. "The soya bean is full of oil and can be put to many uses for which the ordinary bean is unfit. It is ground for the oil which is now being used extensively in the manufacture of soap and other products for which animal fats are now prohibitive.

GOOD STOCK FOOD.

"The hulls also make good stock food. Last year we imported over 200,000 tons of these beans into America."

In China the soya bean is used for food and even in this country it is being packed to a limited extent by eastern pork and bean packers. It has been raised to some extent in this country for stock food. It has remained for China to teach Boston some tricks about beans, however. America has become so interested in the bean that the Agricultural Department has sent Dr. Yamei Kin, a Chinese woman graduate of an American college, back to China to gather facts about it.

While the Americans have raised the bean for stock food and eaten the meat the Chinese have taken a short cut to get the protein, which is the food value of meat and milk, by eating the bean itself.

Missouri Has Largest Door.

[Kansas City Star:] The world's largest two-piece door since the days of the old Romans will be in place in the main entrance of the Missouri State Capitol within the next few weeks. It will be of solid bronze and will cost $10,000. A delay on the door is the only thing holding up the completion of the new capitol building. E. W. Stephens, chairman of the capitol commission, said here today. Mr. Stephens said that the commission was having trouble with the contractor for the settlement of the three million-dollar bill, but he felt sure both sides would make some concessions before a final settlement was made. Prof. Herman Schlundt and Prof. W. G. Brown, of the University of Missouri, who went to Jefferson City recently to inspect spots on the building, agreed that it would be just a matter of a short time until all had come out. As fast as they appear they have been polished off and in this way, as they come out lighter every time, it is believed that by the time the capitol is ready to open they will be scarcely noticeable.

Bayonets No Longer Shine.

[New York Evening World:] Soon the romancer no longer will be able to write about the colmun of American troops that marched into battle with bayonets glistening in the sun. For the United States government has about decided to take all of the glisten out of a bayonet and have it made of blue steel. It is argued that just as a brilliant uniform attracts attention even at a distance, so the luster of a polished bayonet may be seen far away.

If this step is taken it will be only one more blow at the panoply of war, which has become a grim business and not an affair of dash and honor. Every army in the field has discarded by degrees everything that would tend to make the presence of troops known to the enemy. The war is getting to be a struggle of anonymity, silence and drab gray.

Slang and Its Possibilities.

[Boston Traveler:] Slang and its possibilities were vividly expressed in the conversation of two youths in a Back Bay home one night recently. The boys got into a discussion, and when all legitimate arguments had been exhausted the following repartee was heard:

"Snow again—I don't catch the drift."

"Keep on spouting, kid—you're a whale."

"Tie your shoe—your tongue's hangin' out."

"Hang crepe on yer ear, you mutt; yer brain is dead."

"Ah, sand yer tracks—yer slippin'!"

"Sneeze, little one—yer bean is dusty."

Attention Bad Stomachs

Go to Your Druggist and Get This Remarkable Prescription.

End Your Stomach Troubled Days.

"If you suffer from indigestion, nervous dyspepsia, pain after eating, sour, painful or too strongly acid stomach, bad breath or bloating, if you are afflicted with any kind of stomach trouble, do not patch up your stomach by using make-shift pepsin tablets or other artificial digestants," states a prominent authority on stomach ills. Go to your druggist and get a four-ounce bottle of "Stumeze," the most wonderful anti-acid and stomach rebuilder ever compounded. The first dose of this remarkable prescription tells the story. Go now—today. Don't suffer longer. Real relief and solid stomach comfort is waiting for you at any well-stocked drugstore. Simply ask for a four-ounce bottle of "Stumeze" prescription.—Adv.

Dr. Beck Says Hot Sun and Heat Weaken the Eyes

Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eyestrain or other eye weaknesses? If so you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Beck there is real hope for you. He says that exposure to sun, smoke, dust or wind often produces eyestrain, and people living in warm climates should frequently bathe the eyes and be careful to protect them from extreme light. This prescription will prove of great value to many eye sufferers. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man said after trying it, "I was almost blind, could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 15 days everything seemed clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE—Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist, and is one of the few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family."

JITNEY QUESTION NEAR A DECISION.

BRIEFS UNDER SUBMISSION IN INJUNCTION SUIT.

Court Must Decide at Once Legal Questions Growing Out of Bus Operators' Attack on Regulation Ordained by Popular Vote at Recent City Election.

It is now up to Judge Grant Jackson to decide legal questions arising from the popular vote of the people against jitney-bus operations in the downtown sections of the city. Briefs from the attorneys of the jitney operators and from the City Attorney were submitted yesterday on the matter of sustaining the city's demurrer against the injunction secured by W. H. Hagans, a bus operator.

The latter declared the law putting the busses out of business to be unconstitutional. In the event Judge Jackson sustains the demurrer, which it is anticipated he will, the bus problem in Los Angeles will be solved. Should the court hold in favor of the bus men, overruling the demurrer to their complaint attacking the ordinance as illegal, the action must be fought out by trial.

MORE FIRES, BUT SMALLER LOSSES.

FIRE PREVENTION BUREAU FILES ANNUAL REPORT.

Nearly Forty Thousand Inspections Made of Public Buildings. Engineer Gives Credit to Various Departments of the City for Campaign Against Hazards.

A report issued yesterday by the Fire Prevention Bureau shows that while there were more fire alarms sounded during the last fiscal year than during the previous year, the total loss was considerably smaller. During the fiscal year ending July 1, 1916 there were 2201 alarms, the loss to buildings being $275,505 and to contents $629,994. During the fiscal year ending July 1, 1917 there were 2210 fire alarms; loss the buildings $239,324 and to contents $454,696.

A total of 39,120 inspections were made of public buildings including theaters, schools, churches, hospitals, etc. Much work was done toward preventing fires, 11,871 cases being investigated and corrected.

Engineer Hawley of the bureau stated that it was due largely to the co-operation of the building, electrical, health and prosecutor's departments that the efforts of the bureau were so successful.

Economize by Purchasing Cotton Goods at the Old Prices
Wholesale Prices Have Advanced Several Times Recently
In spite of the numerous recent advances in cottons you can buy cotton goods of all kinds at Hale's Monday at the old prices. Practically every other store in Los Angeles has advanced prices on sheets, pillow cases, sheeting, ginghams, prints, percales, etc. We will be forced to follow suit as soon as our present supply is exhausted. A word to the wise is sufficient—any person who requires sheets or other cotton goods now or anticipates such a need in the near future will overlook an opportunity to economize by not purchasing liberally of the following items:

Buy Ginghams and Save
Following we quote the new retail prices on ginghams in comparison with Hale's low prices. The prices quoted are in effect in many of the larger stores. Ginghams should fairly fly Monday, if substantial savings mean anything to the women of this city.

Do You Carry Your Groceries Home or Have Them S

A small part of the delivery machinery of one Los Angeles grocery comp

The Retail Grocers' Association has launched a movement to abolish the delivery system and [illegible] money saved to lower prices. These pictures show only the delivery facilities at one of the [illegible] of stores—that on Vermont avenue. The total investment in wagons and wages by this [illegible] tremendous one.

$72,000 a Month Here.

GROCERS' DELIVERY REFORM MEANS TREMENDOUS SAVI

Definite steps will shortly be taken by the retail grocers of Los Angeles to eliminate the present wasteful and expensive practice of delivering small orders of merchandise that could just as well be carried home by the customers making the purchases. It is estimated that if the 1500 grocery stores in this city would co-operate in carrying out this policy several hundred men now engaged in this useless and unnecessary service would be released and their energies directed into productive channels, and a saving of several hundred thousand dollars each year would be effected. This, if rightfully deducted from the grocers' overhead expense cost, could be saved to the consumers of groceries.

A study of the cost of conducting the grocery business of the country has been made by the commercial economy board of the Council of National Defense, and it has been found that the delivery cost under the present wasteful methods amounts to fully 3 per cent. of the gross amount of business done. In Los Angeles there are approximately 120,000 families, whose average grocery bills are $40 per month, making a total monthly expenditure of $4,800,000. The inauguration of a restricted delivery system, if rigidly adhered to by every grocer, would effect a saving of at least one-half what delivery now costs, or approximately $72,000 per month.

TO STOP DUPLICATION.

"The plan under consideration does not contemplate the entire elimination of the delivery system," said a leading grocer, "but merely of the endless duplication of service that results in sending a delivery vehicle over the same route three or four times each day in delivering small articles forgotten when the day's orders were given. Many of the stores have adopted the new restricted policy, but the rank and file still adhere to the old system of pleasing the customer by sending out some trifling article that was forgotten when the order was given either at the store or over the telephone.

"The one apparently valid objection to the new plan is that it will throw many men now employed as drivers out of work. This is a problem, but if the plan is taken hold of intelligently such a calamity may be readily avoided. The average driver is employed in the store part of the time anyhow, and very often the time consumed by the extra trips he is called upon to make is snatched from his regular duties. But if it is true, as the men who employ labor in large numbers assert it is, that good men are scarce and hard to get, the intelligent young man who is driving a grocery wagon at $15 or $20 per week, as the case may be, will find work in other lines, where he will be performing a useful service and contributing to the nation's industrial efficiency.

WOMEN MUST HELP.

"The success of this plan, however, depends on the co-operation of the housewives. If the plan is put into effect the average woman will think carefully when she places her grocery or meat order for the day and make sure that she is not forgetting some minor article that will entail a trip to the store after the order has been delivered. With the various agencies at work teaching household economies, and with the patriotism of the women aroused, there seems to be little doubt but that the plan can be made to work out to the benefit of all concerned.

"But there is one factor that will prove vital to the success of the plan. If the grocer stops delivering small parcels and thus cuts his operating costs he must immediately cut his prices in proportion. If he fails to do this he will lose business, and the fact that others are doing the same thing will not help him, because if his customers feel they are being imposed upon dissatisfaction will become rife and other men, seeking opportunity to enter business, will open up, and, by selling a trifle cheaper, cut into his trade. Women are shrewd, as a rule, and while they are in a measure responsible for the present wasteful delivery system, they will not tolerate imposition."

PLAN CAREFULLY DRAWN.

The plan proposed is one that the commercial economy board has worked on for several months. The board estimates that if it is put in operation on a nation-wide scale fully 100,000 men would be released from useless and unnecessary tasks and could be utilized in productive industries. This would mean that 100,000 vehicles less would cumber the street, thus tending to decrease the traffic jams in large cities, and would relieve the retail grocery business of the upkeep of th[illegible] and the millions [illegible] and permit of vast [illegible] monthly grocery bills of th[illegible] of the nation.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles: while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckle and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine, as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back, if it fails to remove freckles.

Be Careful in Using Soap on Your Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

BROADWAY, FOURTH AND HILL.

Offer Case.

under government surveillance for several months. He was said to have been a factor in the labor agitation that involved the Longshoremen's Union and the Pacific Steamship Company at San Diego. At one time he tried to secure funds to build an airplane factory, and his frequent trips to Tia Juana and other border places were constantly watched by government agents. He acquired much property close to the border. In a recent issue of a San Diego German paper, the Deutsche Zeitung, he published in English an article opposing conscription and attacked the legality of the act.

The day following his arrest a suit for divorce on the grounds of cruelty and nonsupport was filed by Mrs. Eunice James Offer, well known in society circles in Washington and western cities. She alleges Capt. Offer called her vile names, and on one occasion struck her. She says he left her July 1 after he had become enraged because she would not give him money to pay off a mortgage on some of his property.

After his arrest, Offer, who was held incommunicado, sent long letters to his wife through the government officials, pleading with her to withdraw the divorce suit and protesting his love for her. Nearly every day after his arrest until he was taken away the two exchanged long letters delivered by the government agents.

During the past week masses of paper and effects belonging to Offer have been examined by Federal authorities. Among the effects was a box of iron crosses, supposedly the source from which the gay captain secured his decoration.

Offer is said to have about $40,000 worth of property in various parts of San Diego county, much of which is heavily mortgaged. He purchased the property with jewelry from the German exhibit, but Mrs. Offer says he insisted that she pay the heavy mortgages. These purchases included the famous Oesting Japanese tea gardens, some property at Imperial Beach, close to the border; some lots in South San Diego and some in San Diego. Although he is penniless now, it is alleged by Mrs. Offer that he has some boxes of jewelry in bond, to obtain which the duty must be paid.

WEDDING SENSATION.

The Offers' marriage was sensational. Following a police raid upon the apartments of Miss James at midnight, August 9 of last year, Capt. Offer and Miss James were taken to the City Jail and charged with vagrancy. The arrest was alleged to have been instigated by two mysterious telephone messages to the police. The day after the arrest the engagement of Miss James and Capt. Offer was announced, and their marriage was celebrated a few days later. The case was dropped without a hearing, but after the marriage Mrs. Offer brought three sensational damage suits. One was against Mrs. Laurette J. Hill, known as the "Red Widow," who, Mrs. Offer alleged, caused the false arrest of Capt. Offer and herself. It was alleged in the complaint that Mrs. Hill, through jealousy of Capt. Offer, had spied on the movements of Mrs. Offer and on the night of the arrests had asked the police to act. Mrs. Hill was sued for $25,000. Co-defendants in the damage suit were the then Chief of Police of San Diego, Keno Wilson, and the arresting officers, Detectives H. O. Fish and E. F. Schlitz.

A month later Capt. Offer sued Mayor E. M. Capps of San Diego for $25,000 damages because of a published article in which the Mayor upheld the actions of the San Diego police department in the matter. A similar suit was also brought by Offer against Chief Wilson and his bondsmen, E. A. Hornbeck and Harry K. Weitzell, for $25,000 for false arrest.

Mrs. Hill then brought a civil suit against Attorney and Mrs. W. L. Praul for the return of furniture belonging to her worth $299. The Prauls alleged the furniture had been given them for board for Mrs. Hill when she lived in their home. The case was dismissed from court. Now Attorney Praul is representing Capt. Offer.

The prominence of all parties concerned has given the affair unusual publicity. Mrs. Offer, the daughter of Mrs. Sandford James, is well known in Washington, D. C., where she lived until three years ago. She is the daughter of William James, a banker of Minneapolis. They are descendants of Gov. Bradford of Massachusetts and members of the Mayflower Society, the Daughters of the Revolution and other American organizations. For this reason, Mrs. Offer says, she wishes to regain her American citizenship.

Appealing to the Attorney-General through influential friends in the East, Mrs. James received a message saying she and her daughter are under the protection of the Attorney-General and asking them to go East to be near headquarters.

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE.

Defective wiring in the house at No. 1633 East Eighteenth street yesterday caused a fire damage of $1000. The property is owned by Mrs. Hattie B. Johnson and was occupied by Theodore Herman and Samuel Barnum.

Crying in the Wilderness.

DANIEL IN THE BULL PEN, PROPHET OF REGENERATION.

The Remarkable School Maintained Among the Prisoners of the Los Angeles City Jail, Where Hope is Born Anew in Filth and Misery.

BY OTIS M. WILES.

[Pictures by Himself.]

A RAT boldly strutted out on a pipe that hugged the ceiling of the bull pen in the City Jail and looked down upon a conglomerated group of human beings, even humbler than itself. Huddled around a long, scarred table in the steel-barred inclosure beneath it the rat saw faces that told many tales—unshorn faces of youth, faces furrowed by age, massaged faces of gentlemen crooks, diseased faces of parasitic criminals, forlorn faces, eager faces, hopeful and hopeless faces.

Those who were grouped around the long table were students of Daniel in the bull pen. In the dim malarial flood of a single electric light the facial mass sat in its sepulcher of filth with death-like silence. Most of the prisoners were exploring the printed pages of books for the first time in their lives. A few of them were past masters in things that are literary. Some were raking their fingers through unwashed hair in true poetic fashion; others were playing hooky by snoring sonorously on the rusted, steel bunks in the dark corners of the big cell.

On the outside of the City Jail Daniel in the bull pen is spoken of as J. Samuel Lacey; inside he is known only as Sam. He is the first person who has broken through the barrier of insults and naughty names, so often shot at ministers, Bible students, reformers and the Salvation Army by the caged jailbirds in the bull pen.

SALVATIONISTS BUSY.

Many have ventured within the City Jail's vista of prison bars, shouting, "Glory be!" and "Hallelujah!" in their feeble efforts to save the ravaged souls of the men who are caged within. The bravest of these crusaders is the Salvation Army. Every Thursday night the army rolls through the jail corridor with a rattling of drums, jingling of tambourines and a screeching of horns and voices. Such a charivari seldom passes by without awaking the bull-pen prisoners.

But J. Samuel Lacey, with a bunch of books tucked beneath his arm and an immaculately clean shirt on his back, threw apart the gates of the bull pen and walked into the mob of snarling men. Rats were scaling the dirty walls and doing gymnastics on the pipes above. Fifth and vermin were prominent everywhere.

The young man with the books and the clean shirt talked to the prisoners, not in the vernacular of Kingdom Come, but in their own dialect, and he immediately gained the confidence of every man within the cage. He had once been one of them—not a criminal, but a down-and-outer, who lived for many years on the shady end of Main street. He sold papers there, and he chummed with "vags" and "drunks" and men of the underworld. And now, as he teaches these same chums the three R's in the bull pen, they intrust him with secrets of their lives which, if the police knew them, would give them a jolt for life in the Big House, or penitentiary.

In the few months that the City Jail school, with Sam Lacey as its principal and teacher, has been running in the municipal stronghold, genius has sprouted up in the midst of its crop of human dregs of society. Poets have sprung from thieves. Essayists have blossomed from Main-street vagrants. Philosophers have budded from habitual drunks. Others have responded to opportunity's knock by gaining knowledge of penmanship, book-keeping, economics, stationary engineering, printing and designing and studies, which have since enabled them, after their release, to secure good positions. And many have returned to their old haunts.

STUDENTS GALORE.

In the jail school there are men of many nationalities, men who cannot speak English, but who are learning to read and write it. College graduates are studying political economy and history; a street-car conductor is studying electricity; a man educated for the priesthood is studying the history of the French revolution and of the nineteenth century; young men interested in book-keeping are being taught by an expert accountant, who is also a prisoner; a mechanic, 50 years old, is studying automobile technique, a prize fighter is reading physical culture; a miner is studying geology, and men from the gutter are reading Socialism, sociology and economics.

At the end of seven months 326 prisoners had voluntarily enrolled in the City Jail school. Seventy pupils, mostly foreigners, have gained a foundation of English. Forty of these pupils have been released and are now attending regular evening schools at the public high schools. One boy took all of the seventh and eighth grade in the jail school and was rewarded with a grammar-school diploma by Supt. Shiels of the public schools. Another pupil who studied sociology is now a prospering automobile salesman in the East. A third student delved into English poetry. He is still studying, but now in San Quentin Penitentiary, where he is serving a term for burglary. And yet another student, who studied philosophy and psychology, is taking a post-graduate course in a western college.

The City Jail school is conducted between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock in the evening, five evenings in the week. In addition to their school books, covering all branches of study, the prisoners are amply supplied with books of fiction and serious subjects, which are selected at the public library by their young teacher. A book never saw the interior of the local jail until Sam Lacey took it there.

FROM PLAIN "N. B."

Of the many prisoners who have written verses in the bull-pen, a poet who calls himself N.B. scribbled his thoughts on book margins and soiled scraps of paper and has strewn them around like chaff. The following brief verse was found on the floor:

"There are billows way out on the ocean
That will never break on the beach.
There are waves of human emotion
That no human mind can reach."

N.B. has been subjected to bad luck for many years. While in the Original Mug saloon he engaged a detective in an argument. He declared the detective was his uncle. The detective denied the allegation and swore he would be avenged for the insult. A year and a half later the detective arrested N.B. as a "vag." Later, N.B. was heard from in San Quentin, where he was sentenced for burglary. A few days before he left the police station in this city, he wrote about a dream of a black tomorrow; which came true:

"I lay me down and took my burden for a pillow,
I fell into a dreamless sleep and worry closed my eyelids still.
I awoke on the dawn of a black tomorrow
With a heart that beat no thrill.

"A life that is struggling onward
On a road no human eye can scan,
Hoping and longing for freedom,
God's greater gift to man.

"So, with the pall of grief and sorrow
Lying heavily on my heart,
And the dread of another dark tomorrow
Bids from my eyes hot tears to start.
"Then, dear God, if Thou wilt but only
One prayer of mine attend,
Leave me not crushed and lonely.
Grant me one loyal friend."

EVEN FROM MEXICO.

Inspired by the flow of poesy around him, a Mexican revolutionist, Manuel Delarosa, who could not speak English, wrote a verse which he copied on a score of postal cards to send to his friends in Mexico. This was his first lesson in English:

"I love the name of Washington;
I love my country, too;
I love my old, nice flag;
It has the red, white and blue."

"Lanigan," a poet, whose brilliancy astounded members of the school department, was arrested with twenty other hobos in the Los Angeles River bed last spring. He was sentenced to serve sixty days in the City Jail for vagrancy. He penned the poem, "Dreams of the Gutter," in the bull-pen. But now he has dropped out of sight, to be picked up as a hobo in some other part of the country.

After some of the pupils had been expelled from the jail at the end of their sentences, they wrote letters to Sam Lacey, expressing their thanks for his efforts to remodel their lives.

"In looking back over the months which I spent there," wrote one, "and during which I came in contact with the work, I can see the gradual change in the attitude of the boys from one of suspicion and armed neutrality, if not open hostility, to the present attitude of friendliness and confidence.

"In my own case I had reached a point of utter disgust mixed with a growing indifference to the future. I joined the class merely for relaxation and temporary forgetfulness. The books did not fill my need. I asked for others. They aroused old interests and ambitions, and at the psychological moment the idea was suggested that I continue my reading at a local college with the further object of turning my acquirements to some good purpose. You know how well this has worked out so far, and even if it does not lead to all I hope, it has at any rate given me the chance to remake my life which is sufficient compensation in itself."

O'Reilly—men have but one name in jail—is a college graduate. But that did not keep him out of jail. While there he wrote:

GOOD INFLUENCE.

"The school at the City Jail has a forceful influence for good on those who have had a good raising. It makes them think that, though temporarily disgraced, the community at large is not their enemy. The influence of the school will be the means of bringing its attendants back to the path of rectitude. In this place a person thinks a lot of the past, and the reading of good books will certainly help one to have better thoughts and hopes for the future.

"I see men come here at first in a spirit of levity to pass the time away, but after a few nights they take a different view of it, and "those who come to scoff remain to pray."

O'Hara was a trusty in the East Side Jail, where he was sentenced on a battery charge, when he wrote the following:

"I fear the wise men and sages of this so-called advanced era do not fully appreciate the goodness and whole-heartedness of these men, confined beyond prison bars. Were they to mingle with them day after day as I do, they might be more apt to realize that prisoners, after all, are but human beings like themselves.

"Should these same aristocrats allow themselves to be judged by their own consciences, how many of them would be forced to change places with some of these same men whom they seem so anxious to condemn?

"Perhaps they were never cursed with an uncontrollable temper, an unreasonable ambition, nor again with the insatiable crave for drink. How, then, can they be expected to understand?"

THEIR FAVORITES.

A census recently was taken of the jail school attendants to determine the class of literature that is most popular with criminals. The results proved that dogs are the chosen friends of those who violate and evade the law. Of the number of prisoners who had read library books during their imprisonment, twenty chose London's "Call of the Wild" as their favorite; Power's "Chip of the Flying U," 19; London's "Sea Wolf," 18; Connor's "Patrol of the Sun Dance Trail," 18; Willsie's "Still Jim," 16; Tarkington's "Gentleman from Indiana," 15; Beach's "Rainbow's End," 15; White's "Sign at Six," 15; Tarkington's "Turmoil," 14; Tarkington's "Conquest of Canaan," 14; Wister's "Virginian," 13.

Inspirations are many and of curious character in the bull-pen. One prisoner selected a louse on his bunk as an inspiration for a p

"GOLD MEDAL" FURNITURE
Direct to You from Our Factory

To be able to buy furniture direct from the factory salesfloor and carpets and rugs from the jobber, is in itself, remarkable.

But to be able to buy furniture from the builder which has received the highest stamp of approval critics can bestow upon it; and that in competition with all the world—that is, indeed, astounding.

That's just exactly what you can now do—right here in Los Angeles—by coming to the big Peck and Hills factory, just outside the high rent zone, and choosing your own furniture AT FACTORY PRICES.

P. and H. furniture, which is the foremost proponent of artistic ideals and conscientious workmanship as applied to the furniture crafter's art, received the Gold Medal at the World's Fair in San Francisco in 1915.

Authoritative Military Book

BY CAPT. A. L. JAMES, JR.

Compiled for Red-Blooded Americans

ENTITLED

SELECTIVE SERVICE MANUAL

Of Special Interest to Those Subject to Call

Captain James' Manual tells the important things the soldier MUST know and it explains the proper and easiest way to perform his duties—the identical methods used at West Point.

Every man in the country subject to selective service can facilitate Uncle Sam's big work by reading and studying this authoritative Manual before being actually called. It will place him in line for quicker promotion and will eliminate the necessity of much tedious initial instruction.

It is full of the MOST NECESSARY INFORMATION covering the entire military field. For instance, it tells how to get in condition—the study of drills and codes—what to do after reporting for duty—discipline—physical training in all its branches—elementary infantry and cavalry drills—commands—salutes—care of horses—clothing—signaling—munitions—penetration of rifle bullets—what to do when under fire—and a mass of other extremely useful information. Furthermore it is profusely illustrated with actual photographs and sketches which clearly show every phase of the subjects under discussion.

WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLUBS.

WHEN it comes to banquets, masculinity has always felt superior, especially in the matter of official banquets, which they have always regarded as their particular prerogative. Wherefore, the fact that Los Angeles' banquet to the Belgian commission was exclusively in the hands of women and that the Associated Press representative, who traveled with them and had sampled banquets in all cities, declared that ours was not only beyond criticism, but enjoyed a general tone and atmosphere which placed it among the very aristocracy of banquets, is a matter for feminine congratulation.

Mrs. Oliver P. Bryant is given credit for the larger share of the responsibility for this highly successful international banquet, but the whole committee worked harmoniously to that end, and Mrs. A. C. Bilicke, Mrs. John Treanor, Mrs. Mathew Robertson, Mrs. E. E. Leighton, Mrs. John Lynch, Mrs. Frank Gibson, Mrs. J. Powers Flint, Mrs. Seeley Mudd, Mrs. Fred W. Wood and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, all of whom had charge of various departments of the entertainment, are entitled to the congratulations of the city.

By the way, Mrs. Edward Doheny contributed half the cost of those sumptuous decorations, too.

Woman's City Club.

The constructive work of the Y.M.C.A. in the military camps will be the subject of the programme at the Woman's City Club tomorrow, when F. A. McCarl, western representative of the war work council of the Y.M.C.A., will be the speaker. The meeting will be in Blanchard Hall, luncheon being served at noon. The programme opens at 1 p.m.

Friday Morning Club.

The energy of the Friday Club is unquenchable. Vacation time to them appears to be but an opportunity for more kinds of work. Now they have decided that they are born theatrical producers, or something of the kind, and intend turning their talents in this direction towards raising war funds.

Wherefore, the Friday Club's auditorium will be the scene of an all-star vaudeville entertainment next Friday afternoon, the 27th. Their list of stars would bankrupt the Orpheum circuit; positively nobody was too distinguished to donate their services to this event. Douglas Fairbanks, Myrtle Gonzales, Lois Weber, Viola Yorba, Ernest Martinez, Baroness de Vidal Hundt, Agnes Buisseret, Margaret McKee, Will Crescy, Louis Curtiss, Baby Mary Mayer, Kathleen Clifford and the Lincoln High School orchestra will all lend eclat to that stylish "bill" in which Douglas Fairbanks will delight with a monologue, Myrtle Gonzales will tell short stories and the celebrated dancers, singers and musicians will exhibit of their best.

The committee which is proving so adept in management and persuasiveness includes Mrs. A. W. Francisco, Mrs. E. R. Brainerd and Mrs. Richard Crescy.

Modern Drama Players.

A war benefit performance is to be given in the Y.W.C.A. auditorium, Thursday evening, by the Modern Drama Players, under the direction of Eugene Powers. Two playlets, entitled, respectively, "Ten O'Clock" and "Drifted Apart," will be presented, in addition to a good concert programme. The performance will be given under the auspices of the Los Angeles Red Cross Association and the Y.W.C.A.

Chautauqua.

The early demise of the Chautauqua is to be mourned. They had such fine programmes, such first-class speakers—but the troubled times, the hot weather and so many other things contributed to lack of interest.

With the exception of Mme. Schumann-Heink, Mrs. Lillian Goldsmith had the best audience of the Chautauqua's brief life, perhaps because her subject, "Poetry and the War," held a direct appeal to prevailing emotions. Her reading of Kipling's "Mary Posgate"—that story of a gentle spinster who was turned into the bitterest of raging, merciless haters by the war, was most dramatically impressive. Alfred Noyes's "Forward," and Zangwill's "War God" made a tremendous appeal.

The Business Women.

The Business Woman's Civic Club will meet, Monday evening, in the Metropolitan Building auditorium, when a highly-interesting programme will be heard. The subject will be "Woman's Work in the Police Court," and the speakers are to be Deputy City Prosecutor Miss Margaret Gardner, and the public defender of the Woman's Court, Mrs. Nellie B. Pierce.

Order of Amaranth.

Los Angeles Court No. 4, Order of Amaranth, will give an oriental entertainment in Masonic Temple, tomorrow evening, for charitable purposes. Lantern slides taken by Ella Pearn while touring in Japan, Hongkong, Manila, Canton, Shanghai and Honolulu will be shown; Miss Kei, in costume, will tell Japanese legends; Prof. Ito's pupils will exhibit Japan's national sport; Miss Hayashida, accompanied by Mrs. Kiyomura, will give Japanese dances; Fred Tubesing will treat the audience to some magic, Miss Adelaide Munn will give a Denishawn oriental dance and Mrs. Elmer Riggle an Hawaiian dance, in addition to other interesting numbers. Wistaria, cherry blossoms, bamboo and the Japanese and American flags will also play their part.

Colonial Dames.

Mrs. Franc Ogilvy Wood of "Woodhurst," Alhambra, will entertain all non-Californian Colonial Dames at her home on South Granada avenue, Thursday, at 11 a.m., when they will be formed into a circle to form an auxiliary of the Navy League of Los Angeles. The business of the day will be knitting for the Navy League. A basket luncheon picnic will be enjoyed in the beautiful grounds.

Native Daughters.

Miss Hazel I. Perdue of La Esperanza Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, who in her capacity of District Deputy Grand President is known affectionately as "The Little Deputy," has again been appointed to that responsible position, both from Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties. Members of her parlor presented her with a tribute of roses at the last meeting.

Tomorrow, Monday, the installation of officers will take place and four candidates will be initiated. A banquet will follow, in charge of Past President Newhan, Vice-President Wharton and Selina D. Gibson. Miss Dorothy Hebel, incoming President, will have general charge of the festivities. Grand President Stoermer and Past Grand President Dr. Eva Bussenius will be present.

Del Mar Theater.

The little nature theater at Del Mar is becoming quite an established form of open-air entertainment and now has regular weekly performances. This week-end, for instance, they have the champion woman fencer of Stanford University, Rose M. Bennett, who, with her pupils, will give a unique exhibition of this graceful art. Norma Gould and Evelyn Crist will appear in distinctive dances, and Bertha and Katherine Fiske will present the story of Ming-Y, the Chinese god of porcelaine. On Sunday, August 26, Mrs. Mary Cable will interpret that diverting comedy, "The Marriage Game," after which there will be a high-class concert—all in the open.

Club Briefs.

The Ivy Club will not resume its monthly entertainments until the first Tuesday in September. Mrs. Paul Ridley is the new president and the club's headquarters are the Brack Shops.

Miss Kathleen O'Brennan, the Irish writer, is the guest of Mrs. Anne Zuker at Point Fermin, during July. Having recently talked with prominent Irish-Americans in the Senate at Washington, she proposes to give a public lecture on "Ireland at the Peace Conference."

The Community Singers enjoyed a programme of plantation melodies by Stephen C. Foster at their last meeting at the Cahuenga branch library, when Miss Keely and Miss Martha Caskin delighted with some solos. The programme for next Friday evening will be the patriotic songs of George F. Root, upon whose history Mrs. Leslie Valencia will give a brief discourse.

The Entre Nous Club of Boyle Heights held its annual picnic at the ranch home of Mrs. Charles Anderson at La Canada, last week.

WIDOW SUES COMPANY.

Mrs. Pherol E. Vieweger filed suit against the Los Angeles Railway Company yesterday for $50,000, basing her claim on the death of her husband, Ernest Vieweger. He died as the result of being smashed between two cars at Jefferson and Figueroa streets. This occurred several months ago. Vieweger was driving his automobile at the time and it was wrecked.

ALUM WATER FOR GRAY HAIR

Restores Natural Color

Simple, easy to use and gives quick, perfect, lasting results. Leaves the scalp clean, the hair odorless, clean fluffy and glossy, and restores the original color in shades either of light, medium or dark brown, or in blonde shades. Dissolve one bottle of ovelo powder in two ounces of water, moisten the hair with the solution, and while damp rinse the hair in alum water (two teaspoons of powdered alum to one quart,) then rinse in plain water, then dry the hair. That is all. It acts like magic. You can have your hair a beautiful natural color for the balance of life. Ovelo powder solution is inert, and always strictly harmless—a child can drink it. Ovelo powder is sold at drug stores.—[Advertisement.

POLITICS

The American Game.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF CURRENT POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

Ever since two extra Superior Court judgeships were created by the last Legislature, Gov. Stephens has been over a barrel. The law gives him the appointing power and he must make his decisions not later than next Friday. At first the Chief Executive thought it was going to be a small job, that he could appoint anybody and get away with it. Now and for several weeks he has realized that so much depends upon his choice that it may even be a most important factor in the gubernatorial contest. If he appoints a couple of goo-goos, which it seems more than likely he intends to do, his act certainly cannot be construed as an attempt to cement the factions he must have with him in the south if he expects to be a formidable contender in the race to succeed himself. If he goes into the Republican ranks and picks out competent men, the political effect will be in his favor. This can hardly be expected of a man who has been playing marbles so long with Hiram Johnson and other political renegades.

While more than a score of aspirants have been frequently mentioned it is understood the Governor has been giving serious consideration to only a few. They include Russ Avery, Kemper Campbell, L. H. Valentine, LeCompte Davis, R. W. McDonald and Police Judge Thomas P. White. That two of these men will receive the appointments is the opinion of all who have closely studied the situation. During the past few days three of them have been touted as more than possible contenders. They are Messrs. Avery, Campbell and Valentine, all dyed-in-the-wool Progressives, though they would tell you now since the Progressive party is dead they are loyal Republicans. That the Governor will make his selections from this trio apparently is assured, and what kind of politics would that be? Even if he makes as his excuse that he selected his appointees solely upon their merit, can he get by with it? He might if the trio were not so thoroughly discredited among the standpatters, the element which no doubt will completely control the political situation when the gubernatorial fight is at its highest point.

When the Governor gets down to brass tacks he may toss aside the whole bunch of active aspirants and name a couple of dark horses. It is my opinion he would better do that thing, rather than select Avery, Campbell or Valentine.

There is too much smoke around the Receiving Hospital to carelessly dismiss rumors to the effect that a new chief surgeon is to be appointed. A quiet investigation has been going on for weeks and enemies of Dr. Gilmer say they will be able to make an ominous showing if the Public Safety Committee of the Council will listen to them. It is understood the "dope" has been accumulated by two members of the police department who will take their story to the Safety Committee tomorrow. They charge incompetence and neglect. Dr. Gilmer is more or less disturbed over the activities of the investigators, but he has a standing invitation to the Council to visit the hospital and does not seem to fear. Members of the Council are noncommittal, but admit they have heard all sorts of stories about the Doc and will listen to them officially if they are made in that way. Dr. Gilmer is some politician and if they get him they will know they have been in a scrap.

There comes from the north a persistent rumor that Congressman Charles Curry is to be an aspirant for the Governorship next year. Curry knows the southern part of California possibly better than any northern resident aside from Senator Johnson, and through all the years since he was Secretary of State he has maintained and nourished those ties that bind him to a great many of our front people.

Another story that emanates from around Sacramento is that Secretary of State Frank Jordan is to manage the northern end of the campaign of Gov. Stephens. I don't credit this very much, for I believe Jordan will be busy next year looking for re-election as Secretary of State, a position upon which he appears to have a stranglehold. It is a fact, however, that there is a very cordial feeling between the Secretary of State and the executive, a feeling that has been nonexistent at the State Capitol for about six years, due to the very early and dtermined stand taken by Jordan upon the matter of juggling the Presidential primary laws in 1912.

A number of the Old Guard Republicans who have been living upon husks, politically speaking, for a number of years, are really anticipating a lively time next year. They believe that in order to elect a Governor of the State the element in control of the party machinery will have to come to them, as the balance of power, for they foresee a split in Progressive ranks. Much interest attaches to the manner in which the Progressive party leaders attack the registration on the first of the year, when new registrations will have to be taken. It would be folly to urge voters to register without stating their party affiliations, it is argued, for the making of the next State ticket depends upon the tone of the party registration fundamentally.

Owing to his mesalliance with the union laborites of San Francisco, Mayor Rolph has no longer been taken seriously as an aspirant for the Governorship.

Just wait until the fifth member of the Civil Service Commission is appointed, then Secretary Dee will travel the same road recently taken by Homer Hamlin. He would have been on the toboggan weeks ago, but for the fact that he happens to have two friends on the commission whose votes count quite as much as those of his two enemies. The fifth member will solve the problem and it is a safe bet that the new appointee will be no particular friend of Mr. Dee.

Since the rebuke given him several weeks ago by the Mayor when he butted into the controversy over the budget, Bessie Jerks has been quiet as a mouse. That is, he said nothing openly unless he has been able to use the Municipal League as his mouthpiece. 'Tis said five of the Council members, constituting a majority are really preparing to get rid of Bessie. If they do, we should worry.

Mayor Woodman is always on the job. He devotes his time to the big things and the other day when the report came of malicious destruction of parts of the aqueduct, he dropped all other business and went to make a personal investigation. If he finds that I.W.W.'s did it he will not hesitate to say so. He is not the kind of man to beat around the bush. He speaks straight from the shoulder.

The boys around the City Tax Collector's office who have not taken their annual vacations this year should worry. In another ten days, the office will be abolished and then they will get all the vacation they want. Here's hoping it will not be too long, however, and that they get in some other department of the city.

John B. Reeves still hangs to his seat in the Council. Some say only by a thread, but his friend, John Topham, says it is for at least two years. If there is anything doing in the investigation started to remove Mr. Reeves there has been no official confirmation of it, and his heart apparently is getting stronger every day.

Saving the Chestnuts.

No chestnut tree in all Switzerland may be cut down without a special permit, and such permits are not easily obtained, reports the Berner Bund. The Federal Council issued this order, effective on March 1, in connection with its campaign for the development of every possible native source of food supply in view of the desperate situation due to the limitation of imports by the German submarine warfare and other causes connected with the world war.

How To Overcome Foot Troubles

Unless a person has actually suffered with tired, aching, burning feet or painful corns or calluses, they cannot appreciate the misery that such afflictions bring.

Reports now show that over 90 per cent of the American people suffer from some form of foot troubles and modern footwear is said to be causing an alarming increase in this percentage. Therefore the following should prove of special interest to readers.

Recently in the treatment of these foot troubles by patients using Ice-Mint, these distinctive features were noticeable. Tired, aching, burning, swollen feet invariably become cool, easy and comfortable after the first application, while in the treatment of corns and calluses it was noticed that after a few nights' application, the corn or callus had a tendency to loosen and in a short time could easily be lifted out with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in normal, healthy condition.

This, together with the fact that Ice-Mint costs little and is so easy and pleasant to apply—and is absolutely harmless—is no doubt responsible for the high endorsement given it by Specialists as the surest, safest and most efficacious treatment for distressing foot troubles.

When you stop to consider that the simple, pleasant process of rubbing a little Ice-Mint on the foot at night will shortly rid one of every painful corn or callus and will keep the feet cool, comfortable and rested, even on the hottest days, it is easy to understand its great popularity and why it is now used in nearly every American home. Anyone suffering from foot troubles is advised to give Ice-Mint a trial. There is nothing better.

Cuticura Heals Itching Scalp

Hair Thin and Dry. Dandruff So Bad Could Be Seen on Clothing. Hair Fell Out. Used One Cake Cuticura Soap and One Box Ointment.

"About nine months ago I had very thin, dry hair, and I had dandruff so badly it could be seen on my clothing. My scalp itched and burned and my hair kept falling out gradually until I had hardly any at all. I had to wash my hair every week. The dandruff was so bad that when I combed my hair the dandruff fell out in large flakes.

"My sister advised me to try washing my hair with Cuticura Soap and then applying Cuticura Ointment, so I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. After four months was up I was healed." (Signed) Miss M. Lenora Irish, R. 2, Box 47, Deer Park, Wash., March 30, 1917.

Plan to End Wars.

the World Army," Section XIXa provides the method of raising and equipping the World Army by requisitions upon the several nations, instead of by assembling the troops de novo, or through original enlistments; the Supreme Government at the same time reserving to itself the right to take initial action in this respect. The section reads:

The Supreme Government, relying primarily upon the several nations composing the Alliance to supply the military and naval strength requisite for the common defense, shall not itself embark in the business of raising and equipping other and separate armies or of creating and manning other and separate navies, unless the combined military and naval contributions of the several nations shall prove inadequate to the requirements of the Supreme Government in the discharge of its supreme duty to guarantee the common defense and secure the adequate protection, internal as well as external, of all the nations composing the Alliance.

THE PLAN IN EPITOME.

[This "Epitome" is now published in compliance with an editorial promise. The words in brackets have been inserted since the first draft was made.]

SCOPE.

In its scope it is coextensive with the confines of the known world.

It provides a Universal Peace Pact—"a government of governments"—which shall be in name and in fact a World Government.

It has for its base and primary plan of union a simple, fundamental, straightforward agreement between the nations joining in the Universal Peace Pact, viz., that each pledges to the others not to go to war among themselves nor with other nations, and that they will not permit any nation or group of nations to go to war with the Pact nor to assail any member of it; and further, that no nation, whether within or without the Pact, shall go to war with any other nation.

It contemplates a World Capital, a World Congress, a World Supreme Court, a World Army and a World Navy.

It preserves, and does not destroy, the national existence, the territorial integrity or the independent autonomy of any of the individual nations.

The World Government is designed to be protective and [almost] benevolent, not oppressive, destructive, or a menace to the nations.

The Pledge of Peace ends wars for all time, and is a lasting guarantee against their recurrence.

This Universal Peace Plan, when once put into force, will thereafter end all unjust increase of territory through aggression, force or conquest; for only by "friendly purchase, exchange, cession, discovery or gift" can territorial expansion be brought about.

Provision is boldly made that the World Army and the World Navy shall be made adequate for the sure and complete guarantee, from the outset, of the world's peace, without supplanting the separate local military establishments of the several countries, which may thereafter be used strictly within the borders of each country, and for internal purposes only; that is to say, for the suppression of domestic insurrection and rebellion and to repel foreign invasion, if undertaken. [Such a provision would be found reasonable, just, necessary and expedient in the best sense.]

The several contingents of troops drawn from each of the national armies, and assigned to service with the World Army for stated terms, will march to the general rendezvous with their organizations intact, and under their own immediate officers, carrying the flags and arms of their respective countries, yet serving always under the superior authority of the World Government and of the Commander-in-Chief of the World Army, with the World Flag ever floating above their ranks, and over all camps, forts and fortresses of the World Government, also over its Capitol Building. [An all-compelling army, carrying a World Flag, in which the soldiers of all nations would be proud to serve.]

The World Army and the World Navy are primarily to be made up by requisitions upon the armies and navies of the respective countries, under stipulated and agreed methods for calling for military contributions for a world force constituted de novo. [An original and effective method of quickly raising a seasoned army and navy, without having to depend upon raw recruits or original levies.]

No nation is ever to be denuded of either troops or ships required, in the judgment of its own government, for internal defense. [A measure of undoubted justice, expediency and acceptability to the nations themselves.]

Partial disarmament on the part of the several nations, as well as on the part of the World Government, is provided for, to be made effective as rapidly as such disarmament may be found expedient through actual experience. [By leaving disarmament to the several nations themselves their confidence can most surely be won in the outset.]

A suitable seat for the World Government, an International Flag and a Universal Seaport are provided for; and also the effective organization of the World Army and the World Navy, to give them the necessary mastery, should force ever be invoked.

[No reasonable apprehension over the possible springing up of a rival alliance or other hostile combination need be entertained, because neither the inducement nor the provocation would exist; besides, no concerted effort in that direction could possibly win in the face of an all-powerful, all-compelling military force, embracing the chief powers of the world united in a Universal Peace Pact. The attempt would be hopeless.]

The World Government will take control of the navigation of the seas and of the air, make rules for the same, and thus prevent wasting conflicts between rival commercial powers and the starting of wars.

The World Government will, in the nature of the case, be adequately set on foot, organized, officered and financed, its seat suitably located, and its affairs so conducted as not to trench upon the reserved rights, the dignity or the national independence of any single power. [This provision will almost surely win the confidence of the several nations, and thus secure their adhesion.]

A World Congress is provided, to make laws for the World Government to enforce without interfering with the legitimate lawmaking powers of any of the separate states or governments. The Supreme Court and the Arbitral Courts will be invested with ample authority to take cognizance of all justiciable questions; and the World Government will carry into effect their decisions—by force, if need be.

Every nation that may join the Universal Pact after its original formation will from the outset be invested with all the powers, rights, privileges, immunities and prerogatives enjoyed by original members.

Every nation entering the Pact will pledge itself in the outset to neither increase nor diminish its military or naval armament without the previous consent of the Pact, acting through the Congress. [It may fairly be assumed that, under the organization here outlined, neither the World Army nor the World Navy would require enormous numbers or strength.]

The peaceful adjustment of quarrels between nations is adequately provided for through legal processes; and there is to be a Court of Appeals, with adequate powers.

The enforcement of universal neutrality laws and the complete protection of every national and international boundary line are guaranteed.

Relief, succor and aid for unfortunate, suffering or threatened nations or peoples are plainly provided for, thus making the World Government a great refuge in emergencies.

In purely domestic quarrels, insurrections or internecine conflicts within the borders of any nation, the World Government is not to interfere, save upon the formal call of the imperiled or beleaguered nation and people [unless such domestic conflict should become so formidable or threatening as to involve the Peace Pact itself.]

Finally, the Plan aims directly at so great an ultimate reduction in the cost of the respective military establishments of the different nations as to lift from them, and each of them, their insufferable financial burdens, and secure to them, and to the world, the priceless blessings of Universal Peace; and all at a cost bearing only an appreciable approximation to the combined cost of modern military establishments of the world, even in times of peace.

FURTHER COMMENT—RECOGNITION WILL COME.

This is the Peace Plan, drawn, as stated by the author, long before the outbreak of the existing unexampled war, and which, as reiterated in later published claims, is believed to be possible of adaptation to the practical requirements of the unprecedented case with which the civilized world will soon be called upon to deal. Even with the immense obstacles in the way of its adoption—which are fully recognized by wise, thoughtful and experienced citizens, statesmen and soldiers — the Plan will not be ignored by peoples and nations in search of universal and lasting peace through the practical device of combined world force.

[At first glance the Plan may give the appearance of creating a colossal military establishment the like of which civilization never saw, and of making war the main and dominant business of the globe. The contrary is the object sought. The Plan, worked out, will end wars forever.]

NOT YET.

But the psychological moment for formally, unitedly and practically effecting such a plan of peace as the one here again in substance presented to the public has not yet come, and no effort is being made to press the Plan upon the minds of men and nations concerned until they shall have been drawn away from the fields of battle to the forums of peace. Men and nations are wont to act decisively, not before extreme suffering, but only after it has been visited upon them—only after they have been actually overtaken by insupportable evils which can be no longer endured.

For these controlling reasons the author of this "World-embracing Plan to End Wars" recognizes the fact that the Plan must bide its time and wait for the coming of the psychological moment when it can be considered upon its merits by nations and peoples through their chosen representatives in a world-wide conference, and adopted (if adoption be possible) by a world-wide Congress of Nations, made up of representatives of each of the still warring nations, with participation by all neutral nations upon the invitation of the former fighters and the concurrence of the neutrals.

THE POSSIBILITIES.

Once set on foot, a World Government, originated along these broad and unexampled lines by six, eight or ten of the most powerful nations, together capable of commanding the peace of the world, would ultimately be joined by all the remaining nations, both great and small, for the all-powerful world organization here provided for—if created and maintained—would be able to guarantee, beyond the possibility of a doubt, world-wide and enduring peace.

PIONEER CALLED.

William A. Fruhling, Who Came Here More Than Thirty Years Ago, Summoned by Death. Started First Factory for Iron Art.

William A. Fruhling, a pioneer of Los Angeles, is dead at his home, No. 2045 Highland avenue, Hollywood. He came to this city in 1886 and established a manufactory of artistic wrought iron at 218-20 East Fourth street, the first business of this kind to be started here. The old eagle which stands at the entrance to Elysian Park and the wide-spread gates at Chester Place are among the first works of art.

Mr. Fruhling was born October 15, 1858, and in 1901 wedded Emily L. Huffman, whom he leaves, in addition to an adopted daughter, Mrs. Emma Nelson, and the following brothers and sisters: Albert F. Fruhling and Edward Fruhling of this city; George Fruhling of Houston, Tex.; Arthur Fruhling of Vacaville, Cal.; Bertha Fruhling of San Jose and Emma Fruhling of San Francisco.

REMOVAL SALE

Thousands of Dollars' Worth of New Goods For the Second Week Of the Sale Which Starts 9 a.m. Tomorrow

—It is evident that this sale is going to be a good sale to the end. It will have THE GOODS and it will not disappoint anyone.
—All week it has been constantly fed by new replenishments. And there will be more from day to day. We must clean away stocks already here and the undelivered goods which we had ordered as well.

—We have been asked why we are bringing in new merchandise in this sale if we are to clear away everything before we move.
—Our answer is, that there are still three or four weeks before we move and that this sale is the best advertisement we could get to tell people that we are GOING to move. At the same time we are making hundreds of pleased customers by the values.

—Please note the prices below. SOME ARE LOWER THAN THEY WERE AT THE BEGINNING OF THE SALE.
—This is only where assortments are considerably picked over. We do not wish any woman who purchased last week to feel that she could have done better by waiting. But we do wish to make up in savings anything that lacks in assortments.

—There has been so much added to the sale that by tomorrow at 9 o'clock there will be 1,963 suits, 1229 coats and 1497 dresses (more dresses than we had at the start of the sale). Make your plans!

Church Workers.

WAR SUBJECTS AT ASSEMBLY

Many Speakers Arranged for Bible Conference

Which will Open Next Month at Long Beach.

Junior Meeting is Innovation for Young Folks.

The eleventh annual Long Beach Assembly and Bible Conference opens at the First Methodist Church, Long Beach, on August 5, and will continue until August 25. Perhaps the finest list of speakers ever arranged for this class of work has been engaged, and war topics will be numerous.

Among those who have agreed to address the assembly are: Bishop Adna W. Leonard and Dr. H. H. Bell of San Francisco, Margaret Slattery of Boston, Bishop Francis J. McConnell of Denver, Dr. Carter Helm Jones of Seattle, W. F. Harper of Pomona, Miss Blanche Wacbob and Dr. Marl E. Smith of Pasadena, Mrs. Bertha Hagerman of Oakland, Miss Alice Jacobs of Chicago, Mrs. J. C. Roberts of Whittier, Rev. Joseph Clarke and Dr. Silas Johnson of Africa, Rev. John Headley of China, Dr. J. P. McNaughton of Constantinople, Rev. M. G. Papasian of Fresno, Dr. W. A. Phillips, general secretary of the Southern California Sunday-school Association; Prof. J. H. Montgomery of the University of Southern California and the following from Los Angeles: Mrs. Arthur W. Rider, Prof. John Hill, Arthur W. Rider, Miss Rose Scott and Mrs. Lucy J. Bassford.

Prof. Gage Christopher will be musical director and Miss Laurelle Latourette Chase, organist.

The assembly has been divided into three main branches. From August 6 to 18, the main topic will be school of methods; the junior assembly will be held in the Congregational church during this same period, while the great commission week will be from August 20 to 25.

The junior assembly is a new feature of the programme and will be in charge of Mrs. Rider. The course will include Bible stories and drills, missionary stories and a trip through cherry blossom land with a Japanese, and a social and entertainment at the close.

Dr. James A. Francis was to have spoken during the last week, but is now on the war front in France. The assembly directors have passed resolutions expressing deep regret at his absence and wishing him safe return.

The assembly and conference officers follows: President, Hugh K. Walker, Long Beach; first vice-president, Henry I. Rasmus, San Diego; second vice-president, James A. Geissinger, Long Beach; third vice-president, Henry K. Booth, Long Beach; secretary-manager, David P. Ward, Upland, and treasurer, C. J. Walker, Long Beach.

When and How to Salute.

[From the Plattsburg Manual, by Lieut. O. O. Ellis and Lieut. E. B. Garey, published by the Century Company.]

The military salute is universal. It is at foundation but a courteous recognition between two individuals of their common fellowship in the same honorable profession, the profession of arms. Regulations require that it be rendered by both the senior and the junior, as bare courtesy requires between gentlemen in civil life. It is the military equivalent of the laymen's expressions, "Good morning," or "How do you do?" Therefore be punctilious about saluting all regular army officers; be proud of the manner in which you execute your salute and make it indicative of discipline and good breeding. Always look at the officer you are saluting. The junior salutes first. It is very unmilitary to salute with the hands in the pocket, or with a cigarette, cigar, or pipe in the mouth. Observe the following rules:

(1.) Never salute an officer when you are in ranks.

(2.) Indoors (in your tent) unarmed, do not salute, but stand at attention, uncovered, on the entrance of an officer. If he speaks to you, then salute.

Indoors, armed, render the prescribed salute, i.e., the rifle salute at order arms or at trail.

(4.) Outdoors, armed, render the prescribed salute, i.e., the rifle salute at right shoulder arms.

(5.) Outdoors, unarmed, or armed with side arms, salute with the right hand.

Bible Lore.

[Baltimore Star:] The Queen of Heaven (Jeremiah vii, 18; xliv, 17, 18, 19.25) is the moon worshipped as Astareth or Astarte.

On the first cast in bait, in casting for black bass, the angler should reel in slowly for about five feet, then fast.

The Babylonian bricks were more commonly burnt in kilns than those used at Nineveh, which were sun-dried, like those of the Egyptians.

The "charger" of the Bible was a shallow vessel for receiving water or blood, also for preserving offerings of fine flour with oil (Numbers, vii., 79.)

When St. Paul addressed "Epicureans and Stoics" (Acts xvii, 18) at Athens, the philosophy of life was practically reduced to the teaching of these two antagonistic schools.

In the sepulchers at Thebes, Egypt, butchers are represented as sharpening their knives on a round bar of metal attached to their aprons, which from its blue color is supposed to be iron.

The least known of the apostles is Matthias, who was elected to fill the place of the traitor, Judas Iscariot (Acts i, 26.) It is said that he preached the Gospel and suffered martyrdom in Ethiopia.

"Booze" First Meant "Drink."

[Robert P. Ulter in Harper's Magazine:] The word "booze" came to us before the fourteenth century, seemingly from the Dutch, in the form "bous" or "bouse." At that time, as noun or verb, it meant merely "drink," and to speak of a gentleman as "bousing" his wine was not libelous or even derogatory. Somehow it acquired the added suggestion of excess and bad company, and by the time of Shakespeare we find it in glossaries of the argot of thieves and gypsies. The process may be understood when we think of the sinister meaning we often attach to the simple word "drink," which might conceivably run the same course if we misuse it often enough.

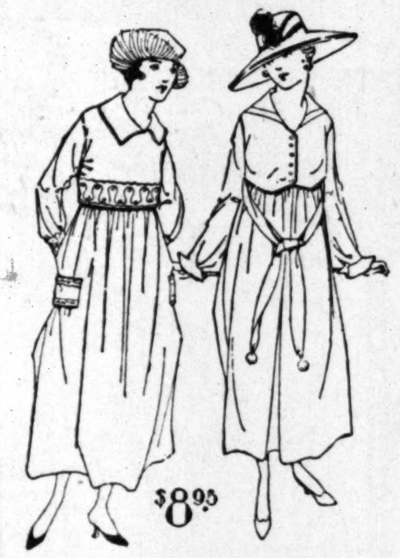
Lovely Silk Dresses $8.95--$11.95

A Disposal of Charming Models at Almost Irresistible Price-Savings

—And because they are such charming models, and because the prices are less than regularly, we anticipate a speedy clearaway of these frocks on Monday.

—Silks are being shown a decided preference by women this season, for afternoon and general wear, and these frocks which we offer are all new and fashioned in styles which have been deemed correct for present wear.

—New merchandise is arriving—more is on the way, and soon we'll need all available space for the display of Fall garments, so these dresses must go—and former prices will not be permitted to stand in the way of a quick clearaway.



70 Dresses at $8.95

—And in the lot are dresses of silk taffeta and messaline.

—Sixty-eight of the frocks were formerly priced to sell at $11.95 ,and two were $17.50.

—Nearly all are in the high-waist line effect. Some have a silk sash drape, others are embellished with silk embroidery, and many have pockets.

—The sleeves and collars are of Georgette crepe which is shown so much favor.

—There is a diversity of styles and colors—navy, Copenhagen, tan, green, Burgundy, silver gray and black. Various sizes.

In the Lot at $11.95

—There are 68 garments to go at this price, every one of which have been priced to sell at a higher figure.

—Frocks of silk taffeta, fashioned with good taste in models that will receive more than passing recognition.

—Thirty-six dresses were formerly $14.75. 10 were $13.95—2 were $17.50—7 were $18.75—9 were $19.50 and 4 were $25.

—About a dozen models from which to select—high-waist line effects, coat styles, basques and Quaker dresses. Nearly all have sleeves and collars of Georgette crepe. Many are prettily embroidered in silk. Included at this price are six dresses of wool jersey.

—The colors include rose, gray, navy, Copenhagen, also white and black.

Ooh!

THRILLS FILL BILLS.

MANY PLOTS AND MYSTERIL ON THE PROGRAMME.

"The Mystic Hour," "The Trail of the Shadow," "Forbidden Paths," "Come Through"—sounds somewhat spooky, doesn't it? Then there's "The Marcellini Millions," "The Innocent Sinner" and a dozen other similar titles of photoplays that are to be seen at local picture theaters this week, nearly every title suggesting dark plots and mystery scenes and crimes the very thought of which bring delightful shivers to those whose memories carry them back to the thrills first experienced upon reading "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," "Hans of Iceland" and other such tender tales.

However, the entire programme is not tragic, as nearly every theater offering a heavy drama has on the same bill a delightful comedy or an entertaining travelogue. In the deep blue azure of the universe of filmdom several new stars have been discovered and many scintillant luminaries have returned, taking their former places among their fellow stars and shining with the old-time brilliance, yet stealing no ray of light from their associates.

Among the old and new stars to be seen at local picture theaters this week are Lois Weber, Priscilla Dean, George Beban, Emmy Wehlen, Alma Hanlon, Herbert Rawlinson, Peggy Hyland, Vivian Martin, Sessue Hayakawa, Miriam Cooper, Charles Ray, Mabel Julienne Scott, Mitchell Lewis, Dorothy Dalton, Ben Turpin and many others.

Tally's Broadway.

"Caste," T. W. Robertson's "evergreen comedy" has at last been produced in motion-picture form and will be shown at Tally's Broadway Theater this week. Heading the cast are Sir John Hare and Peggy Hyland—the latter the bright star in "His Sixteenth Wife," one of the richest comedies seen in Los Angeles for many a day.

The story of "Caste" deals with the meeting and subsequent conflict between two sets of characters, the high and the low in English society, and it is said that in the picture, as in the legitimate production, there is not a moment's lapse of interest from start to finish.

Clune's Auditorium.

"The Hand That Rocks the Cradle," a story dealing with one of the world's greatest sociological questions—birth control—is the interesting offering at Clune's Auditorium, beginning tomorrow. This problem picture is a Lois Weber production, being similar in theme to her former cinema sensation, "Where Are My Children?" although the present photoplay is said to have been handled from quite a different angle.

The leading roles are in the hands of Lois Weber and Phillips Smalley, who are supported by a cast that includes Harry DeMore, Priscilla Dean, Wedgwood Nowell, Evelyn Selbie and T. D. Crittenden.

Woodley's.

Another big double bill will start at the Woodley Theater today. First—and best, if you prefer comedy to drama—there's a Keystone feature called "A Clever Dummy," starring the unique Ben Turpin. Then there's a real thriller called "Wild Winship's Widow," in which Dorothy Dalton is seen in the title role.

Each of the above attractions is distinctly unusual in its class. Miss Dalton, who has long been identified with heavy emotional roles, in this photoplay has a part said to be especially well suited to her.

Ben Turpin has already a big name as a comedian, and "A Clever Dummy" is said to be one of the most hilariously funny Keystones which that company has ever turned out. The subtitles are especially clever, is the promise.

The Woodley is coming to be known as one of the foremost houses in the city as regards diversity of entertainment, and the Keystone features especially are making the theater famous.

The Woodley seems to be making a specialty of summer shows, each week's selection of dramas and comedies being made with an eye to weather conditions.

Garrick.

George Beban, peer of character interpreters, is at the Garrick this week in "The Marcellini Millions," his latest Paramount-Morosco success. In his portrayal of the poor Italian organ grinder who becomes rich over night and then spends all of his fortune in learning how to live up to his social position, Beban is said to surpass his former impersonations in the leading roles of "The Alien," "The Sign of the Rose" and "A Roadside Impresario."

Palace.

Alma Hanlon, the feminine star of "The Whip," comes to the Palace this week in "The Mystic Four," a weird dream play in which the hero imagines he has murdered a man, and—but the Palace management requests that the story be withheld. The best plan for the reader to pursue, if he likes the "mystic stuff," is to go to the Palace and revel for two hours in ghastly ghostly thrills.

Quinn's Rialto.

Following the last exhibition of "The Whip"—which tonight will close a run of five weeks at Quinn's Rialto Theater—the big photoplay to start at the Rialto tomorrow is Rex Beach's virile romance of Alaska, "The Barrier." Laid in surroundings of wild beauty and unusual grandeur, this picture made a distinct impression at its first showing in this city. Manager Quinn will show this splendid example of the motion picture art at popular prices.

The principal stars of the piece are Mitchell Lewis, Mabel Julienne Scott, Howard Hall and Russell Simpson.

Clune's Broadway.

Sudden in business, sudden in love, sudden in the hearts of his workingmen is Sudden Jim, the hero of the story of that name by Clarence B. Kelland, the offering to be at Clune's Broadway Theater this week. The characteristics of Sudden Jim keep his friends and enemies on the jump and Jim himself has his hands full, but not too full to make sudden love and to suddenly win.

In the title role is Charles Ray, whose work in "The Pinch-Hitter," "The Clodhopper" and "The Millionaire Vagrant" will long be remembered by his admirers.

Miller's.

If you are one of those strict moralists who cannot believe a sinner can be innocent, go to Miller's Theater today or any time this week and see "The Innocent Sinner," a photoplay directed by R. A. Walsh, in which Miriam Cooper, famous for her work in "The Clansman," "Intolerance" and other successes, has the leading role. The play is said to be redolent of heart interest, comedy, pathos and "punch" scenes, and one of the best productions ever directed by Mr. Walsh.

Alhambra.

"Forbidden Paths" is the fascinating title of Eve Unsell's latest story, which, in picture form, is to be the attraction at the Alhambra, commencing today. The story deals with the love of a Japanese man for an American girl and the oriental's supreme self-sacrifice reveals one of the most noble and characteristic qualities of the Japanese people.

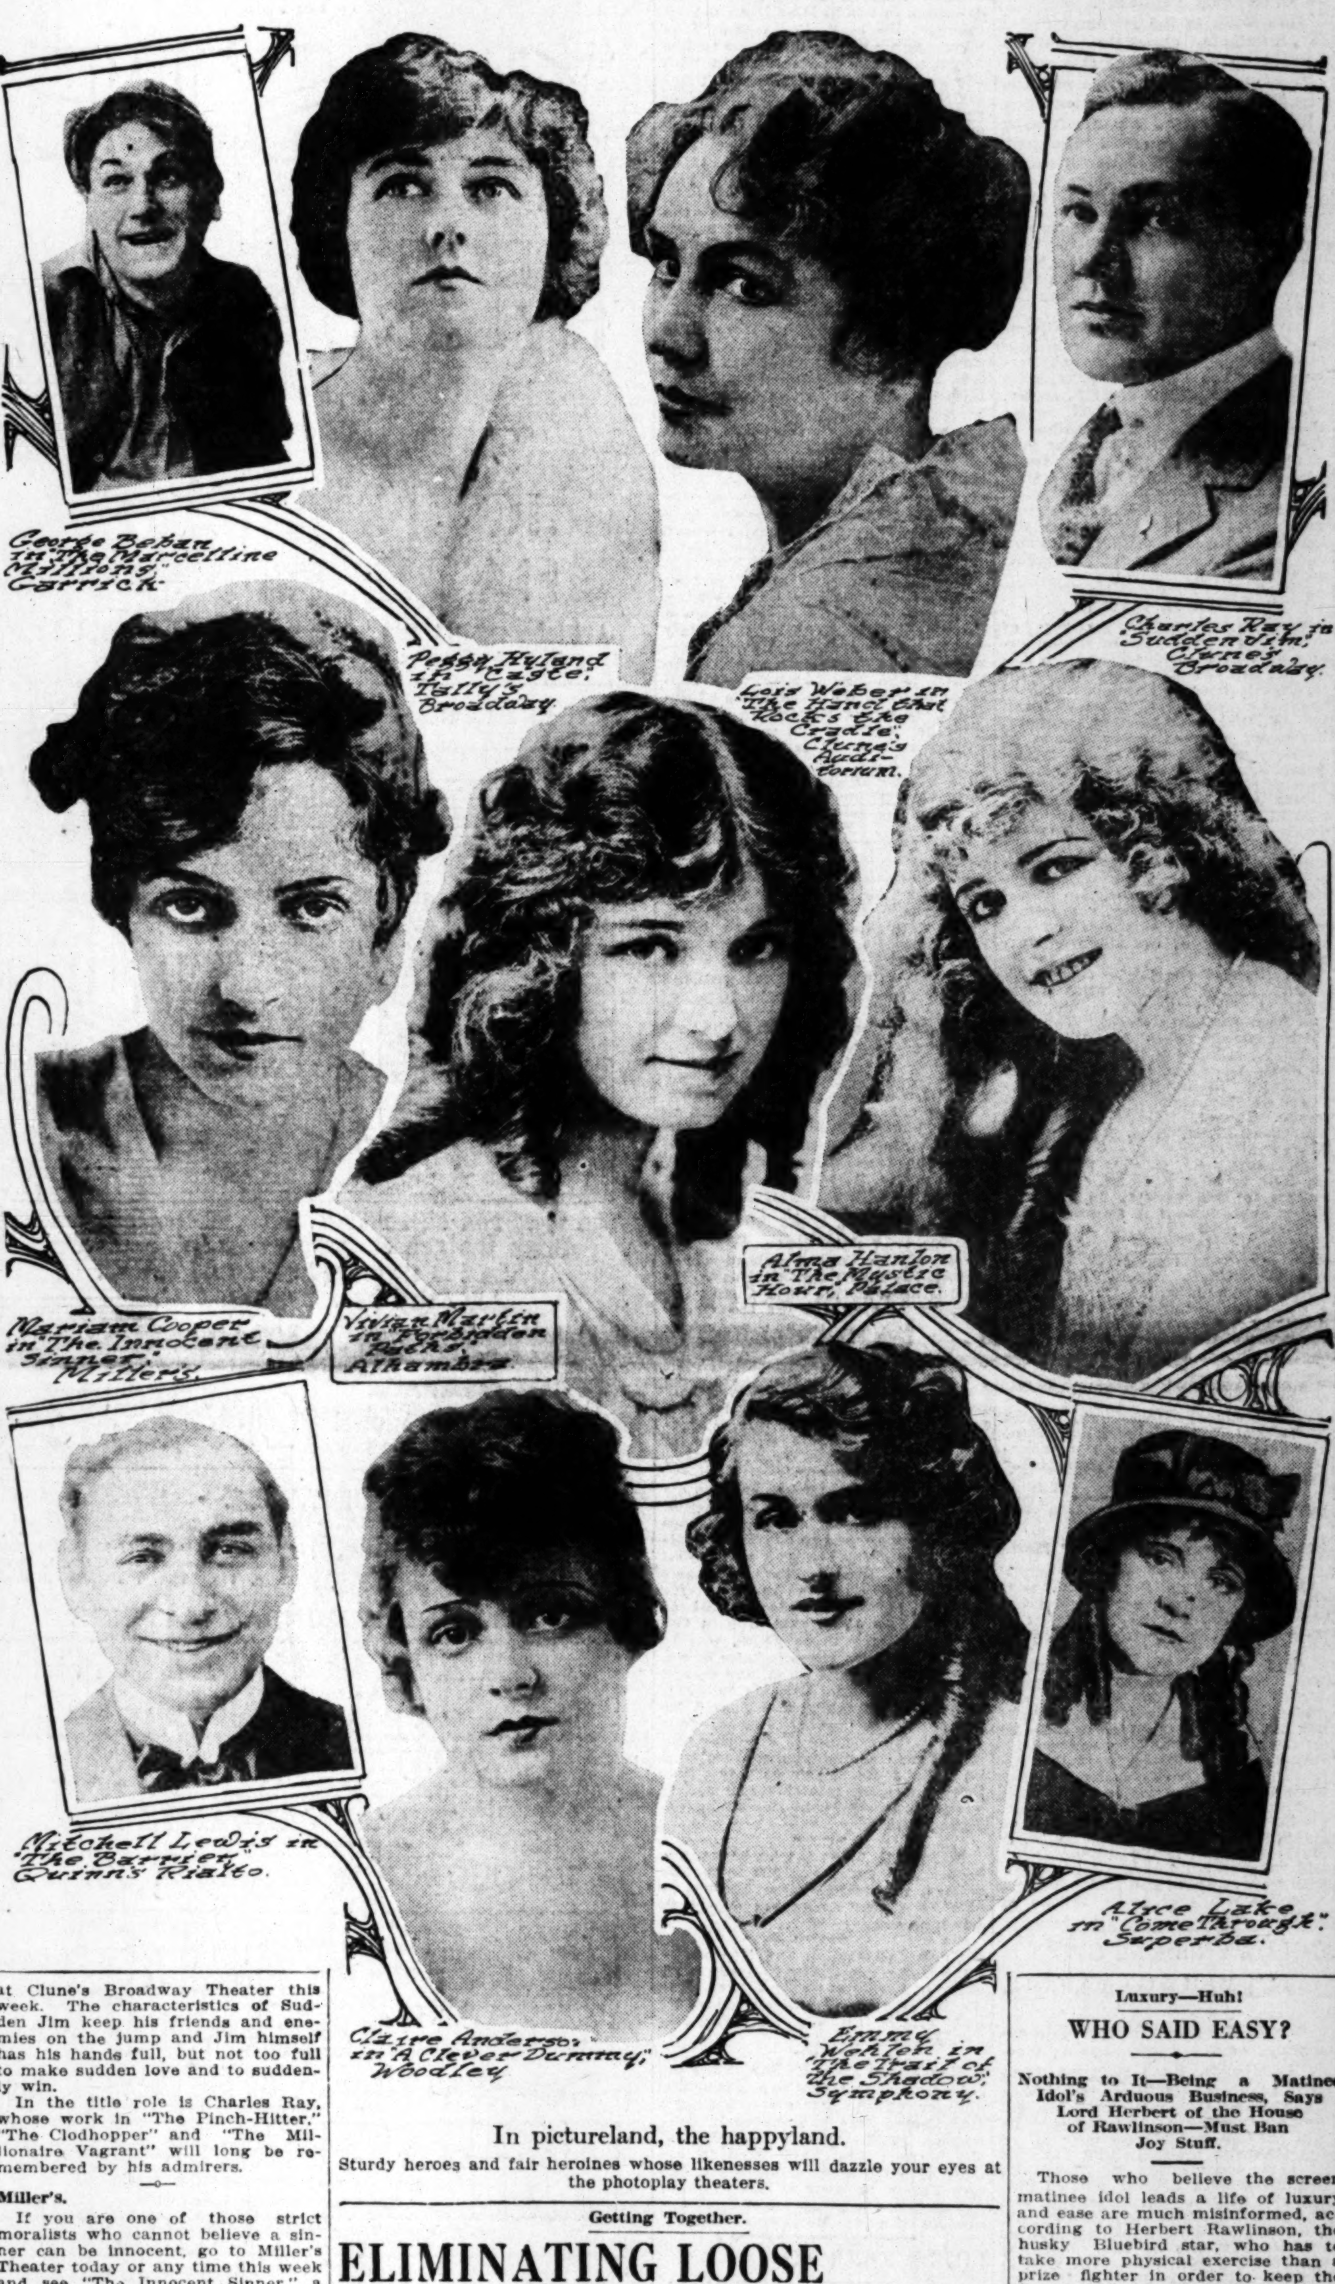
The stars of this feature photoplay are Sessue Hayakawa and Vivian Martin, this being the first picture in which the two Lasky favorites have appeared together.

Superba.

Because of the instant popularity which "Come Through" attained at the Superba, Manager Nathan announces that the big feature will continue this week. The story, written by George Bronson Howard, directed by Jack Conway and starring Herbert Rawlinson, has constant action, and sensational action at that, as its predominant characteristic.

The photoplay reminds one of the old "Diamond Dick" days, only that it contains better plot and a finer exhibition of the dramatic art than was usually to be found in the blessed old yellowback novel.

Every Bright Glance Means a Star to Entrance.



George Beban in "The Marcelline Millions," Garrick.
Peggy Hyland in "Caste," Tally's Broadway.
Lois Weber in "The Hand that Rocks the Cradle," Clune's Auditorium.
Charles Ray in "Sudden Jim," Clune's Broadway.
Mariam Cooper in The Innocent Sinner," Miller's.
Vivian Martin in "Forbidden Paths," Alhambra.
Alma Hanlon in "The Mystic Hour," Palace.
Mitchell Lewis in "The Barrier," Quinn's Rialto.
Claire Anderson in "A Clever Dummy," Woodley.
Emmy Wehlen in "The Trail of the Shadow," Symphony.
Alice Lake in "Come Through," Superba.

Getting Together.

ELIMINATING LOOSE ENDS IN FILMLAND.

CLOSER union of the producing and exhibiting ends of the film business seems to be the outgrowth of recent mergers and absorptions. At the same time the star system is flourishing as never before. Many of the brighter picture lights, and some of the lesser ones as well, now have their own companies.

The movement toward a closer connection between producing and exhibiting has been on foot for some time. It appears to find its advocates among the larger companies, not devoted to the featuring of special individual stars, but engaged rather in the process of making photoplays and films of all kinds.

Of course, there is the Sennett-Keystone company, which gives its time exclusively to the production of comedies, that now has its own theater in this city. Still, even this concern, some time ago, added a "special" to its programme to avail itself of the broader opportunity furnished by having its own house, and at the same time to draw more attention to its pictures.

The Universal company also has its own picture theater. Several other companies sell exclusively to one theater, and that theater exhibits only their pictures.

In a sense this business of the producing organization owning its own theater is a return to the leasing system, but with this difference, that when the producing company has its own theater the middleman, or exchange, is eliminated, and furthermore the company is placed more closely in touch with its public.

Coming from the opposite direction is a manifestation of activity on the part of the exhibitor to get into the film game. The new Charlie Chaplin contract with the National Exhibitors' League is an instance of this.

This drawing together of the producing and exhibiting interests is a natural result of the greater development of the industry along all lines, but, in particular, perhaps is owing to the effort to meet the demand for better plays. The exhibitor is probably better able to judge of what the public wants than the film producer, in the sense that he is more closely in touch with that public. The producer, on the other hand, by owning his own theater can place himself in the same position as the exhibitor regarding the conception of public taste.

There have been too many loose ends in the film business, and any move which tends to weave these into a strong and durable fabric will help to secure the future of filmland on a more successful basis.

Luxury—Huh!

WHO SAID EASY?

Nothing to It—Being a Matinee Idol's Arduous Business, Says Lord Herbert of the House of Rawlinson—Must Ban Joy Stuff.

Those who believe the screen matinee idol leads a life of luxury and ease are much misinformed, according to Herbert Rawlinson, the husky Bluebird star, who has to take more physical exercise than a prize fighter in order to keep the Demon Fat from getting a strangle hold on his pay envelope. He says:

"Those who saw what a svelte young burglar I made in 'Come Through' at the Superba during the past week little realized what self-denial and torturing calisthentics I have to put up with in order to keep myself fairly slim.

"National prohibition would mean nothing in my life, for as precaution against an ever-expanding waist line, I long ago passed up the cup that cheers. The scarcity of mushrooms does not worry me, for a smothered steak is not for me in this world. Potatoes may outrank pearls in value, but I shall not suffer, for they are merely containers for the insidious starch whose real name is avoirdupois. My day starts with setting-up exercises, then a run of two miles, after that coffee and toast, and then to the studio for hard work. Leisure moments can be enjoyed with a set of tennis with a couple of sweaters on, or a run in with the chest weights.

"I sometimes say 'what's the use?' and envy Fatty Arbuckle, who has to eat Gargantuan banquets and lie in bed in the mornings in order to preserve his much-valued rotundity."

A process has been perfected in France for applying colors to glass by heat, so that stained glass windows can be made without fastening many pieces of glass of different hues together.

A parachute invented by a Frenchman can be guided by pulling cords that draw in its sides.

He's Well Again.

NO JOKE, SAYS CHARLIE.

COMED'AN HAS UN-MERRY TIME WITH CARBUNCLES.

By Grace Kingsley.

After the most serious illness he has had in many years, which required the undivided attention of two physicians, Charlie Chaplin, million-dollar funmaker, last week returned to the Lone Star studios to again start his activities before the camera.

Although it was not generally known, Chaplin was confined to his bed for ten days. Now that he has fully recovered, save for a little weakness due to the siege, it is divulged that during the early stages of his ailment his condition was the cause of the deepest concern on the part of the physicians and the members of his company.

Chaplin noticed the symptoms of his trouble, July 7, as he was about to start work on the last picture under his $670,000 contract with the Mutual Film Corporation. A physician was summoned and after thoroughly examining Charlie, he detected two carbuncles in their early stages, located opposite each other on the comedian's million-dollar legs. Now carbuncles in the abstract sound like a very small proposition, but in the concrete case they are very unpleasant companions, and sometimes, as in Chaplin's case, dangerous.

Chaplin's carbuncles were lanced, and he was ordered to bed for a complete rest. Not used to this sort of existence and believing himself capable of remaining on his feet, he ventured out in violation of the physician's orders and the following day found him painfully, if not dangerously, ill.

Expert attention prevented blood poisoning from setting in, but there was much anxiety as to Chaplin's condition upon his relapse after he was apparently cured. However, he rallied, and two days of undisturbed rest found him discharged from the physician's care.

Chaplin has one more picture to make before he finishes his contract with the Mutual people. He expects to complete this production within the next three weeks. He will then rest for six weeks. The latter part of September will find him engaged on his first picture for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, with which organization he recently signed a contract to make eight two-reel pictures, for which he will receive $1,000,000.

Chaplin's illness, coming when it did, was one of a number of happenings which caused a cloud to envelope the Lone Star studios. The first blow was the sudden death of Mrs. Eric Campbell, wife of the leading member of Chaplin's supporting company. The following day Laura V. Austin, another member of the company, was seriously injured when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a street car and the cycle of ill-fate continued several days later, Edna Purviance, Chaplin's charming leading woman, suffering a nervous breakdown.

Gayety Garage.

The historic Fine Arts studio, birthplace of "The Clansman" and "Intolerance," has become a fun-factory.

With five companies ready to shoot and directors and people engaged for several others, the Triangle-Keystone comedy studio was officially opened this week in the old Fine Arts plant on Sunset boulevard. All of the directors and performers in the reorganized aggregation were with the old Keystone Comedy management and were foremost among the artists who contributed to the phenomenal popularity of the famous two-reel productions.

The five companies now on the job are headed by Harry McCoy, Charles Avery, H. Haymaker, Reggie Morris and Harry Kerr, and each of the directors has brought with him the players and assistants with whom he was associated before Triangle reorganized the comedy plant.

Silence is Golden.

Roy Stewart, Triangle cowboy star, claims the distinction of creating the most unusual Red Cross fund in the country. Before Stewart was added to the Triangle's aggregation of first-magnitude luminaries, he was Belle Bennett's leading man in a new western production made under the direction of Jack Conway at Hartville, the Triangle's ranch studio.

Hartville is populated by as good-hearted, but rough-spoken, a bunch of cow-punchers as ever bull-dogged a steer, but they sometimes forgot themselves in the matter of expletives while Miss Bennett was within ear-shot. Stewart held an executive session with the riders and laid down the law to them.

"Hereafter," said Stewart, "when one of you fellows swears in the presence of Miss Bennett I will make you pay a fine of 10 cents for each oath, and the money will be donated to the Red Cross." The cowboys agreed unanimously, but one of them sagely remarked: "You'd just as well take my blankety-blank wages right now, because I just can't talk without bringing in the whole royal family."

When last heard from the fund had reached a total of $20 and was growing at an alarming rate.

Thought it all for Fun.

A visitor was wandering about the Culver City Triangle studio the other day, and, pausing beside Director Walter Edwards's set, he remarked quite casually, "What a lovely fire there is over in that set! What picture——"

Edwards looked up and caught sight of the Dutch village in a fine blaze The visitor had thought it was a "prop" fire, until at that moment the Culver City fire department ran right over him on the way to the conflagration.

Looking for Bill's Goat.

A letter which sounds like a regular motion-picture plot has been received by that handsome William Desmond, out at Culver City.

"You are in great danger," the letter reads. "Four men have threatened to kill you. I will explain now. I happened to see and hear all, I had just come from the dock to see if any boats coming from San Francisco had arrived. As I was about to turn the corner I saw two men

MUSICAL.

Anticipations.

REPERTOIRE PRELUDES.

SOME APPOGGIATURAS FROM THE OPERA PLANS.

By Edwin Schallert.

Some hopes are entertained of presenting a few novelties in the operatic composition during the coming season. Two organizations are to visit the city, according to present prospects, the La Scala much enlarged and quality heightened, and the Boston National Opera Company, under the executive direction of Max Rabinoff. Nothing definite as to the repertoire of either has been determined as yet, but due consideration will be given in both instances to the matter of novelty.

Rumors have been afloat that Max Rabinoff will become interested in the project to exploit American opera, lately started by Reginald de Koven and his musical cohorts in New York. Should Mr. Rabinoff become connected with this enterprise he would undoubtedly manage the company that is to present the American works, and, as it is planned to send this company across the country, it would probably take the place of the Boston National.

As yet, of course, all reports concerning Rabinoff's season are more or less speculation. Rabinoff, as is his custom, will himself undoubtedly give out the facts immediately he has himself determined his exact plans.

Meanwhile preparations for the organization of the La Scala company are proceeding, Messrs. Berry and Behymer being actively engaged on the project. Mentioned as a possibility in the repertoire is "The Love of the Three Kings," which the Boston company gave so effectively upon their visit to the Coast with the Pavlowa organization. It is pretty certain the La Scala will have in its repertoire the Puccini operas, which attract the popular taste more readily than any other works at the present time in this city.

Los Angeles has not made the headway in the acceptance of operatic novelties that is commensurate with her development in other branches of the art. This is not alone the fault of the appreciation in this city, but frequently has been owing to the inadequacy of the companies in this matter. Still there is a poky conventionalism here that stands in the way of the enjoyment of many beautiful works that would otherwise be heard by the lovers of music. The public is just getting beyond the "Rigoletto" and "Il Trovatore" stage to where it can enjoy Puccini. After the war perhaps we shall have a little Wagner, which is, after all, the most superb of the musico-dramatic entertainment that may be enjoyed.

The chief prejudice against the Wagnerian works on the part of the public is the suspicion of extreme length. This has arisen out of the hearing of the afternoon-and-night performances of "Parsifal" and some unsatisfactory attempts at other works. The blue pencil is used very effectively on Wagner nowadays, not without the loss of much beautiful material, but the appeal of the performance is broadened.

There are many works of the French and Italian schools which would add spice to the repertoire of any company were they included, and during the war the French and Italian operas will be in the ascendant. It is interesting in this connection to note some of the new and less-heard works in the forecast of the Chicago company's repertoire, among the productions such rivals as "Fedora" (Giordano,) "L'Africaine" and "Dinorah" (Meyerbeer,) "Puritani" (Bellini,) "Ernani" and "Falstaff" (Verdi,) "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame," "Manon," "Sappho" and "Don Quixote" ((Massenet,) "Lakme" (Delibes,) "Pelleas and Melisande" (Debussy,) "Louise" (Charpentier,) "Le Vieil Aigle," by Raoul Gunsbourg, impresario of the opera at Monte Carlo; "Jewels of the Madonna" (Wolf-Ferrari) and "Francesca da Rimini" (Zandonai.)

Homer Grunn Pupil.

An exceptionally talented young pianist will be heard tomorrow evening at Symphony Hall. Homer Simmons, a pupil of Homer Grunn, will play a programme particularly interesting in modern novelties. Cadman's Sonata, Op. 58, which is gaining marking popularity, will be the principal longer selection. A series of short pieces by Debussy, Blanchet, Grainger and Ravel will form an attractive group.

Sings Farewell.

Mrs. Lucile Adams Howell was heard in a delightful song recital last Monday evening in the Majestic Theater Building. The affair was in the nature of a farewell recital, prior to Mrs. Adams's departure to join her husband, who is a captain in the Quartermaster Corps at San Antonio, Tex. Her programme included several superb Russian selections, and a number of pleasing ballads and songs in English. Henrietta M. Russell assisted as accompanist, playing several pleasing solos besides.

"Harmonic Analysis."

A very concise treatment of the subject of harmonic analysis is furnished in the book of that name by George Foss Schwartz, assistant professor of music at Illinois University (Richard G. Badger, publisher.) Mr. Schwartz, in his introduction, contends the subject is a much-neglected branch in the study of music, and expresses the hope that the volume may prove of aid to instrumental and vocal students in particular, and music lovers in general. He states it is not intended primarily as a text for harmony students. He has devised an ingenious use of symbols in dealing with harmonic problems, that is not overintricate, and is very effective.

Plays Rare Instruments.

Delightful old music, written for the harpsichord and clavichord in the days before the modern piano was thought of, will be performed on the ancient instruments themselves next Wednesday afternoon. The University of Southern California will present George Schoenefeld in a historical costume recital in the chapel of the College of Liberal Arts.

Mr. Schoenefeld's art, as those know who have been fortunate enough to hear him, is unique. A resident of Los Angeles, he has spent much of his life in study abroad. In Berlin he was a pupil of Martin Krause and in Paris with Marc de Lamux and Harold Bauer. The instruments upon which he plays are almost the only, and certainly the finest, of their kind in the West. The tone of the harpsichord is produced by a quill plectrum which plucks the strings, and the clavichord has brass tangents which strike and at the same time modify the length and pitch of the string. The recital will be held under the auspices of the class in the history and appreciation of music, conducted by Miss Mae Knight.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Solo and ensemble numbers of quality were presented by junior pupils of Vernon Spencer and his assistant and associate teachers yesterday afternoon. Demonstration of the ability of the talented children in original composition, theory, harmony, memorizing, methods of technic, and the playing of accompaniments formed an interesting part of the programme.

Mrs. Sallie Hume Douglas, a successful song writer of Honolulu, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. P. Buck of Crown Hill, and her niece, Mrs. Charles N. Ritteys of No. 1433 Edgecliffe drive. The Honolulu Advertiser of July 1 makes mention of the fact that the popular composer's music was played at the wharf upon the sailing of the steamer Matsonia.

Members of the junior class of J. Esmer Bolian recently gave a recital at his residence studio, No. 506 East Fifteenth street. The following pupils were heard: Anna Kelting, Mildred Losekamp, Oren Kelting, Dorothea Conant, Robert Rockwell, Esther Livingston, Henrietta Saulque, August Zurborg, Consuello Tachet, Mary Berecochea, Margaret Ernst, Rose Rotunni and Margaret Foster.

Sydney Hoben, musical lecturer, is on tour in New Zealand. He is to return to this country in October, filling engagements in Pasadena and Oakland, later going on to British Columbia. He won distinct success with his opera recitals in the Hawaaian Islands, where he spent about two months.

Following programme will be rendered by Walter Handel Thorley on the great pipe organ at the free concert at aTlly's Broadway this morning: Overture, "Merry Wives of Windsor" (Nikolai;) Canzone (W. H. Thorley;) Sonata No. 1 in F minor (Mendelssohn;) Barcarolle, "Tales of Hoffman" (Offenbach;) Fanfare (Lemmens;) Melody in F (Rubenstein,) and Overture, "Semiramide" (Rossini.)

PRETTY PRISCILLA, DEAN OF "TEEN" STARS.

Priscilla Dean, just topping her "teens" and occupying an enviable place in the motion-picture firmament, has had a most varied career and one that reveals an exceptional versatility.

Miss Dean is the youngest Juliet in histrionic chronicles. When scarcely 12 years of age this young actress appeared in the role with the famous Ben Greet Players, traveling through the South. She also played Ophelia in Shakespeare's "Hamlet." For four years she appeared exclusively in Shakespearean roles.

Incidentally it should be mentioned that Priscilla Dean went on the stage when she was 4 years old. Her first appearances were with Joseph Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle." Two years later she was with James A. Hearne's company in "Shore Acres."

After playing Shakespearean parts for four years, Miss Dean went into musical comedy at the Follies Bergere, now the Fulton Theater, with Henry B. Harris and Jesse L. Lasky. She entered pictures at 15, under the direction of Phillips Smalley, at the Rex studio. Then she was persuaded back into the stage work, playing on the road in "Excuse Me."

The Biograph company next secured her, and when the World Film Company put on its first picture, "Mother," with Emma Dunn in a stellar role, Miss Dean was also a member of the cast.

Then came a series of one-reel comedies in which Miss Dean played opposite Richard Carle and Tom Wise. Shortly after she came to Los Angeles, where she started in with the Nestor Comedy Company, playing with Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran. She appeared in one drama with Harry Carey, and then, coming under the discerning eye of Lois Weber, she was chosen for the leading role in one of the latter's pictures.

In "The Hand that Rocks the Cradle," Lois Weber's great, heart-stirring picture, which will be the attraction at Clune's Auditorium next week, beginning Monday, Miss Dean has been cast in one of the stellar roles. It is a propaganda picture, setting forth in gripping story form one of the greatest sociological questions of the day—that of birth control, and in this momentous drama Miss Dean is cast as the young wife, whose frail strength is overtaxed by a repetition of motherhood, while her husband drifts gradually and carelessly into the outside world for his companionship.

INITIAL ROLE DOUBLE.

Leading Woman of "Barrier" Meets Problem at Outset.

Mabel Julienne Scott, who portrays the character part of Merridy Necia in "The Barrier," which is to open at Quinn's Rialto tomorrow, is enacting her first film role in this picture. Those who have admired Miss Scott's remarkable conception of this difficult double portrayal will find it hard to believe that this girl has not had any previous experience on the screen. She was selected by Rex Beach and Edgar Lewis, the director, simply because she was the ideal type in mind for the two girls.

Miss Scott was born in Minneapolis. She has appeared on the stage in such productions as "The Mummy and the Humming Bird" and "The Havoc," as leading woman with Paul Gilmore and Fiske O'Hara. A delightwul personality is one of her big assets.

GOLDWYN SIGNS UP FORMER FOX EXPERT.

One of the powerful and able executives of the Fox Company, Harry Leonhardt, has resigned from that organization and joined Goldwyn Distributing Corporation as general western manager. Next week he will assume jurisdiction over all of the Goldwyn branches and business of said organization in the West, beginning with Denver and including the Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles offices. In signing Mr. Leonhardt, Goldwyn brings into its organization one of the strongest personalities identified with motion picture salesmanship in the entire industry. Mr. Leonhardt will leave New York at once on a tour of inspection of the territories under his direction. His first stop on his trip through his territory will be Denver.

SOMEWHAT PERSONAL.

Gen. Pershing was graduated from West Point thirty-one years ago, and at once began active service in the Southwest. Since that time he has seen as much field duty as was possible for an American officer during three decades when the United States remained at peace, with the exception of the brief unpleasantness with Spain in 1898. In subjugating the hostile Moros every soldierly quality was brought into play, and, in addition, there were administrative tasks that required the soundest of judgment and the firmest of wills. The general is of Alsatian descent and was born in Missouri.

To have been for two years one of the personal bodyguards of the Emperor of Germany in the imperial palace at Berlin is the distinction that belongs to Gus May, sergeant in the First Minnesota Field Artillery, who enlisted in Minneapolis and is now at Fort Snelling. May, who was born in Hamburg, Germany, twenty-six years ago, has seen service in every branch of the Kaiser's military service and it was because of his versatile knowledge of the various military branches that caused his promotion from a marine to a corporal in the Imperial Guard Corps in 1903.

Vassar's first "war bride" is Miss Doris Eno Drummer of Hamburg, N. Y., who married George Ray, a prominent business man of that city and a member of the Officers' Reserve Corps. She immediately obtained from the faculty in a separate meeting ten days' leave of absence, with permission to return after her wedding and complete her college course. It is the first time in the history of Vassar College that a student has been permitted to leave to be married and to return to finish her course.

Just before graduating last June as honor man at the Harrisburg (Pa.) Technical High School, modest John Watchman disappeared, leaving a note that he could not stand "all this raving about being at the head of any class." A few days ago his parents received a letter which said only: "I am with the British army in France."

The Rev. Fred Hasskast is the new pastor of the St. John's German Lutheran Church of Bridgeton, N. J. His first month was a regular "joy ride," for he was graduated from a theological seminary, ordained to the ministry, registered for conscription, installed as the pastor, and then, to make the record really worth while, he married Miss Flora Greenagle of Rochester, N. Y.

Representative "Nick" Longworth's bald pate looks like the dome of the Capitol behind a red sunset, his fellow-members say. He spends most of his time during the recesses playing golf at the Chevy Chase Club and doesn't wear any bonnet.—[Washington Star.

Ensign Vincent Astor of the United States Naval Reserve, who gave his steam yacht to the government for use during the war, is serving with the United States naval patrol in British and French waters.

Maj.-Gen. Crowder has been an officer in the army since his graduation from West Point thirty-six years ago. He managed to acquire knowledge of military law and was transferred to the Judge Advocate's branch of the service in 1895. He became Judge-Advocate-General of the army in 1911. He was in the Philippines for three years, was in Manchuria with the Japanese army, served two years in Cuba, and was in Chile on a special mission in 1911. When the new law was passed he was appointed Provost-Marshal-General for the purpose of directing and managing the great enrollment, and he will be concerned with the further process of selection and enlistment. He was born in Missouri fifty-eight years ago.

Miss Rose Lorenz, who began her career as a catalogue girl in an art gallery, now earns from $20,000 to $25,000 a year as an art expert in London, Eng.

Uncle Joe Cannon and Representative Heflin are trying to outdo each other in sporty summer attire. Uncle Joe was one lap ahead today; he had clocks on his silk socks.—[Washington Star.

Mrs. David Starr Jordan is the local member for the San Francisco chapter of the American National Red Cross. She is working in connection with Chaplin Fleming of the Mare Island navy yard to secure at least 2000 volumes for the new library building at Mare Island. All sorts of books that will form the nucleus of a true library are desired.

LOIS WEBER TO GREET ADMIRERS.

On the occasion of the presentation at the Auditorium Theater next Monday night of the sensational drama dealing with birth control, "The Hand that Rocks the Cradle," the author and producer, Miss Lois Weber, and Phillips Smalley, co-star, will appear personally on the stage and greet their many friends and admirers. Miss Weber is one of the most popular of screen stars and occupies an enviable position in the motion picture world because of the fact that she writes her own scenarios, directs her plays and appears therein as star. As an added attraction Manager Dumond has secured one of Burton Holmes's best travelogues, "A Trip Through Yellowstone Park." Miss Jessica Dixon, who made such a favorable impression as a vocalist several weeks ago at the Auditorium, has been reengaged for next week.

Open Stock Dinnerware

While thousands upon thousands of Southern California people appreciate the tremendous resources of our China Department, there are undoubtedly many who do not realize how well we are equipped to supply their every need. This department is divided into four sections, which are described below. In the various sections are more than one hundred open stock dinnerware patterns, together with everything else in China that is needed in the modern home.

FINE CHINA ROOM—Here we display a great stock of Wedgewood ware with embossed classical designs; a table of magnificent all-gold ware; large stocks of Pickard hand-painted China, including old-fashion flower designs on Satsuma, pieces in Chamois finish, and unglazed scenic effects.

American Lenox Belleek is also featured in this section. This ware, in solid colors such as Canary, Powdered Blue, Lavender, etc., is developed in vases, bowls, service plates, salad plates, etc. Here are also several open stock dinnerware patterns by Minton, and hundreds of service plates by Minton, Royal Doulton and Cauldon.

CHINA DINNERWARE ROOM—This section is devoted to French and Domestic open stock China dinnerware patterns, including the newest American Syracuse China patterns "Gardena," "Canterbury," "Thebes," "Brittany," and "Rosemont."

PORCELAIN DINNERWARE ROOM—American and Imported Porcelain Dinnerware in open patterns occupy the greater part of this section. Among the featured patterns are Richmond, Pheasant, Winfield, Ardsley, Nankin, and Serab.

FANCY CHINA ROOM—This section is devoted to miscellaneous China, including Imported, Domestic and Satsuma China for decorating, Children's China in Royal Doulton, including heavy baby plates, Royal Doulton Ware Steins for plate rails, earthern ware tea pots, decorated covered rose jars, and fancy china for various purposes.

"The Three Romanos" sounds like the picture of an assassinated Caesar, but the act consists of three pretty girls who are said to be top-notch entertainers. Stagpoole and Spier are also among the featured.

Jack and Marie Gray are billed as "refined entertainers," and D'Armour and Douglas are gymnasts.

Hippodrome.

Joy and laughter will reign supreme at the Hippodrome on the opening of the new programme tomorrow. Zeb Zarrow and his troupe of gloom destroyers will appear in the headline act entitled "The Isle of Joy." This is said by the Hippodrome management to be one of the most nonsensical and withal cleverest cycling acts ever seen on a vaudeville stage. The Musical Lunds are also featured in a good musical act, while still more melody and harmony will be furnished by Mainsfield and Riddle.

"On a Country Road" is the title of an offering by William Morrow and Esther Joy, while Cloaks and Suits appear in a comedy satire called "A Modern Business Method."

Adolpho is said to be a genius of the piano-accordion, and the roster is completed by a mirthful pantomimic novelty presented by Leone and the Adeline sisters.

Good pictures are included on the bill.

Burbank.

This is the last day of "The Reed Case," the photodrama in which Louise Lovely and Allan Holubar are starring at the Burbank. Beginning tomorrow the Burbank management announces a breezy photoville programme in which the featured picture will be "High Speed," starring Jack Mulhall and Fritzi Ridgeway.

The vaudeville bill is said to be the best ever, headed by Works and Percival, who will present a potpourri of everything imaginable, including acrobatics, dancing, singing and clever conversation.

Happy Bob Fiske, "The Village Cut-up," is said to have a new line of cyclonic craziness that will make the audience sit up, while William and Welch are versatile entertainers of ability.

The Helm sisters do a singing and musical turn, and Rowns and Willis have a surprise stunt, details of which have been censored.

"TERRIBLE" ENOUGH.

Bizarre Effect is Achieved by Russian Dancer.

Theodore Kosloff, who is at present staying in this city, has an apparently inexhaustible fund of interesting stories as to his experiences. Among these is of his first appearance before the Czar, when he was only 12 years old. For the benefit of the Czar and the Grand Dukes, the pupils of the Imperial Ballet School at Petrograd give an exhibition performance in a tiny royal theater every winter, for the purpose of trying out the more talented members of the class. This is a great event, and preparation is made for it all year long, since it means rich presents for the professor whose pupils give the Czar pleasure, and expulsion for those who do not.

Upon this momentous occasion it was that little Theodore was to appear as a "terrible negro, with black face, big red lips and kinky hair," a slave to the "Pharoah's Daughter," which gave title to the great spectacle being produced. Just as he was to go on the professor, Mr. Gert, saw him and told him very emphatically that he must have shorter hair. There was no time to change his wig. However, the sight of a water barrel for purposes of fire in the wings gave Kosloff an inspiration. He plunged his hands in the water, hurriedly fluffed his hair up and, his music announcing his entrance, he picked up a basket of fruit and went on.

It was a solemnly dramatic moment. In the basket was supposed to be coiled a serpent which was to poison the princess. But the appearance of young Kosloff created a furore. He was greeted by gales of laughter, which did not subside when he presented the flowers. Not even when the serpent bit the lady and she died in tragic manner. The merriment continued even after the curtain went down. The professor demanded what role he was supposed to be impersonating, and the trembling boy said he was a "terrible negro." Then the Czar came to the stage, attended by his company. They had not yet ceased laughing.

For the lad had wet his wig in such fashion the water had run down in streaks, taking the make-up off in little stripes, giving him the appearance of a zebra. However, the Czar and the Grand Duke Vladimir saved him from any serious consequences by their pleasure in the unique performance. And thereafter for some time the young artist was given animal roles for portrayal.

"Sudden Jim" Centers Around Author's Own Experiences—Screen Version Stars Popular Charlie Ray in Role That is Sympathetic.

The millions of persons who have read "Sudden Jim," the story by Clarence Buddington Kelland, which first appeared in serial form in the Saturday Evening Post, and is now rated as one of the best sellers on the novel market, will be interested to know the character of Sudden Jim is written around the author, and chronicles a part of the life history of Mr. Kelland. While the author has been too modest to admit the fact himself, it is known among his intimate friends that Sudden Jim is no other than Clarence Buddington Kelland, the man who wrote it.

Mr. Kelland won almost instantaneous recognition as one of the most promising young writers in the country through this story, and the book is admitted to be at present the fifth best seller of current fiction.

Mr. Kelland inherited a lumber mill in Vermont from his father and at an early age assumed its management. He made a decided success in business and then began to devote his spare time to the development of his pronounced literary talents.

While some authors demand a secluded nook or library, where wordly events cannot disturb their thinking processes, Mr. Kelland does his writing in a little office adjoining his larger one within the lumber mill, and his flow of words is set to the music of whirling saws and the other noises of a busy wood-working plant.

The plot of "Sudden Jim" centers about the adventures of a youth who proves he is a chip off the old block by filling his father's shoes and winning leadership in an unfriendly community against business chicanery and the machinations of a corrupt political gang. Of course, he also wins the heart of the girl he loves.

The film version of "Sudden Jim," which is to be the attraction at Clune's Broadway beginning this afternoon, has Charles Ray as the star. Ray was selected for the title role because his own personality is so identical with that of "Sudden Jim" and the story was purchased by the Triangle Corporation particularly to feature the popular young star of the screen.

Hard Luck.

LOST HIS CHANCE.

Chaplin was Making Too Much Money in Films to Become Grand Opera Star Long Enough to Wake up Musical Baltimore.

Can you imagine Charlie Chaplin heroically strutting about the stage caroling a high C in the role of Faust? Can you see him as poetical Rudolpho in "La Boheme," as Manrico in "Il Trovatore," as amorous Romeo, as Rhadames in "Aida"? Still, the popular comedian not long ago lost another chance to be a hero by turning down an offer to become a grand opera star. It all happened as follows, according to the Musical Courier, which relates the story under the caption, "Uppercutting Baltimore."

Publicity and Advance Manager Baker of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, recently occupied the chair next to Charlie Chaplin at the Vernon boxing arena, Los Angeles. After being introduced to the famous film comedian, the other Charlie, famous publicity man, later hit upon the musical subject. The conversation took place between "rounds." Chaplin, be it known, is a 'cellist and pianist of no mean ability.

"Can you sing also?" queried Signor Gallo's chief of staff.

"A little," replied C. C.

"What is your voice?" asked Baker.

"I sing a little tenor."

"How would you like to spend a week in grand opera?" inquired C. B., his nostrils dilating like those of a bird dog on the scent.

"Oh, I don't know; never had much experience in opera; don't know many roles and besides, I've just received an offer of $1,000,000 and a bonus to make eight pictures, and this will take about a year."

"We would like to have you only one week; can't you get away for that brief period?"

"What salary do you pay? I'd like to do it for the experience," said C.C.

"Give you $1000; you sing twice."

"Why do you want me for only a week?"

"Well, you see, answered the San Carloist, "we desire to play Baltimore for a week, and I know of no other means of getting out an opera crowd there. I believe you could do it."

Then the bell rang for the fourth round of the fight.

DOESN'T MAKE THE WAY EASIER.

FILM ACTRESS CALLS STAGE SUCCESS HINDRANCE.

Thespians Have Much to Unlearn Upon Transferring Their Efforts to Filmland, Declares Miriam Cooper—Says Famous Screen Stars Prove Point.

Stage success is a difficulty, rather than a help, to one who works in screen plays, according to Miriam Cooper, star of the William Fox photodramatic sensation, "The Innocent Sinner," which is to be shown at Miller's Theater, beginning today. A player who starts his dramatic career before the camera has only to learn its ways and the ways of its actors, but one who has previously made a name for himself in the theater has to unlearn many of the things he has previously known, as well as learn all the new tricks.

"There are five picture players who are outstanding successes from the artistic and box-office viewpoints," said Miss Cooper yesterday. "They are the five most popular persons in screendom. And only one of them has achieved anything like a well-known name before entering the films.

"For that reason, I believe, the films afford better opportunity to one who devotes her entire career to them than the stage favorite. The former may not make so much money at the start as the latter, but she has the chance of achieving real success in the silent drama, and of elevating the art."

Miss Cooper is certainly qualified to speak, as she has appeared in some of the biggest productions in filmdom. She had the leading parts in "Intolerance," "The Clansman," "The Silent Lie," "The Honor System," and now R. A. Walsh's dynamic story, "The Innocent Sinner."

MAIL BY BIPLANE PLAN IN MEXICO.

ESTABLISH AERIAL LINE FROM CAPITAL OF COUNTRY.

This is Considered a Forerunner of Extensive System to be Inaugurated and its Success Causes the Government to Install Similar Service in Future.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONTEREY (Mex.) July 10.—According to information that has been received here the recent establishment by the Department of War and Marine of the Mexican government of an aerial mail line between the City of Mexico and Pachuca, a distance of 110 miles, is the forerunner of a very extensive system of carrying the mails by biplanes that is to be inaugurated in this country. Although the machines were bulit and are operated under the direction of the Department of War and Marine, the Postoffice Department is in charge of the laying out of the routes and other matters connected with the new branch of service.

The regular schedule that is now being followed daily by the mail biplanes between the capital and Pachuca calls for a one-way trip in fifty-eight minutes and it is stated that this condition is being met with comparative ease, notwithstanding the fact that the altitude that has to be encountered ranges from 8000 to 10,000 feet above sea level.

Each of the machines now in service are capable of carrying 500 pounds of mail, it is announced. The biplanes are of Mexican manufacture, but whether they are made from a new type or are patterned after existing machines is not known here.

It is authoritatively stated that the success of the City of Mexico-Pachuca line has caused the government to take steps to install similar mail service between the capital and the cities of Guadalajara, San Luis Potosi, Aguascalientes and Puebla.

MAIL ORDERS.

What amounts to practically an invitation on the part of the Mexican government for United States mail order houses to do business in this country is contained in a decree recently issued under direction of President Venustiano Carranza. Some time ago the government increased the duties on all goods entering Mexico by parcel post to a figure that was regarded almost prohibitive. The duties were double those levied on the same goods sent by any other means.

The new decree provides that the contents of all parcel post packages shall be required to pay the regular rate of duty as is charged on any other method of shipment, provided that no person shall receive more than one package of the same kind of goods in any one month. Where more than one package is received by a person in a month the duty is increased 50 per cent. on all subsequent packages for the month.

The people of Mexico have become large patrons of American mail order houses during the last several years. In normal times an enormous quantity of goods were shipped into this country by parcel post. The packages went chiefly to supply the people of the more remote towns and mining camps.

REMARKABLE PLAN.

If a remarkable plan which has been submitted to the Congressional committee that is now in session is carried out for the upbuilding of the agricultural industry of Mexico the government of this country will be in the market soon for approximately one million pairs of pigs, goats, rabbits, chickens and ducks. It has been formally proposed to Congress that the government provide the poorer agricultural element of the country with a male and female pig, a male and female goat, a male and female rabbit, a hen and rooster and a duck and drake for each family. It is estimated that there are about one million families that would come within the scope of the proposed free distribution of live stock and poultry.

The author of this original proposition is Rafael Nieto, Under-secretary of Finance of the Federal government. He is very much in earnest in having the idea put into effect. He admits taht it may be a little hard to purchase the number of animals and fowls that he believes would be required, but he thinks that this could be done by sending agents to the United States to fill out whatever number could not be bought in this country.

Torpedo Boat Construction.

[Indianapolis News:] Most people are familiar with the ordinary torpedo boat, a swift vessel of from 400 to 600 tons in displacement, carrying no defensive armor, but armed with tubes for discharging the deadly torpedoes. To counteract these wasps of the sea a type of vessel was designed of about double the size of torpedo boats, a little greater speed, and in addition to torpedo tubes, armed with rapid-fire six to twelve-pounder guns, for the avowed purpose of destroying torpedo boats. Lately all the great nations have stopped building torpedo boats, as originally designated, and are building torpedo boat destroyers. Recent engagements have developed the fact that torpedo boat destroyers are used almost wholly as torpedo boats. So they are really battleship destroyers. To defend the capital ships from torpedo attack the dreadnaughts and battle cruisers are armed with secondary batteries of rapid-fire guns from four to six inches in diameter. One well-placed shell from a gun of that size will ordinarily put a destroyer out of business, as the destroyers have no defensive armor whatever.

Wireless Telephony.

[Kansas City Times:] Necessity is the mother of invention, declares the Malta Bend Record, proving its statement by this: When the Wilsons were harvesting their wheat with three binders, drawn by a tractor, the noise of the engine prevented the tractor driver from hearing even the loudest shouts of the men riding the binders. A line of communication was necessary in order to insure safety of operation and so an ingenious binder rider established it of binder twine. A line of twine was run from each binder seat to the tractor and fastened to the hat of the tractor driver, who whenever his hat was yanked off knew that orders awaited him.

BETTY.

Lovely Bride Weds.

One of the most charming of the July weddings was that at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in St. James Church, when Miss Ethelwyn Gertrude Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker, No. 1125 Lake street, became the bride of Sidney Samuel Hyter, an attorney of this city. Though the accessories were of the simplest and only immediate relatives were present, the church appointments were exquisite. The altar was banked in green, with a tracery of delicate pink blossoms, and white tulle bows ornamented each pew. The sunlight filtering through the stained windows and the soft light of the altar candles made a perfect setting for the fair beauty of the bride as she was given into the keeping of the groom by her father. She was gowned in a coludy creation of filet lace, with a long wedding veil, bound to the coiffure with a crown of orange blossoms. A shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley completed the lovely picture.

The bride was attended by Miss Florence Thresher as maid of honor. She was attired in a fetching gown of white French net delicately embroidered in silver. A large lace hat and an arm bouquet of bride's roses completed her costume. The groom was attended by Vernon McCollough, and the ushers were Spencer W. Clawson, Jr., and Robert Walker Kenny. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Noel Porter.

Following the service, a party of a dozen, including the parents of the bride and groom, and their attendants, were served at a delightful rose breakfast at the Walker residence. Fragrant roses were everywhere, and the ices were served in real roses, while tiny baskets, formed to simulate the blossoms, held candles. The couple left a little later in a car which had been given to them by the bride's father. The bride wore a going away grown of gray rajah silk, heavily embroidered in blue and silver. A chic hat of the same material covered her hair. Mr. and Mrs. Hyter are now in Coronado, where they will spend a few days before coming back to Los Angeles for a short stay, only to speed away for a northern trip. On their return will make their home in the city, where the groom is associated in practice with his uncle, former Judge Leon Moss.

Mr. Hyter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Hyter, No. 1227 Lake street. His father is a retired banker of Weaver, Iowa. The bride attended Marlborough and has been popular among the younger set. Mr. Walker, her father, is first vice-president of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, and has large oil interests throughout the State.

Shower for Bride-elect.

An afternoon party which started out to be a bridge drive and ended as a shower, was given recently by Miss Frances Shumaker in honor of Miss Mildred Kemp, a bride-to-be, whose engagement to George Henry Cornes of Honolulu was announced in June. The invited guests were members of the Lambda Beta Kappa Sorority. After a pleasant hour spent at cards, the honoree was surprised with a shower of lovely gifts.

Flowers and refreshments were carried out in pink and lavender, with tiny old-fashioned nosegays for favors. Those present were the Misses Mildred Kemp, Aileen Lindsay, Bernice Sandstrum, Paulyne McKinney, Merle Harrington, Onorinda Haskell, Marion Demmon, Bonnie and Wallita Schreiber, Ruth Squires, Margaret Jarrott, Ruth Lowrey, Margaret Dalton, Irma and Maud Barker, Bertha Blackwell, Ruth Weston, Fern Valliket, Mrs. Gardner Walker, Mrs. Frank Atkinson, Mrs. Frank Lowrey, Mrs. Jennie Keen and Mrs. Evelyn Norris.

Announces Engagement.

A pretty luncheon was given recently by Mrs. William Maurice Duncan of No. 700 South Harvard boulevard, to announce the engagement of Miss Mary Harriet Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Forbes, No. 748 South Harvard boulevard, to James Hiram Mills of this city. The decorations were suggestive of approaching wedding bells, with cupids, turtle doves, hearts, and lovers' knots, predominating. The cakes were frosted with the initials of the honoree and the betrothed. Mrs. Duncan was assisted by Mrs. C. H. Thompson. Five hundred was played after luncheon. The wedding, which will be in the near future, will be a quiet one, as part of the family is in East. The couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

Hostess at Bridge Tea.

Miss Helen McWilliams of the Waldorf apartments was hostess recently at a patriotic bridge tea benefit. Miss McWilliams was assisted in receiving by Mrs. G. E. Fernald, Mrs. L. E. Meyers, Mrs. Fred Schaefer, Mrs. F. Goldsborough, Mrs. William Brandenburg, and Miss Mariann Young. With the proceeds of the tea, yarn was purchased, and a series of teas and knitting parties have been planned, where the busy maids will "sew socks for soldiers."

—o—

Back from North.

Miss Mary C. Kendrick, No. 1518 St. Andrew's place, has returned from a three months' visit in Woodland and San Francisco.

—o—

Mrs. Roberts at Long Beach.

Mrs. Dick Roberts, who is spending the summer at the Hotel Virginia, has returned from a week-end spent at Monterey. Her little daughter entertained on Saturday in celebration of her third birthday. The table was decorated in the national colors with flags and other patriotic emblems. Her guests were Betty and Virginia Weber, daughters of Mrs. Robert W. Weber of San Francisco; "Junior" Nielson, son of Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph L. Neilson, U.S.N.; the two children of Mr. and Mrs. G. Sanger and her brother, Bud Roberts. The favors were boxes of candy and rattles.

—o—

Dance at Del Mar.

The Stratford Inn at Del Mar was host at an informal dance yesterday evening, and a large number of week-end guests motored down for the occasion. The dansants have become weekly affairs, and are popular with the younger set of La Jolla, Coronado and San Diego. Yesterday evening the inn had as its guests the noted lecturer, W. P. Powers, and wife. Mr. Powers was the first man to introduce color process plates into Southern California, and has more than 300 exquisite autochromes, many of which he used in an illustrated lecture on Japan in the reception room.

Give War Relief Fete.

A lawn fete in the interest of Y.M.C.A. war relief work was given in the spacious grounds of Mr. and Mrs. John Robert White, Tuesday evening. The affair was under the supervision of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, with Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. Frank Hester, Mrs. A. S. Chase and Mrs. S. C. Packer as hostesses. The large tennis court, covered with canvas, seated with chairs and with a platform decorated with flags and flowers, made a commodious auditorium that was filled with hundreds of Glendale people, who had come to hear the splendid programme. The songs by Mrs. Herman West were enthusiastically received and she was obliged to respond with encores. Miss Zillah Withrow delighted her audience with her readings and interpretative dances and the Misses Alberta and Lorena Davis, who are mellophone and fleugal horn artists, proved to be splendid entertainers. The artists were accompanied by Miss Gertrude Champlain, pianiste.

To Tour Orient.

A party of Angelenos will sail from San Francisco Saturday on the Japanese liner Shinyo Maru for an extended trip through the Orient. Those in the party will be Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Young, J. Hoslin, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hollinger, Mrs. Anna B. Bull, Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Packard and others. Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hollinger will proceed to Petrograd, Russia.

—o—

Visit Pine Hills Lodge.

Mrs. T. T. Scripps of San Diego and her sister, Mrs. A. E. Halloway of Coronado, are making a ten-days' visit at Pine Hills Lodge.

—o—

At Hotel Virginia.

At a dinner party preceding the Saturday night dance at the Hotel Virginia, one table was taken by some of the young ladies who are summering at the hotel, including Miss Kitty Craig, Miss Coralie Duenas, Miss Yvonne de Ojeda and Mrs. Joseph L. Nielson; Elon Brown, Lieut. Zemke and John Henry Newton.

—o—

To Leave for Tahoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Albright, No. 618 Benton boulevard, and their two daughters, Misses Anna Louise and Catherine, are planning to leave for Lake Tahoe within the next two weeks. They will remain there for a month or so.

—o—

Mrs. Alex Schloesser is Hostess.

Mrs. Alex Schloesser was hostess recently at Sans Souci in Hollywood, where a war relief benefit was given. Her two little daughters, Julia Marie and Lillian Helen, were the center of many attentions.

—o—

Entertains Friends.

Mrs. John T. Gaffey of La Rambla entertained Mrs. Montagu Ward, Miss Albertine Pendleton, Mrs. E. Earl, Capt. Cantwell and Lieuts. Cantwell, Gibson and O'Connor and Tracy Gaffey, at the Hotel Virginia recently.

—o—

Dance at Pine Hills.

Yesterday evening a jolly country dance was given at Pine Hills Lodge, the proceeds of which are to be used for patriotic purposes. The lodge donated the refreshments and the music, the last being quite a novelty, as the musicians were Indians.

—o—

Marries at Home.

At a pretty home wedding last week, Miss Frances Fay Kirk became the bride of Williard Curd Reordan. The wedding took place at the home of Mrs. George Cash of West Jefferson street, and only relatives were present. The young people plighted their marriage vows under a canopy of white roses in the music room, the double ring ceremony being used. Rev. Ray Petty officiated at the service. The bride was gowned in white satin, with touches of silver, and the veil, which hung to the floor, was fastened to the coiffure with orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of bride's roses and forget-me-nots. The marriage was followed by a wedding supper, where the centerpiece was a huge wedding cake surrounded by white carnations. The place cards were dainty hand-painted affairs made by the bride's sister, Mrs. Carl Smith. Covers were laid for the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, Miss Etta Ray Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. George Cash, Miss Margaret Reordan, Mr. and Mrs. John William Hatherly, Miss Sallie Curd, Richard Collins and Rev. Ray Petty. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kirk and is a graduate of the University of California. She has been the physical director of the Whittier High School for the past year. The groom is a member of an old Kentucky family, and since coming to Los Angeles has been a buyer for Bullock's.

—o—

Social Evenings Continue.

Owing to many Union League Club members and their families being away on their vacations during July and August, the Entertainment Committee of the club has deemed it advisable to discontinue these musicales during July and August, resuming them in September. However, the dances will be continued and will be given tomorrow evening and August 20. A number of surprises have been arranged for the social evenings, commencing in September, with a view of making the club a center of social events and a popular rendezvous for its members.

In society's golden realm.

The Misses Albright are among the attractive summer hostesses. Miss de Ojeda of San Francisco, Mrs. Roberts of Madera and Miss Craig of Phoenix are all guests at the Hotel Virginia. Mrs. Schloesser, with her two little daughters, Lillian Helen and Julia Marie. Miss McWilliams was hostess recently at a patriotic bridge tea.

SOCIETY.

birthday of their son and daughter, Vincent and Virginia. Little Corrine Smith, who has reached the advanced age of 1, was a hostess in miniature. The kiddies frolicked in the garden and enjoyed all manner of games dear to children's hearts. Refreshments were served later in the afternoon, and the wee tots were taken home, tired but happy.

—o—

Bride-elect Honored.

Miss Clara Baker, whose engagement to Blair Haskett was recently announced, was the guest of honor Monday at a theater party and tea given by members of the Kappa Alpha Phi sorority. After the performance tea was enjoyed at the Alexandria. OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY

Pasadena.

MR. AND MRS. J. O. M'CAMENT of No. 201 South Marengo avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jessie McCament to Rex E. Braley, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Braley. The date of the wedding is indefinite since Mr. Braley is now at Allentown, Pa., with the Pasadena Red Cross Ambulance Corps and will leave shortly for France. Both families are well-known in business and social circles in Pasadena.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette has returned from a pleasure trip to the East where she spent much of the time motoring. She shipped her car from Pasadena to New York and after a short stay in the metropolis she motored to Washington and to Boston. On the return journey home she motored from Boston to Denver. With her son, Roy Bradley Wheeler, she is now at her Orange Grove-avenue home.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Frost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frost of No. 239 South Madison avenue, was married to Walter M. Boadway Tuesday afternoon at the First Congregational Church, Rev. James H. Lash, pastor of the Lake-avenue Methodist Church, officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms and fern. Yellow and white marguerites were arranged in little gold baskets on the balcony railing and Matilija poppies and other flowers were scattered among the greenery on the altar.

Mrs. Charles H. Wells, an aunt of the bride from Oak Park, Ill., sang a group of three pretty songs immediately before the ceremony, and Miss Helen Ropp played the organ, rendering the Lohengrin wedding march for the processional and Mendelssohn's march for the recessional.

The ceremony was witnessed by a large company of friends and relatives. When the guests had assembled the bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Frost and Miss Edith Boadway, preceded by the ushers, led the bridal procession up the aisle. Both young women were prettily dressed in gowns of white net over yellow Georgette crepe and carried lovely baskets of yellow marguerites with immense tulle bows. The little flower girl, Eleanor Boadway, strewed rose petals in the pathway of the bride. She wore a white maline dress with satin stripes and carried a pretty basket of rose petals and pansies.

The bride was given away by her father, George H. Frost. She wore a gown of white crepe du supple draped in the back with a modified Watteau effect. Her wedding veil, which had been her mother's, was caught over her brown hair in cap effect with orange blossoms at the neck.

The young bridegroom, entering the church with Earl Stirdivant of Hollywood, who was best man, advanced to meet the bride in front of the altar. The bridegroom and the best man wore white suits. The simple ceremony was beautiful. The bride and groom left at once for Princeton, N. J., where he is in training for service with the aviation corps in France.

Mrs. Luther Eugene Campbell of No. 834 Center street entertained twenty young friends Monday afternoon in honor of the twelfth birthday anniversary of her son, Luther Eugene Campbell, Jr. The house was decorated with flowers and a patriotic color motif was emphasized in the decorations and the place cards. The favors were small United States flags. Twelve red and blue candles burned on a white cake in honor of the occasion. A number of games were played. Among the young guests were Wallace and Robert Jayred, Robert Woods, Richard Palmer, Burnham Beckwith, Sterling Beckwith, Delos Rose, Lyman Curtiss, Perry Curtiss, Elliott Small, Curtis Small, John Weiting, Carl Weiting, Robert Limacher, James Dunham, Ivan Barnett and Edward Ney.

Mme. Laura de Gozdawa Turczynowicz, the American wife of a Polish nobleman, who is in the United States with a message from Poland, was guest of honor at a dinner Thursday evening at the Zulak on South Euclid avenue, with members of the Polish committee as hosts. Leading Poles of Pasadena were among the guests, including Mr. and Mrs. Romanovich, Rev. Thaddeus V. Jakimowitz, Mrs. Zulak-Maliczewski and W. Wisniswski.

South Pasadena.

A DOUBLE surprise party for honorees whose birthday anniversaries occurred on that date was a pleasant social feature of Friday evening. Mrs. B. B. Washburn and Albert N. Merryman were the principal guests and the gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deshon of No. 1724 Oxley street. The evening was featured by a musical programme, the principal numbers of which were furnished by two professionals—the host, Frank Deshon, famed for his interpretations of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, and Vincenzo Auriemma, operatic tenor, late of Naples, Italy. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Max Davison, Mr. and Mrs. Meater, Mrs. H. Snow, Miss Aloha Washburn, Mrs. Albert Merryman and Edward Wyche.

Five hundred was the pleasure planned on Saturday afternoon by Miss Iyuna Hansen of No. 1425 Lyndon street for a group of High School friends. Those present were the Misses Sara Cramer, Ruth Salisbury, Josephine Robbins, Katherine Patterson, Rebecca Patterson and Mary Doerr.

South Pasadena is now in the midst of the annual summer-time exodus to seashore and mountains. Especially popular this year is the Yosemite Valley. Local folk now there are Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Lord, Miss Marion Lord, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Filley, Edward Filley, Robert Filley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Treff and family, Miss Edith Newton, Mrs. I. L. Spencer, Howard Spencer, Richard Lindsay Spencer and others. At Balboa Beach are Mrs. J. W. Hinchcliffe, Miss Margaret Taggart and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schillinger and family.

Mrs. Mary Nelson of No. 1958 Primrose avenue entertained at luncheon Tuesday afternoon for a party of Canadian friends. Those present were Mrs. David A. Vail, Mrs. William Lawrence and Mrs. Bertha Nelson.

Fifteen friends were present Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. J. Fouke, No. 1017 Oliver street, to celebrate with their hostess her sixty-second birthday anniversary.

Miss Sadie Lillian Sering was the honoree at a farewell dinner given for her on Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Tyler. A group of old friends were present to bid good-by to Miss Sering, who left the next morning for Florida, where she will be with friends for several months before leaving to join her parents in their new home in Utah.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Knowlton of Duarte entertained with a dance for South Pasadena people on Saturday evening. Their guests at the ranch-home jollification from this city included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parsons, Miss Ruth Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Sheffield, Mr. and Mrs. William Geohegan and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schaff.

Miss Tillie Bauer, Miss Irene Salisbury, Dallas Speers, Hugh Mason and Jackson Fiske were guests at a Sunday-evening tea given by Miss Louise Macdonald of No. 1005 Fair Oaks avenue.

—o—

Monrovia.

THE members of the XIII were entertained by Miss Florence Sturgeon at her home on North Mayflower avenue on Monday evening. During the evening letters were read from Miss Marion Plummer and Miss Mary Woodrow, two of the club members who are absent, telling of their vacation trips through the eastern States. Miss Arline Slosson also told of a recent outing at Big Bear Lake. Guests present included Misses Arline Slosson, Flossie Blain, Jean Stelson, Matt Jones and Edna Whitehead.

Mrs. J. K. McLennan was hostess on Tuesday at a regular meeting of Chapter B.I., P.E.O., at her home on West White Oak avenue. Luncheon was served at 12 o'clock, and in the afternoon the time was devoted to work for the Red Cross. Guests of the society were Mrs. C. H. Anson of Chapter M, P.E.O., and Mrs. M. L. Hutchinson.

The annual picnic of the Presbyterian Sunday-school and church was held on Tuesday at Brookside Park in Pasadena.

Mrs. W. A. Chess and her mother, Mrs. James Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Chess returned on Monday evening from a three weeks' vacation at Long Beach.

A party consisting of Mrs. J. B. Robison, her sister, Miss Emma Moss of Colorado Springs; Miss May Robison, Miss Retta Blain, and Harold Blain motored to San Diego on Saturday and returned on Wednesday.

Mrs. Montague Graham and two children of East Olive avenue returned on Thursday from a two months' visit with relatives and friends in Sacramento. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Graham's sister, Miss O'Brien.

A picnic in Library Park was given by the O.E.S. Social Circle on Wednesday, this being the July meeting of the club, and the last until October.

Mrs. G. J. Woodburn of East Lime avenue entertained Mrs. Dan Jefferson and Mrs. E. H. Biggs of Los Angeles at luncheon on Thursday.

In compliment to Mrs. E. H. Biggs, who leaves soon for her new home at Lancaster, a number of women held a picnic at Sycamore Grove on Tuesday. In the party were the guests of honor, Mrs. E. H. Biggs, Mesdames C. V. Tuttle, Lloyd Fox, Ed. Bunner, C. Leist, G. Olson, G. J. Woodburn, and Mesdames Mark Lacy, Dan Jefferson, C. Cole and Miss Brooks of Los Angeles.

Sea Bathing Does Not Affect "Anita" Hair Waving

—Because the "Anita" method of hairwaving transforms straight hair into natural wavy tresses so lasting that sea bathing, shampooing or atmospheric conditions do not take out the wave.

—Wavy hair is both becoming and natural—Society demands a wavy coiffure. "Anita" hair waving is both fashionable and becoming.

During the Summer Months
Is the Most Important Time to Care for Your Hair

—And this is just the time that most people neglect it. Everyone is interested in vacations, in pleasure seeking — and naturally, the hair suffers.

—To have your hair and scalp examined under a powerful microscope by Prof. John H. Austin of Chicago, is to know whether the condition is healthy or unhealthy — and Prof. Austin will tell you exactly what to do for your particular case. Guesswork plays no part here, for Prof. Austin has had 38 years' practice, nearly three successful years having been spent at Hamburger's.

—For oily hair, dry hair, dandruff, falling hair—all lead to baldness—

See Prof. Austin Before It Is Too Late.

Summer Comfort
Is Influenced by the Furnishing of the Home

The living room, the sun room, the porch and the lawn may all be made more comfortable for summer by the intelligent use of proper furnishings.

The co-operation of the California Furniture Company will help you to accomplish the results you desire at least cost.

Conscientious experienced men who are competent to authentically advise you are at your service here, whether your requirements be a single piece of summer furniture or the complete transformation of your home.

Here you will find extensive seletcions in the most desirable types of summer furniture.

—beautiful designs in tough fiber pieces in soft baronial brown—and attractive hand-wrought reed pieces which may be stained any desired color and very effectively decorated and cushioned—and very artistic pieces of maple, in dainty French gray contrasted with white cane seats and white Reed panels.

—and for the porch and the lawn and the beach house the ever-practical Old Hickory and double cane seated pieces are shown.

The values offered will bear most critical comparison and whether you are interested in buying or not, we shall be glad to have you see this display.

Some very attractive pieces in both the maple and the fiber are shown in one of our windows this week.

The UNIQUE Sale

The most important garment selling event in Los Angeles! The Unique never buys merchandise for sale purposes and therefore offers only high grade garments from regular stock.

Furthermore, it is the unalterable policy of this house to carry not a single garment from one season to another.

Strict observance of this rule has forced sale prices to a new low level—and values are making a new record.

By all means make your selections Monday!

"To my mind there is no controversy about birth control. When a poor woman appears before me with her sickly underfed unwashed brood of nine children and says she does not want to take back her shiftless husband because it will mean another child added to her burden, my heart and soul cry aloud for a law that will permit a reputable physician to tell her openly what he has told the rich woman in secret."

Glendale.

FOURTEEN members of the Carnation Thimble Club were entertained by Mrs. Ida Smith recently at her home on North Louise street. They spent some time sewing for the Odd Fellows' Orphan Home at Gilroy and the social hour was in the nature of a surprise for Mrs. Smith, whose birthday anniversary occurred that date. When Mrs. Smith was preparing the refreshments she was presented with a beautiful birthday cake decorated with pansies and ferns.

Among the guests at the dancing party given at the Studio Club, Hollywood, Friday evening, were Miss Alice Frank, Miss Myrtle Pulliam, Dr. J. P. Luccock and Harrison W. Frank of Glendale.

Mrs. Ralph Butterfield and daughters will spend two months at Manhattan Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Martin have their daughter, Mrs. W. E. Burk, and grandsons, Frank and Billy Burk, with them for the summer.

Mrs. Lewis Fitzgerald will spend two months with her parents in Oregon. She will be accompanied by her sons, John and Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Sanford have returned from a three weeks' northern trip, accompanied by their grand-daughter, Miss Margaret Herberger, who will spend the summer with them.

Victor W. Daniels, Miss Eva Daniels, Mrs. G. Phillips, Howard Phillips and Miss Reba Phillips left Saturday for a ten day's outing at Ocean Park.

Mrs. LeRoy W. Bosserman left Monday for an extended visit in the East.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ross and little son Robert, who have just returned to their home in Pasadena, after seven years of missionary work in Japan, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stamps.

Mrs. Carlotta Vannatta is at Pine Crest in the San Bernardino Mountains, where she will devote much time to sketching and painting.

Rev. and Mrs. Clifford A. Cole and family and John D. Cole and family spent Monday with their father in Los Angeles. It was his birthday anniversary and sixteen members of the family did honor to the occasion.

Dan Campbell, Prof. George U. Moyse and Dr. A. L. Bryant motored to Coronado Friday, week, returning Monday. Mrs. Dan Campbell and children are summering at Coronado.

Van Nuys.

JOHN J. SHINNERS of Los Angeles gave a theater party in honor of Miss Georgia Limoges, lately returned from Saskatchewan. Van Nuys people attending were Lewis E. Bliss and wife, Fred Kellogg and wife, L. L. Whitson and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Streeter. After the theater performance the party had a delightful dinner at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Miss Betty Streeter of Pasadena, who spent a week with her brother, Arthur Streeter, and wife, returned to her home Monday.

A large party of young men of Van Nuys motored to Owensmouth to charivari Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eley on their return from their honeymoon last Monday night. Mr. and Mrs. Eley slipped out the back door. In a few hours the boys discovered the flight of the couple. They finished the night with a stag party in the Eley home.

Mrs. E. V. Steinman entertained the Alert Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church of Friday evening. Mrs. G. Duncan of Lemon Cove, who was her house guest, gave a number of readings, which were followed by a musical programme. Forty members were present.

A garden party was given on Thursday evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. H. P. Lane by the women of the Presbyterian Church. The entertainment consisted of a street fair and a "Georgia minstrels," all home talent.

—o—

Ventura.

AT PIERPONT INN, Wednesday evening, the Ventura County Medical Association met in regular session. Dr. Charles LeRoy Lowman of Los Angeles addressed the physicians.

Many of the younger set motored to Oxnard Friday evening to attend the hoodoo party given by Paul Gage, Paul Donolon, Monroe Hummel and Albano Cota, at Knights of Columbus Hall.

A family gathering with entertainment furnished by a barbecue at Camarillo and a dinner party at the Rincon Hotel was enjoyed by the members of the Kitchen family. The barbecue took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Schmitz. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kitchen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kitchen of Paso Robles, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kitchen of Santa Barbara. The visitors from Paso Robles and Santa Barbara returned to Ventura and were guests of the Otto Kitchens at a dinner party at the Rincon.

Miss Eugenia Cunnane was the guest of Miss June Chapman at a luncheon in Oxnard Friday afternoon.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hobson of this city for the wedding of their daughter, Grace, and Fred Smith, at Ojai.

A wedding of interest was solemnized at the Vernon Square Episcopal Church in Los Angeles, when Rachel Beggs and Eugene Gardener of Saticoy were married. The bride, who is a Los Angeles girl, taught school at Saticoy last year, and the groom is the son of Edward Gardner, the well-known rancher of Saticoy, and is a graduate of Claremont College.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Lulu Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lewis of Camarillo, to Terence F. Tally of Clarkdale, Ariz. The wedding will take place this fall.

An entertainment for the members of the Fraternal Brotherhood and their friends has been planned for the fifth Monday of the month. At the regular lodge session last week, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Crandall of Sacramento, formerly organizers of the order, were visitors, both giving fine talks. After lodge there was a social hour devoted to dancing.

Mrs. Ole Burgstrom of the Mound, entertained the Priscilla Club Friday afternoon at her home.

Mrs. W. A. Taylor extended hospitality to the members of the missionary society of the Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon. Miss Corabel MacDougal gave a report of the year's work, and Mrs. Bean gave a talk on missionary work in Alaska.

—o—

Alhambra.

A SOCIAL affair of interest here as well as in Los Angeles, was the marriage there Monday, of Miss Susie Ampha Young, daughter of Mrs. Alphens Young, No. 803 West Commonwealth, this city, to Frederick Hermann Hanson, a young business man of Seattle. The wedding was at the First Universalist Church, Los Angeles, and the service was read by Rev. Elwood C. Nash, pastor. Miss Catherine Young, a cousin of the bride, and Harry Hanson, brother of the groom, were the attendants. The bride was attired in a street costume of white jersey cloth and Georgette crepe and wore a hat to match. Her corsage bouquet was of lilies of the valley, forget-me-nots and pink rosebuds. A dainty breakfast was served the wedding party at Christopher's after which Mr. and Mrs. Hanson left for their home in Seattle.

Miss Susie Young, a bride of the week, was the honoree at a charming affair given Saturday by Miss Grace Wallace. Killarney roses marked the drawing-room decorations of pink while the dining-room reflected a color scheme of yellow and green. Aboard a ship, in the table's center, were a tiny bride, and groom, and favor boats holding the names and the date of the wedding stood at each place. After luncheon the guests hemmed linen towels for the honored guests. Present were Miss Aletha Young, Miss Martens, Miss Lack, Miss Henderson, Miss Lannon, Miss Moorhead, Miss Hazel Reeves, Miss Catherine Young, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. George Gates.

Mrs. C. A. Thurston entertained at luncheon Thursday. The guests were Mrs. E. L. Farmer, Mrs. Ethel Wilson, Mrs. C. S. Huff, Mrs. E. B. Webb, Mrs. J. B. Hoover, Mrs. A. A. Watson, Mrs. Harold Duckworth, Mrs. Leslie Young and Mrs. A. A. Link.

Saturday night the Marguerita Bridge Club accepted the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Elliott for an informal evening at cards. The card tables were later utilized for the service of dainty refreshments.

J. C. McCarthy, who is interested in sugar plantations in Santo Domingo, arrived home last week for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Sturges and son Alec are at Balboa for a month's sojourn.

Among Alhambrans who joined the hegira to shore resorts for a week-end visit were Mr. and Mrs. George Ebert, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, who motored to Santa Barbara and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Jones who visited Laguna.

—o—

San Gabriel.

RED CROSS activitiesfor another week have been in full swing with other social affairs modestly giving way. Intense interest centered in the all-day function sponsored Saturday by the women of the San Gabriel Country Club and the financial reward was more than the most optimistic had dared hope for. Golf and tennis tournaments were the outdoor sports indulged in throughout the day and the spacious club rooms and verandas made an ideal setting for the bridge tables where maid and matron, not strenuously inclined, enjoyed the diversion of cards during the afternoon. Dancing in the evening proved a fitting climax. A bevy of young girls in Red Cross costumes sold the organization's emblems and presided over the refreshment booths on the golf links. Among those connected with arrangements of the successful event were J. Norman Kerr, George T. Cline, Robert Deveraux, Mrs. Lee P. Stephens, Mrs. C. A. Perley, Mrs. J. W. Swanwick, Mrs. Wharton, Mrs. John C. Eggs, Miss Laura McVey and Miss Sammie Shoemaker.

Miss Norah Sweel left Thursday for a visit to Balboa and Huntington beaches.

The Thursday Club members were guests of Mrs. M. Mitchell at their regular fortnightly social session.

—o—

Oxnard.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made by Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lewis of Camarillo of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lulu Lewis, to Terence F. Tally of Clarkdale, Ariz. The bride-elect is a member of a prominent county family, and the groom is a mining man, known to many Venturans as the brother-in-law of a charming Ventura girl, Emma Charlebois, now Mrs. Robert Tally.

Miss Elsie Cross of Leicester, Eng., was the honor guest at a delightful shower party at the home of the Misses Strathearn in Simi. Miss Cross will soon become the bride of George Strathearn, and during her stay in the valley has made many friends. The wedding will take place July 25, and the young couple, after a honeymoon trip of indefinite length, will reside in the Simi. Miss Cross received many beautiful presents from the guests who attended the merry party.

Miss Isabel Camarillo, Miss Ida Petit, Messrs. Frank Camarillo and Ernest Jones made up a matinee party for "What Next" in Los Angeles. After dinner at Levy's, the party motored home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gill and Mrs. Homer P. Markwell returned last week from an outing at Pinecrest. Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Kapp and daughter, Miss Helen, and Mrs. C. H. Brown also returned last week from the mountain resort, and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. de Brell and family are at home after a ten days' fishing and camping trip at Bear Lake.

Members of Victor Camp, the local lodge of Modern Woodmen, entertained members and their families Tuesday evening with a delightful entertainment. The affair was given in honor of the Somis Woodmen, who have recently affiliated with the Oxnard camp. A three-piece orchestra furnished music during the evening, and at the close of the programme refreshments were served.

Mrs. R. L. Beardsley and children have returned from a vacation in Venice, during which Mr. Beardsley, with Mr. A. T. Sebastian, enjoyed a fishing trip at Bear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Schmits of Camarillo entertained a family party at their country home Friday with a barbecue dinner. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kitchen of Ventura, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kitchen of Paso Robles and Master Arthur, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kitchen of Santa Barbara.

Miss June Chapman entertained at luncheon Thursday, her guests being Eugenia Cunnane of Ventura and Misses Nell and Vida Petit of Oxnard.

The Women's Improvement Club of Hueneme met Thursday afternoon in the clubroom, with Mrs. Elvina Arnold and Mrs. William Armstrong as hostesses of the afternoon.

Mrs. Herman Fesenfeld and daughter of San Diego are guests of Mrs. Fesenfeld's sister, Mrs. E. Crowe, at Hueneme Beach.

—o—

Redlands.

SOCIETY folk of Redlands are enjoying the use of their automobiles now, and many are making long tours. Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Hill and daughter, Miss Edith Hill, and Prof. and Mrs. S. Guy Jones have returned from a trip to the Yosemite and to Sacramento. They found the roads in fine shape. Each week-end many make the trip from here to Newport and other beaches, and the mountains are even more popular. Mrs. Walter McIntosh, hostess at Forest Home, has arranged for a series of special events there for the younger society set of the city. Three evenings each week outdoor dances are given at the pavilion, and on Thursday evening of the week there was a costume dance. Friday afternoon there was a benefit card party, and soon the presentation of an outdoor play will draw many people from this city to the mountain resort. Mrs. McIntosh entertained the youngsters there during the week with a birthday party for Miss Polly Culver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Culver.

Miss Jessie M. Odell, who for several weeks has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Stutt of West Fern avenue, has started for home at Ontario, Can.

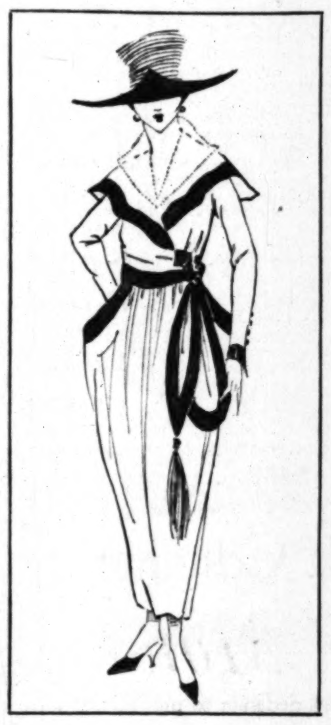
Fall Styles Cast Their Shadows

There are blue serge frocks and there are blue serge frocks but never a blue serge frock just like the charming one pictured on the right. It needs must be in the firing line so it has a touch of military braid binding the collar and edging the barrel shirt and sash, and to add a final touch of frivolity one sash end waves a tassel. $45.00.

Velour goes to fashion the smart suit on the left. That is with the help of the stunning buckle that does duty on the front. Clever little square pockets hang from the belt line; they look almost like the "Sammies'" knapsacks—tho' I wager they will hold much more attractive things than knapsacks do. $75.00.



Mention Hats

and a woman will always take notice, for Vogue Company's hats are not born to blush unseen and unworn. Take the clever satin combinations all of virgin white, could anything be more to a woman's heart? Or take a feather breast turban or a pan velvet tam, those perky little things that take years off a woman's looks. Or a velour sports hat in any shade you may desire. They all come in prices ranging from $10.00 to $15.00

The Hatter's plush hats would make even Alice as "mad as a hatter" if she couldn't own one, for they are wonderfully smart.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Jefferson and daughter Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Black and Miss Mabel Rozelle enjoyed a visit to Naples, Wednesday, while Mr. and Mrs. George Howe and family chose Redondo Beach for their outing, and the J. V. Shepard family motored to Hermosa Beach in the afternoon of Wednesday.

The largest affair was the Rebekah installation, Friday evening at Odd Fellows Hall, with the newly-elected District Deputy and her staff, Mrs. M. E. Funk, Mrs. Cora Davis, Mrs. J. O. Burke, Mrs. Blanche Brown, Mrs. Emma McKee and Mrs. Ollie Wilson of Compton and six from Del Mar lodge, Long Beach, to put on the initiatory work. Following are the officers installed: Noble Grand, Mrs. Clara Cummings; Vice-Grand, Mrs. Hallie Neel; Secretary, Mrs. Cora Davis; Conductor, Mrs. Emma McKee; Chaplin, Mrs. Nina Norton; Right Supporter to Noble Grand, Mrs. Dora Easley; Left Supporter to Noble Grand, Mrs. M. E. Funk; Inside Guardian; Mrs. Mary Veitch; Outside Guardian, Mrs. Minnie Dehaven; Warden, Mrs. Grace Lodge; Right Supporter to Vice-Grand, Mrs. P. Demer and Left Supporter to Vice-Grand, Mrs. Ola Sipcoma.

Dr. Earl Moody of California Hospital, Los Angeles, spent the week with his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood on Myrrh street. Mrs. Emma Moody of Artesia street was a luncheon guest at the Wood home, Wednesday of last week.

Prof. Herman Kraemer of the Tehachepi High School was a week-end guest of Prof. and Mrs. Mack Erwin.

Mrs. Maggie Reed, daughter and son of Acacia street, left recently for Berkeley, where they will make their future home.

Miss Helen Kent, who has been stopping at the home of her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gallup, No. 3834 Harvard boulevard, Los Angeles, returned to her home on Tamarind avenue, Wednesday, much improved in health.

Watts.

ENTERTAINING en famille Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Windbigler gave a dinner party as a courtesy to their father, Comrade Valentine Windbigler, who reached his seventy-fifth birthday.

Renewing former friendships, Mrs. Jennie Ezelle and daughter, Mrs. H. G. Treadwell of Oakland are guests of Watts pioneer families with whom they associated in the early days when they erected the "big house" on Pacific drive west of the public library.

Celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of his birth, J. L. Lamb, father of Dr. J. L. Lamb of East Tajauta avenue, recently entertained many friends and relatives at his home in Jefferson, Cal., by singing hymns and telling stories.

There was a small but enthusiastic attendance at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Lamb Friday when Miss Ina K. Pitner of Pasadena gave an interesting talk on the Red Cross work in hopes of organizing a branch of the society here.

Both the Episcopal and Christian Sunday-schools picnicked at Sycamore Grove, Saturday, and enjoyed the day in the open to the extent that another has already been planned for the near future for the former, at least.

Mrs. C. W. Humphereys and daughter, Margaret, of Fresno, arrived Monday to spend the remainder of the summer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Spradling, No. 830 Melvin avenue. Mrs. F. W. Sollee and son Florin of Los Angeles, another daughter of the Spradlings, were dinner guests, Wednesday.

Upland.

MYRIADS of gaily-colored Japanese lanterns, artistically strung over the lawns and about the trees, added greatly to the wonderfully attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Harrison on San Antonio Heights, when Miss Ruth Harrison and E. Birch Harrison, their daughter and son, entertained Friday evening with a delightfully informal dancing party. The Harrisons are entertaining a jolly house party in honor of their cousin, Harrison Hoblitzelle, who is here from St. Louis, and the house guests number also Miss Anne Esgen and Miss Katherine Beyon of Los Angeles and Watson LaForce and W. B. LaForce of Kansas City, Mo. For the dance, the party was enhanced by a number of the younger society set from Ontario and Upland. Music was furnished by a Los Angeles orchestra and the dancers continued to glide over the mirror-like floors of the delightful home till the small hours of the morning. At midnight a collation was served in the gardens. Those who enjoyed the event besides the house guests and hosts, were Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Howard Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Veeder South, Mrs. Bigger, Miss Ida Hubbell, Miss Jessie Fallis, Miss Edith Hanson, Miss Geraldine Waltz, Miss Marjorie Reynolds, Miss Lois Campbell, Miss Gertrude Bredfeldt, Miss Margaret May Bigger, Miss Virginia Bigger, Miss Gladys Gardner, Miss Olive Granger, Miss Isabel Goss, Miss Marie Kemna, Miss Margaret Swan, Miss Helen Mertz, Miss Ardis Richardson, Miss Mary Clark, Miss Marie Podrasnik, Hawley Mertz, Allan Barr, Darwin Graettinger, Rupert F. Graettinger, J. Byron Campbell, Vaughn Gardner, Morris Reynolds, Eugene Nisbet, Kenneth Hanson, Clyde C. Duvall, Donald Meredith, Guifford Meredith, Beecher Hungerford, Leonard J. Frankish, Earl W. Paul, Egbert B. Clark, Jr., Homer Crocheron, and others.

Mrs. Frederick C. Froehde was the guest of honor Friday afternoon when Mrs. George Cable entertained with a bridge tea at her home in Campus avenue. Roses were used in decoration and a collation followed the auction tournament. The guests were Mrs. Froehde, Mrs. Harry Flowers, Mrs. Earl Maurer, Mrs. Conrad F. Troeller, Mrs. Henry O. Blohm, Mrs. William Churchill Cline, Mrs. Perry O. Long, Mrs. Robert R. Wisely, Mrs. Roy Wisely, Mrs. C. C. Eymann, Mrs. L. E. Alford and Mrs. Ross.

Mrs. T. J. Cromer was hostess at a happily-informal affair at her home in West Eleventh street Monday evening. Merry games and music occupied the early hours of the evening, with cooling refreshments afterward. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cavers, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moser, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley W. Mather, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wright, Mrs. Eva Brown Schilling, Miss Ruby Moser, Miss Iva Goodban, Miss Sue Billington, Miss Elizabeth Fossett, Miss Cooley, Miss Lucille Chilson, Miss Gladys Riley, Miss Ruth Riley, Miss Edith Rohrig, Ivan Harn, Cleo Moser, Earl Kitchel and Ray Cromer.

Miss Ruth Voth entertained a party of girl friends Tuesday evening at her home in Campus avenue, being assisted by her sister, Miss Anne Voth, and by Miss Ella Schmidt. The guests numbered Miss Elizabeth Wedel, Miss Frieda Wedel, Miss Esther Leaman, Miss Monica Horsch, Miss Bertha ANOTHER EXTRAORDINARY SPECIAL that makes it worth your while to shop at COLYEAR'S, "where bargains reign." The order we placed with the manufacturers for these "PURE ALUMINUM" Kitchen Outfits was so large that we secured them AT A SAVING OF ALMOST A HALF. WE ARE SHARING THIS GREAT SAVING WITH YOU BY SELLING THEM FOR ALMOST A HALF REDUCTION. Read the following description. Every word is of interest to you:

Guaranteed Pure Aluminum
LATEST COLONIAL DESIGN

Its pure silver color is guaranteed not to rust. All covers are equipped with heat-proof handles that always remain cool.

It unquestionably is the best looking, as well as the most sanitary cooking outfit obtainable. The attractive Colonial design and bright silver color make a striking addition to your kitchen.

EIGHT OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL PIECES

Includes eight necessary articles, ones that you are likely to use almost every day of the year, all the year around.

A 6-quart tea kettle. This kettle has a cast aluminum spout and a heat-proof handle that is always cool. A 2-quart double rice boiler with saucepan insert. A 2-quart percolator. A 4-quart covered saucepan. A 4-quart lipped saucepan. A 2-quart lipped saucepan. A 1½-quart lipped saucepan.

Warranted Standard Weight
CLEANS IN AN INSTANT

The smooth-as-glass finish and seamless construction make it impossible for sediment or grease to gather, either inside or out. By pouring on hot water, all pieces are thoroughly and instantly cleansed.

INCLUDES THE NEWEST, MOST IMPROVED PERCOLATOR ON THE MARKET

Note How Simple. The coffee is placed in the aluminum cup. When the water boils, it passes through the little tube through the top of the percolator and drips down over the coffee until the full strength has been consumed. The glass-covered top shows you the strength of the coffee without even lifting the cover. All you have to do is place the coffee in the retainer and pour in the water. It cannot boil over, you don't have to watch it. In a very few moments your coffee is piping hot, ready to serve, clear as amber, rich in flavor.

COMING as a decided surprise to both relatives and friends was the marriage in Riverside on Saturday, week, of Dockrell Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brown of this city, who claimed as his pretty young bride, Miss Bertha Barlow of Los Angeles. The groom is a member of Co. K of San Bernardino, having enlisted to accompany the Seventh Regiment to the border last summer, and is at present stationed at Arcadia. Miss Barlow is as yet a stranger to the family circle of her husband so that the first visit home of the newlyweds is being eagerly anticipated. On account of the war situation no plans for the future are being made by the young people.

After a week of fun and frolic in the mountains the Notloc group of Camp Fire Girls returned Sunday night from Strawberry Flat, where the cabin of City Clerk and Mrs. Guy Rick had been at their disposal. Those who enjoyed the merry vacation outing together were the Misses Helen Bender, Marguerite Metcalfe, Marguerite and Isabella Magill, Jennie Mullen and Helen Lightfoot of Los Angeles. Mrs. C. F. Whitmer, guardian of the camp, and Mrs. James Swinnerton accompanied the girls as chaperons.

With all appointments carried out in a patriotic motif, the refreshment table being gay with flags, American shields and a birthday cake sporting red, white and blue candles, a happy children's party was given on Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. E. T. McNeill to honor the eighth anniversary of her son, Master Edward. Among those bidden were Claire Stone, Elton and Lois Woolpert, Mary Keefe, Virginia Pellett, Bobbie Coe, Richard Waters, Flora and Nellie Bernabe, Marjorie Davis, Robert and Lois Knopsnyder, Donald and Harold Cochran, Walter Rogers, Beverley Bulena and Elizabeth and Thomas McNeill.

Mr. and Mrs. James Barnhill are entertaining as their guest, Miss Sarah Hewitt of Victoria, B. C. Mrs. Barnhill and Miss Hewitt are sisters.

Dr. J. A. Champion left Monday for Rochester, Minn., where he will attend clinics for the next month at the Mayo Bros.' Hospital. During his absence Mrs. Champion and daughters, the Misses Grace and Marguerite, will sojourn at Redondo Beach.

Mrs. O. F. Rau and daughter, Miss Ola, Left Sunday night for a visit until the middle of September with relatives in Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nusbaum and daughter Nellie are at home from a ten days' motoring trip to San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rowsey have gone to Denver, Colo., for a visit of two months with their daughters, Mrs. H. H. Hardman and Miss Alta Rowsey, and son, Frank Rowsey. On their return they will be accompanied by Miss Alta, who has been in Denver for the past year.

Richard Simonton, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Simonton of Honolulu, arrived on Friday from the islands for a visit until fall with his uncle, James Metcalf, and aunt, Mrs. James Swinnerton.

MISS HELEN FITZGERALD was hostess Tuesday evening at her home at the Manzanita in Euclid avenue at a bridge supper of charming appointments. Roses in red and white were used in decoration. Prizes for the auction tournament, a handsome bud vase and a deck of playing cards in an attractive leather case, were captured by Mrs. Stearns Ingalls and J. W. Heinecke. A collation followed the games. Those who enjoyed Miss Fitzgerald's hospitality included Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Hill Titus, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Stearns Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Harris Frankish, Mr. and Mrs. Crombie Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin L. Curious and Unusual Bible Questions

Look at the picture above, then turn to your Bible and find the answer to the question. The picture illustrates the verse in which the answer will be found.

Each week we will publish an illustrated question from the Bible and the following week publish the answer. See if you can find the answer before we publish it!

Make a family pastime of this interesting feature—it will amuse and instruct you.

Last Week's Question and the Answer

Last week's query: "What was the cost of a horse in the days of King Solomon?", is answered in the First Book of Kings, Chapter 10, Verse 29:

> "And a chariot came up and went out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver ($328.44), and a horse for a hundred and fifty ($82.11): and so for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out by their means."

Bouyant as the wave that bears them all am I
When surging over me thy rippling hair Flows free."

There was an artist there too; a submarine painter. Oh, no, dear! Do not mistake me. He was not a decorator of U-boats, but a below-the-surface-of-the-sea sketcher who goes down in a diving suit and bohemeanders around with the mermaids. One of his canvasses was on exhibition. It was an undine creature Saphoaming around with a seaweed harp who seemed to be seeking the saturate solution of a vanished aqueous affinity. No one except the painter has been able to go down into the depths where amoebic truth lies at the bottom of the sea. So he brings up some protoplasmic germs and labels them according to a system of his own and, as none can go down to compare the sample with the stock, it is a case of all things being the same color to a blind man.

All of these I could contemplate dispassionately without envy or sighs of emulation, as one might view brachipods or the fossils of ichthyosaurui in museums. But when one has made a little headway with normalapros, and has learned enough to know that Harold Bell and Willard Huntington Wright are not even first cousins, and has just gotten W. L. Henry, William and Lloyd George classified, and learns there is still another authoric authority by that name, and when a pastel youth with a high-speed Adam's apple gets up and—haltingly, let it be admitted, and with due deliberation, perhaps, to impress his audience with the aeonic lapse of time between his infant precocity and the painfully-acquired nineteenness under which he staggers—confesses that he read Henry James when he was 7 years old, one chaotically begins to regret a misspent youth, wasted on Shakespeare, Plato and St. Paul, and sets in "highly to resolve," first: To spend at least ten minutes a day obeying the streetcaral injunction to read that versatile journal which will not only acquaint one with all the germinating journalists, but enable one to converse learnedly on any given subject.

Second: . . . But stay ye! One does not get so far as that. There is no such thing as digested literature. It must not be! It must be gulped and gobbled and turned into a vodkian ferment. And there are no magazines any more, anyway, except the Masses, the New Republic and the Seven Adts. Hear ye them!

And then a vortex of voices sweeps one into a submerged state of semiconsciousness, where one hears such hissing epithets as Ibsanity and Paranoyes, and a Shavinaigrette is hurled across the room and somewhere in the hallway—something shatters. At first I thought it was the aura of a crystal-gazer's globe, but it was only the transom through which I was clambering after a brief, but acute, attack of celebritomania during the delirium of which I am reported to have repeatedly shrieked:

"Oh, middle-aged, Middle-West mediocrity, where is thy sting? Oh anarch-erudition, where is thy victory?"

many well-known art- as artists not well for the Chautau- will be heartily missed I understand from the publicity management, by the way, that they have all behaved with the utmost generosity in the matter of having their bookings cast aside in this rude manner. They have felt sorry for a local impresario who was let in for a considerable loss, through no fault of his own, unless it was being too good-natured. This does not in the least mean that Los Angeles would not pay to hear these artists individually; it simply means that we decidedly do not want the Chautauqua because we have outgrown the particular needs of the scheme.

Chautauquas are excellent things for people of the Middle West who are snowbound all through the winter, and who, when the ice breaks on the lake, enjoy taking their entire families down to the shore and attending the Chautauqua as their mothers attended the revivalist meetings. But what do people with cathedrals want to do with camp meetings? And what does a city with such an organization as, for example, our Philharmonic course have to do with third-rate (for the most part) performers who are sandwitched in between even smaller-fry lecturers? Talk of carrying coals to Newcastle—it is more like striking a match to find our way about in the glaring sunlight. We don't need it. It is altogether too provincial and collegiate and backwoodsy. What do persons who are shortly to hear Leo Orstein interpret his music of the new democracies, have to do with the Maiden's Prayer done a quatre mains? Or some such impossible effort as the Italian Quartette, which did not blush to sing along side of Schumann-Heink? And as for the preaching——

The whole trouble was that the managers of the Chautauqua did not realize that their wares were not plausible for any city which has outgrown its swaddling clothes, and then they blame the community for not buying. And as for those in the city who have tastes of the poppy-spray variety, they were too hot to go anywhere, and above all too hot to be educated. They would rather go to Venice and cool off than stay in town and be lectured to, and they are perfectly right.

It is an excellent symptom of a new vitality when a community refuses to be cleansed mentally and spiritually. In the first place it betokens a sincere faith in individual liberty and a wholesome conviction of personal righteousness. When Mr. Blank of Timbuctoo comes and tells us how to believe and how to behave, we politely turn our backs and move on, convinced that our way of believing and behaving is as efficacious as his, and that if he had come from India instead of from Timbuctoo he would have opinions entirely different from those which he now expresses with so much violence. Consequently we refuse to be impressed. It is only the hypocritical and the ultra-humble, of the Uriah Heep type, who are impressed by sermons of the personal code. The healthy man is unconscious of being so terribly in need of cleansing. There is nothing more humiliating to observe than the flocking of many persons to hear themselves called sinners in the manner of Billy Sunday. The only redeeming feature about that phenomenon being the perfectly obvious one that his notorious vulgarity is the drawing card of that particular cleanser, and, of course, the horrors which he predicts as waiting for us are on the curriculum of every conventional reformer, and they are an entirely safe bet, for even the most careless prophet takes only a small chance of being refuted when he predicts misfortune and discomfiture.

Our having failed to observe the Chautauqua with rapture therefore strikes me as something to be extremely proud of as an advancement over the pony express days and as settling with ease into our stride as a full-grown entity which walks in the blessedness of maturity without guiding hands and other cumbersome obstacles.

NOW'S TIME TO EAT FISH.

Both Health and Economy Urge Upon Us Seasonable Indulgence in One of Our Greatest Domestic Food Supplies.

BY J. MADISON TAYLOR, M.D.

A few weeks ago New England fishermen, dipping into the mackerel run, came into port loaded and overloaded with catches of that delicious, nourishing fish, so seldom seen on the tables of the poor and of the moderately well-to-do in its fresh, and its best, estate that it has long been esteemed a dainty of the wealthy only. In Boston, after that exceptional haul of mackerel, the fish sold in the best shops at 12 cents per pound. In Philadelphia the price at the wholesale fish market for one fresh mackerel, or for a score, ran at 13 and 14 cents per pound; while in the Italian quarter—where knowledge of the sea's resources shames the American housewife—the advance was little more than a cent or two. Everyone who knows the delights of fresh mackerel could afford it.

There have been hauls of other table fish this summer which make it appear that, by some blessed dispensation similar to that of the rain, falling alike on the just and the unjust, we Americans, confronting food prices unprecedented in our history, share in some worldwide miracle of the fishes equally with the now half-starved Germans, to whom the immense catches off their coasts have afforded a vast relief from their meat privation. The difference is that the Germans have jumped at the chance of eating their boon of fish food, while we as a people are still enchained to our meat diet by our national reluctance to eat fish, a reluctance modified of late years only by the growing comprehension among us that Friday, set apart as a day of abstinence for millions of our population, has a distinct dietary value inhering in its religious application.

If this summer shall bear out the promise of its earlier weeks, by all means let us be as sensible as were the Jews when their manna fell to them in the desert. Let us rejoice in our season's plenty and eat plenty of fish. And if the hauls be no more than usual, by all means let us eat plenty of fish anyway, even if we have to relinquish for a day our war-increased devotion to labor and go out and catch them ourselves. Our seaboards, our lakes and our rivers teem with riches that provide not only sustenance ample for our bodies, but the hearty appetite of the fisherman for their enjoyment.

The fugitive literature of the day is being enlivened with anecdotes of Hughey Green, who has been a major in the British army on the strength of his fish—and of how strong his fish became before he became a major. He is the poor Scotch lad who, engrossed with his gospel of fish, tramped from office to office of the government bigwigs with samples under his arm, the samples steadily making a more lively impression on the noses of his hosts than his arguments did on their ears. But Hughey Green and his fish won their way at last, and he has been furnishing fish to the Canadian and British armies at the rate of 7,000,000 pounds per month—enough to change materially and to improve the diet of the millions of men under arms, and, incidentally, to make the propagandist a military purveyor of recognized rank.

We need a Hughey Green more for our civil than for our military population. Apart from the barren circumstance that we have not been accustomed to it, we can well afford to eat fish, not merely once a week, but four or five times. We will be all the better for it.

Physicians who have at heart the welfare of the nation alternately despair and weary of their professional iteration: "Eat less;" so, too, may the public, although everybody knows we dearly love to be told what is the matter with our little insides. But sometimes a new phase appears for the "eat-less" educational campaign, and the new phase is in evidence here. The person who cannot bring himself to any restriction in the volume of food he ingests three times a day will find in fish a food which, weight for weight, supplies much less protein than is to be digested in meats. He can, therefore, satisfy with fish an appetite demanding a similar volume of meat, but at a marked decrease in the labor the meat imposes on his vital organs, notably the kidneys. In a modified form, it is the familiar "Eat and grow thin" over again.

Now is the time to eat fish, for fish is best in season. Out of its season, it is prone to lose both flavor and nutritive values. The various species differ widely in nutritive and digestive qualities. Flounder and oysters are much more readily digested than are fish containing fat in large proportions, like salmon and herring. A good rule to work by is to remember that white-fleshed fish commonly contain little fat, and that in hot weather the human body requires low values in food, although the appetite may demand volume of food.

From the purely medical standpoint fish is advantageous because the proportion of protein as compared with meat is low and it contains almost none of the injurious extractives—purins, allexins and other elements that are the poisons constituting the basis of the animo acids liable to destroy the kidney cells and set up arterio sclerosis.

Any dietician could furnish a book of comparisons between meats and fish, every fact and figure of which would drive home the lesson we need as to the larger consumption of fish. But the man or woman who will simply take advantage of the relatively low prices attending seasonable use of our large wealth of fish foods will find that this is one of the best fish stories ever told.

Girl Leader.

HAIL A MODERN JOAN OF ARC.

SOLDIERS MAKE PILGRIMAGE TO CLAIRE FERCHAUD.

Case of Young Girl Believed to be Prophetess is the Subject of an Inquiry by Church Dignitaries. Unpretentious and Asks for Prayers.

[Fred B. Pitney in New York Tribune:] A visit to the farm of Claire Ferchaud, the twenty-one-year-old peasont girl and modern Joan of Arc, who is said to have the same visions of the supernatural as the great medieval leader, shows that the residents of the surrounding country have faith in the youthful prophetess.

The home of the young woman is the scene of a real pilgrimage, many of the visitors being soldiers on furlough. At the foot of a small altar in the home of the girl's mother, on which is placed an image of the virgin, there is a large basket filled with photographs. Thirty thousand of them are reported to have been deposited in this small temple by soldiers seeking heavenly protection of the "Child of the Rinfillieres," as the young woman is known.

"Rinfillieres" is the name of the farm on which she was born. It is in Vendee, at Puy Saint Bonnet, twelve kilometers from Cholet. This is the country of miracles. Everywhere can be seen wayside shrines, such as are common in Catholic countries, and to reach the home of the "savior of France" a genuine pilgrimage over high, rugged rocks is necessary.

FARM IS ON THE HIGH HILL.

It is on the summit of a high hill amid nature and near the heavens that Rinfillieres was found. Mme. Jeanne Ferchaud, the girl's mother, was busy making linen coiffures, such as are worn in the country districts of France. A religious image hangs on the walls of the modest home. Ignoring all that has served to make her daughter famous, the mother said:

"Claire has visions? She hears voices? I see or hear nothing. What, then, can I say? Nothing. But I know this much. Since these reports have been circulated about her I sincerely regret the quietness which has been lost, the daily visits and the crowd of strangers, of whom many are more curious than pilgrims. They disturb and bore me."

And Mme. Ferchaud really had the appearance of having been annoyed. "If it continues," she added, "I shall have the farm condemned by the town collector." Mme. Ferchaud left the visitor to go and care for her cattle.

The door of the small chapel, where the young girl was entranced, bears a sign in the uncertain hand of Claire Ferchaud herself and containing a mistake in spelling, requesting persons to close the door. Texts conceived by her are in curious contrast to this badly written sign. Persons who have read them say they are written in the highest doctrine, clear and firm, with disconcerting color pictures.

As to the prophetess herself, little is known, the best informed Catholics maintaining the closest reserve. The vicar-general of the Bishop of Poitiers said:

A CHURCH INQUIRY.

"With regard to the reality of the mission Claire Ferchaud has received we do not know much. All I can say is that the religious power has intervened to the extent of its ability to consider the facts which have been submitted. An episcopal commission has been named to take note of the writings of the young woman. This commission has not yet rendered a decision."

While this clerical discussion has been going on popular imagination has attributed many things to this modern Joan of Arc. One countryman was convinced that the recent French success was foreseen by the prophetess, and that if Gen. Lyautey resigned from the Ministry of War it was because he had refused to confide his commands at the front to the young woman.

In a letter which she sent to her parents, Claire Ferchaud is the first to object to the words she is said to have uttered and the pretensions she is reported to have.

"It is a little pretentious to say it is I who shall save France," she wrote. "It is neither I nor human means. As to those who ask information about me tell them I know nothing. I ask them to pray for me rather than to be curious."

Be that as it may, Rinfillieres is seeing a real pilgrimage, a real pious movement. In several weeks this young girl has made a hillside, lost in Vendee, blessed ground, where come from all parts believers to pray and tourists to admire the superb site.

RIFLE BARRELS.

Straightening Them an Operation of Great Delicacy.

[Scientific American Supplement.] Following the reaming operation in rifle manufacture, which leaves the bore of the barrel smooth and polished, comes one of the mosts delicate and exacting operations in gunmaking, that of straightening the interior of the barrel. In straightening a barrel everything depends on the skill and experience of the operator, for although machines have been devised to perform this difficult work, they still require skilled men to operate them, and they cannot turn out as much work as is done by hand by the old method that has been practiced for years, and which can only be acquired by long experience.

The straightening block has a heavy base, on which are fixed two hardened bars of steel, set a short distance apart, and at an angle with one another. A north window is necessary, where a steady, unobstructed light is had, and the upper half of this window usually has a large pane of fine ground glass. Across this glass, at about the middle is fixed a straightedge of wood. The operator places a barrel on a rest and looks through it at the straightedge on the window, observing the shadow cast by the edge on the polished interior of the bore.

This shadow extends about half way down the bore, and if the latter is perfectly straight the shadow shows two straight dark lines, one on either side of the bore, and slightly below its center. If, however, there is a crook in the bore the lines of the shadow diverge from a straight line, and zigzag in various directions as the operator revolves the barrel by hand; this indicates that there are crooks in the barrel To correctly observe these delicate indications requires unusually perfect sight, and to locate the point and nature of the crook is a matter of long experience and judgment.

When the operator has located a crook he lays the barrel across the bars of his straightening block, with the high point of the curve uppermost, and strikes it with a heavy hammer made of copper or babbit metal, and great judgment is necessary to know just how hard to strike to remove the crook. This process of observation and straightening is repeated until the two shadow lines are perfectly true for one-half of the length of the barrel, and then is repeated for the other half, observations being taken from the opposite end.

Another method of straightening sometimes practiced is by placing in the muzzle of the gun a lens covered with cement, in which a circle is scratched. On looking through the barrel with a suitable light a series of rings appear in the bore, and the slightest lack of concentricity of these rings indicates a defect. This is said to be an extremely delicate test.

A Pessimist's Paradise.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] Farmers in Sussex county, Delaware, report that the caterpillars are killing the leaves on the apple trees; snails are damaging the roots of the cucumbers; moles are killing off the potato plants; wild garlic is spoiling the milk; cool nights are retarding the growth of vegetables; the grapeberry worm is boring into the grapes; cut worms are killing the tomato vines; wet weather has damaged the strawberries; the cultivation of the corn crop is being retarded by the wet fields, and the rust is in the wheat. Outside of these few things Sussex county is all right and will raise big crops.

'Tis Human to Err.

[Boston Transcript:] Collector: But you said you would pay me if I came today.

Mr. Billdew: Well, my friend, you know how it is—the best of us sometimes say things that we are sorry for.

New Thoughts in Jewelry Design

Many of the best examples of present-day jewelry design have been produced in Brock & Company shops by Brock & Company men,—a fact well-known in jewelry circles. We have successfully departed from the usually conservative designs and have used many daring and novel ideas to distinct advantage.

If you are looking for designs that really are different—let us submit ideas to you, perhaps suggesting the use of old family jewelry.

meet and one of them had a card with a black hand on it. I thought it was worth seeing and stepped back. I heard one say, 'Do you remember that actor, Bill Desmond? Well, Jack and Mike are going to put an end to him. I will tell you how they are going to do it. They are going to California and get in some of the lodges and get introduced to him and some fine night kill him.'

" 'Then he will be acting in heaven,' said the other.

"Just at that moment two other men came along, and they also had something to do with it, for they were the two men that are going to kill you. I will describe the best I can. They were dark and wore gray suits—that is all I can say. I know they were going at 12 o'clock this evening.

"I rushed to a store and bought a pencil and paper, and you must pardon my writing, but I am anxious for you to get this letter Show this only to the police if you show it to anyone, and kindly take it seriously as you are in great danger."

The letter bore a Seattle postmark under date of July 16. It was signed by Miss E. Pentiere, No. 2124 Forty-second avenue, Seattle, and was sent special delivery.

Mr. Desmond, it is said, is taking the matter quite seriously; and if this public revelation has prevented the villains doing their dirty work and saved a valuable life to the cause of film art, this column will not have been published in vain.

Sounds Like a Plot.

Just what Julian Eltinge's pull is at the Lasky studio is the question over which Douglas Fairbanks, Artcraft studio, is darkly brooding.

While Julian Eltinge and his company are at the beach, filming cool and delightful bathing scenes and romping over the sands, the gay and festive "Doug" has been calling on all his philosophy to uphold him, as he works in a picture requiring Alaskan scenery in the way of fur overcoats, mittens, etc.

—o—

Right Out of Her Head.

When it comes to selecting titles Bessie Love belongs right up with the big leaguers.

"Pernickety Polly Ann" probably will be the name of Bessie Love's next picture under the Triangle banner, and if this name is used Bessie will have the honor of having selected it herself.

While Director Charles Miller and Bessie were going over the script the other day, preparatory to beginning actual work on the production, the little star exclaimed that she once had a schoolmate who was just like the principal character in the story. "We used to call her 'Pernickety Polly Ann,'" said Bessie. Whereupon the title was decided on.

Echoes from Gasoline Row.

Some time ago Automobile Row rocked and swayed to the news that Vivian Martin had purchased a nile-green Peerless roadster as the first sign of spring. Miss Martin, having possessed the roadster for a few weeks, characteristically tired of it and sent it to the shop to be painted a khaki tan. In the meanwhile, in order that she could get from thence to thither in an irreducible minimum of time, the Lasky star purchased a specially-built racing Simplex positively guaranteed to make 100 miles an hour on the lowest discoverable gear. Incidentally when the Martin heel alights upon the cutout, the noise of the recent British bombardment at Messines fades into pale pink insignificence.

Wally Sincerely Sad.

In the forthcoming Farrar-Artcraft picture, Wallace Reid is supposed to be tortured by being stripped to the waist and held in front of a blazing fire. The day before these scenes were taken Mr. Reid, having an afternoon off, departed for the beach and accumulated a beautiful case of sunburn. Cocoanut oil somewhat relieved the burn that night, but next day, in front of the blazing fire, it was totally unnecessary for Wallie to exert himself to any undue extent in order to register torture.

—o—

Goat-getter's Goat is Got.

After all, they now have one on the astute George M. Cohan, according to no less an authority than himself, who writes Julian Eltinge at the Artcraft studio.

One of the most stringent of all rules of motion-picture studios is that smoking is prohibited. A fireman is detailed to inspect most of the plants regularly, and the smokers are ever on the alert to dodge him. This ban on smoking probably has hampered George M. Cohan in his art more than any other annoyance. One day last week he was standing in the Artcraft studio awaiting a scene in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," when a fireman approached him inquiring about his health.

"I'm all right," replied Cohan, "except that you crab my act."

"How's that?" asked the other.

"By preventing my smoking," said Cohan.

"Oh, I don't mind that a bit," replied the other, "smoke all you like."

Five minutes later Director Hugh Ford encountered Cohan strutting about the studio and brazenly puffing at a cigarette.

"You'd better be careful," warned Ford, "or the fireman will nab you."

"No, he's all right," answered Cohan, pointing to the fireman; "he gave me permission."

"Why, that isn't the fireman," answered Ford; "that's only one of our actors made up for one."

One of Big U's Big Ones.

"The Old West, Per Contract," adapted for the screen by Director Ruth Ann Baldwin from the story written by William W. Cook and appearing in the Argosy magazine, is being produced at Universal City. The principal players are Leo Pierson, Donna Drew, Jean Hersholt, Joe Girard, Mrs. A. E. Witting, George Pearce and Harry Rattenberry.

Other current productions at the big U plant include Violet MacMillan and Kingsley Benedict in Mary Austin's story, "The Potato Patriot;" "There and Back," with Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran; Maude Reeves White's story, "Sue of the South," with Edith Roberts in the title role, and P. S. Pembroke, Ruby LaFollette, James Farley, Marie Van Tassell and Countess DuCello in support; Harry Carey and Edythe Sterling in "The Round-up," directed by Jack Ford; Gale Henry and William Franey in "A Ukulele Nightingale," and half a score of others.

Hazardous Helen No. 2.

Just think of a pretty girl riding at break-neck speed, standing upon the saddle of her horse, grasping the hook of a huge derrick and swinging in midair to the top of a speeding railroad engine, not being afraid to spoil her beauty or anything! This is what Helen Gibson, who is considered one of the most fearless actresses working before the camera, actually did in her first railway drama under the Universal banner. It is entitled "Mettle and Metal," and was written and directed by J. D. Davis, who has produced with this daring actress the well-known "Hazards of Helen" series. The ordinary girl cannot and will not do the stunts required of Miss Gibson, and she is known in the photoplay world as an actress who positively refuses to let anyone double for her.

In the first place, Helen Gibson was a rodeo rider, and for two years held the championship of Southern California. There was practically nothing associated with riding that she could not or would not do, and her value as a film actress became apparent immediately she found her way into the realm of picture work.

It has been in railroad stories Miss Gibson has made such a great reputation, and she is known to thousands of picture fans as the most daring girl of the screen. To ride standing on a swiftly-moving horse at full speed, be able to seize a derrick hook and swing on it in midair is a feat few men would try, and yet Helen Gibson not only suggested it, but made the scene without the necessity even of a rehearsal.

Just Like a Keystone.

"Where's our set?"

M. S. Goldaine, assistant director of Allen J. Holubar's company, which was staging scenes for the Bluebird special feature, "Sirens of the Sea," on a wild island off the California coast, rushed breathlessly into headquarters one morning and excitedly put the question to his chief.

"Down on the beach—the same one we used yesterday," replied the director, thinking it strange his assistant should have forgotten over night the location of the set.

"All wrong," said Goldaine; "it was down on the beach last night all right, but it isn't there now!"

It was Holubar's turn to get excited. He rushed to the beach. Sure enough there was no set. The temporary stage which had been built a hundred yards from the water had vanished completely.

The members of the company were completely nonplussed for a while until one of them solved the mystery with a pair of field glasses. He discovered the set sailing sou' by sou'west, in a smooth sea about five miles off-shore. An unusually high tide had carried away the stage in the night.

A steam yacht, chartered by the Bluebird company for the use of the players, overhauled the sea-going set and towed it back to the island. Scenery and furniture were still in place on the stage, which was landed on the next high tide, none the worse for the overnight cruise.

If Mr. Holubar had not been a strictly truthful man, of course he might have gone on to say that several extras camped in the set that night, and that while cruising they caught several hundred-pound tuna, but being, as before stated, a strictly truthful man, he does nothing of the sort.

Jackie Wants a Story.

Jackie Saunders, Balboa's Mutual star, is to be fitted out with a new story. The vivacious young lady is offering $500 for the best five-reel scenario submitted to her before November 1, 1917. Contestants should address all scripts to Contest Editor, Balboa Amusement Producing Company, Long Beach, Cal., and a stamped and self-addressed envelope should accompany each script. The play chosen will be produced by Miss Saunders upon her return from vacation next fall.

When Work's Not Work.

Leave it to Harold Lockwood not to miss anything. Last week, Lockwood's Metro company, under direction of Fred Balshofer, went up to Arrowhead Hot Springs to film some scenes in "Paradise Garden," now in course of production.

Arriving, it was discovered there were several trout streams in the vicinity, and it immediately appeared a good thing to Lockwood to introduce some fishing episodes in his picture. So you needn't feel sorry for him when you see him working hard at angling.

Temperament Not Temper.

Rash as it may appear, Herbert Brenon, noted picture director, comes right out and declares that temperament is not temper, another noted picture man to the contrary notwithstanding. Brenon ought to know; he has directed possibly every film star from Nazimova and Florence Reed to Theda Bara and Valeska Suratt. In fact, Mr. Brenon has little use for an artist who is not possessed of a certain amount of that so-called artistic temperament, which is prone to make stage managers and directors tear their hair and gnash their teeth in their rage and helplessness. According to Mr. Brenon, there is little of the artist without the temperament.

"In all my experience as director of motion pictures, and during my theatrical career, too, I have never come across an actor or actress who amounted to anything who did not at some time or other display a certain amount of that so-called "artistic temperament," which is continually meeting with the sneers and ridicule of those who do not try to understand. I would not give a rap for an actor who is never temperamental."

Serious Warning Note.

Winifred Kingston, who plays opposite Dustin Farnum in his William Fox photoplays, has a decided English accent. It is often difficult for born-and-bred Americans to understand exactly what the petite picture player is saying, because Winifred once taught French, and this complicates her mode of speech still more.

That is why, when Dustin Farnum saw Miss Kingston a few days ago, this conversation ensued:

Winifred: You remember Sam Ralone? He was traveling through Kentucky a few days ago, and he got killed.

Dustin: How did it happen?

Winifred: In a feud.

Dustin: I told him never to ride in those cheap machines.

The high cost of living is at last solved by Valeska Suratt. Just fix your hats so you can eat 'em, says she. The empress of fashion designed a fruit-laden head-dress for use in "Wife Number Two," her coming Fox release. The hat bore on its crown and rim some apples, peaches and grapes. As soon as the few scenes in which it was needed were filmed, Miss Suratt distributed her hat among the studio hands. A good time is reported by all.

His Idea of Resting.

Tom Gibson, scenario writer out at Universal City, steps up to claim a place in the front rank of "Practical Vacationists." With thirty-five consecutive one-reel comedies hanging over his head and some twenty-five reels of other produced stories since his connection with the Universal, seven months ago, he decided he needed a vacation. So he packed wife and baby into his roadster and drove down to his mountain ranch in San Diego for the week-end. While "resting," from Saturday to Monday, he worked up two more comedies, both slated for early production by Allen Curtis and his Joker comedians, Gale Henry and Bill Franey. We shudder to think of what a "vacation" of a week would have brought forth.

"Suckerday."

[Zim in Cartoons Magazine:] As I remember it, the best day on the calendar for us schoolboys was Saturday. They might have eliminated all the others in the fifty-two weeks of the year if they'd just left that one each week for "we-uns," for that was the day we got out our sucker hooks and cotton lines, cut an alder pole along the creek bank and settled ourselves in a favorite bend where the water eddied and suckers were a-plenty. Saturday might, with propriety, have been changed to Suckerday, for that is about all it meant to us. Of course, we didn't linger around the house much to ask if there were any chores to be done, or wood to chop or errands to run or fences to whitewash like Tom Sawyer did. No siree! We got our worms dug the night afore and sneaked out of the house before breakfast and by so doing we developed a life-sized fisherman's appetite. We used to find potatoes and onions in the flood trash, and of course you know the salubrious flavor of roast potatoes and how they feed the imagination when you're playing "Injun" along the dirty waters of the creek.

WHY AMERICA IS AT WAR.

Distinguished Clergyman in the New York "Times" Presents the Justification of Self-defense.

[Shaller Mathews, D.D., in New York Times:] If America needs to be told why it is at war, its ignorance is to its credit. A nation that has tried to live like a gentleman among nations has naturally found it difficult to believe that all nations are not moved by respect for the customs and the laws which codify gentlemanly relations between nations.

We have at times overpraised our virtues and purposes, and in consequence for the last generation we have listened with a rather amused tolerance to successive proclamations of the Kaiser and the laudation of Germany by subsidized mouthpieces. After war broke out in 1914, for two years we struggled to treat Germany and its agents as we expected other nations to treat ourselves.

Our attitude might have characterized the Good Samaritan if He had come upon the robbers holding up the traveler and schooled himself to believe that the whole affair was exaggerated. We simply could not realize the German attitude of mind. Accustomed as many of us had been to interpret the finer ideal life of Germany, we could not believe that men like Eucken, Harnack, Herrmann and Deissman could freely and without reserve lend themselves to the defense of that which was unworthy of their words as we had understood them.

Against our will we have been disillusioned. We have not gone into war; we have had war thrust upon us. A chain of circumstances over which we have had no control has brought home to the Americans, anxious to maintain their faith in Germany, the conviction that America's sovereignty was being outraged, its people killed, its inner peace deliberately attacked, and its institutions, founded in sacrifice and offered to the world, not only despised, but in danger of destruction.

Germany has forced America, as it has forced almost the entire world, to defend itself by arms. Nobody but those suffering from myopic idealism or un-Americanism, if not definitely pro-German sympathies, can see anything else. Some of us have suffered when the scales have fallen from our eyes, but the scales have fallen—cut away by facts. At last we see clearly. We have not been drawn into the war by capitalism, or by commercialism, or by national policy. For months we have been living in a state of war, deliberately planned by a nation whose leaders for ten years have been preparing some day to fight America, and who have counted our good nature as cowardice, our unpreparedness as a lack of national self-respect.

Here are the facts:

We are fighting this war, in the first place, because Germany made war upon us.

For years she has sought to build up in America a community more loyal to herself than to the United States. Money has been lavishly spent in Germanistic societies, alliances and associations to win the admiration and loyalty of American citizens. Our universities have been flattered, our professors have been honored for this reason. Praise of the Kaiser has been inserted even in the spelling books of our public school system. Spies have been everywhere.

When the war came in 1914 German officials, many of them in high diplomatic positions, treated the United States, a neutral nation, as if it were an enemy. Pro-German publications were founded and subsidized, strikes were organized, manufacturing plants were blown up, plots against nations with whom we had treaty relations were formed within our borders, bombs were placed on ships in our ports. Hatred of America was systematically disseminated through Germany, and efforts were made to involve us in trouble with Japan and Mexico.

In reply to our repeated protests against these and other acts of Germany, to be mentioned presently, we have received promises and explanations which were little less than insults. The treaty that had existed almost the entire life of the American republic was set at naught and efforts were made to coerce us into favorable modifications of its terms.

The right of trade with belligerents, which Germany had always claimed, even to the benefit of our enemy in the war with Spain, and which at Germany's own insistence is universally recognized in international law, was treated as the violation of our neutrality and alliance with her enemies. And, finally, the proclamation of unrestricted destruction of neutral ships upon the high seas was a notification to the United States that it was no longer a sovereign people, but that if it would sail the seas in safety it must conform to conditions set by a power that defied international law, humanity, and elementary morality.

In the second place, we are defending ourselves against Germany because the German state has entered upon a programme which means the destruction of democratic institutions.

The Prussianization of Germany means that the policy of Prussia to carry on economic and political expansion by war is to be extended throughout the entire world.

We recognize that there were once, and we dare believe even now that there are two Germanys, one liberal and the other an autocracy based on militarism. The struggle between these two forces since 1815 has been a steady subjugation of liberalism in Prussia and the other German states to the will of a Prussian feudal nobility. Representative and responsible government in any true sense of the word has been fought by Prussian leaders relentlessly. Education has been made a creature of autocracy and a source of international hatred.

The same fate has met every land Prussianism has touched. Austria was beaten into submission in 1866, and all the other German states were made practically subject to the will of the Hohenzollerns between that date and 1870. France was robbed and humiliated. The Balkan states were kept in perennial war in the interests of German expansion. Bohemia and Poland have been treated with the same disregard of popular rights as has been Alsace-Lorraine. Turkey became a vassal of the Kaiser. A great militaristic, anti-democratic state like Southern Germany, subservient to Prussia, has been started and all but built from the Baltic to the Persian Gulf. Great Britain was maligned and threatened with destruction. South America was in part colonized by Germans, and the Monroe Doctrine was repeatedly threatened.

The highest authorities in Japan have repeatedly said that intrigues were endeavoring to about misunderstanding, if between Japan and the United

With the commercial European nations the United has no quarrel. If, however, expansion is based, guarded forced by the threat of war United States can see the tions of men who are pansion at the expense of the of other nations.

his people to a sense of human pity for the serfs. They had never considered serfdom as anything but natural and just, but "Dead Souls" brought home to them the horror and injustice of it all. In spite of the opposition and criticism it aroused, it set in motion forces which eventually resulted in the liberation of the serfs.

Briefly, "Dead Souls" deals with the machinations of one Chichikov, a scheming and evil-minded promoter. In the Russia of Gogol's day a man's position was judged largely by the number of serfs, or, as they were called, "souls," he possessed. A man who owned several hundred souls was esteemed wealthy and a power in his community. The souls were considered personal property, and money could be borrowed on them from the bank, the same as on any other form of live stock. A census of the serfs was taken every fifteen or twenty years, and the owner was obliged to pay a tax on each male serf he was recorded as owning. Even though the serf died, the owner was required to continue paying the tax until the new census was taken.

Chichikov was a gentleman of lofty ambitions and short purse. He evolved the engaging plan of visiting all the remote regions of Russia and buying up these "dead souls." The owner would presumably be charmed to part with his deceased workers for an infinitesimal sum, inasmuch as he would then be relieved of the tax on them. Transfer papers would be made out without, however, any mention being made of the fact that the poor serf had long since departed this life.

Chichikov planned, when he had bought a thousand or more dead souls, to buy a cheap tract of land somewhere and register it and his serfs. He could then borrow money from the Moscow Bank on them and purchase for himself some live serfs and become a landed gentleman.

This constitutes the entire plot of the novel, but it gives the author a chance to portray varying types of land owners and the conditions of these serfs. We follow Chichikov on his journeys from one estate to another, and have a merry laugh or a keen heartache over what is revealed to us. It also gives Gogol an opportunity for the satire with which the book teems.

In spite of all the humor, however, the book is a tragic portrayal of serfdom, and the author never lets his love of a joke make him lose sight of his real purpose of showing up a hideous wrong. Some of the most amusing scenes are fraught with horror, too. For instance, consider the scene where Chichikov haggles with Mme. Korobotchka, the miserly land owner, over the price of her dead souls. This is recounted in a ludicrous manner, yet, on sober second thought, the reader is revolted at the spectacle of two grasping creatures quarreling over the sale of toilers whose work is long since done.

The first part of the book was published in 1842, and raised a storm of excitement. Gogol was accused of caricaturing his countrymen, and bitterly denounced. The reading public took especial offense at the character of Chichikov. Gogol replied that his hero was "a symbol of the Russian people, degraded without realizing it."

He published an apology of Chichikov at the end of the first half of "Dead Souls." He declared that "wise men tolerate every type of character . . . that the motives of men are as numberless as the sands of the sea and have no points of resemblance. Noble or base, all obey man in the beginning, and end by obtaining terrible control over him. . . . They are born with him, and he is powerless to resist them."

This defense, which philosophers would term the argument of psychological positivism, failed to placate his readers, and Gogol was the object of increasingly vindictive attacks. Speaking of these in a letter to a friend, he says, "Thankless is the task of the writer who dares produce what is passing before all, unnoticed by our distracted gaze. Such a writer will not have the approval of the masses." Which is not true of Russia alone, but might apply to the realistic writer of every country.

So great was the pressure brought to bear on Gogol, that he promised to write a second part to his book, in which his hero would undergo a reformation. However, his mind began to cloud, and he became wildly irrational. He worked on the second part until it was finished, and then burned it in a frenzy of despair, so the book remains unfinished to this day.

Gogol died in 1852, after a period of absolute madness. His dying words, "I shall laugh my bitter laugh," are inscribed on his tomb, although no one knows what the exact meaning of his cry might be.

Magnificent.

MEDALS OF HONOR ARE WON BY GIRL.

FRENCH MISS IS TWICE SAVED FROM A FIRING SQUAD.

Is Decorated by Her Country as no Woman has been Before, for Conspicuous Services in the Field and Fearlessness When Taken by Germans.

BY JEANNE GUNAUD.

In Marcelle Semmer, a girl of 21, an orphan of simplest peasant stock, France has found her Edith Cavell.

More fortunate than England, however, the republic can take to her heart the living form of her most glorious daughter, upon whose bosom she has already pinned the Cross of the Legion of Honor and the Cross of War—a combination no woman has ever before been privileged to wear.

For, although on two separate occasions, she stood blindfolded before a German firing squad, the heroine, whose name will blaze in history beside that of the martyred Englishwoman, has lived to hear her country's plaudits and to receive the recognition that is her due.

Here are the words with which Marcelle faced a German court-martial—words that are already immortal in France:

"Do with me what you will, I am an orphan, I have only one mother—France—and it doesn't disturb me to die."

Her acquaintance with war began in the early weeks of the 1914 campaign. Retreating across the Somme, with the Germans at their heels, the French neglected to destroy a drawbridge spanning the lock at Eclusier.

Marcelle, then a lass of 18, had never heard of tactics or strategy; plain, common sense, the heritage of her peasant blood, told her, however, that the Germans must be prevented from using that bridge.

Having no dynamite to destroy the structure, she did the next best thing, which was to open wide the draw and throw away the key, so that it could not be closed again.

This she carried out under a brisk fusillade from the approaching German infantry, whose advance guard, seeing what she had done, directed their fire as much at her as at the retiring French soldiers.

They went further. They stoned to death, on the other side of the canal, two wounded Frenchmen, and yelled across to her that she would meet the same fate as soon as they reached Eculsier.

She ran off unscathed, however, and with a dozen women, children, and old men hid in the cellar of a farmhouse. For a fortnight they remained in their precarious shelter, but Marcelle nightly risked capture by sallying forth to get food for her companions and herself.

On these execursions she would meet with French soldiers, lost or wounded, and in momentary danger of falling into the enemy's hands. Obtaining civilian clothes for them she would guide them across country until they were out of the German lines and able to rejoin their regiments.

But there was one of her soldier countrymen who was too badly wounded to make his escape. Every night Marcelle would creep out to the haystack in which he lay hidden and take him food and water, and do what she could to make him comfortable.

A German patrol found her there and dragged her before their colonel. By drumhead court-martial she was sentenced to death. They asked her whether she had assisted other French soldiers to escape.

"Certainly," she replied, with the directness of Jeanne d'Arc herself, "I succeeded in getting sixteen out of your reach."

Immediately she was placed with her hands bound and her eyes bandaged against a stone wall. A squad of twenty-four men levelled their rifles at her.

Then, "as if it had fallen from heaven," as Marcelle herself put it, a French shell exploded right in the midst of the firing party.

Several were killed instantly, and the rest fled. The first shell was the forerunner of a terrific bombardment which drove the Germans back out of Eclusier, and brought the French into the village again. They found Marcelle, still handcuffed and blinded, lying against the wall. Shells had burst all about her, but she was untouched.

Her frightful experience failed to dimay her, for she immediately offered her services as a guide to the French scouts.

She was piloting a reconnaissance patrol a few nights later when, becoming detached from the party in her eagerness to lead them on, she was seen by the German outpost at Fries—another Somme village since become famous—and was made prisoner. The officer before whom she was led was the same who had condemned her to death in Eclusier.

"You escaped by a miracle last time," he informed her, "This time there won't be any miracle."

But the miracle repeated itself—and not once, but twice. First the moon, by the light of which the firing squad was aiming its rifles at the girl, was suddenly obscured by the clouds, which prevented the Germans seeing their target, and forced them to postpone the execution until dawn.

Then a French projectile from the celebrated "75" gun pierced a hole in the solid stone of the church in which the Germans had incarcerated her, and passed on without exploding.

That it did not burst was miraculous in itself. Had it done so Marcelle would certainly have been killed. As it was, she was able to crawl through the hole it had made and regain the French lines.

Still the young heroine's nerves remained unshaken. Besides herself, there was only one civilian left in that part of the country, a paralyzed woman more than 90 years old. Marcelle devoted her attention to caring for this bedridden invalid and to doing what she could for the soldiers. She was almost constantly under shell fire within half a mile of the front trenches until the advance on the Somme began on July 1.

EMPIRE ON THE SEAS.

The Suggestion of a Japanese Maritime Manager.

"I believe the great oceans, which are under nobody's rule, are the best sphere for the activity of the Japanese people," writes Dr. Imaoka, managing director of the Yokohama Dock Company, in the last number of the Jitsugyo-no-Nihon. "Japan is already densely populated and is increasing nearly 700,000 yearly. We shall soon have 80,000,000; but there are no good places for our people to go. South America, China and some of the South Sea islands are the only regions in the wide world that hold out welcoming hands to Japanese immigrants. At home we are overcrowded, and a cry for bread is sometimes heard in certain localities. This is why I advocate 'an Empire on the Seas'—in other words, encouragement to shipbuilding to an extent that millions of Japanese may find their occupation on the seas or be sustained thereby!

"A steamer of 5000 tons requires fifty men to work it; these fifty men earn their living on the sea. As their families ashore rely on them for support, the wage-earners are, in effect, nonresidents. Assume that each sailor supports a family of five, a tonnage of 50,000 (ten ships) will support 2500 persons. Every ton of shipping represents in the making of the work of thirty men. To build the 500,000 tons demanded by our ally would need 15,000,000 workmen. Assuming that two years are required to finish such a contract, 20,000 persons must be employed every working day. Counting dependence as before, an estimate of 100,000 people will be the number accommodated.

"In Great Britain 370,000 men are employed in shipbuilding and allied industries; there are 300,000 British seamen. Therefore, Britons dependent upon shipping interests will approximate 3,500,000. The number of Britons 'living on the sea,' so to speak, amounts to astounding figures. Here is where Japan should find an outlet!" Dr. Imaoka concludes:

"Advantages of maritime development are very numerous. Japan must push her markets abroad; she must have an outlet for her overcrowded trade, as well as her dense population. Development of marine transportation is a step toward national defense. To Japan a navy is imperative; she is an island empire like Britain. The sea is her safety and her danger."

Hen Raising a Pig.

[Copper's Weekly:] Peter Kartrude, who lives at Luverne, Minn., has a hen which has adopted a little pig. The last of a litter, the pig found itself a supernumerary at feeding time, but the hen took pity on it, and the pig was not long in discovering that her feathers meant warmth and her motherly instinct meant protection. Though the pig follows its adopted mother about and watches enthusiastically her efforts to supply it with nourishment in the usual way of hens, it has not adapted itself to a chicken diet, but subsists on milk from a bottle.

THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER.

All Denominational Titles in Mexican Mission to Disappear—This Month Sees Beginning of a New Era in Protestant Church Work There—New University and Seminary—Church Publishing House, for All Bodies, Likewise to be Established, as Well as Hospitals—Remarkable Church Union.

SOMETHING besides revolutions is under way down in Mexico. Behind the veil that seems to be drawn along the Rio Grande history is being made—missionary history without a parallel in the annals of the foreign work of the American churches. Despite the turbulent conditions, marked progress is being made along new lines. Recently there was held a conference of representatives of eleven denominations in Mexico, together with representatives of the Y.M.C.A. and of the Bible Society. This was a meeting of experts, met to formulate a policy and a plan.

One has to take a second look at the findings to make sure that it is not all theory. Here is a programme, formulated by responsible men and women, more radical than anything yet undertaken in all Christendom. Not even Korea, that model mission field, has made such strides towards comity and administration as have been registered in Mexico. The new programme wipes out entirely the evils of competition and rivalry and waste.

AHEAD OF AMERICAN CHURCH.

Take one concrete fact first. It is of more than trifling interest that last month there opened in Mexico City a union theological seminary, under the joint control of all the evangelical denominations doing mission work in Mexico. Can one imagine the Episcopalians and the Methodists and the Presbyterians and the Baptists and the Disciples and the Lutherans all getting together in New York City for one common theological seminary, which, of course, means the standardization of the preachers? When duplication and rivalry are remedied at the fountain a fundamental reform is effected. If the teachers of religious study from the same books under the same teachers, and in the same spirit, nothing can keep their nation from presenting a common religious front to the world. What Mexico has achieved completely and what some parts of China have secured to a good degree seems almost unthinkable for America.

Other items in the programme, almost as radical, wait for adoption upon the meetings of the various denominations in this country, which supply the money for mission work, and therefore speak the last word of control. The churches, however, dare not go backwards when their missionaries are going forward. The common mind of American Christians supports the proposals made by the recent conference in Mexico. The average Christian cares more for the work than for theological differences. He is likely to say: "Why can't the churches in America get along with as much co-operation as the churches in Mexico and other parts of the mission field?"

PROGRAMME OF PROGRESS

The conference out of which grew this radical programme was held several weeks ago in Mexico City. It was the outgrowth of the Panama Pan-American missionary conference, held in Panama in February of last year. The following programme was adopted for all Protestant churches in Mexico, as reported in the Continent:

"The conference adopted the following programme:

"That a Mexican evangelical university be established.

"That the evangelical normal schools in Mexico be united into four—two for young men and two for young women.

"That a publication house with book department be established in Mexico City, and with as many branch departments in other parts of the country as may be necessary.

"That a church paper shall be published which shall be the official organ of the Mexican evangelical church.

"That a paper for young folks be published similar to the Youth's Companion.

"That several interdenominational hospitals and dispensaries in different parts of the country be established.

"That all the denominations adopt the name "Mexican Evangelical Church," placing below in parenthesis, if so desired, the name of the denomination.

"That a letter of dismissal be sufficient for a member to be received from one denomination to another.

"That a letter of dismissal be sufficient for a member to be received from one denomination to another.

"That the matter of establishing institutional churches in Mexico be further discussed.

"That a plan for the wisest distribution of territory be worked out and be submitted to each denomination for approval.

"That a committee be named to study the problem of organic union of the different denominations in Mexico with the view of formulating a confession of faith and a system of government acceptable to all.

"That this committee present its report in order that the various denominations may have ample time to present the report to his official bodies in 1918."

STANDARDIZING GREAT WORK.

All Latin America is affected with this same zest for unity and effiency. The correspondent of the Continent proceeds to analyze conditions which lead up to the recent meeting:

"The method employed for propagating the gospel in Mexico from the beginning has been one of competition and each denomination for itself. We know now that those days are numbered and that the same deep spirit of co-operation which is moving the churches south of Panama is taking hold of the Mexican churches. The day sessions of the conference were taken up in listening to and afterwards discussing the reports of commissions appointed beforehand on the following topics: Method and message, education, literature, woman's work, medical work, survey and occupation, the church on the field and home base. Drs. Vanderbilt, Wallace and Arrellano and Prof. Brown of our mission had the honor of being chairman of four of these commissions, while the editor of our Mexican church paper, Dr. Arrellano, was elected chairman of the convention. In spite of the opinion of several of the leaders of the convention, who thought it unwise to hold evening popular sessions for fear of outside disturbances, the programme was carried out as at first planned. The meetings were as orderly and as free from annoyances as those of any conference in the States."

It is evident that the delegates left the convention with a new understanding toward the South American republics and the United States. This was the first time that they really heard what their neighbors to the south of them were doing in evangelistic work. They knew that for many years conventions had been held in various places for a closer union among the Latin American republics and the United States along commercial and scientific lines. Now they know that this union is to be further cemented by putting it on a religious basis.

Delegates to the Mexico City meeting report that, despite all the difficulties and baffling conditions, and despite undoubted inconsistencies in his programme, Carranza is the best thing in sight for Mexico. All the missionaries are for him. They report that the United States seems unable to realize the extent of the pacification and the progress of order and education and improved self-government that is to be found south of the Rio Grande. There is a general good will toward the missionaries, and both government and populace feel that these representatives of American altruism are a needed force to effect the stability and high level of democracy.

BATTLE OF THE CENTURY.

BY MARY STEWART DAGGETT.

In Armageddon of my dream I quail when Science stalks supreme With two-edged sword, with shield of flame—conscripting men to play the game
In war graves of a trench.
Low under ground the rodents feed on bleeding flesh, in filthy greed,
As sapper sinks his kultured head to string last wires for the dead
That soon must glut the earth.
I wake, I cry, can this be war when gunners rend from miles afar,
When bird-men murder in the sky and kill sweet children, while they fly
Above a stricken town?
Is this a jest 'twixt death and life
—the end of joy—the lust of strife—
That shames all honor, of a code to slink 'neath ships in ocean's road
Like monster long extinct?
Must men go mad, lean babies cry,
the aged moan, the widowed sigh
When ships go down with daily bread as waves throw back the staring dead
To over-lords that gorges?
Shall art at last give up the ghost to vandals in attacking host—
The force-machine of monarch's will, baptized with cant to waste, to kill,
To crucify anew.
Was not the sacrificial tree God's safeguard to humanity?
Must sins of medieval breed compel the world to mourn, to bleed
Through conquent for the vain?
Great Lord of Hosts! bless Thou our war, waging for freedom near and far.
Guard the deep trenches of Thy sea —change a foul dream to Liberty!
Make straight our paths to Peace.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

During the month of June more than $309,000 was contributed for the relief of starving people in Western Asia to be distributed by the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief.

In this total are included several large gifts received by the committee within the last few days, among them being an additional $15,000 from the National Armenian Union of America; $5000 each from E. S. and Mrs. S. V. Harkness, $10,000 from the Boston committee, $15,000 from an anonymous giver who had previously contributed nearly $100,000, and $1000 donated by an Armenian woman whose brother, a prominent and well-to-do merchant in New York City, had given a check for this amount for her birthday. With his approval it was immediately indorsed by the American committee for distribution abroad.

Mrs. Mary J. Whitney of Somerville, Mass., who was 96 years of age July 8, repairs all of the city flags. She makes her home at the Somerville Home for the Aged, and is its oldest inmate. Mrs. Whitney was born in Hallowell, Me. Her father fought in the Civil War and her grandfather in the Revolutionary War. Only a few days ago Mrs. Whitney repaired a number of flags. She has lived for sixteen years at the Somerville home.

Thirty-six boxes of hospital supplies for foreign shipment, containing 21,996 articles, were started from the Red Cross shop in the Circle Theater Building to the Bush terminal, Brooklyn, July 11. The articles included pajamas, bath robes, hospital bed shirts, muslin bandages of various kinds and gauze dressings. They are additional to the equipment for base hospital No. 32, of Indianapolis. Royal H. Wilke, No. 509 Hamilton avenue, who hauled the boxes, offered an example of unselfish service. He came to the Red Cross shop some time ago, saying he had tried to enlist in several branches of army service and each time had been rejected on account of physical disability. He wanted to be of some service and asked the Red Cross shop to use him. His occupation is truck driver, and he works at night. He spent an entire day hauling the boxes from the Red Cross shop.

Philip Kee, a Chinese interpreter at Ellis Island, the proprietor of the Celestial Rest, a restaurant, has recruited 690 American-born Chinese, whom he is drilling for service in the United States army. It is Kee's intention to form a regiment of 1000 men before he makes his offer to the government.

Having no money to give, a Slav woman of Middletown, O., contributed a hen and a dozen eggs to the Red Cross fund. The sum of $3000 has already been realized from her gift, with more coming. "And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest."

Silk-gowned women are the workers in a pajama factory started in Deal, N. J., and they drive to and from their work in a limousine on the one day a week they labor. The factory is the Casino, where, in times of peace, the fox trot and the one-step rule, and the women workers and members of the New Jersey Coast Auxiliary-at-Large of the Atlantic division, American Red Cross. Its officers and other women who work at the sewing machines are the wives and daughters of men prominent in the business and professional life of New York. Within a short time it will have a "pay roll" of 150 women a day, with an output of 12,000 suits a month.

INTELLECTUAL HOSPITALITY.

Democracy of the Mind is as Important as Freedom in the State.

BY CHARLES F. THWING,
President Western Reserve University.

Intellectual hospitality is among the most beautiful of graces, the most structural of virtues and the most enduring of all charms. It represents and unites diverse forces of character, the worth of education, the beauty of courtesy and the delights of social intercourse.

Intellectual hospitality stands for breadth of mind, a willingness to accept and to weigh truth or presumed truth of all sorts and conditions. It stands for depth of mind, a willingness to test every interpretation and to hold fast to the fact. It stands for height of mind, a willingness to give to the mind imagination and to follow its flight into unknown realms. It stands for a heart in the individual, which is kind, warm, tender, sympathetic, responsive. It also stands for a will which is as free from stubbornness and obstinacy as it is remote from weakness and indifference. It means a character which spells welcome to thoughts, warm and strong.

Intellectual hospitality means that the teacher welcomes the suggestion of the student, the employer the help of the employee as to better methods of management, the churchman of one faith the acceptance of belief from an adherent of another creed, the classicalist interpretations from the scientist, the captain a judgment from the private, and the preacher a theme from the pew. It is opposed to exclusiveness and to reclusiveness. It means keeping the front door of the mind open to all good thoughts and feelings and the back door and the cellar door shut to all that is evil, dark or fearful. It means getting the better out of the worse, the more out of the less, hope from despair, breadth from narrowness, appreciation from contempt, praise from indifference, knowledge from ignorance, and love from hatred.

Mr. Lincoln embodied the grace above most human leaders. He kept his mind and heart free to suggestions from every point of the compass. John Stuart Mill, as a philosopher and economist, illustrated the same great virtue. He sought for truth in every field; and to each visitor he held out a heart and a hand of sympathetic welcome.

Intellectual hospitality belongs to nations, quite as much as to individuals; its lack is possibly even more impressive in nations. Of all modern nations Germany perhaps is the most alarming example of its lack. Unto itself Germany thinks itself sufficient. Not only in a time of war, but also in time of peace, the virtue itself has a beautiful illustration in the history of Japan for the last two generations. The little kingdom of the sea has opened itself to intellectual visits from many climes and zones. It has gathered up suggestions, interpretations from thinkers, scholars, administrators of every realm, and has engrafted these suggestions into its own body politic, civil, educational, personal.

In a time of war a nation is almost obliged to show itself inhospitable. In self-defense it may exclude or expel strangers, who, in ordinary times, would become proper guests. The doctrine of extremes is in peril of being applied. At this very hour, be it said, the American educational system which ought to be hospitable above most forces is menaced by inhospitality. For in the worthy antagonism against Germany, the great German authors, as Goethe and Schiller, are liable to be shut out of our course of study. The reason is plain. In the hard and just antagonism to Germany everything German, even its best offerings, may be denied acceptance. But on the whole a gracious interpretation should be given to whatever may minster to the best life and development of America.

Intellectual hospitality implies intellectual discrimination. It represents the power to judge between the charlatan and the honest man, between the unworthy and the worthy, between the illegitimate and the legitimate, between the marauder and the friend, between the robber and the guest. If this discrimination be lacking, both the intellect and the heart are liable to be imposed upon. If one keep open house, the peril is that those who ought not may come in. It is said that our own Emerson looked upon every caller who might come to his white house as a possible visitant from the other world. Whatever he thought, some of his friends believed that some of these visitants did not come from the heavenly world at all! Years ago a certain Bishop of London had three remarks to make to unknown callers: First, "What is your name?" Second, "What do you want?" Third, "No." Between the mood of Emerson and the mood of the bishop there ought to be no difficulty of choice. It is better to be imposed upon many times than to exclude one worthy visitant. The constant mood of each should be hospitality of intellect to ideas, and hospitality of heart to love and all other worthy feelings.

Nerve-trying.

UNDERSEA PIRACY A PERILOUS GAME.

ANNIHILATION IS SWIFT WHEN U-BOAT IS HIT.

Much is Heard of the Success of the German Submarine, While the Failures that Spell Death are Cloaked in an Impenetrable Secrecy.

BY C. D. RUTHERFORD,
Former Submarine Commander.

You hear a great deal of the success of the German submarine. Its failures are cloaked in an impenetrable secrecy. It requires an effort to visualize all the sweating agony of fear, all the minutes that are centuries in passing when deathly disaster is half a fathom away, all the nerve-racking intensity of mental concentration that never eases while the submarine is at sea. Perhaps only the man with submarine experience can even guess at the price of piracy.

The German pirates pay for whatever success they have. I offer no sympathy on that score. Pussyfooting piracy is a dirty game anyway, but it takes full-grown men to play it.

Have you ever thought what it means for a German submarine to get out in the Atlantic. It has to dodge mines in the Bight of Helgoland. It has to crawl in a half-submerged condition, ready to plunge at any moment, across the North Sea to certain perturbed waters tossing in the north that are the only possible outlet, and every inch of those waters is patrolled by British vessels—destroyers, motor launches, trawlers and the like, all carrying guns, all carrying every device known to man that will kill the submarine.

Worse remains behind. A smudge of smoke on the horizon, and down the submarine goes into darkness. The thudding of the Diesel engines is replaced by the soft purr of the electric motors. Then across the silence there breaks a soft, slow, grinding noise. The commanding officer looks at his coxswain by his side. In the thoughts of both is the one idea, "trawlers"—and trawlers carry grappling hooks that will pierce the thin skin of a submarine in a score of places as they are towed along at a leisurely pace.

Then the note of the trawler's propellers is mixed with a sharper, clearer, faster whirr. Destroyers! The U-boat is in an unhealthy corner.

The commander dives lower and swerves towards the coast. There is only one thing to do—to rest many fathoms down on the sandy bottom until it is dark.

That is what happens under the happiest circumstances. There are others. There may be no sandy bed, only treacherous rocks, with a lumpy sea running; that means banging and battering the frail hull until it leaks. Then the U-boat must crawl on under water hour after hour while those telltale propellers throb the surface. The engineer begins to look serious. Electric storage batteries will run for only a few hours. There is perhaps enough power to keep her going another couple of hours.

There is a sudden moment of annihilation in the submarine. Everyone is struck unconscious for ten seconds while the boat shakes and trembles. Each wakes to find himself thrown headlong into a corner. The bows suddenly swoop downwards, though the diving rudder is set upwards; the stern cocks up to an incredible angle. A trap. A mined net, probably, or some new contrivance . . . that is the ever-haunting fear—something new, something from which there is no escape, some peril that has not been faced before.

There is a silence of the tomb in the steel hull. No one speaks. Then another explosion.

A few oily patches on the surface of the sea, a few bubbles that burst and are gone. That is all the slayers see. Later a query mark is put against one more report in the anti-submarine department.

Thrilling.

LIFE OF A SNIPER FULL OF GINGER.

AMERICAN SOLDIER WRITES OF SERVICE WITH BRITISH.

Though Wounded Five Times with Shot and Shell and Once Near Death When a Hospital Ship was Torpedoed, He has Bagged Forty-five Germans.

BY GEORGE HENDERSON,
Corporal in the British Army.

[The writer of the following article is known as the "Mad Corporal" because of his exploits as a sniper and bomber. His home is at Madison, Wis.—Ed.]

Altogether I have been laid low eight times, including five times wounded with shot and shell, but I have one consolation—I have bagged forty-five Germans. If on my return to France I should fall, all I can say is that I have had my day, and the enemy will have got their own back.

Altogether, I have had three years' service in the British army, and I am just having a short leave before I return to the front again, for you see, I have joined up again for twenty-one years, or for the duration of the war.

The first time the Germans hit me was at La Bassee, at the commencement of the war. Not long afterwards I got plugged again at Messines, and had hardly got going decently before I had shrapnel planted in my back.

At Hill 60 my head got in the way of a well-aimed bullet, which passed through my head and came out at the neck. I managed to defy this ill-mannered Hun, but I came a cropper again, this time returning to hospital with three pieces of shrapnel in my frame.

At the time I was felled I was carrying Capt. Skinner on my back. We had got an order to capture a wood, so off we went, loaded with bombs and grenades. We had no sooner got into the wood than the machine guns began to speak. I lost my platoon officer and sergeant, and I called upon our boys to halt. The brave lads yelled out, "Go, on, Georgie—we'll follow ye anywhere!"

I took them on, and at last got to the outer side without losing a man.

Not long afterwards, whilst acting as platoon officer, I was asked to try and get connected with another company, and whilst making my way through the dark wood, a shell burst right in front of me, and over I went on my back. When I was brought to my senses I found I had fallen into a deep shell hole.

I shook myself and felt myself to make sure I was alive, and as I was doing so another shell burst at the back of me. This roused me, and I decided it was time to clear out.

When I got with my boys again the Huns gave us it thick. "Jack Johnsons," "whizz-bangs," bursting shells, gas shells, in fact, every kind of shell the German arsenals could produce, were poured upon us. In the midst of the inferno I heard someone call out. I yelled back, "Who are you?" and, rushing forward with my rifle and bayonet, I called upon the stranger to halt. The wanderer turned out to be Capt. Skinner, of another battalion.

He told me the shelling had broken his line. I told him to jump into a shell hole with me, and he did so. He had no sooner got under cover than a "naughty one" burst just over us, knocking about ten of us out. My steel helmet was shattered to pieces, and I got some of it planted in my back and neck. I also received a big gash in my arm, but my injuries were slight compared with those of the others.

On regaining my senses, I picked Capt. Skinner up, but I could not get him through the densely-wooded lines. I, however, managed to make my way through the shell holes, and when I saw that it would be unwise to take the gallant officer any further, I left him in a shell hole, and then ran as fast as I could for the stretcher-bearers.

When I was coming back a shell tore a hole in my back, and, as I was falling, a tin fell on the back of my hand, which completely

GLIMPSES.

Fingering Finery.

ON THE RADIANT RIALTO

IN AND OUT OF OUR BRILLIANT MARTS OF FASHION.

By Olive Gray.

Now is the time to buy:

Linens, before they join the aviation corps, now forming. You can buy plain (biplane!) weaves and pattern damasks cheaper now by far, than a little later in the season.

Fine French soaps for the guest room, or even for your own use—at that high-class store which has marked these luxuries for less.

One more petticoat of silk—the sort which is bound to fit, or rather banded to. The coming week is devoted to these famous skirts sold only at that store of brotherly merchandising.

When you give a dinner be sure to have a first-class starter. No, not a cocktail of either temperance or vinous type, nor yet hors d'oeuvre, important though these may be.

I mean a starter of conversation, tickler of the mind. The person who best serves the purpose socially is that one who, by a few well-directed words, opens a congenial channel for the expression of opinion. It is she, or he, who, being well informed as to the fields in which those present are wont best to shine, unobstrusively guides the discourse thither. By a subtly-rounded corner, the talk is led to the point where this one's best story fits in well; another turn and the subject is changed from gay to serious and a circumstance is related which unmistakably discloses someone's bravery, or resourcefulness. As unobtrusively as the plates are removed, or course after course is the subject changed, lest anyone be bored by opinions too insistent, and ever keeping in the background, the adroit "social starter" becomes the means of placing all guests at their brilliant best.

Not Imperial!

Angela is the most anti-German girl I know! She actually refused to purchase gloves of Kayser silk because she had an idea that the Kaiser had a hand in making them! However, she at last is convinced and has decided to purchase some of the bargains offered in a this-week's sale. As Angela has joined the dress-preparedness brigade and has become a careful buyer, her friends will take her move as a valuable tip—like those woven at silken finger ends.

Not Spelled Right.

The name of those petticoats is not spelled "right," but they fit that way, none the less; and this week they have their innings, at that store of brotherly love. The rightness of the fit is attained by means of an adjustable waist band, and the quality of the materials is guaranteed, so that when purchasing one of those silk skirts, whether it be plain or lace-and-ruffle fussy, you are buying something of substantial worth.

"Come a'Linening."

This is the clever invitation extended by the section of that store not seventh in the amount of linens in stock. It is averred by knowing ones that, from now on, it will be a long time between linens, and a longer time between special prices like them.

"Tickled Pink."

I have borrowed this expression from the girl who invented it. She doesn't know she has loaned it to me, but I needed it to tell about those pinkish wares for underneath wares which are really wears, and which we are all so tickled to find and 'em prices.

It is a just-now fad to run blue baby ribbons into pink and flesh-colored underwear, and it really adds to daintiness.

"Erewhon."

SAMUEL BUTLER'S "Erewhon" has been given a new edition by E. P. Dutton & Co., and though it first appeared in 1872, and again in 1901, its satirical castigation of society and civilization is even more timely than when Butler wrote of the imaginary kingdom onto which he stumbled across a remote mountain range. Butler was not nearly so big a man of his own day as of ours; he was neither appreciated nor understood, and for the most part was regarded merely as "disagreeable," though he had a far better understanding of science than many not obscure in his time; he would have been an authority on literature if he had not so truculently denounced all authority; he was a painter of far more ability than ambition, and has of late been accorded pre-eminence as an author, particularly as a satirist.

"Erewhon" (pronounced E-rewhon) is meaty satire, not in the least dependent on lambent wit or quick-turned phrases for its effects. Butler ridicules criminal law, valetudinarianism, vegetarianism, babies and birth, mechanics, morals, education, and most everything that the social state is heir to. It is very much of a general indictment of mankind. In the topsy-turvy world of Erewhon those things which we prize are discredited or else carried to absurd extremes; and Butler obviously had much joy in the writing, but there is an uncanny note of earnestness in his premise that man will eventually be conquered by machines. All machinery was suppressed and wrecked in Erewhon because the philosophers thought they realized that civilization was to be destroyed through dependence on machines. The old philosopher who succeeded in having machines abolished wrote:

"It can be answered that even though machines should hear never so well and speak never so wisely, they will always do the one or the other for our advantage, not their own; that man will be the ruling spirit and the machine the servant; that as soon as a machine fails to discharge the service which man expects from it, it is doomed to extinction . . . instead of being likely to be developed into a higher kind of life than man's, they owe their very existence and progress to their power of ministering to human wants, and must therefore both now and ever be man's inferior.

"This is all very well. But the servant glides by imperceptible approaches into the master; and we must have come to such a pass that, even now, man must suffer terribly on ceasing to benefit the machines. If all machines were to be annihilated at one moment, so that not a knife, nor lever, nor rag of clothing nor anything whatsoever were left to man but his bare body alone that he was born with, and if all knowledge of mechanical laws were taken from him so that he could make no more machines, and all machine-made food destroyed so that the race of man should be left as if it were naked upon a desert island, we should become extinct in six weeks. A few miserable individuals might linger, but even these in a year or two would become worse than monkeys. Man's very soul is due to the machines; it is a machine-made thing; he thinks as he thinks and feels as he feels, through the work that machines have wrought upon him, and their existence is as much a sine qua non for his, as for theirs. This fact precludes us from proposing the complete annihilation of machinery, but surely it indicates that we should destroy as many of them as we can possibly dispense with, lest they should tyrannize over us even more completely."

The argument is much longer—and very nearly convincing, though machines did not begin to dominate mankind while Butler lived as they do now.

And so it is all through "Erewhon." Butler is an ingenious logician, contrary and perverse, but forcing symptoms of plausibility out of the utterly absurd. Incidentally, Bernard Shaw has acknowledged that some of his ideas and much of his inspiration for paradoxes and inversions have been gleaned from Butler and particularly from "Erewhon."

"Summer."

Edith Wharton is one of the few successful "unpopular" authors. She has never written a "best seller" though the "House of Mirth" came near spoiling her gratification in failure. But she has so much of a following that she may write what she pleases and the editors are pleased to run it, though many of them would no doubt be more satisfied if she would go to school to Elinor Glynn and Kathleen Norris and learn what the public really wants. But Mrs. Wharton doesn't seem to care a hang for what the public wants. She is quite unpleasant about it, too. She writes social satires from which club women get scanty enjoyment and tragedies that are not gilded. They are often painful and brutal and vulgar—unpleasant—and they burn and burn like a cinder from hell buried in the memory.

Take "Summer" (D. Appleton & Co.) for instance. There isn't a millionaire in it. Not even a motor car. Not a silk negligee, unless Julia Hawes has one, but she doesn't wear it in public. Not a bit of glare and flare; just tragic episodes in the life of poor Charity Royall, who was brought from the mountains by Lawyer Royall when a babe and doesn't know who her father or mother is. The people in the mountains are lawless and dirty, lowest of the white trash. And Royall himself is a man who nurses a sense of failure, whose morals at times are not clean, but who responds at times to resurgent impulses of nobility.

One summer Charity meets a young architect and she loves him in the foolish way; and he is not strong rather than mean, so that disappointment eats right down into the heart of her that was filled with love. Chagrined and humiliated she goes back to the mountain people, and sees her hag of a mother die, and sees her beast of a father stumbling about. All that is vivid and horrible. Mrs. Wharton doesn't compromise with the sensibilities of those who by chance blunder into her stories. Her attempt is to write of life as she sees it, and Charity Royall must pitilessly go through the vale of tears.

"Summer" is a splendid book. Its simplicity of narrative is something new and striking in this time of ornamentation, but the sharp directness of style is entirely characteristic of Mrs. Wharton.

"The Red Planet."

Anyone who has known, enjoyed—and loved—William J. Locke would be aware long before reading "The Red Planet" (John Lane Company) that war and its violent currents are not best suited to the whimsical wistfulness of his inimitable style. Mr. Locke stays away from battlefields, but the echo of not only this war, but of the Transvaal, is on every page of this latest book.

The story is unfolded through the medium of Maj. Meredyth, an officer whom the Boer War left without the use of his legs and who has become a sort of father confessor to the younger generation of the little English town of Wellingsford. There are many characters, many ramifications, but most of the incidents relate to Betty and Maj. Boyce, whose long engagement is suddenly and mysteriously terminated. Tragedy—the suicide of a beautiful girl—is in the background; and more than that is the reputation that Boyce has for cowardice in the Boer War, though in France men bandy glowingly from lip to lip tales of his successful and cold-blooded daring. But Betty impulsively marries another officer—who is killed, as men are likely to be; but the gap between her and Maj. Boyce cannot be closed, for, though the gallant fellow is largely the victim of circumstances, he is not entirely free from guilty responsibility for the situation which he solves, or seeks to solve, by an act of cowardice—or bravery, as you please—unbecoming to a man brave as he is. Though perhaps after all his bravery in itself is symptomatic of cowardice.

"The Red Planet" is too stark and tragic a story for those who cherish Mr. Locke to give it a very high place among his books; but it would be an impertinence indeed to expect him in such times as these to write with the amusing gaiety that charmed all who read in more peaceful days.

PEACE PLOT.

"From Hamburg to the Persian Gulf the net is spread," said President Wilson, in his Flag Day speech. He added: "Is it not easy to understand the eagerness for peace that has been manifested from Berlin ever since the snare was set and sprung?" Here is full and official recognition of the Prussian scheme which was first revealed to America by Andre Cheradame in his recent book, "The Pan-German Plot Unmasked" (Scribners.) How near Germany is to complete realization of her purpose is shown by a glance at the map. Observe the web reaching from Hamburg to the Persian Gulf. This territory forms the backbone of Europe—and of a world empire. It is the Mitteleuropa of the Pan-German League. It is the territory Germany started out to get in the present war. And she has practically accomplished her purpose. Hence Germany is ready for peace. She wants to call it a draw. She is even willing to make concessions—but not "from Hamburg to the Persian Gulf."

MARK TWAIN'S START.

Among the interesting stories about Mark Twain, unearthed by Albert Bigelow Paine, his biographer, is one relating in Twain's own words how he started on a writing career. The story is told as related to Mr. Paine at Harper & Bros., Twain's publishers, who are this year celebrating the one-hundredth birthday of the house, having been established in 1817.

The first paragraph which Mark Twain wrote when he began his editorial duties with the Virginia City Enterprise was this:

"A beautiful sunset made Beranger a poet, a mother's kiss made Benjamin West an artist, and $15 a week makes us a journalist."

Another story tells of a later joke. One day Mark Twain was being shaved by a very talkative barber, and was forced to listen to many of the barber's anecdotes.

Stopping to strop his razor, and prepared, brush in hand, to commence again, the barber said: "Shall I go over it again?"

"No thanks," drawled Mark. "It's hardly necessary. I think I can remember every word."

Edith Wharton,
Author of "Summer."

A FILIBUSTER'S DEFENSE.

"Dynamite Johnny" O'Brien, who died recently, has had his adventurous life story told by Horace Smith in "A Captain Unafraid." Mr. Smith makes Capt. O'Brien tell in his own words of his early love of filibustering which started him on his career and of the exploits it led him into in aid of Cuban independence. "With an unbridled passion for the sea and the love of adventure which it engendered"—explains Capt. Johnny on the first page of "A Captain Unafraid"—"it was inevitable that I should drift into filibustering. It is only fair to say, however, that I have not been recklessly running around smashing statues and setting all of society's regulations at defiance. I have never knowingly violated any law except the one against filibustering, and that I regarded as an immoral instrument for the reason that it seeks to destroy the spirit of liberty, while its only effect is to promote perjury. . . . If the United States law against filibustering had been effectively enforced—and let it be recorded here, before the unfolding of secrets begins, that its avoidance was accomplished through no shadow of connivance at Washington, for every instrument at the hand of this government was exerted to the utmost to prevent its infraction and to maintain an attitude of strict neutrality—Cuba might still be the victim of Spain's murderous misrule, the acquisition of our entering-wedge into the West Indies—Porto Rico—would have been postponed for years, and the Filipinos might still be fighting with each other and the Spaniards."

SCANDALIZED GHOSTS.

The many readers of Edward Lucas White's "El Supremo" (E. P. Dutton & Co.,) which, published last fall, has shown with every month since its appearance steadily increasing sales, have all been mystified and had their curiosity piqued by the dedication of the novel. It reads: "To the Scandalized and Indignant Ghosts of John Parish Robertson and William Parish Robertson this Book is Ironically Dedicated." Its explanation is to be found in the source from which Mr. Lucas took much of the material for his story of life in Paraguay a century ago. These Robertson brothers were Scotch merchants who in the early part of the last century accumulated a large fortune in the South American trade. They went to Montevideo and thence to Asuncion when quite young, soon after the failure of England to acquire dominion over that region—an effort of which a stirring and colorful story is told by W. H. Hudson in "The Purple Land" (E. P. Dutton & Co.)—and they knew well Dr. Francia, the Dictator of Paraguay, the hero of Mr. White's novel, "El Supremo." He quarreled with and banished them because they failed to get for him the arms he needed and in consequence they hated him consumedly. In the thirties and forties of the last century interest in Dr. Francia as the most mysterious and autocratic ruler on earth was high in Europe and information about him hard to obtain. So the Robertsons wrote two three-volume books, in which they recounted all their experiences of twenty years before in Paraguay. From their reminiscences Mr. White has taken nearly all the intimate, detailed descriptions of life, people, manners and customs that give his novel such remarkable and exotic color and make it seem so like a moving tapestry of people and scenes. But they constantly vilified Francia throughout their books and Mr. White, looking through their abuse, visioned him as a different sort of man, a man much better than they described him as being. So he amused himself by dedicating his full length portrait of the man they so hated to their "scandalized and indignant ghosts."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS RUINING MANKIND?

Boris Sidis Says Educational Methods are as Iniquitous and Destructive as Pedagogic Bigotry Can Make Them.

PHILISTINE AND GENIUS. By Boris Sidis. Richard G. Badger, Boston.

"Philistine and Genius" is a strange commencement address to have been delivered at any university, particularly at Harvard; but when one learns that Boris Sidis did the delivering it does not seem so inexplicable. Prof. Sidis, educator and psychologist, considers modern education and its methods about as iniquitous and destructive to the quota of genius in every child's mind as pedagogic bigotry can make them.

"We regard," he says, "the child's mind as a tabula rasa, a vacant lot, and empty on it all our rubbish and refuse. We labor under the delusion that stories and fairy tales, myths and deceptions about life and mind are good for the child's mind. . . . If credulity in old wives' tales, lack of individuality, sheepish submissiveness, barrack-discipline, unquestioned and uncritical belief in authority, meaningless imitation of jingles and gibberish, memorization of Mother Goose wisdom, repetition of incomprehensible prayers and articles of creed, unintelligent aping of good manners, silly games, prejudices and superstitions and fears of the supernormal and supernatural, are censured in adults, why should we approve of their cultivation in the young?"

Prof. Sidis scorns the theory of fear "to strain" the child's brain, and insists that in "directing" the course of the use of the child's energies we do not force the child. "Consider the fact that our children spend nearly eight years in the common school, studying spelling and arithmetic, and do not know them when they graduate. Think of the eight years of waste of school buildings and salaries for the teaching force." He speaks of one child "brought up in the love and enjoyment of knowledge for its own sake." Though he does not say so, this child is evidently Prof. Sidis's son, whose "precocity," has astonished all educators—excepting Prof. Sidis. "At the age of 12," the author says, "when other children of his age are hardly able to read and spell, and drag a miserable mental existence at the apron strings of some antiquated school dame, the boy is intensely enjoying courses in the highest branches of mathematics and astronomy at one of our foremost universities. The Iliad and the Odyssey are known to him by heart, and he is deeply interested in the advanced work of classical philology. He is able to read Herodotus, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Aristophanes, Lucian and other Greek writers with the same zest and ease as our schoolboy reads his "Robinson Crusoe" or the productions of Cooper and Henty. The boy has a fair understanding of comparative philology and mythology. He is well versed in logic, ancient history, American history, and has a general insight into our politics and into the groundwork of our Constitution. At the same time he is of an extremely happy disposition, brimming over with humor and fun. . . . He looks like a boy of 16."

Prof. Sidis charges that business is put above learning, administration above education, discipline and order above cultivation and talent. "We give our pupils and students artisan-inspiration and business spirituality. Originality is suppressed. Individuality is crushed. Mediocrity is at a premium. That is why our country has such clever business men, such cunning artisans, such resourceful politicians, such adroit leaders of new cults, but no scientists, no artists, no philosophers, no statesmen, no genuine talent and no true genius. School teachers have in all ages been mediocre in intellect and incompetent." "In leveling education to mediocrity we imagine that we uphold the democratic spirit of our institutions."

In his preface Prof. Sidis defines the "Philistine" as the typical product of modern education, who believes what he is taught and does what he is told. "Brought up in a school of fear, obedience and suggestibility, the Philistine, like Cain, murders his brother without aim and without understandng of the full significance of the awful deed." He finds Europe at present full of Philistines, but concludes: "Revivalism, a mental frenzy to which the American mob mind is specially prone, is a resurrection of Greek Bacchanalia and Roman Saturnalia. Revivals are emotional debauches, religious orgies. . . . Revivalism is far more dangerous to the life of society than drunkenness. . . . As a sot man falls below the brute; as a revivalist he sinks lower than the sot.

"If Europe is in violent convulsions of war insanity, America suffers from no less serious mental maladies—speculation frenzies, revival manias and preparedness plagues. Mental epidemics are ineradicable afflictions of the highly-evolved mob spirit characteristic of the Philistine. The evolution of the Philistine is the involution of the genius. Philistinism is social decay. The progress of humanity is from brute to man, from Philistine to genius."

VERSE.

AT LUCIFER'S PORTALS. By Paul B. Bachtell. Baumgardt Publishing Co., Los Angeles.

Mr. Bachtell has a good deal of youth in his poetic veins, and doesn't quite know what to do with the gift that is unmistakably his; so occasionally he grows wildly tragic, as in "The Millionaire's Last Search for Gold," and such phrases as "hell's abyss," "dire damnation," "tinseled vice," distributed throughout the book show characteristically the triteness of immaturity.

The titular poem, "At Lucifer's Portal," is something unexpectedly good in treatment, giving a dialogue among passengers in Charon's ferry, and while the denouement is less to be commended than other parts, it is a creditable piece of work for a new poet. It is in "Sonnets to B——" that he shows himself at his best, particularly in the one beginning "Emotion's realm, sweet music doth o'er sway."

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

Trousers for Women.

A well known department store on Fifth avenue, New York City, has been making a big display advertisement of a garment which it calls "womanalls," an adaptation of the time-honored and useful men's overalls for girls and misses. The trousers are gathered at the bottom to give fullness and can be worn ankle or knee length. The costume has been indorsed as a farm uniform by the National American Woman's Suffrage Association and many women are buying it also for housework uses. Even thus quickly and easily is the beginning made of the revolution in women's costumes which Vance Thompson in his "Woman," published a few months ago by E. P. Dutton & Co., foretold as one of the necessary things for women to bring about next. The book has created much and diverse comment, the most emphatic both for and against dealing with the chapter in which Mr. Thompson discusses the wisdom and the necessity of women shedding her skirts. A cynical person who read the stack of letters written to the publishers by well known women about the book made the guess that each one of those who were horrified by Mr. Thompson's argument and suggestions probably weighs more than a hundred and thirty pounds. Mr. Thompson should get out and make his best bow to this advance guard of the procession which, in the book, he imagines he sees coming down the road out of the future.

Rupert Brooke, Ervine's Hero.

Shortly after the publication of St. John G. Ervine's novel, "Changing Winds," someone came forward with the suggestion that Gilbert Farlow, one of the chief characters in the story, was none other than Rupert Brooke, the poet who lost his life in the Dardanelles. This suggestion has become a favorite topic of speculation among newspaper men and critics. A number of arguments have been advanced to defend the theory, as well as a number intended to disprove it.

Craig Kennedy Cannot Marry.

Arthur B. Reeve, whose new book of detective stories, "The Treasure Train," was published a few days ago, said recently that he can never allow his famous scientific detective, Craig Kennedy, to get married, or the many readers who follow his adventures would lose interest in him. This he has discovered from correspondence. Once he received a letter from a man in Arizona, who had read one of Reeve's stories in which Craig Kennedy was apparently growing fond of female society, begging him earnestly not to let Kennedy "get mixed up with women."

Mr. Neihardt Honored.

On June 13 the University of Nebraska conferred upon John G. Neihardt the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters in recognition of his work "as author, critic, poet." Mr. Neihardt's most recent books are "The Song of Hugh Glass" and "The Quest;" the former an epic of the Northwest, the other a volume of his collected lyrics. It is said that Mr. Neihardt is the youngest Doctor of Letters in the country.

To Study Russians.

Edward A. Ross, professor of sociology in the University of Wisconsin, will leave shortly for Russia to carry on there investigation of social conditions similar to those he has previously made in America and other countries. Among his suggestive books already published are "The Old World in the New," "Changing America," and "The Changing Chinese." Prof. Ross will go to Russia to study the need for relief and community organization there and to judge of the probabilities of future emigration.

Bernard Shaw and Jim Corbett.

Frank Dilnot, whose book, "Lloyd George," is a picture of Britain's Prime Minister as the author himself has seen him during many years, told a recent interviewer of an interview he himself once had with Bernard Shaw: "I went to see him because it was announced that Jim Corbett, a prize fighter, was to take the principal part in one of his plays which was to be performed in America. The incongruity of a prize fighter having a principal part, or one of the principal parts, in a Shaw play was piquant, and I felt sure that the author would have some interesting comment to make on the enterprise of the Americans in casting Jim Corbett for the part. Mr. Shaw was surprised at my surprise. 'Why not?' said he, 'I think it is a most appropriate choice. You see, Mr. Corbett, who has been the champion heavyweight, is the head of his profession, as I am the head of mine. What happier combination could there be?' "

"Blond Beast" Enthroned.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke, who recently returned from The Hague, says of "The Will of Freedom" (Scribner's) by Rev. John Neville Figgis: "It throws much light upon the causes which have really produced the present war. I have felt from the beginning that the war, both in its existence and in its conduct, is a psychological phenomenon. Nietzsche may have been an anti-Prussian; but his thinking and his writing have done much to produce that modern monster known as the German Kultur which is now bathing the world in blood in order to realize its insane dream of the 'Blond Beast' enthroned in the place of God."

Phyllis Bottome's New Serial.

In the August Century Phyllis Bottome will begin her second long serial, "The Second Fiddle," in which she sets forth diverse and clearly-drawn English types outlined against the background of the great war. The struggle between the characters is directly affected by it, but the main issue is a personal one. Miss Bottome is already well known to the American reading public through "The Dark Tower" and "The Derelict." She has a happy faculty for inimitable phrases, but underneath the sparkling surface move profound and tortuous tides of life—emotions, ambitions, reactions—that express themselves strangely and confusedly in modern existence.

Humor and Science Wedded.

That humor and scientific attainment can travel harmoniously together is shown by Arthur Everitt Shipley in his book entitled "Studies in Insect Life," which E. P. Dutton & Co. have just published. Scientific accuracy and wide knowledge mark the papers which comprise the book, and so does a droll sense of fun which leads him to say, with great frequency, mirth-provoking and unexpected things with as much seriousness as if he were making a dry scientific statement. Of particular interest at the present moment is the paper on "Insects and War," which gives a detailed account of the lives and habits of all the insects which harass fighting men either by preying upon their bodies or infesting their food. The importance of the subject can hardly be overestimated when it is remembered that one of these insects, the body louse, universal among the armies now fighting in Europe, is one of the worst plagues and greatest dangers they must encounter. For among the numerous diseases whose infection it carries is the typhus. It was this parasite which was responsible for the typhus plague which swept Serbia.

Japan's Interest in Revolution.

Advance notes on Isaac Don Levine's new book, "The Russian Revolution," awakened such interest in Japan that his publishers have just received the largest order they have ever had from that country for a single book. Among the causes which for so long have worked to produce the new Russian democracy, Levine puts "the disastrous war with Japan." In that war, he says, "Russian public opinion did not enthusiastically respond to the cause of national defense. As a matter of fact, Russia's radical and progressive forces put the cause of democracy above that of patriotism during the struggle with Japan, and worked for the collapse of the government. Russia's revolutionary movement gained powerful impetus during that struggle, and the revolution of 1905 was largely a product of the Far Eastern campaign."

A Woman Who Understands Boys.

Johnston Grosvenor, author of the recently-published book for boys, "Strange Stories of the Great Valley," says that her reason for dropping her more feminine first name from the title page of her books is because she has found that boys do not like too much teaching by women. "They do not choose women's books first," she says. "For that reason I use the impersonal part of my name. Also, I think it brings me a franker criticism from editors whom I never see."

VARIOUS BOOKS.

"Noh or Accomplishment."

"Noh or Accomplishment" (Alfred A. Knopf,) a study in the classical stage of Japan by Ernest Fenollosa and Ezra Pound, offers with numerous notes the translation of fifteen of the "mysterious Japanese noble dramas." The late Ernest Fenollosa was a scholar of high attainments and his notes and exposition of the dramas are something that open vistas entirely new to the students of comparative dramaturgy. Mr. Pound ventures to say that Fenollosa's information is new to the Japanese themselves, though it is elsewhere pointed out that "the same plays are today enacted in the same manner as then; even the leading actors of today are blood descendants of the very men who created this drama 450 years ago."

The dramas will not readily be appreciated by the casual reader—unless schooled to Tagore phraseology—and though no one can escape the glimmering of poetic beauty on many pages, still the dramas as a whole are so unlike dramas as we know them that one needs pass through the stage of bewilderment before getting at a substantial value.

"Bottoms Up."

The "enfant terrible" is again paddling drama, and though his naivete is rather calculating, the satire of George Jean Nathan is steel-tipped and carefully poisoned. "Bottoms Up" is called "an application of the slapstick to satire." Just what that means, we do not know—but the book is amusing, pointed, and for the most part fights in a good cause, the removal of humbuggery from drama. "Bottoms Up" is published by Philip Goodman Company of New York, a newcomer in the publishing field who promises further books dealing with stagecraft before the year is much older.

Mr. Nathan satirizes the "villainous" drama, with its black-mustachioed gentleman and screaming heroine; the "child shall lead them" short story, in which divorced parents are inescapably reconciled by the "sweet" child; adapts the epilogue of Shaw's "Fanny's First Play" to American critics, and plays a few other capers with Thespian relics. But one must look to his short paragraphs for the full measure of Mr. Nathan's penetration. In epigrams he is comfortably at home; for instance: "The producers of our two-dollar music shows are rapidly gobbling up all the vaudeville actors. This will immeasurably help vaudeville;" and again: "Royalties—The percentage of the gross receipts which playwrights get from producers, after lawsuits."

And this fairly typical analysis is not without humor, but certainly pregnant with truth, and applies elsewhere than on Broadway: "The art of emotional acting, on Broadway, consists in expressing (1) doubt or puzzlement, by scratching the head; (2) surprise, by taking a sudden step backward; (3) grief, by turning the back to audience and bowing the head; (4) determination (if standing) by thrusting handkerchief back into breast pocket, brushing hair back from forehead with a quick sweep of hand and buttoning lower button of sack coat; (5) determination (if seated) by looking fixedly at audience for a moment and then suddenly standing up; (6) despair, by rumpling hair, sinking upon sofa, reaching over to table, pouring out stiff drink of whisky and swallowing it at one gulp; (7) impatience, by walking quickly up stage, then down, taking cigarette from case, lighting it and throwing it immediately into grate, walking back up stage again, and then down; (8) relief, by taking deep breath, exhaling quickly and mopping off face with handkerchief; and (9) fear, by having smeared face with talcum powder!"

"Junius Finally Discovered."

Few people are now interested in "Junius," though the enigma of his identity has long afforded an entertaining puzzle for investigators. "Junius," be it remembered, was the pseudonym above which a series of letters were contributed to the Public Advertiser, London, against the ministry of the Duke of Grafton. For the most part they have been attributed to Sir Philip Francis. But William H. Graves of Birmingham, Ala., in a book called "Junius Finally Discovered" (published by the author) undertakes to establish Thomas Paine as "Junius;" and greatly overestimates both the literary quality and the influence of those letters, which were remarkable chiefly for vituperative invective and were frequently false as to fact.

Mr. Graves began his book believing that he was the first who placed Paine as Junius, but before he had finished the work he discovered a small volume, anonymous, "Junius Unmasked" and printed in 1872, which presented the same claim. But Mr. Graves clings to his credit as discoverer on the ground that so far back as 1853, through a gratuitous sequence in reading "Junius's Letters" and "Paine's Works," he was struck by the similarity and conceived the identity in authorship.

"A SOLDIER'S MEMORIES."

Maj.-Gen. Sir George Younghusband adds his personal recollections in his new book, "A Soldier's Memories," ready for publication by E. P. Dutton & Co., to what has previously been told of British and American comradeship at the battle of Manila Bay. He was present, saw all that happened and had much conversation with Admiral Dewey and with Sir Edward Chichester, commander of the British cruiser, the Bonaventure. According to his account, Admiral Dewey asked Sir Edward's advice before firing across the bows of the German flagship and also before bearing down on the Irene, which had gone to a little island as if to give support to the Spanish still remaining there. Gen. Younghusband says that as a matter of fact the Philippine Islands perhaps really belong still to Great Britain. For, at the general [illegible] up after the Napoleonic wars G[illegible] Britain sold them to Spain for [illegible]000,000 and Spain never paid [illegible] purchase price. Gen. Younghus[illegible] "Memories" covers a long and ev[illegible] ful life, in which there was [illegible] soldiering on the Indian frontier [illegible] in South Africa, as well as [illegible] important experiences in time [illegible] peace.

NOTED IOWANS.

RECOLLECTIONS AND SKETCHES [illegible] Early Lawyers and Public Men of Iowa. By Edward H. Stiles. The Homestead Publishing Company, Des Moines.

Some thirty-five years ago Mr. Stiles began taking notes for the book, of which he remarks, "It should be understood that I have not endeavored to include all of the notable lawyers and public men who have graced the history of Iowa, but for the most part, only those with whom I had some personal acquaintance." Mr. Stiles went to Iowa a young man, served in the House of Representatives in [illegible] passed from there to the Senate, [illegible] for a decade reporter of the Supreme Court, and is the author of "Complete Digest of Supreme Court Decisions from the Earliest Territorial Times to the Fifty-sixth Iowa Reports." In 1910 he retired from professional life to Southern California and at the age of 81 gives his [illegible] of recollections to the public.

Mr. Stiles discusses biographically and appraisingly some 700 of his associates, ranging from those who were prominent in remote territorial days down to the present; [illegible] in the long preparation which preceded the writing of it, the author was able to assemble a mass of material which makes it ever [illegible] the most authoritative book [illegible] Iowa's history.

Britain. For, at the general settling up after the Napoleonic wars Great Britain sold them to Spain for $12,000,000 and Spain never paid the purchase price. Gen. Younghusband's "Memories" covers a long and eventful life, in which there was much soldiering on the Indian frontier and in South Africa, as well as many important experiences in time of peace.

NOTED IOWANS.

RECOLLECTIONS AND SKETCHES: Early Lawyers and Public Men of Iowa. By Edward H. Stiles. The Homestead Publishing Company, Des Moines.

Some thirty-five years ago Mr. Stiles began taking notes for this book, of which he remarks, "It should be understood that I have not endeavored to include all of the notable lawyers and public men who have graced the history of Iowa, but for the most part, only those with whom I had some personal acquaintance." Mr. Stiles went to Iowa a young man, served in the House of Representatives in 1863, passed from there to the Senate, was for a decade reporter of the Supreme Court, and is the author of "Complete Digest of Supreme Court Decisions from the Earliest Territorial Times to the Fifty-sixth Iowa Reports." In 1910 he retired from professional life to Southern California, and at the age of 81 gives his book of recollections to the public.

Mr. Stiles discusses biographically and appraisingly some 700 of his associates, ranging from those who were prominent in remote territorial days down to the present; and in the long preparation which preceded the writing of it, the author was able to assemble a mass of material which makes it ever one of the most authoritative books of Iowa's history.

A Summer Treat

WILLIAM J. LOCKE'S NEW NOVEL

The RED PLANET by W·J·LOCKE

A Story of Wartime But Not of War

"Three really great works of fiction in English have now come out of this war. H. G. Wells' 'Mr. Britling Sees It Through;' St. John Ervine's 'Changing Winds,' that immoralizes Rupert Brooke, the poet, killed in the Dardanelles, and now this book of Locke's. For this 'Red Planet' is going to live. It is a splendid tour de force .... worthy of a place alongside his 'Beloved Vagabond'—just as romantic, just as tender. .... The one great charm of 'The Red Planet' is that once having started it you never put it down."

A BOOK OF INSPIRATION CARRY ON LETTERS IN WARTIME

By Lieut. CONNINGBY DAWSON. Author of "The Garden Without Walls," etc.

Frontispiece. Cloth, Net, $1.00

"To those Americans who are preparing to take their place at the front, to those fathers and mothers who must stay at home and wait, this little volume bears a fine, an inspiring message. Here is the spirit we want to have, the spirit which should animate us as a nation, expressed very clearly and very simply."

The Ivy

—If you please

—IVY is the name of a corset as well as the name of a vine—

—but when you see the Ivy Vine it would be splendid to think of the Ivy Corset—the Ivy Corset is so vine like—so clinging in its characteristics.

—The Ivy Corset has a way of twining itself about the hearts of women, as it has about the heart of Fashion—

—The Ivy Corset IS different and the Ivy Corset is made in many models—from those athletic Ivies for summer vacationing, outings, etc.—to those ultra Ivies for ultra-fashionable wear——And Ivy Corsets are to be found at Bullock's only in Los Angeles—4th floor.

Mentioning

Autumn Suits

Themselves

—"Rose-cheeked" as the leaves—and witching as the thoughts—to illustrate, explain and mystify—250 of them all told—

—Advancieres—to illustrate the vogue in design and materials; to explain the ideas of Fashion and of Bullock's relative to character and workmanship; to mystify, because of the value with which they are fairly redolent—

—THE VALUE—that is so much dependent upon the Vogue—and the Ideas —for always it must be remembered that there is a standard of quality that Bullock's WILL maintain—

—And IT IS MYSTIFYING—how so much of the Vogue—so many delightful Ideas—such splendid materials—and such careful workmanship could be put into these Autumn suits—

—These very particularly particular Autumn suits that are here now—so early—and so ready—for they are marked—

$25.00

—And they seem almost IMPOSSIBLE—but they are true.—There are 250 suits and 18 different styles.

—Strictly tailored or semi-tailored; —Of serge, Gabardine, Burella, hairline stripes, and mannish mixtures—

—In gray, blue, black, taupe, white with black hairline stripes and brown, green, gray or blue mixtures.

—The Coats are rather longish; the Skirts—plain and full—but there are so many different ones—so many ardent little style touches that to really know one must come and see—New Fall Suis at $25.00.

—Remember the word "Welcome" glows bright above the portico of this great style floor at Bullock's—and there is always much that is Not Advertised——3rd floor.

Footwear

—Vacation footwear

—Outing footwear

—Sports footwear—

Bullock's Los Angeles

Come a' Linen-ing

—Come a-Linening to THE Linen Store—Monday, which is at Bullock's—on the 2nd floor—

—Come a-Linening for Table Linens, and Towels, because of the type of Linens and Towels that are here—their quality and number and value—but Monday, come particularly for —Your new Dress Linens for your new cool Dresses of summertime—because —of the rare demand for Dress Linens now—and the way Bullock's is meeting that demand with the wanted shades—in admirably delightful weaves—AT PRICES that could not be had preparations been delayed even a little bit.

The Shrunk Dress Linens at 85c

—Are 36 inches wide now—and should never be any narrower because they were 45 inches wide when taken from the loom—white, oyster, eight shades of blue, four of pink, lavender, champagne, beige, gold, leather and gray—A feature at 85c yard.

Dress Linens 65c

—that have fine mercerized warp with flax filling, so you see they are but half linen—particularly adapted for smocks and dresses in clear colors of flesh, pink, rose, sky, Alice, Copenhagen, Nile, white, oyster, cream and beige—36 inches, 65c yd.

French Linens $1

—lighter weight 45 inch linen for waists, smocks and dresses (the extra width cuts to particular advantage)—Light blue, Alice, Copenhagen, Navy, pink, rose, green, tan and lavender—A favorite—and with right, particularly at $1.00 yard.

1000 Yards White Linen at 75c yd.

—Special!—1000 yards of this white and oyster white dress linen crash—the weight called for for the new military dresses with the wide patent leather belts—A medium coarse weave—36 inches wide—A value at 75c yard.

French Zephyr Gingham at 25c

—a bit out of the ordinary—32 inches wide—1000 yards at 25c yard, Monday— Second Floor.

Kid Gloves at $1.15

—It seems as though that headline alone would be sufficient to start hundreds of women towards Bullock's—bright and early, Monday—

—It would seem almost unnecessary to emphasize the present scarcity of kid and the handicaps under which high class glove makers are working—

—And THESE GLOVES ARE REAL KID—IMPORTED. Plain white—2 clasp—Notable for their perfect fit—

—Kid Gloves—that are astonishing—at $1.15 pair.

—16 Button Silk Gloves at $1.00 pair—At Bullock's—1st floor.

Handkerchiefs, 12½c

—of Linen—initialed—for women.

—Indeed they would be much more, if the present market was the determining factor—at Bullock's—1st floor.

Glimpses.

ever warm you feel, it makes you no warmer to have a friend exclaim, "My, but you do look cool!" And regardless of the warmth of their expression, your cool looks are apt to add to their cool feelings. A moderate-priced beneficence, this, when secured at bargain cost, don't you think?

New Bowling.

"The new peace bowl" is what they call it. Of course, it is not a punch bowl! On the contrary, a very unbelligerent piece of bric-a-brac in snowy white, with an immaculate dove at rest upon its brim. This pacific bowl should not be used for blood-red flowers, verbenas or gladiolus, nor even flesh-colored roses; but should at best contain white lilies, meek violets, or sunflowers, which so unremittently turn the other cheek. But, anyhow, this new bowl, perched upon its standard of black glass, is a dainty bit of art.

For Fashion's Kit.

Young girls are wearing washable barets of pique.

Gray cotton crepe is used with navy blue voile.

Tubular beads are used in the latest embroidery.

Lace is being used for summer theater cloaks.

Evening wraps are made of chiffon and unlined.

They are making close-fitting turbans of gold tissue.

Pale green linen makes a fashionable morning dress.

Suit cases and traveling bags for women are favored in shiny black materials.

Black leaves of patent leather take the place of green foliage on some midsummer hats.

A black and silver Egyptian robe of net is worn over a rose satin foundation.

Children's frocks have small animals in cross-stitch on pockets, cuffs and collars.

Separate skirts have extremely novel belts and pockets.

One-piece frocks of shantung have big collars of batiste.

Chic traveling mantles have large pockets and wide collars.

Twine embroidery appears on frocks of cotton crepe.

Pink and mauve is a favorite combination for thin gowns.

Paisley hues continue their gay career in cotton voiles.

SPARKLE IN POLO, TOO.

"Boomerang" Company has Two Young Experts at Equestrian Game and You Bet They're Guaranteed to Meet All Comers.

Polo, judged from any angle, is a strenuous game. It requires strength, stamina, a quick eye, accurate judge of distance and, above all, horsemanship of a very superior quality. As few women possess all this equipment, it follows that there are comparatively few who go in for this splendid sport.

In "The Boomerang" company, now appearing at the Mason Operahouse, are two young women, Miss Ruth Shepley—one of the company's two leading ladies—and Miss Marguerite Chaffee, who are expert poloists.

Miss Chaffee, an accomplished equestrienne since early girlhood, is a member of the Piedmont Polo Club in her native Atlanta, and has been playing since she was in high school. During the long run of "The Boomerang" in Chicago she taught Miss Shepley the game, and the two played almost weekly as members of the ladies' auxiliary of the Dearborn Polo Club of that city, which maintains a fine field adjacent to the Chicago Country Club's grounds.

The theatrical company of which these young women are members had a two-weeks' lay-off between Portland and Los Angeles and during tihs time Miss Shepley and Miss Chaffee were frequently seen on the bridle paths around Pasadena, Beverly Hills and Brentwood Park, both superbly mounted.

Miss Shepley's mount is a bay named Frontenac, and was used in the game in Westchester county, New York. The skewbald pony which Miss Chaffee brought to the Coast with her is valued at $1200; his name is Sandy Boy.

Reading upon the history of polo, Miss Shepley finds that it originated in Persia, was, years later, taken to England by army officers returning there from India, and was introduced into this country in 1876 from England. The sport is rapidly increasing in favor, despite the fact it is rather expensive. The places where it is most popular are Westchester county and Long Island and Buffalo in New York State, Chicago, Pasadena and Coronado. Polo is said to be the easiest understood, by the onlooker, of any of the outdoor games.

The Pasadena Reds and the Pasadena Blues may well be wary of the prowess of these attractive young women, who would not be averse to demonstrate their ability on the field during their stay in Los Angeles. So far as is known, they are the only actresses who play polo.

CHERRY BLOSSOM ROMANCE.

How Sessue and Tsuru are Both Now Hayakawa.

Sessue Hayakawa, the talented Japanese actor who is to appear in "Forbidden Paths" at the Alhambra, starting today, made the acquaintance of his demure little Japanese actress-wife in Japan many years ago when she was a child of about 4 and he was a tall young lad of 12 or 13 years. Little Tsuru Aoki, his wife, was at that time playing child parts in Madame Yacco's company.

Later the talented pair found each other again at the University of Chicago, where both were studying English literature and drama. The acquaintance which had begun in the little Japanese theater in the Orient reached its climax in the studios of the Lasky company, with their marriage.

The two worked together in many productions, and also resumed their study of the English language. It is said that Miss Aoki has become so proficient in the English language that she has almost forgotten her own, while her husband is well known as a translator of many of the most famous English classics into Japanese.

A MESSAGE FOR YOU!
AN EXTRAORDINARY OPPORTUNITY TO CONSULT CLARKE,
Ordained Phenomenal Psychic and Healer.
50c—LOW FEE THIS WEEK—50c

For a short time only this remarkable psychic and healer has consented to offer services at the disposal of the public for a nominal consideration. As a matter of advertisement of his large
FREE READING ROOMS AND CIRCULATING LIBRARY
where all are welcome to read the latest books and magazines on New Thought, Metaphysical and Psychological lines, and for the benefit of those who can not or do not feel like venturing the regular fee of $2, he will for this week only give A FULL PHENOMENAL READING FOR 50c to all who bring this advertisement.
If you are going to seek advice or help, why not consult one who is well known, one who is here permanently, one who is competent to read your life and advise you, one who has withstood the test of time?
Through long years of work and study Prof. Clarke has so developed his spiritual self that things which are obscure and hidden to others are as clear to him as an open book. He offers his services to those who are in doubt or trouble, ill in mind or body; who are failing to realize what they desire.
Many of the best people of this city and surrounding towns have come—many who have never consulted a psychic, or witnessed psychic phenomena before. Why? Because he gets phenomenal messages for all; because he intelligently unravels their troubles; gives truthful information, relief, success and satisfaction; gives knowledge that is POWER. There may be a better position, better salary or business for you—perhaps you are waiting for something which you will never realize.
Call today—tomorrow may be too late.
SPECIAL NOTICE TO FORMER PATRONS.
Those who pay, or have paid, $1.00 or more for fees, books, lessons, etc., will receive a full typewritten astrological reading free of charge. Those who wish to take up character reading for a pastime or profession will find all the latest books on astrology, solar biology, graphology, palmistry, phrenology, card-reading, the science of names and numbers, etc., at the circulating library for loan or sale. Those who wish the free astrological reading must call in person and give exact date of birth, place of birth, etc.
Office hours, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Permanently located in his own home.
Wilshire 2956. 638 S. ALVARADO ST. 556181.

PERSONAL
IS
AN HONEST PROPOSITION.
If you are DOUBTFUL or SKEPTICAL as to what a genuine PSYCHIC-PALMIST can do, bring this statement, and Mr. P. H. KEAN, M.P., will give you a thorough test of his PSYCHIC knowledge absolutely free of charge. KEAN will offer suggestions and give help to all who are in trouble and suspense concerning their personal affairs of life. Scientific Palmistry will reveal to you your weak points, strong characteristics, future possibilities, what you are best fitted for in life, etc. Do you know that 98 per cent. of the successful men and women of today in the affairs of life, such as business, love, marriage, etc., are guided psychically either through the development of their own intuitive force or through the aid of a Professional Psychic? The day of Psychic Phenomena as a fad, fiction and experiment has passed. The reliable Psychic-Palmist of today is consulted on the material affairs and obstacles of life with the same degree of feeling and confidence that you would consult your lawyer, doctor, banker or broker. Psychology as a science today is to the human being what the government weather bureau is to the community, and KEAN is to Psychology what Edison is to electricity. Forget what you are or were, and begin to plan what you may become. This is your hour; make the most of it. Delay is your worst enemy. When you lose your time it is gone forever. You can't regain it. Knowledge is power. Knowledge opens the door that ignorance would forever close. Life is not half so bad as some people would make you believe, so do not lose hope because the day seems dark and the affairs of life are mixed. No matter how complicated your condition may be, KEAN can and will aid you. Know the truth. Know in time what to do and how to do it. KEAN points the way. KEAN'S best indorsement is an interview with KEAN. KEAN'S fees for readings are within the reach of all. KEAN can only be consulted at his residence, 2408 South Grand Avenue, Los Angeles. Hours, 10 to 6 daily. Closed Sunday.

USED CARS—

If you are in the market for a used car, we want your business and if you will investigate our methods you will purchase from us; for we will leave nothing undone to satisfy a purchaser and we will keep you satisfied after you purchase from us, as we want to sell you a new car later. We are not speculators in used cars. Our business is the sale of new "Chandler Sixes."

You may doubt the sincerity of this advertisement, but you will not fail to appreciate our written guarantee and service if you investigate. That we sold an exceptionally large number of used cars last month and have done so for many months is of little interest to you. But it is of interest to you to have the names of our former patrons supplied to you so that you may find out for yourself that they are absolutely satisfied. In furnishing you these names, we allow you to select them from our books, so that there can be no doubt as to our sincerity. There is certain to be at least a few names of persons whom you will know directly or that reside in your immediate neighborhood, as we have been disposing of used cars for the past nine years. Last month 33 per cent. of the cars sold were to persons whom we had sold cars to at some time in the past.

Read our other advertisements in today's papers. Do not fail to make inquiries and you will be better satisfied even if you do not purchase from us. We have many models to select from.

We follow no half way measures. Either a car must be placed in good condition or we junk it. If a car is good enough to offer it for sale, we know that it is good enough to guarantee.

Used Car Department,
EARL V. ARMSTRONG, INC.,
Southern California Distributor Chandler Six,
1136 S. Olive st. 1084 S. Main st.
Phones, 60895 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE — CHANDLER SIX TOURING CARS. 1915, 1916 and 1917 models, ranging in price from $650 to $1250, on reasonable terms. We are the sales agents for new Chandlers and these used cars are taken in trade on new ones from owners who wanted the latest style in motor cars and were willing to pay for it. Every used CHANDLER offered for sale by this company is thoroughly rebuilt and guaranteed the same as though it were a new car. In fact, it is as good as a new car in every respect except that they have not the late body lines; however, they do not look out of date, and their lines are a great deal more refined than those of the latest modeled, cheaper priced new cars. There has never been any radical mechanical changes in the CHANDLER, therefore mechanically these cars are practically the same as the latest model CHANDLER. When you see these cars you will certainly agree that it is better to purchase a high-grade used car than a cheap new one. Phones, Main 3459; Home 60895. Address 1136 S. OLIVE ST.

FOR SALE—OLDSMOBILE "EIGHT" ROADSTER at $800. Terms. This is a very late 1916 model and is in excellent condition. It has never been repainted and shows the excellent care it has been given. We are not speculators in used cars. Our business is the sale of new Chandler Sixes. Used Car Dept. EARL V. ARMSTRONG, INC., 1084 S. Main. Phone Main 3459.

FOR SALE—CADILLAC 1914 TOURING CAR THAT is absolutely perfect in every respect for $600. Terms. This surely is an exceptional opportunity, as the condition of this car throughout is at least $200 above the average. You may think that you cannot get a real buy in a used car department, but remember that we are not speculators in used cars. Some of our offerings are a great deal below market value. Read our other advertisements in today's paper. If we consider a car good enough to offer it for sale, we know that it is good enough to guarantee. Closed Sundays. EARL V. ARMSTRONG, INC., 1136 S. Olive. Phones 60895 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE—REGAL CONVERTIBLE SEDAN ON light 5-passenger touring car at $675; terms. This car is equipped with two tops. The special all winter top is worth $150 alone. We will fully guarantee this car as it has been thoroughly gone over in our department and has been refinished throughout. It is as good as a new car in every respect and is a far better buy than a cheap new car. Phones, 60895 or Main 3459. Used Car Dept., EARL V. ARMSTRONG, INC., 1136 S. Olive st. Closed Sunday.

FOR SALE—STUDEBAKER SIX TOURING CAR, late 1916 model, at $550; terms. Tires are in perfect condition, as well as the paint and mechanical condition. There is no doubt but that this is a real opportunity, as you ought to be able to get this much for the car a year from now if you give the car only half the care the former owner did. If you purchase this you have one that is ready to go to San Francisco, if necessary, without a single thing being done to it. Phones, 60895 or Main 3459. Address 1136 S. OLIVE.

FOR SALE — WILLYS-KNIGHT, 1916 MODEL, 5-passenger touring car for $750; terms. This car is absolutely in perfect mechanical condition. This is the only Willys-Knight touring car on the used car market, and if you are looking for something of this type, it would pay you to answer this advertisement at once. This car was traded in on a new CHANDLER SIX, because the owner needed a larger car. 1136 S. OLIVE. Phones, 60895 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE—OLDSMOBILE, LATE 1916 MODEL, in perfect condition in every respect, at $750; terms. This automobile has had such exceptionally good care that we will guarantee it in any way that a purchaser desires. We are not speculators in used cars. Phones, 60895 or Main 3459. Address 1136 S. OLIVE.

FOR SALE—HAYNES 1916 TOURING CAR THAT will be guaranteed to be in perfect condition in every respect, for $850; terms. Fully equipped in every respect, with 5 excellent casings. This should prove to be an exceptional bargain. Phones, 60895 or Main 3459. Address 1136 S. OLIVE.

FOR SALE—FORD 1915 TOURING CAR, JUST thoroughly overhauled, $250; terms. When we overhauled this car we even removed the motor from the frame and replaced all worn parts. EARL V. ARMSTRONG, INC., 1136 S. Olive. Phones, 60895 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE—BUICK ROADSTER, LATE 1915 model, at $525; terms. This car is fully equipped, has never been repainted and shows the excellent care it has been given. We will guarantee it in every respect. Used Car Dept., EARL V. ARMSTRONG, INC., 1136 S. Olive. Phones, 60895 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE—HUDSON 1915 TOURING CAR, 6-40 model, fully equipped in every respect, including wire wheels, etc. This car has been thoroughly refinished throughout. Used Car Dept., EARL V. ARMSTRONG, INC., 1136 S. Olive. Phones, 60895 or Main 3459.

SEE THIS LIGHT SIX—
We have just taken in a Paige Light Six touring car; this car is an exception; the owner drove it just far enough to break it in good; the tires show practically no wear and the appearance, well, you can't possibly tell it from a new car; you may not know it, but this model Paige is noted for its economy, both in tires and gasoline, as our records show; we got it cheap and if sold at once will take a lot less than it's worth; this is the car known as the most beautiful car in America; pay a little down and a little each month. Open Sunday.

FOR SALE—

GERMAIN SAVES YOU MONEY.

Every week we run one BIG MONEY-SAVING SPECIAL. Don't fail to look for it. This column will contain seasonable supplies for poultry raisers, rabbit fanciers, squab, goat and stock raisers.

FOR MOULTING HENS.

If you want eggs when your hens are through moulting give them a good, invigorating tonic during the moulting season. We recommend Conkey's Poultry Tonic as it means vigor in your fowls.

WATCH OUT FOR ROUP.

It is a mistaken idea that roup prevails only during winter months. The summer time is the worst time of the year for this almost fatal disease. Use Conkey's Roup Remedy—it is a cure, a remedy and a tonic. You should have it on hand to use at the first sign of roup trouble.

GERMAIN'S BIG SPECIALS.

PYRETHRUM LICE POWDER at 75 cents per pound—regular price $1 per pound. Exterminates lice, mites, ants and flies. Keep pests away from chickens and from your house. Hot weather brings ants and flies—drive them out with Pyrethrum Lice Powder.

SPECIAL NO. 2.

Galvanized drinking fountains and feed hoppers at 75 cents—regular price $1. Clean, sanitary and economical—no food is wasted. We also have the celebrated Boston dry mash hopper in three sizes, large, medium and small, at $1 and 75 cents each.

PREMIUM GROWING CHICK FOOD.

A scientifically prepared food for developing and fattening growing chicks. Your later profits depend altogether upon how your birds are fed during the growing season. Take no chances with inferior feeds—use only Germain's Premium Developing Food.

WESTERN POULTRY BOOK
Special Price 50 cents.

This book is by Mrs. A. Basley, a recognized authority on chicken and turkey raising—a practical book by a practical woman. We have a limited number of these books that we offer at 50 cents each.

FOR SALE—WHY BUY NEW? SEE US, SAVE half. Every article guaranteed to do as much work as when new. Speaking of engines and pumps, we don't tell you what they used to do, but what they will do now.
Did it ever dawn on you that the new machinery you buy will be second-hand, but NOT necessarily worn out in few years?
Prohibitive prices on most machinery and piping will prove the predictions we made a few months ago about potatoes at 7c. Just this week we saw a rancher feeding them to the hogs. Owners better unload machinery at reasonable prices.
WINDMILLS.
All sizes; 8, 10, 12, 16 ft. mills. New gears and bearings if needed.
TANKS—TANKS.
Redwood tanks, 250 gallons, $7.50; larger sizes up to one of the finest 100,000 gallons redwood tanks in California, $400. Send for photo if you mean business.
ODDS, ENDS PIPING.
Ten tons unions, L gates, Ts. 1 to 12-in. gate at $40. Have 300 ft. 6-in. surface pipe, 19c; 400 ft. 4-in. riveted, 16c; 300 ft. 8-in., 35c; 185 ft. 10-in. O.D.; 100 ft. 3-in. galv. standard 40c; 100 ft. 6-in. O.D., 50c.
ENGINES.
1½ to 36-H.P. at $400. 40 pumps, single, double acting deep well centrifugal pumps. Several plows, orchard cultivators, mowers, rake, buck rake. Sundries too numerous to mention. Yes, we sell for cash only. By paying cash we buy for less. Your paying cash saves you paying the other fellow's bad bills.
DON'T FORGET
OUR 6 SNAPS THIS WEEK.
16,000 heavy corrugated fuel water tank $250; 100,000 redwood, fine. MINING—

MINING MEN, ATTENTION!
There are so many abandoned shafts and prospects we would never undertake to enumerate them, 85 per cent. of which were the result of incompetent or unprincipled advice, whether free or paid for. Remember, mining is like any other business and will not stand too many repeated failures as a "business." Now, for the sake of the mining industry and its welfare, just come and see the 5-inch dia. cores that you yourself can make and extract. You don't need any expert. Any person who would advise you not to core your property first is no friend of yours, or the industry either. All high-grade engineers ask for the "core drill first," then diagnose the best method to obtain the best producing results. We know, because we have sold 3 machines this month to just such men. Write for circular.
OKELL WELL MACHINERY CO.,
Bdwy. 6172. 151 N. Los Angeles st.

I AM SUPERINTENDENT AND PART OWNER in an operating free milling gold mine 125 miles from Los Angeles. Have shipped over $3000 of gold to mint recently. Five stamp mill complete. Splendid ore blocked out. Disagreement among majority owners makes wonderful opportunity. Business management and further development work will make this a great big dividend payer. I can buy remaining interest for $25,000, which is a snap and want some one to join me. I am putting in all my time at the mine, but will arrange to be in Los Angeles about the 27th day of July and can arrange appointments at the Hayward Hotel for that date. If you have the money and want to get into the best little gold mine in the State, I will be glad to see you. My interest is not for sale. Address A, box 510, TIMES OFFICE.

FOR SALE—$70,000. SILVER, LEAD, COPper, gold, 6000 to 7000 tons blocked out, $12 to $15.
Molybdenite prop., 2 to 10 per cent., $40,000.
Rich cinnabar, want financing.
Long fiber asbestos claims to sell.
7 tungsten lode claims, 2 to 15 per cent. Sell or lease.
Want manganese tonnage and ore.
WEST COAST MINES EXCHANGE,
529 Merchants' Trust Building.

WANTED—I OWN WHAT IS CONSIDERED BY mining engineers to be one of the richest mines in Arizona. Valuable mines on both sides of my property. I have had many large offers, but my mine is not for sale. I have $35,000 worth of ore on the dump. I want one or more reliable parties with $18,000 to build a concentrating mill and begin taking out ore on a large scale. I want no cash down. To right parties will give a large interest. Don't answer unless you have the money. Monthly profits will be very large. Address C, box 502, TIMES SPRING ST. BRANCH.

"IF THE ORE ONLY GOES DOWN," HOW MANY times have you heard this remark? You can find out what is at 5 feet in about 3 weeks by using our core drill, 5-inch diameter, core weighing 25 to 35 pounds to the foot; no diamonds or chilled shot used; average cost of work, $1 per foot. Let us show you samples of work. Write for particulars.

THE ELECTRON.

British Scientist Discourses on Its Possibilities.

Sir J. J. Thomson, O.M., P.R.S., lectured before the British Royal Institution recently on "Industrial Applications of Electrons." The electrons, he said, had properties which were important if they could be utilized. Inventors would give a great deal for a body of no mass, provided the possibility of its being acted upon by forces did not vanish together with the mass; in the common case of the horse and the hay, the one could not be sustained without the other. From that point of view the electrons were of great possibilities. In the second instance, the electrons lived only for a very short period, and were independent of what had happened before and might happen afterward. Thus they gave really instantaneous photographs, not like pointers and dials for averages of seconds, but for a very small fraction of a second, and they were hence of great value for measurements of the forces of electric waves which were changing their directions many times a second. For particles existing only for 1-100,000,000 second the periods of electric waves were almost an eternity, and the particles would register such periodical forces as if they were steady. Advantage of this property was taken in several applications. The stream or column of cathode rays could also be used, Prof. Thomson thought, for registering continuous electric waves. Let the stream pass through the electric field of two plates and connect these plates to an antenna or a transformer. As long as no wave was coming on the stream would flow along a straight line; when the waves came, the spot would be drawn out into a straight line. If the waves were continuous, the illumination along that line would be uniform; if the waves were cut up into dots and dashes, the dash would show quiescent bright spots of longer duration than the dots. There were other ways of registering the arrival of electric waves by electrons, and tens of thousands of such apparatus were already probably in use.

Save Old Copies of The Times

They Are Worth Money

As a means of inculcating a spirit of thrift and developing money-making and money-saving habits in Los Angeles boys and girls, The Times Circulation Department, until further notice, will buy and pay cash at the rate of one cent a pound for complete old copies of The Times delivered at The Times Office, corner First and Broadway.

This offer applies to old copies of The Times only. No other paper will be accepted.

Times subscribers can earn approximately 15 cents a month for their favorite charity by the sale of 30 copies of the daily and Sunday Times; and boys and girls can earn considerable spending money by collecting old copies of this newspaper from friends and neighbors.

Church societies, benevolent associations and other charitable organizations can increase their incomes by taking advantage of this offer.

Bring or send all of your old copies of The Times to the Times Circulation Department, where they will be paid for in cash at the rate of one cent a pound, or $20 a ton.

Out-of-town subscribers to The Times may make arrangements with the nearest Times agent for the sale of old copies of this newspaper.

All papers must be free from dirt and in good general condition, as well as properly folded and tied in bundles.

Ready.

JAPANESE TO DO THEIR BIT.

Naturalized or no, All Loyal, Says Nipponese.

"For That's Eternal Legacy of Our Nation."

Address is Feature of Allies' Fiesta at Glendale.

"Whether born here or no; naturalized or otherwise, America can look to every Japanese under the protection of the Stars and Stripes to do his share of the nation's task conscientiously and willingly."

This was the keynote of the address by Kiyo Sue Inui at the Allies' fiesta held yesterday afternoon and last evening in La Ramada Park, Glendale. Mr. Inui is of the department of political science at the University of Southern California and hundreds applauded his sentiments.

The Allied nations were represented by booths decorated with their respective flags, and those in charge of each were mostly of the nationality indicated.

Mr. Inui stated that, while Japanese-born, he considered himself a "little more than half American." Eight of his sixteen years' schooling were under American tutors. Also, his wife, of Japanese parentage, was born on the Pacific Coast.

After speaking of the hundreds of Japanese naturalized in Canada who now are fighting in France for the country of their adoption, Mr. Inui continued:

"So here again in this country where the liberty bell rang once more, this time in Washington through the lips of your President and mine, Japanese residents in America have resolved to loyally support the flag that once summoned men to fight the nation's freedom and which now inspired them to bear arms for the world's freedom.

"We have, therefore, enrolled one Japanese in every five to the membership of your own American Red Cross. As the last arrivals to these shores, humble as we are, we have bought, in San Francisco, for instance, an average of $50 of Liberty bonds per capita. In other words, whether born here or no, naturalized or otherwise, America can look to every Japanese under the protection of the Stars and Stripes to do his share of the nation's task—to do it conscientiously and willingly.

"As every Japanese here has resolved to do his bit, so has Japan to do her part in the world. Whoever thought that that nation of the Far East will be drawn into the war in Europe? But when Great Britain once again decided to stand by the treaty that guaranteed the sacred neutrality of the 'gallant little nation of Europe,' and when the German raiders began to arrest the commerce of India and jeopardize the peace of the Far East Japan did not hesitate to come to the conclusion that she must support her unselfish and brave ally, Great Britain; for Japan, too, believes in the theory that a treaty is an international contract, and sacred, and not merely a scrap of paper. If liberty is a lasting heritage of American democracy, then loyalty is the eternal legacy of the Japanese nation.

"With the entrance of the United States into this titanic struggle upon the high plane of international justice and freedom, we welcome into our midst another great ally. We realize that heretofore the nations of the world have fought only vertical wars—for nationalism. But we are now fighting a horizontal war—war for internationalism.

"Thus our army captured the enemy's stronghold in China. Our navy drove the commerce raiders from the Indian Ocean. Our fleet is escorting the Australian transports to Europe. Our submarine chasers are now co-operating with the French and Italians in the Mediterranean. Our toilers are furnishing ammunition and supplies to Russia and our bankers are buying the war loans of France, Great Britain and Russia."

Demonstration.

MORE OF OUR OFFICERS WITNESS WAR MANEUVERS

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, July 21.—Another large group of American officers left the camp today to witness fighting demonstrations similar to those attended by Gen. Sibert yesterday. So many officers expressed a desire to see the maneuvers that automobile trucks had to be requisitioned to transport them all.

When all the officers here have been initiated into the latest methods of fighting the demonstrations will be extended so that the troops can see them and practice them.

Counter.

AUSTRIANS TAKE HEIGHT; DRIVE RUSSIANS BACK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VIENNA, July 21 (via London.)—The official statement today reads:

"At Novica, south of Kalusz, we captured another height position. At Babin enemy forces were driven across the Lower Lomnica. Russian local advance due north of the Dniester failed.

"The counter-attack delivered on both sides of the Lemberg-Tarnopol Railway under the guidance of Prince Leopold of Bavaria, advanced successfully. Northeast of Brzezany, Austro-Hungarian regiments recaptured the first line which we lost on July 1. The German and Austro-Hungarian forces have advanced beyond Augusloka, Caziernt and Nesterova. The Russian resistance was broken up by sharp attacks."

A Novel Dinner Bell.

[Youth's Companion:] A camp cook, whose only means of calling the members of his party was pounding on a pan with a knife handle, was unable to make them hear when they were fishing or hunting at any considerable distance from the camp. One of the party to whom he complained thereupon made what he called a "klepalo."

The "klepalo" was merely a piece of well-seasoned oak plank two inches thick, six inches wide and four feet long. Through the center he bored a hole, passed a rope through it and suspended the plank from the branch of a tree. The cook "rang" the instrument by striking it with a mallet, first on one side and then on the other.

The man who made the "klepalo" had seen similar contrivances in small Bulgarian villages, where they are used instead of church bells to call the people to worship. A test of the instrument used by the campers showed that, in ordinary weather conditions, it could be heard two miles.

Japan Merchant Steamers.

[East and West News:] In the eleven large shipyards of Japan 189 steamers each exceeding 1000 tons, with an aggregate tonnage of 948,034, are on the ways. Many are ready for launching; others have just been laid down. The list in detail ought to be inspiring to the shipping interests of the United States: Eight vessels with a combined tonnage of 10,600; eighteen with 38,238 aggregate tonnage; twenty-five, aggregating 81,022 tons, each between 3000 and 4000 tons; thirty-seven with 165,000, each between 4000 and 5000 tons; fifty-seven with 318,510 aggregate tonage, each between 5000 and 6000 tons; twelve with 78,000 aggregate, each between 6000 and 7000 tons; fifteen aggregating 110,934, each between 7000 and 8000 tons; twelve aggregating 97,630, each between 8000 and 9000 tons, and five aggregating 47,000, each between 9000 and 10,000 tons.

What a tremendous flotalla of mercantile marine preparation for after-war trade!

PORT NOTES.

George A. Knight, who has been in charge of the engineering work at Fort MacArthur, constructing quartermaster's office, has received his commission as captain in the quartermaster corps. It is expected he will be retained in the local office.

It is expected that several leases for new shipyards will be granted in the inner harbor, now that the city and railroads have settled litigation of all harbor frontage disputes. The Banning Company and the Southern Pacific will get leases on a large area, while the city gets title to about 150 acres.

Funeral services for George B. Culp, a member of the crew on the U.S.S. Cheyenne, were held today. The body was shipped to the home of his parents at North Yakima.

The Warmth of Nature.

[Baltimore American:] Of course nature does not synchronize with warmth, but the activities of nature in the realm of growth depend quite a great deal upon warmth. And the warmer the clime, the denser the growth of vegetation and the more abundant the insects and serpents and birds and animals. There is more than a literal meaning, however, to be given the warmth of nature. There is cordiality in the expressions of nature in the summer season that is to be read in the invitations that are implied thereby. The warmth drives the human denizens of the city to the contemplation of the seashore and the mountain. The swell of the waves becomes irresistible and the picture is framed in the mind of wind-filled sails. Or it may be the chugging of a power-boat comes to the mind as a symbol of recreation and of pure delight. The rod and the line for the angler, the supercooled woodland ways for the roamer amid the floral exhibits of summer! These are aspects of the warmth of nature in invitation to man.

It is properly styled the vacation season. For it is the season when man vacates the city and the office and goes out into the wideopen. He has no longer a spirit of vacancy and of empty longing, for he is thrilled and filled with the exuberance of the summer delights and is made to abound with the nature sensations that cause him to feel his kinship with the lesser forms of nature life about him.

Marshaled by some spectral shepherd, the clouds roll across the firmament to the whistling of the zephyr breezes through the tree tops, and at times comes the low-sounding artillery from the battle of the clouds, far below the utmost horizon. The birds, still at midday and in song with the burst of the morning light, the hum of the insects during the torrid periods of the day—these are but indications of the general theme of nature lure that bespeaks a warmth more than that of temperature.

One needs to cultivate nature at the season of its utmost cordiality and to go whither the spirit of nature would lead; for only thus can there come the arousement of the deep springs of nature-longing and life, that bring health and happiness as their portion. So the summer warmth means so much more than humidity or torridity. It means placidity and rest. It means invitation to the largeness of the fields and of the ravines, of the river, the mountain, the seashore—wherever one may turn from the congestion of a form of living that never was appointed by nature.

TWO MONROVIA SALES.

The sale last week of the George Ira Adams residence in Monrovia to J. F. Bitts of Tulsa, Okla., is the month's biggest realty deal there. Clark & Parmlee handled the transaction. The place includes five acres in the heart of the residence district on North Magnolia and North Melrose avenues, improved with a three-story residence in stucco and red tile. The grounds are elaborately landscaped and the gardens planted to many varieties of fruit and flowers. Mr. Adams, recently deceased, built the house for his permanent residence, but it was placed on the market by his widow. Edgar Emmett, a Ventura county rancher, has bought the residence property of G. C. Dusenbery. The property is one of the sightly residences of Monrovia.

Candy is Routing Booze.

The phenomenal increase in the business of candy dealers throughout the United States is accounted for by a falling off in the liquor business, according to W. H. Rowan of Chicago, who presided at the annual meeting of the National Confectionery Salesmen's Association in Atlantic City recently.

The average man naturally turns to candy when he stops drinking whisky, Mr. Rowan said. He attributed the decrease in liquor sales to the educational campaign being waged against the drink habit. As a result, he said, the confectioners sold more than $250,000,000 worth of candy last year.

Nowhere is the demand for candy greater than among soldiers and sailors, it was declared by members of the association. Uncle Sam's soldiers will be well supplied with sweetstuffs, the government having placed big orders for chocolate for the army and navy camps.

Traveling Stones.

[Indianapolis News:] The famous traveling stones of Australia are rivaled by round stones, from the size of a pea to six inches in diameter, found in Nevada. When distributed about upon the floor, table or other level surface, within two or three feet of each other, they immediately begin traveling toward a common center, and there lie huddled like a lot of eggs in a nest. A single stone, removed to a distance of three and a half feet, on being released, at once started off with wonderful and somewhat comical celerity to join its fellows; taken away four or five feet it remains motionless. The cause of these stones rolling together is doubtless to be found in the material of which they are composed, which appears to be loadstone or magnetic iron ore.

Japanese Lightning Cuttlefish.

[Boston Transcript:] The Japanese province of Etchu has long been noted for two remarkable phenomena, which appear in the Bay of Toyama in April and June each year. One is the shinkiro, or mirage, and the other is swarms of lightning cuttlefish that are to be seen. These latter are a species of cuttlefish that shine like glowworms. Many people go to Toyama to witness these sights in season.

To get the best view of the lightning cuttlefish one goes to the village of Namerikawa, about three miles west of Toyama. This fish, locally known as hotaruika, is not, of course, a peculiarly Japanese product, but Toyama, in Japan, is one of the best places in the world to see it. The fish is rather tiny; and when it meets with anything objectionable it emits a wonderful degree of phosphoresence. Every year from April to May the coasts of Toyama swarm with this little creature, and excited fishermen go out with special nets to obtain a harvest. Naturally, when netted the fish emit most light, being greatly alarmed, the nets sparkling like wires electrically charged. The people regard the sight as most wonderful, and rush to see it in almost uncontrollable excitement. Pleasure boats are fitted out for such occasions, and there is no difficulty in making the venture pay, as guests are always in plenty. It is a favorite courtesy to invite a friend to an evening's entertainment witnessing the sparkling cuttlefish.

Sammies Coin War Songs.

[Kansas City Star:] The inherent ability of Americans to coin new and startling phrases is illustrated by a dispatch from France which states that the men of Pershing's expeditionary force are singing an attractive ditty entitled, "I Did Not Raise My Son: He Had Four Aces."

Among other war songs which bid fair to back such old-timers as "There'll Be a Hot Time" off the boards are "Push All Your Nickels in the Automat and Chew, Chew, Chew" and "Grandpa's Raising Whiskers for His Country." These highly patriotic "hymns" are actually becoming popular in the camp of the American soldiers, the dispatches say.

SURVEY OF THE BROAD FIELD

XXXVI$^{\text{TH}}$ YEAR

FACT AND COMMENT.

The West First-street boulevard, an improvement that is bound to be of tremendous benefit to all of northwest Los Angeles, is at last, after many years of delay, about to go ahead. Official notices of the project have recently been posted along the route of the proposed traffic artery and no legal protest of sufficient weight to set aside the wishes of the majority frontage owners of West First street is anticipated by the proponents of the plan. The assured advantages of the improvement are declared to be so generally recognized that most of the owners want nothing so much as to get the thing going.

That the boulevard will completely change the character of much of the area between Bunker Hill and Vermont avenue must be apparent to anyone who has made a careful study of the street and traffic situation in Los Angeles. From the hill westward to the city limits there is not a single serviceable through street between Sunset boulevard on the north and West Sixth street on the south. West of Vermont avenue the traffic condition, although so awkward as to urgently demand remedy, is made endurable through the fact that a few paved east and west streets tap both that thoroughfare and Western avenue. The residents of the section find their way over various streets into Vermont and Western avenues and thence into Sixth street or Sunset boulevard. It is a roundabout route into the downtown district for most of them, however they go, but the streets used are at least paved and of good grade. East of Vermont avenue conditions are different.

In all the large and close-in area between Figueroa street and Vermont avenue and from West Sixth street northward to Sunset boulevard there is neither an east-and-west thoroughfare nor a north-and-south thoroughfare of good grade going clear through the district. This ought to be, on account of its proximity to the business center and its sightly topography, one of the best built-up sections of Los Angeles, but the lack of through streets that really go anywhere has caused the district to lag behind while areas farther out in all directions have forged ahead. Given a real traffic thoroughfare, such as the new West First-street boulevard will be, and this close-in northwest will come into its own. In fact, there is every reason for believing that this boulevard to be created by the remaking of West First street will at no distant day become one of the most important thoroughfares of Los Angeles and that all the territory adjacent to and directly served by it will be rapidly developed along the most substantial lines.

Related Projects.

The people of northwest Los Angeles will not want to stop with the mere widening, regrading and paving of West First street from Lakeshore avenue to Virgil avenue, as is projected in the present proceedings. That much may be put down as assured. The West First-street boulevard, it is now practically certain, will grow into a boulevard reaching from Figueroa street to the city limits on the north beach shore at Santa Monica. This may come to pass sooner than might be anticipated in the light of the long-drawn-out effort that was necessary to get the First-street project itself through.

By general consent of those who have studied the project, the boulevard when extended westward should follow the line of Temple street to the main city limits just west of Norton avenue. Between Virgil avenue, where the present

By general consent of those who have studied the project, the boulevard when extended westward will follow the line of Temple street to the main city limits just west of Norton avenue. Between Vermont avenue, where the present boulevard will end, and the corner of Temple street and Vermont avenue lies the Bimini ravine, the lands in which have been condemned for the projected Silver Lake Parkway. A viaduct across this depression will solve the problem of connecting First and Temple streets. The property owners along Temple street from Vermont avenue westward started proceedings many months ago to have their street paved from Vermont to Norton, so nothing will soon be lacking to make a boulevard clear to the last-named avenue excepting the connecting viaduct across Bimini ravine. This should undeniably be built by the city.

Nor is the project to carry the boulevard from Norton avenue on westward through La Brea ranch, Beverly Hills, North Brentwood, Westgate Heights and other suburban communities to the city's new strip of beach at the foot of the Santa Monica Highlands, so hazy as some might believe. To begin with, some two and a half miles of the route, starting at the city's new beach in the Westgate Annex and going by easy grades up across the Santa Monica highlands may be said to be finished. The city has recently improved the highway built by the county in this location two years ago and the bit of road will serve admirably as a link in the proposed new city-to-sea boulevard. Surveys for several miles more of the route have been made by the owners of the Santa Monica Mountain Park lands, which adjoin the Santa Monica highlands. This road when built will bring the highway from the sea to Westgate Heights. Between the last-named point and the end of Temple street in Los Angeles proper many land owners have expressed a willingness to co-operate in every way in getting the boulevard through.

With a traffic artery half way between West Sixth street and Sunset boulevard made a reality, the property owners throughout the northwest will have an incentive to build new streets and to extend, regrade, pave and otherwise improve existing streets that will empty into the great trunk route. Highland avenue, Vine street, Gower street and other north and south thoroughfares in Hollywood will be carried down to intersect the boulevard going straight into the center of the city. From Figueroa street to the city limits there is bound to be a general fixing up of streets to give those living on them the easiest possible access to the air line thoroughfare running through the heart of the northwest. The now assured construction of a bridge across the Los Angeles River at Ivanhoe station mean that the great flow of traffic in the new artery will be swollen at Lake Shore avenue by the travel of the Glendale Valley section.

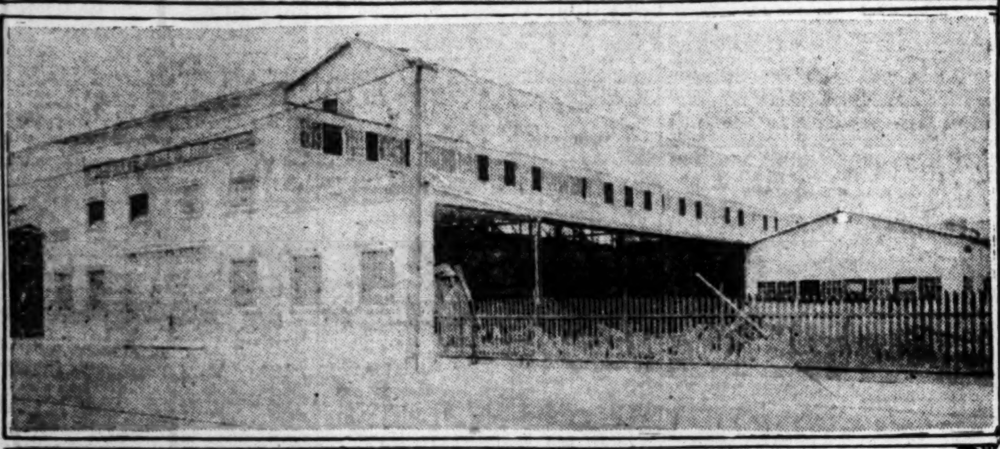
The Traffic Prize.

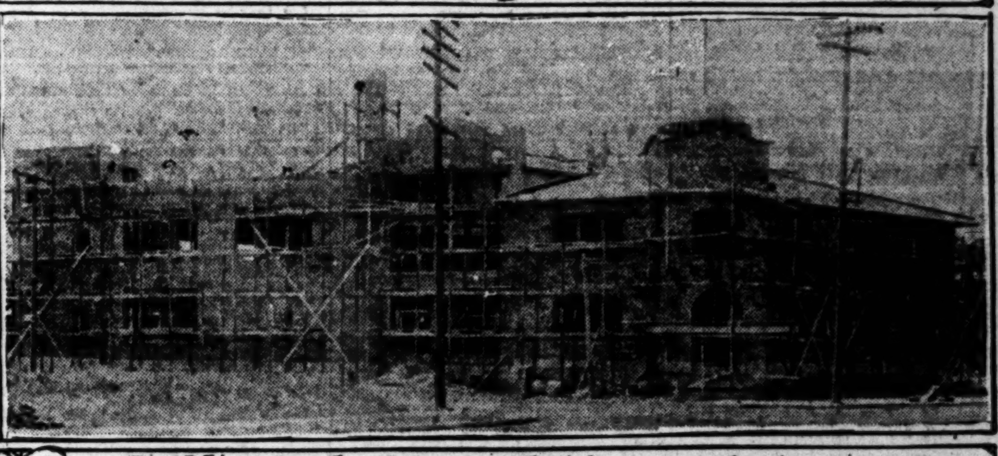
All the enormous and ever-growing traffic using the West First-street boulevard will flow into Second street at Lake Shore avenue and thence go eastward to Figueroa and down the latter thoroughfare around Bunker Hill until such a time as outlets are provided through the hill barrier into the business district. When tunnels or open cuts are finally put through the hill at First and Second streets, traffic over the northwest boulevard will naturally be divided between these two short-cut routes into the business section. To be of the greatest possible usefulness the boulevard should have one or more direct outlets through Bunker Hill into the downtown streets, but it will be of incalculable value to the residents of the northwest even if the tunnels are delayed for years.

It will be for the property owners of the older established business district to hurry along the plans for the long-projected Bunker Hill bores if they want to claim the prize of the northwest boulevard traffic. Until outlets through the hill are provided that traffic is bound to flow down Figueroa street into Sixth and Seventh streets. It is, therefore, reasonable to suppose that the improvement of West First street will hasten the building of tunnels, something all Los Angeles is vitally interested in.

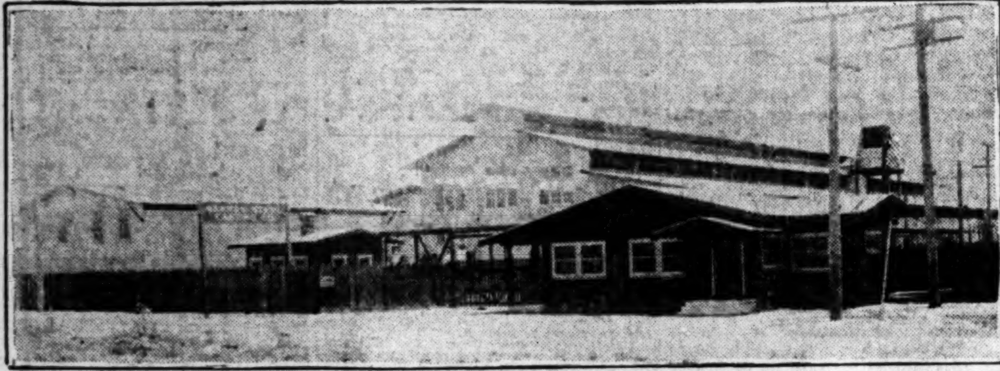
New Buildings for Rapidly Growing Industries of Los Angeles



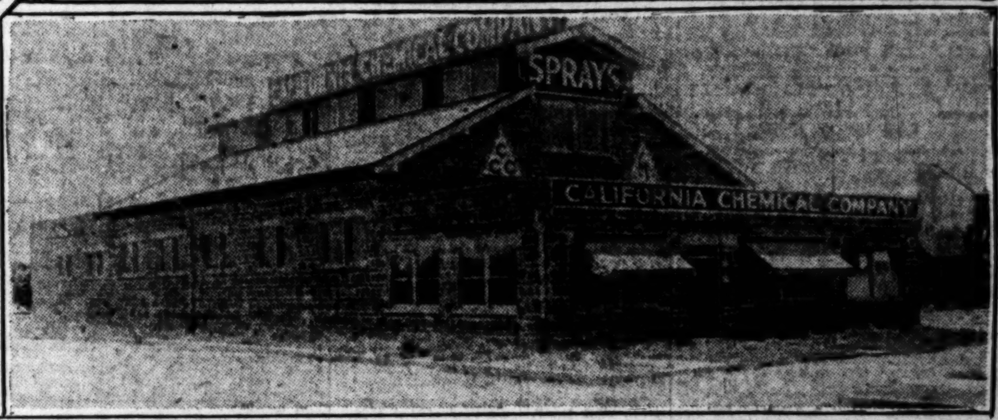
New addition to the plant of Baker Iron Works



Bottling works being erected for Arrowhead Springs Co.



Warman Steel Company's new foundry



New plant recently occupied by California Chemical Co.

Three plants recently completed and one in course of construction.

The bottling works for the Arrowhead Springs Company is at East Washington street and Compton avenue and will soon be ready for occupancy. The Warman Steel Company's foundry has just been completed. It is at Boyle and Slauson avenues. The new plant of the California Chemical Company at Santa Fe avenue and East Fifty-seventh street was recently completed and occupied.

SUBDIVISION SALES.

Purchasers of New Ramona Acres Lots to Build Bungalows.

The Janss Investment Company announces three sales of their San Gabriel Valley subdivision. G. M. Ellis, who came to Los Angeles last January from Kansas City, purchased a little farm at New Ramona Acres for $1750.

The other two sales at New Ramona Acres during the past week were to Glenn Kistler, two one-half-acre pieces, upon which he will build a five-room bungalow, and an unimproved acre farm for $1350 to Mrs. Marsh, who is planning the erection of a bungalow.

STORES LEASED.

The W. Ross Campbell Company has made the following leases during the past week: To Adolph Kaufman for J. E. Carr, store at No. 506 East Seventh street; to the Sun Drug Company for the Union Hardware and Metal Company, store at No. 213 Commercial street, and to Jesse Gioia for the McLean Estate, store at No. 635-37 North Spring street. It is the intention of Mr. Kaufman to open a hat factory and men's furnishing store, while the Sun Drug Company will occupy the premises on Commercial street for warehouse purposes.

Advantage.

COSTS LESS TO BUILD HERE.

MATERIAL NOT SO HIGH AS IN OTHER CITIES.

Figures Compiled by Building Material Men Show Substantial Differences in Prices of Pine, Building Blocks, Brick, Hydrated Lime and Sewer Tile.

Tables compiled from figures obtained in several large cities in various parts of the country show that while building materials are not as low here as they were they are still substantially lower than in most other cities. Almost any kind of construction, it is stated by men who handle material, shows an advantage for Los Angeles over other cities. Following are some of the tables:

LUMBER, COMMON.

Los Angeles	Oregon pine	$32.00

DEVELOPMENT WORK.

Proposed Improvements at Verdugo Woodlands Announced.

The F. P. Newport Company announced plans yesterday to inaugurate development work at Selvas de Verdugo that will call for the expenditure of about $50,000 in addition to the regular development scheme already outlined for the tract.

Among recent visitors to Selvas de Verdugo have been several eastern artists who became enthusiastic over the wealth of material the district offers. It is proposed to establish an artists' colony in one of the foothill nooks of Selvas de Verdugo, where members can study valley and foothill lights.

Improvement.

FINE HOME ON HILLSIDE SITE.

EL CENTRO FOUNDER BUILDS IN SAN FERNANDO VALLEY.

House is of Hollow Tile, Plaster Exterior, in Spanish Colonial Style, with Tile Roof and Sandstone Entrance—Offices, Cottages and Dairy Buildings.

Another country mansion is being added to the collection of magnificent homes dotting the hills circling the fertile acres of San Fernando Valley. This is the new home of W. F. Holt, founder of El Centro. The home of Mr. Holt is now being built by day work after plans drawn by Robert M. Taylor. It will cost $27,500. Offices, servants' cottages, a dairy, and other buildings in the group may swell the cost to $60,000.

Mr. Holt's new home is being built near that of Harold Bell Wright. It is beautifully situated at the mouth of a canyon near the State highway. It is being built of hollow tile, of plaster exterior, in the Spanish colonial style, with a tile roof. The entrance is of Boise sandstone. There are fifteen main rooms, not including sleeping porches, dressing-rooms and baths. The interior finish will be refined and simple, carried out in the colonial style.

Mr. Holt has engaged an expert to lay out landscape plans, which will include elaborate planting of semi-tropic and desert growths.

GROVE CHANGES HANDS.

O. S. Tillman of the San Dimas Real Estate Company has negotiated an exchange whereby D. H. Crook purchased from George M. Pierson an eleven-acre navel and Valencia orange grove in the Lincoln Heights tract in Riverside, giving in part payment a tract of unimproved land in the San Dimas district, adjoining a tract of land already owned by Mr. Pierson. The total consideration was $18,000. Mr. Pierson will set the land out to citrus trees, which, when completed, will give him holdings of forty acres in the San Dimas district.

REALTY EXCHANGES.

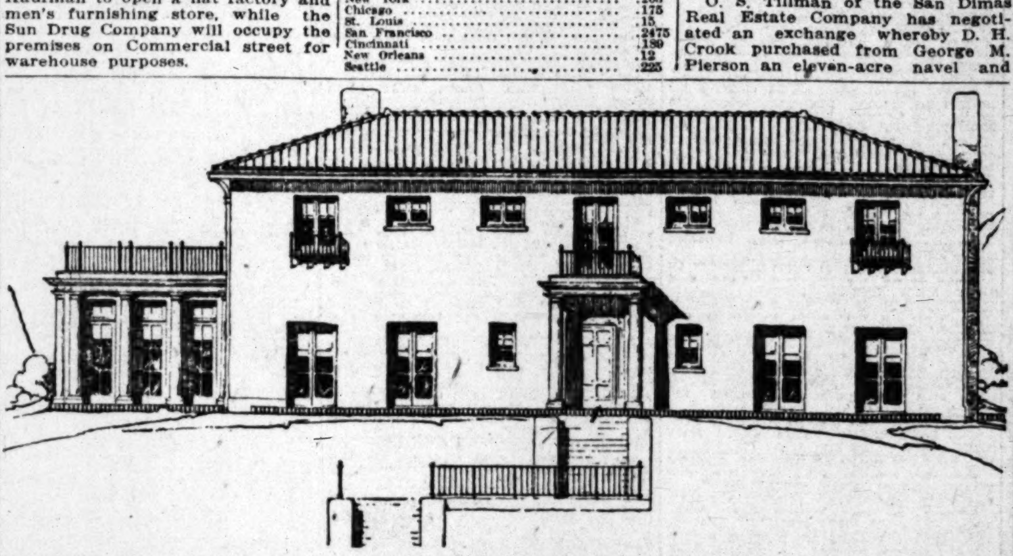
Flat and Store Buildings Traded for City Property and Cash.

The Rice estate and R. O. Miller have transferred to R. O. Hamlin the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Flower streets, lot 50 by 155, to a paved alley—improved with two two-story flat buildings, stated consideration, $38,000. A small part of the purchase price was accepted in clear city property; balance adjusted by cash and mortgage.

J. E. Baker has sold a two-story brick store and apartment building at Nos. 1108 and 1110 East Twelfth street, to G. Y. Riderbaugh for a stated consideration of $16,000. Mr. Baker accepted six lots in Tropico as part payment and the balance in cash and mortgage.

Ella Rowe has sold a modern four-flat building at San Marino and Westmoreland avenue to H. Fry for $14,000, taking as part payment a lot on West Tenth street.

C. J. Hildesheim, manager of Hollingsworth exchange department, represented both sides in all of the above exchanges.



Architect's drawing of new San Fernando Valley residence.

This handsome country home is being built for W. F. Holt on a commanding hillside site near a State highway. The plans were drawn by Robert M. Taylor and the construction work is being done under his direction.

WEST ADAMS HEIGHTS
Bargain—Only $3500

We have just been authorized to sacrifice this attractive 7-room bungalow located on the highest part of West Adams Heights and surrounded by homes no better than this one, but which would cost from $5000 to $15,000 to purchase at the present time.

From the concrete and stone porch which extends across the entire front of the house you can obtain a view of the ocean. The living-room has an artistic open fire place and handsomely decorated walls. Large dining-room with lots of windows and individual serving tables. Two large, light, airy bedrooms papered in delicate colors and roomy clothes closets are connected by a hall, off which opens a perfect bath. Cozy den with disappearing bed and built-in bookcases. The kitchen has every known modern convenience. Large screen laundry porch with two laundry trays. Hardwood floors throughout; big cement basement with furnace. Large garage with cement floor and drive. This home cost $5250 only two years ago, but the owner has left the city and must sell. He will sacrifice for only $3500—a $2500 mortgage can remain. This is without doubt the greatest bargain yet offered in a high-class bungalow and should sell on sight.

FOR SALE—
INCOME—BUNGALOW COURT.
"$75,000 to $80,000," at 50 per cent. of its value.
WE HAVE EXCLUSIVELY:
A fine Bungalow Court at the Seashore—"valued at over $75,000," owner has just taken title—FORECLOSURE—will sell it for $41,000, for $6000 cash, balance $4000 per year, 6 per cent. interest, or take $5000 cash, $5000 A1 exchange and $4000 per year, 6 per cent.
There are 10 double (20) furnished bungalows, which are renting for $650 per month—equals $7800 per year.
"Yearly payments—BUT—$4000, plus interest. Who, with $6000 in hand, would refuse to buy this A1 'meal ticket' for ALL time to come?"
This is NOT second-class property, but very attractive, choicest of locations, clear and clean, and you would be proud of ownership, though you get it for 50 per cent. of value. Owner does not want care of it. "First money up gets it." No information over phone. 420 WILCOX BUILDING.

FOR EXCHANGE—INCOME PROPERTY, PAYING 9 per cent. net on the price of $85,000, wanted from owner only, a fully equipped stock and alfalfa ranch or will deal for a stock ranch of less value without stock. Submit in person or by letter fully describing your property.

FOR EXCHANGE—Hollywood way, bungalow court and house paying 10 per cent. gross on $20,000—our price $17,500. Vacant ground for an equal number of buildings goes with this property. Want from owners only an alfalfa or other equipped ranch property.

FOR SALE—

AN OPPORTUNITY

IN THE SAN FERNANDO VALLEY.

For you to become the owner of AN AVOCADO ORCHARD, one acre or more, on very easy terms. We care for your orchard until it comes into bearing.

There is no new fruit that is coming into prominence more rapidly or with greater assurance of becoming the basis of a profitable industry than the AVOCADO.

Its reputation is being more widely established each year. Its unique character reduces to a minimum its competition with other fruits, while its rich, nut-like flavor is enjoyed by those who have known it long enough to become familiar with its peculiar charm.

The demand for the avocado has always kept in advance of the supply, as evidenced by the high prices paid for it.

FOR SALE—

THE DAIRY COW IS THE FARMER'S BEST FRIEND. THE PORKER IS A CLOSE SECOND. THEY ARE AT THEIR BEST ON THE CHOWCHILLA RANCH.

The dairy cow transforms feed quickly and continuously into human food of very high value. Our rich lands on the Chowchilla Ranch produce food for her in lavish style, and at minimum cost. Wonderful country for alfalfa and all forage crops. Dairying and hogs should go together; and there is no finer hog country than the Chowchilla. Top prices and an eager market for the products.

Farmers! Are you getting maximum returns where you are? If not, let us tell you more about CHOWCHILLA RANCH, with its fine soil, huge underground water supply, good schools, neighbors, transportation, etc. Our prices average about $140 per acre, and being owners, we can give you fine terms. For those who mean business, we have attractive printed matter with facts, figures and illustrations. Write us today.

FOR SALE—
Country Property.

FOR SALE—A CALIFORNIA PROPERTY WHICH can readily be made an ideal self-supporting country home, with vast further possibilities. 400 acres in the Sierra foothills, convenient to good roads, postoffice, R.R. station, telegraph, telephone and electric service, school, stores and town. Climate equal to the best in this famous State. Meadow, woodland, hills, ravines, and many natural parklike combinations, make it unusual for variety, and for home purposes and possibilities, comparison is challenged with any place in the State. In addition to being pre-eminent as a little country estate, it is one of the best ranches of its kind, well adapted to fruit growing and stock raising. Having deep, fertile soil, easy slopes, very convenient irrigation water and favorable climatic conditions, it will grow the finest of pears, plums, cherries, prunes, olives, figs, peaches, grapes and berries, and be made to pay a big return on the investment in addition to the rise in land values. Would make a game preserve if desired, or a fine goat ranch, an animal which is pretty much all profit. Has a 20-acre nucleus of fruit now growing. But above all else, it is a beauty spot. No one place on earth embraces all desirable advantages, but after a year's search throughout the State, the owner selected this as scoring the largest number of points. Search California, inspect the thousands of real estate offerings, and you will then appreciate the plenitude of desirable features embraced in this find. Price $25,000. Send for details and photographs. Box 362, EAST AUBURN, CAL.

FOR SALE—
"WE ARE MAKING WAR"
on the high price of farm lands, and have carried the last trench in favor of the home-seeker. We will sell you good sugar beet land for as low as $200 per acre and you can get the crop now growing by paying the lessee a nominal amount, or you can get the regular rental that would otherwise go to the owners. This means an income and a return of a large portion of your money in about 60 days' time. WHERE CAN YOU EQUAL THIS PROPOSITION? We can do this because we are the owners of the land and do not have to pay the usual 20 or 30 per cent., that all subdivisions must carry, that are being sold out by a big realty corporation. We also have some choice bean land at very conservative prices. NO IRRIGATION required here for beets or beans, this alone means from $10 to $15 more per acre to the grower than in a district where irrigation is necessary. For alfalfa, fruits, etc., we have flowing artesian water in amounts exceeding 100 miner's inches. Write for full information, prices, terms, etc.

FOR SALE—
Country Property.

FOR SALE—ABOUT 3000 ACRES FINE GRAIN land on east side San Joaquin Valley, near transportation, good roads, at $25 per acre, only one-quarter cash, balance easy terms at only 6 per cent. Where can you beat it? This is not that cheap alkali stuff, nor without rainfall enough even by summer fallowing, but it is all right now for grain, with good underground, and later gravity, water conditions.
This is the biggest snap we know of, and we have been hunting land for some time. We are grain farmers, with first-class equipment, tractor, harvester, etc., and would buy this land if we had the money. It is sure to advance. We would like someone to buy it and lease it to us for grain farming on shares, at good profit to purchaser, and later subdivide. We would like an option to buy part of it from the purchaser, but do not insist upon this, as we now have the selling of the land for the present owner. BUT MUST ACT QUICK. Will meet you at Fresno with auto and show the land if you really mean business. T. S. and DE R. TOMPKINS, 531 Central Bldg. Broadway 622.

FOR SALE—IF YOU INTEND TO LIVE ON A ranch why not locate where you will not have to contend with winter frosts, summer heat, high-priced, or uncertain water, lack of scenery, social or educational conditions, especially if you can get all that at $60 an acre and up? We own and operate a large olive mill at Fallbrook, Northern San Diego county, and in that splendid community we can locate you on any one of a number of large or small ranches, improved and unimproved. The Fallbrook section, through which the Santa Fe has just completed a new railroad, and which now has electricity for light and power, is marvelous for its olives, lemons, grapes, peaches, pears, figs, chickens, turkeys, etc. Visit Fallbrook on one of our almost daily auto trips and talk with the ranchers who have been making good under every favorable condition for more than a quarter of a century. PRATT OLIVE CO., 615 E. Third st. A4888, Main 3606.

FOR SALE—51-ACRE RANCH; 10 ACRES IN fetterita; 5 acres in Shala; 20 acres in milo maize; 2 acres sweet corn; 1 acre Indiana corn; 4 acres tepary beans; 5 kinds of water melons; 4 kinds of musk melons; peanuts; 1-4 acre spuds, beans, tomatoes; 1 acre Sudan grass, popcorn; a lot fine shade trees; modern 5-room house, big barn, separator and house, 700 feet deep artesian well with some gas; with new gas engine and pump for house. 2 100-ft. 10-inch wells, with new 5 H.P. motor, pumping plant for irrigation. Abundance of water. Place all ditched and fenced. No finer ranch anywhere. Reason for selling, wife in hospital, am alone on ranch. ½ mile from good town, high and grammar schools, churches, etc. If interested address J. F. GATES, Corcoran, Cal. R. No. 1, Box 8.

OIL PROPERTY—

OIL AND OIL LANDS. THE STOCK OF OIL on hand is decreasing, while the demand is increasing. Do you want oil property that will produce oil? If so, the writer can show you where an abundance of such property can be had. The following is the general course of a channel of oil deposit from Newhall to Whittier. Beginning at the Newhall oil fields, then down the San Fernando Valley to Burbank, Eagle Rock, Raymond Hotel hill, Shorb winery plant, southwest through Brooklyn Heights to Stephenson avenue, west to Soto street, northwest to County Hospital, East Main street bridge, Baker Iron Works, through Los Angeles to old Baptist College grounds, southwest to Pico street, south to Slauson avenue, northeasterly through Vernon to river, southeasterly to oil fields at Whittier. For exact location of oil see O. H. JONES, Oil Geologist, 480 W. Broadway, Glendale, Cal.

OIL! DO YOU WANT OIL? 3 LARGE CHANnels of oil run from Los Angeles city to Whittier, Brea, Fullerton, Puente. The Standard tapped the smallest at Montebello; 2 more from the Sherman-Salt Lake field run to near Dominguez and Signal Hill. I discovered, located and mapped them all 15 years ago. If you want the exact location see O. H. JONES, Locating Oil Geologist, 480 W. Broadway, Glendale, Cal. And he locates it, too; don't forget that.

FOR EXCHANGE—
A CHANCE TO MAKE $250,000.
And still have a real estate office, general merchandise store, bank and ranch combined.
Will exchange for Los Angeles, San Francisco or Oakland business property, or will take in a partner who will move on premises and devote his entire time.
I own a 819-acre ranch, taking in an entire new town, which has great prospects for development; it has a beautiful real estate office, the first month's commission was $1000. A great chance to make many sales and exchanges; this is the key to a large territory of good level fertile land, located in one of the best counties in the State of California, less than 100 miles from San Francisco; it has a blacksmith shop, merchandise store, opening for a lumber yard, implements, tools, machinery, bank, equipped with buildings for an up-to-date dairy and hog ranch; all kinds of implements, tools, machinery and stock; has a land checker and leveling outfit which will bring good profit; six beautiful homes; if you desire to subdivide the ranch there is a great prospect to sell in small tracts; the reason for disposing of this property is that I have other large interests and cannot give my attention to all of my properties properly; price $150,000; mortgage $40,550. If 300 acres of the unimproved land is sold, the mortgage can be cleared and the remainder of over 500 acres, with all improvements and implements, tools, machinery, including town, will be free from incumbrance, besides having a large territory of over 50,000 acres of land to be sold and exchanged. Owner, P. O. box 533, SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

ALASKA, GUARANTEED INVESTMENT, FOR LOS Angeles capital. The owner of the townsite of Seward, Alaska, the Pacific Ocean terminus of the new government railroad that is under construction into interior Alaska, is at the Hollywood Hotel, Hollywood, for a few days. I wish to meet one or more Los Angeles capitalists who will make a special trip of about three weeks with me to Seward, or send a representative with me, to see for themselves the many kinds of opportunities open and opening there for investments with large guaranteed returns. I have operated extensively and profitably in Alaska for fifteen years, and built one of the finest railroads in Alaska. With the government of the United States back of the railroad system now under construction in Alaska, and $35,000,000 already appropriated for it, centering at Seward, the growth of this young city will quickly make it one of the large commercial centers on the Pacific Coast. Its growth is just beginning. For the right men, or group of men, live ones, who will first investigate with their own eyes, this is an opportunity for big profits such as comes rarely. Write or phone me at the Hollywood Hotel in Hollywood—60951 and Hollywood 94. If I am not in when you call please leave your number. JOHN E. BALLAINE.

FOR SALE—
This is not a disappointment. It will appeal to the conservative, hard-headed business man as the greatest BARGAIN ever offered in Southern California.
An established retail grocery business, located in best town in Riverside county, in beautiful town, no saloons, fine schools and churches, splendid plant and equipment, stock $5000, fixtures $1500. Will show interested bona fide purchaser records for past year, which netted owner 35 per cent. upon investment after paying salary $150 month. This business can be purchased on basis of actual inventory for stock and fixtures, no bonus for "GOOD WILL," although worth $1000 for business built up.
If you are serious in your search for a business worth while, hurry and see this one. The first applicant, if in earnest search, will BUY IT. HE CAN'T HELP IT. Address J, box 177, TIMES OFFICE.

REAL MONEY-MAKER—
Will sell half interest in the best restaurant and soft drink business at the beach, clearing from $15 to $150 a day. This place took in June 17th, $285.40 and $380.80 on the Fourth of July. We do a big business every day. The best location on the beach. Long lease, cheap rent. Reason for selling half interest is on account of being unable to get the right kind of help. Prefer man and wife, to people that mean business, can take cash for a few days to assure yourself of the business that we are doing. Will take $400 for half interest. This place should net you that amount by the last of August. Seeing is believing. We have something different than the other fellow, and are making big money. At Last!

THIS GROCERY STORE "MOVES."

Farmer's Wife Doesn't Have to Drive to Town.

Truck Market has no Rent Bill to Pay.

Arkansas Reports First Auto Grocery a Success.

At last it has come—a grocery store on wheels! A gong rings and the farmer's wife goes out into the yard, greets the "auto truck grocer," looks over the stock he carries, makes her selection, pays the bill and goes back to her work.

The transaction only takes a few minutes—a trip to town has been eliminated—the grocer has made a profit and the farmer's wife has purchased as cheaply as she could possibly have done had she gone to the market in the city.

The grocery store on wheels pays no rent. The driver is also the grocer, the clerk, the bookkeeper and the janitor. He buys for cash at the wholesale store, sells for cash in the country, selects his own territory and can, if he desires, make the rear of the grocery his home at night.

One of these traveling grocery stores has been making good in Arkansas, where towns are far apart, in some sections. The following description of the store, and the way it operates, is taken from the Literary Digest:

"The groceries carried in the truck are sold on the cash basis and are bought, paid for, and delivered at one time. The vehicle starts out on its daily route stocked with goods which experience has taught can be sold. It pulls up outside the customer's house and the driver rings a bell mounted on the left side of the wind shield. This notifies the customer that the truck has arrived.

"The body is divided into two main parts, that for the driver and that for the store proper. The former is entirely inclosed and is provided with a full-length door on the right and adjacent glass panels. The driver walks into the store part of the body from the cab through a usual-sized door in the center of a partition separating the two. At the extreme rear there is a customers' vestibule with room for six persons, separated from the remainder by a railing with a wide counter on the top.

"Leading forward from the counter to the partition dividing the grocery and driver's compartments there are two narrow shelves, one on each side, with bins above and below in which various kinds of package goods are carried. At the extreme rear, at the right, is a top-lift ice box which forms a part of the counter when the top is down. In it are carried meats, butter, milk, and other perishable goods.

"Outside of the body under the rear are two chicken coops with hinged swing-back bottoms. Two tanks are also carried at the rear for kerosene and gasoline.

"The truck is equipped with an electric starting and lighting system, the current being used to light three electric ceiling lights in the body and to operate the bell used to announce the arrival of the truck so that the housewife has time to get her list of purchases and purse ready. The body is heated in the cold months by a utilization of the engine exhaust."

MAN SPOTTED BY WHITEWASH.

Streak on Coat Sleeve Causes His Arrest on Suspicion of Burglary.

John Lecot, 40 years old, was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Hawtrey, on a charge of suspicion of burglary. According to the police, he attempted to enter a room at No. 237 East Second street, and in so doing, trailed a sleeve of his coat in some whitewash. The policeman, after making an investigation of the attempted burglary, saw Lecot walking on the street with a white splotch on his sleeve, and arrested him on suspicion. Finger prints on the window sill were copied by Expert Sanders of the Identification Bureau in an effort to connect Lecot with other crimes.

CHARTER RECEIVED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DINUBA, July 21.—The charter has been received here for the Alta District Farm Loan Association of which the newly-elected officers are H. H. Hodges, president; M. Seligman, vice-president, and Karl M. Lewis, secretary. Applications for loans to a total of $100,000 have been made to the local board.

SALES CONTEST IN FULL SWING.

The Winton company of Cleveland, O., is holding a national competitive sales contest among its branches.

The percentage of increase over former average of business will be the basis on which the contest is decided. At the close of the contest the winning salesman in each branch will accompany the manager to the factory in Cleveland, O., where a national sales convention will be held August 13, 14 and 15.

According to H. L. Owesney, manager of the local Winton branch, the Winton company is making all plans for increased business throughout the coming season.

Every effort will be made to increase the production above any previous year.

Needless to say, Mr. Owesney is very confident of the local branch winning first honors in the contest.

THIRTY-EIGHT CARS ON WAY TO PARK.

One of the largest parties of motorists to leave Los Angeles on a long-distance tour was a caravan of thirty-eight cars, which started Friday morning for Camp Curry in the Yosemite.

The first night's stop was at Porterville, with Fresno as the point of interest on the second day. The Chamber of Commerce of the Raisin City entertained the motor tourists Saturday noon at luncheon and the remainder of the day was spent in viewing the sights of interest in that section. The run into the valley is to be concluded today.

From reservations that had been made in advance through the Los Angeles office for Camp Curry, the number of cars was augmented by additions along the route until more than fifty were included in the long line. Four utility cars furnished by Los Angeles concerns accompanied the party.

Growing.

NEW KINDS OF TIRES EXTEND TRUCK FIELD.

TO THE casual observer the motor truck industry seems to have attained to adult proportions. But people felt the same way about the railroads fifty years ago—when the first locomotives burned wood and ran on tracks made of iron strips bolted to wooden runners. So it is reasonable to believe that the motor truck, which is an invention of yesterday (so to speak,) will advance as far in its day as the railroad has.

The extensive use of trucks in practically every field of industry indicates an economic trend which all transportation students are watching closely—for this economic revolution is irresistible. And not only are trucks becoming adaptable to many new uses, but new territories are constantly being opened to their dvance.

In commenting on the part that tires have played in the advance of the rubber-tired freighter, the branch manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., declares that oftentimes a new kind of tire or tire improvement, has actually opened up whole new transportation fields for motor trucks and vastly broadened old fields.

"This has been particularly true in the case of our hand-attachable truck tire, which is now bringing trucks into much wider use in small towns and rural districts.

"As its name indicates, it can be applied to the wheel by hand, a particularly desirable feature in tire equipment. It has all the stamina and cushioning power of the pressed-on tire, and is independent of special machinery for applying. Hammer and monkey-wrench are the requisite tools for applying this type of tire.

"There is now no need for a truck owner in the smaller towns or in rural districts to ship wheels away for re-tiring. And for this reason many small towns that formerly were without trucks are now five, ten and fifteen-truck towns. Thus is business permitted to run where it walked leisurely before.

"So successful has the hand-attachable proven in army transport service that the United States government specifies their use on all truck tires bought for army service."

Economical.

HIGH MILEAGE RECORD SET BY A LIGHT SIX.

DRIVING a stock model Saxon six touring car 300 miles and averaging 33.8 miles to a gallon of gasoline was the feat executed by Lloyd Staples and Earl Rowell of the J. V. Baldwin Motor Company, distributors of the Saxon in Southern California.

"The annual 300-mile economy run of the Saxon Motor Car Corporation, which was staged throughout the United States last Wednesday, proved to be one of the most successful national economy experiments ever attempted.

"In order that Saxon owners and likely prospects may obtain a table of figures which will give an accurate account of the upkeep of a Saxon six, such a severe test as that which has just been completed was chosen by the Saxon factory.

"By staging a gruelling grind of this nature the figures compiled will tend to give prospective owners of automobiles a fair estimate of what it actually costs to operate an automobile, despite the many 'hard times' wails that we hear of nowadays," said J. V. Baldwin.

In order to insure the validity of the test, two newspaper men acted as observers. Because of the length of the contest it was necessary to use relief drivers and observers. The observers kept an accurate account of all oil, gasoline and water consumed on the run and had there been any other operative costs these would also have been included in the final reckoning.

"Not once was it necessary to stop because of tire trouble or a bothersome engine. In addition to this, was it necessary to use an extra quantity of oil. These are only a few of the minor details that are to be contended with on economy runs of this magnitude.

"The exact amount of gasoline consumed, according to the figures that were submitted to me by the relative observers, was 8.8 gallons. This gives a final average of 33.8 miles to the gallon. For the entire run only a fraction over a pint of oil was used," declared Mr. Baldwin.

In order that the car be given a thorough workout, all kinds of roads were traveled over, while a goodly portion of the entire distance took the car and its economists over recognized steep grades near here.

During the early hours of the morning, after the start had been made, the Saxon party encountered countless banks of thick fog, all of which tended to more or less impede the progress of the car. There were times when the party even left the road because of not being able to see through the fog. In spite of these obstacles, Staples and Rowell established figures which will go a long ways towards winning additional hosts of admirers to the Saxon six.

Rubbing it In.

FETTERMAN SHATTERS RECORDS FIVE TIMES.

"I. P. FETTERMAN, driving a Peerless eight (special,) not only won distinction when he broke the professional track record in the 112½-mile invitation dealers' race on the Uniontown Speedway, with a time of 1:13:40, but he appears to have shattered all records in dealers' racing events in the five contests which he has entered on that track during the spring and summer," said Stanley Smith of Smith Bros.

"The total mileage of the five Uniontown contests in which Fetterman has driven the Peerless eight amounted to 414½ miles. The first was fifty miles, the next three were 112½ miles each and the fifth was the Australian pursuit race of twenty-seven miles. The whole 414½ miles of terrific driving were made without a single stop for mechanical assistance; without a cylinder missing and without the powerful motor ever becoming overheated. Furthermore, the last race of 112½ miles was run on seven gallons of gasoline, an average of approximately sixteen miles to the gallon—a remarkable record for a heavy car."

In telling of his Uniontown Speedway experiences at the Peerless factory the other day, Fetterman said:

"During all of my racing career, I have never heard of any performance in a series of dealers' events which will equal that of the Peerless eight. I firmly believe that the car can run all day at an average of ninety miles an hour without any mechanical difficulty." He then referred to the statements made in the foregoing paragraph.

A feature of the car to which Fetterman attributes a great deal of his success, is its unusual balance in construction, which enables him to operate it without extraordinary strain on the mechanical parts. As an example of the perfect balance, he said that he had noticed that in driving around the Uniontown track he always found himself on the turns within six inches of the same spot where he had made the turns on previous trips around the oval.

"Perfect balance in the construction of heavy racing cars is a feature of construction which all racing men look for and pray for," said Fetterman. "That a special stock car would embody this feature, to the extent that the Peerless eight does, is certainly remarkable."

The total cash winnings of the Peerless eight at Uniontown on July 4 were $1450. The dealers' race brought Fetterman $750, the track title gave him $500 more and he won $200 in the Australian pursuit race.

An Eye to Business.

BIG FIRMS NOW USING GASIFIERS ON CARS.

IN A RECENT interview, H. F. White, sales manager of the gasifier department at the Savage Tire Corporation, explained why so many of the large firms of Los Angeles have already equipped their cars with the Thurston Motor Fuel Gasifier.

According to Mr. White, firms who operate a number of cars in connection with their business, keep careful records of expenses.

"Such firms know what mileage they are getting per gallon of fuel," he said, "the amount of lubricating oil necessary to operate any given car daily or weekly, the expense of removing carbon, and all other items that go to make up the sum total operation expense.

"The buyers acting for such firms realize more fully than most motorists who operate a single car for pleasure or business, and who oftentimes fail to keep records of expense, the high and ever increasing cost of fuel. When you go to such men with a device like the Thurston motor fuel gasifier, that is absolutely guaranteed to burn the cheaper fuels, they realize at once its advantages.

"As a result, a number of the larger Los Angeles firms have already equipped their cars with gasifiers. It is true that some of these firms tried out the gasifier equipment on a single car at first, and that is all the Savage Tire Corporation asked them to do, because the results that are always obtained are better arguments for the installing of gasifiers than anything that a salesman has to offer."

Mr. White went on to say that he hoped that the users of pleasure cars would sooner or later keep operating costs, because the gasifier will work just as well on pleasure cars as it will on delivery trucks, or any other cars used for business purposes. It does not mar the appearance of the car, it requires no adjusting, and by insuring practically perfect combustion it makes possible an easier running car, and freedom from many annoyances that the pleasure car owner now experiences. According to Mr. White, more than half of the cars will be gasifier equipped before the year is over, and such equipment will result in saving hundreds of thousands of dollars for Los Angeles motorists, he says.

GETS TWO YEARS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ORANGE, July 21.—J. F. Vollmer, sentenced to two years in the County Jail for failure to support his children, is to be given work whenever possible, and for each day's work the county will pay $1.25 to Mrs. Vollmer for the support of the children.

SHORT TRADERS BUSY COVERING CONTRACTS.

Optimistic View of Washington Situation Taken in New York—Bethlehem Steel Scores the Greatest Gain. Shippings are Also in Favor, Marine Preferred Leading Division with Gain of Two Points.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 21.—Traders took a more optimistic view of the Washington situation today and engaged in further covering of short contracts. Commission houses also circulated reports of an early solution of the problems attaching to war prices, and taxes.

Industrials of most descriptions, particularly those comprehended in the war groups, rose 1 to 7 points, Bethlehem Steel, old stock, ordinarily very inactive, scoring the greatest gain, with 3 for the new issue. United States Steel and so-called independent shares bettered their position by 1 to 2 points.

Shippings were also in favor, marine, preferred, leading that division with a gain of 2 points, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies and United Fruit rising 2 or more with American-International Corporation.

Coppers were irregular at the outset but gained 1 to 1½ points in the more active operations of the last hour. Similar or greater advances were registered by American Woolen, Central Leather, oils, sugars and local tractions.

Rails were inactive throughout the session, the only noteworthy changes being limited to the coalers, Lehigh Valley and Chesapeake and Ohio rising over a point each. St. Paul was moderately reactionary and the motors reflected in a continuance of recent pressure. Total sales of stocks amounted to 332,000 shares.

The bank statement was true to forecasts, actual excess reserve expanding by almost $108,000,000 and bringing the total for that item up to $144,000,000 against last week's low record of a little more than $36,000,000.

Reserves of clearinghouse banks in the local Federal reserve institution increased by almost $92,000,000 and actual loans, discounts and investments contracted by $125,000,000. All these unusual changes represent a rectification of last week's technically unfavorable exhibit.

The bond market was firm with Liberty 3½s at par to 99.46. Total sales of bonds, par value, aggregated $1,060,000.

Panama coupon 3s rose 5 per cent. on call during the week.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The extent to which business is likely to be affected by war-time regulation engaged the attention of Wall street this week. Little relief from present monotonous market conditions is expected until the programme of taxation and prices has been determined. Further price shrinkage was experienced by many industrials and equipments. Automobile stocks were at a great disadvantage, their declines reviving reports of unfavorable trade conditions. This was refuted in part by large army contracts.

It was regarded as significant of conditions in the steel industry that a fortnight has elapsed without effecting any change either way in prices of finished products. The steel trade, authorities declare, is simply awaiting the outcome of events at Washington.

Increased pressure against coppers and other metals, despite the high record for silver, was ascribed primarily to labor troubles.

Rumors of a cut in the St. Paul dividends, later semi-officially denied, contributed more than any other factor to the moderate actions in rails.

Call money's temporarily rise to the maximum of the year was brought about mainly by last week's technically poor bank statement.

The attitude of banking interests toward the investment market was indicated by new financial projects. These took the form of short-term notes at unusually attractive interest returns, instead of the more stable bond issues.

PROFESSIONALS IN CONTROL OF MARKET

MANIPULATION EXERTED ON OIL STOCKS.

Associated Brings Slightly Higher Quotations—Union is Steady. Sunnyside Features Mining List with an Advance of Four Points. Tom Reed in Fair Call.

Professional dealings made up the bulk of the trading on the local Stock Exchange at yesterday morning's session. This was especially true of the oil stocks, Associated being worked up to 60.12½ at one time, only to fall back to 59.75 at the close. Union brought 128.12½ to 128.25 on strictly limited transactions and the lower-priced petroleum securities were dull indeed. Sunnyside furnished some excitement and a total of 29,000 shares changed hands at quotations ranging from 10 to 14½, representing a sharp advance in values as compared to the previous day. Tom Reed was in fair call at steady quotations and Yellow Pine moved up to 1.58, a gain of 1½ points during the day. Industrials, bonds and bank stocks were all neglected.

The Associated Oil Company, which recently bought about 2000 acres in the Casmalia field, has started on an elaborate plan of wildcat drilling at a time when all kinds of oil-well supplies are bringing top-notch prices, and when labor is scarce and high. It is said that this Casmalia oil is very heavy, being almost the same as asphalt, which entails a tremendous expense to produce commercial petroleum. Evidently this move on the part of the Associated is but another frenzied effort that is being made by the management of the company to relieve itself from its present alarming shortage of oil, which it has contracted to deliver at prices far below the present market.

BULLISH EFFECT IN WHEAT PIT.

ACTION OF GOVERNMENT HAS EFFECT ON MARKET.

Upward Trend Starts Almost as Soon as the Opening and no Important Setback is Recorded at Any Time—High Price Level for Oats.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 21.—Assumed certainty of the enactment of a minimum wheat price guaranteed by the Federal government had a bullish effect today on the wheat market here. An advance of 5 to 9¾ net took place and the close was strong with July at 2.55 and September at 2.27¾. Corn finished heavy, unchanged to 1⅛ lower at 1.63 to 1.63⅛ September and 1.15⅞ to 1.16⅛ December. The outcome in oats was ⅜ off to 1⅜ up, and for provisions an advance of 5 to 32.

Wheat started upward almost as soon as the market opened and there was at no time any important setback. The prospect that quick action would be taken by Congress in fixing a minimum value to be enforced at centers near to the chief producing regions was apparently a decided stimulus for bullish sentiment.

Week-end profit-taking by holders finally turned the corn market downgrade after a display of surprising strength. Persistent demand for corn ready to be used at once formed the chief basis of the temporary bulge. Realizing by longs received some impetus from the fact that weather conditions for the growing crop had become ideal.

New high-price levels were reached for oats. The big discount of oats under corn was a factor, and so, too, were crop complaints from the Northwest.

Provisions rose with hogs and as a result of an advance in quotations of meats at Liverpool. There was a complete absence of the liquidating sales which have been noticeable of late.

Weekly Review.

CITRUS FRUIT SHIPMENTS AND MARKET SUMMARY.

ORANGES.

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—(Office of the Fruit World, Hollingsworth Bldg.) With prices on Valencias down to a basis that insures greater consumption, renewed interest is being displayed in Valencias all along the line and a generally better feeling prevails in all markets. Small dealers throughout the country who were forced to discontinue the handling of Valencias owing to the high market quotations are again displaying interest and are pushing the sale of Valencias vigorously. With these conditions prevailing there is every reason to look for a firmer feeling in Valencias with correspondingly higher prices than have prevailed during the past week.

Shipments continue to go forward in greater volume than was expected at this time, it being generally reported that growers are anxious to get their fruit to market early. Total shipments of Valencias to date number about 6000 cars, leaving a possible 12,000 cars to go out of the estimated total of 18,000 cars, which estimate seems to check up with latest figures.

The market at this time is on a basis of $2.50 f.o.b. although there is little f.o.b. business reported owing to the generally lower prices which have influenced the trade in holding off for the time being.

LEMONS.

On everything excepting very best stock lemons, which are none too plentiful at this time, the market is groggy, there being very little interest displayed. A heavy percentage of the lemons now out consists of generally poor stock and nothing but a hot wave will do much to liven up interest in this fruit. Weather conditions throughout the country have been generally cool but today's weather report shows some sections warming up in good shape which may bring about a change in the lemon situation in another twenty-four hours. What is needed is real "lemon weather" to put life in the situation and dispose of the weak stock that is being offered.

On fancy lemons, the market is on a basis of $5.50 to $6.00 at this time.

MARKET SHOWS AN IMPROVEMENT.

WEAK UNDERTONE INDICATED AT THE CLOSE.

Heavy Rains Reported East of the Mississippi River and Throughout Alabama—Optimistic Reports Come from Southeastern Texas.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 21.—Improvement in the cotton market during the first half of today's short session was more than lost in the last half and particularly near the close the market showed a weak undertone with final prices 7 to 50 points net lower and about the lowest for the day. Immediately following the close, however, a much better tone developed and it was understood that sales were made privately at about 29 points advance compared with the closing quotations. At the opening the market was irregular with first prices from 10 points lower to 10 points higher, but with a steady undertone which later broadened out into something like firmness on a renewal of trade buying of both futures and spots. There were more rains east of the Mississippi River, heavy, in a number of place throughout Alabama and Mississippi, and quite general over the entire belt. Those in Southeastern Texas were very favorable and led to optimistic reports as to the progress of the crop there, but those in the East, especially in the Carolinas, were not wanted and gave rise to a number of unfavorable reports. Inability properly to cultivate the plant and the fear that boll weevil would increase as a result of wet weather, were the conditions mostly complained of. Near the close it become evident that traders who had bought cotton on Friday's peace rumors and on Saturday's early eastern belt news were not willing to carry their lines over Sunday and as offerings increased the market gave way rapidly.

Biggest Locomotive in the World.

The greatest steam locomotive in the world has been put into service by the Baldwin Locomotive Works. It is so gigantic, says the Popular Science Monthly for August, that its boiler had to be made flexible at three different joints so that the locomotive could turn around a curve. It is over 100 feet long and weighs some 420 tons. Twenty-four driving wheels, each standing as high as an average-size man, afford it traction. The driving wheels are distributed along the length of the locomotive in sets of four pairs, the wheels of each set being coupled together and driven by two giant steam cylinders. Under full steam, the locomotive can exert an eighty-three-ton pull on the cars behind it—which means that it can easily haul a freight train two miles long and 23,000 tons in weight over an ordinarily good roadbed at an average rate of about fourteen miles an hour, and possibly more. Bad roads will retard it only slightly.

WAR MEMORIALS.

Opportunity to Avert in Future a Very Serious Mistake.

The question of war memorials, of fitting tributes to those who have met death through military service or whose deeds have been marked by signal acts of bravery, has been for a long time discussed in the foreign architectural press. A plan proposed, and one that has met with general approval, has been the building in each town of a permanent memorial to mark appreciation of the heroic men who have gone forth in this war. This plan will undoubtedly be found to be as admirable in this country as it is in Europe.

No one, says the American Architect, will criticise the patriotic impulse that prompted a grateful people to set up in our cities and towns the many soldiers' monuments that so often disfigure public squares and commons and which so often cause a feeling of regret to every artistic observer. Now will be found an opportunity to take steps to avert in the future a very serious artistic blunder, and no class of men can exert a greater influence in these matters than architects.

As the town center is the logical place for these memorials, it is equally logical to assume that when properly conceived they would exert a very decided influence on the future development of the neighborhood. We need in this country a better development of community life, a more intimate intermingling of the people, and there is no greater or better method than the facilities offered by the town or village hall. A well designed village hall or library will admirably serve the purposes of a memorial and provide for all the people a constant reminder of the purposes of its erection.

"Can any one doubt," asks the Architect, "that the forthcoming years, will, in the direction indicated, offer greater opportunities than at any previous period for architects to exert their influence on these various matters? By training, temperament and experience, no class of men is better equipped, and it would seem to be a wise and patriotic duty for the profession, individually and through the various societies, to insure the proper progress of these things in the future, and to guard against the invasion of well-meaning but none the less inartistic memorials that have been foisted on us during and after our earlier wars."

Salvaging Invention.

[Indianapolis News:] A new device for salvaging sunken ships has been invented by Dr. Sylvio Pellico Portelia of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, who says it may be used to salvage ships sunk at almost any depth where divers may reach them and that it is effective in floating a wreck, no matter what its position on the sea floor. The invention consists of a tender of special model, which is equipped with floats of waterproof material. These are neatly folded, but later, when inflated with air, they assume all sorts of shapes—parallelopipedons, spheres, cylinders, etc. They are carried down by divers and attached to various portions of the sunken vessel, both within and without, still retaining their connection by means of hose with the tender ship. When all are properly fastened in place they are inflated by air pressure from above, like the tires of an automobile. As they swell they are said to gradually displace the water within and about the wreck, and it is said that by their own buoyancy they float it to the surface.

His "Bit" in Wooden Shoes.

[Kansas City Times:] Henry Pruess of Lucerne, Kan., wore his war shoes to Kansas City and clattered through the shopping district where trim-slippered shoppers, overwhelmed with wonder, gazed after him.

Mr. Pruess is 70 years old. The wooden shoes are not new to him, as they are to many who saw him. He wore them in Germany fifty-two years ago, and resumed the custom when the United States declared war on Germany.

"They're as comfortable as carpet slippers when you get used to them," he said at the Union Station, on his way to visit a daughter at Quimby, Iowa, as he slipped his heavily-stockinged feet out of the wooden shoes to rest.

Pruess's reception in the downtown district annoyed him. He did not like the levity with which his patriotic sacrifice was received.

"I don't have to wear them," he said, "but I'm doing it for my country—not for Germany. I don't work and I walk very little. Wooden shoes will do me. Those who need leather shoes may be able to buy them cheaper because of my sacrifice. Yes, I'll buy Liberty bonds. Never mind how much. I've been farming in Kansas and the years haven't all been bad. Everybody should buy bonds and help free the German people."

Reclamation.

RESTORING LAND.

Tract at Mouth of Kaw will be Diked and Raised — Valuable Bottom Land Industrial Property will be Protected from the Floods.

[Kansas City Star:] The old city levee at the mouth of the Kaw River—the site of old Wyandotte, where just before the Civil War houses could not be built fast enough to accommodate the immigration that came up the Missouri River—is to be reclaimed from floods. The improvement, which will reclaim almost 100 acres of factory locations, was decided upon yesterday afternoon by the Kaw Valley Drainage Board.

The levee property, considered the most valuable river land for industrial purposes, has been neglected in the general flood protection plans of the Kaw Valley Drainage District. The levee property is cut off by bluffs from the rest of the district and its protection was not essential to the safeguarding of Armourdale and the West Bottoms from overflow. But the boundaries of the district contemplated the reclaiming of the levee, when the drainage law was passed and the territory from the mouth of the Kaw, north up the Missouri River to Jersey Creek, and west along the south bank of Jersey Creek to First street and south on First street to the Kaw River just above the Missouri Pacific-Northwestern bridge menace across the Kaw River was included.

The industrial locations will be reclaimed by the drainage board making a special benefit district of the levee property to build dikes. In the dike building the board plans to take into consideration the success attained in the navigation of the Missouri River. The Kansas City Missouri River Navigation Company has its docks and shipyards at the mouth of the Kaw, where great inconvenience is suffered, because of the slopping dikes. The new dike along the west bank of the Missouri River will be built perpendicular to provide proper facilities for the Missouri River boats. From the Missouri River the south bank of Jersey Creek will be diked back to the bluffs at First street.

On the land which will be reclaimed are railroad tracks, rights of way and switch property obtained by the Northwestern, the Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific railroads years ago from the city without return consideration. Most of the property not given to the railroads in these grants is still held by Kansas City, Kan. Several times steps have been started to reclaim the land by bond issues, but the people have turned down the proposal for the reason that they insisted the cost should be paid by the valuable railroad property benefited, and which was obtained without cost by the companies.

After the dike work is completed the members of the drainage board say they will place the big dredge owned by the district at the disposal of the city and railroads to fill in the tract to a level with the dyke, placing all the land in the area above flood stage. P. J. Broll, chairman of the drainage board, estimated the total cost of the reclamation improvement would not exceed $200,000, including the dredging and filling in behind the dikes.

"It will be the biggest single improvement undertaken in connection with the river work and river navigation," Mr. Broll said. "It will guarantee to the Kansas side the permanent shipping yards of the navigation company.

"The mouth of the Kaw is destined to be a scene of busy river transportation. As the industries build in the dike-protected area and the district dredges out the Kaw River channel the use of the river for freight will become general. Small boats will deliver barges from the packing houses and industries along the Kaw dikes to the navigation company's docks."

Ice Mines of the United States.

There are several caves in the United States where nature seems to have become confused as to the seasons, according to an article in the Popular Science Monthly for August. During the late spring and summer ice forms and a freezing temperature prevails, but as winter comes on the interior of the caves becomes milder, the ice gradually melts and a kind of subdued summer sets in underground.

One of these peculiar caves is to be found at Coudersport, Pa., and one at Decorah, Iowa. The superstitious among the residents of these localities give the caves a wide berth and look with suspicion upon any one daring enough to attempt to investigate them.

Edwin S. Balch of Philadelphia, who has made a study of the subterranean ice mines, as they are called, states that according to the theory evolved by investigators, the formation of the caverns is such that the cold air of winter does not penetrate and settle in them until late in the spring at the time when the water from spring thaws is seeping through the walls and roof. This water meeting the cold air freezes and stays frozen all summer until, as the fall season approaches, the warm summer air at last finds its way into the cave and melts the ice.

The Moon in Japanese Poetry.

[East and West News:] "Japanese fondness for moon-gazing must not be interpreted as a pure feeling of joy in the presence of beauty; it is mixed with melancholy sentiment," says The New East. "The soul is touched with strange and deep pathos when looking at the moon with night sky as a background and —silence. Shirakawa had the idea when he said, 'As I, in solitude, look attentively upon the moon, I seem to merge into oneness with her.' This attitude toward nature quite differs from that which one feels at sight of the first touch of day as a spot of high light upon the top of Mount Fuji."

Little Surprises.

[Portland Express:] "No sir; your watch doesn't need any repairs or even cleaning. You simply forgot to wind it."

"Gentlemen, the conductor has asked us to move forward in the car. Come on; there's plenty of room."

"Certainly you deserve a raise in your salary. You have been doing splendid work and we appreciate it."

"It was all my own fault I was knocked down. I got right in the way of your automobile."

"No, sir, this isn't the genuine olive oil. That's the reason it is so cheap."

HILL FARM SOLUTION OF SEED-POTATO PROBLEM.

BY MILTON R. STANDISH.

THAT he has solved the problem of seed potatoes for Southern California, by growing them on the mountains, is the belief of George M. Cooley, pioneer potato grower of the San Bernardino Valley, whose opinions in regard to potato culture are regarded as authoritive by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Planted at an altitude of about 4000 feet on the old Pine ranch, at the head of Devil Canyon, about twelve miles northwest of San Bernardino, the potato plants, seed for which was secured from Aroostook county, Maine, now stand about two feet in height and are covered with a heavy white bloom, something unusual for Southern California. In the rich, black loam which is found all over the flat places in the mountains, the young tubers are now from two to three inches in diameter and growing fast.

By October 1 this crop will be in the bins and according to the plan Mr. Cooley will work out, will have four months to cure. Potatoes cannot properly age for planting in less than six weeks, according to Mr. Cooley. The seed will be little more than he will want to plant for himself in February.

"Potato growers will find that they can plant seed in February in the higher places and harvest an early crop soon after the middle of May, thus making Southern California the first part of the United States to produce spring potatoes," he said yesterday.

"Following along this line of planting, the May crop, coming along fully a month before the usual early crop of the San Bernardino Valley, will have time to cure for the July and August sowing and thus provide hardy stock for the late fall crop."

Mr. Cooley has been offered special positions in the Department of Agriculture but has declined them, hoping he will be able to help local growers. For the past few months he has been working out a distribution system and as a result the San Bernardino county organization was the only one in the State that marketed the surplus of the early tuber crop at a good profit. The growers' organization looked to the home supply first and shipped out only such part of the crop as was deemed a surplus. The growers will average from $2.75 to $3 per 100 on the shipments. One week alone 548,000 pounds were consigned to the East at $3.55 net to the growers.

Renewal of seed is necessary at least every three years, according to Mr. Cooley, and for his personal use he secures new seed every two years. He gets his supply from Aroostook county, Maine, the greatest potato section in the country. The great difficulty which has confronted local growers, he says, has been the seed problem and for years he has worked to find a way by which Southern California growers may become independent of other sections for their supply.

The mountainous sections are the answer, he declares, and the success attending his latest experiment bears out his theory. Potato men are watching his efforts with much interest. He has three varieties planted —the Poor Man's Friend, the Great Divide and another early producer.

SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND CARS SOLD IN TWO WEEKS.

CONTRACTS with distributors and dealers for the handling of 75,000 automobiles were closed by the Maxwell Motor Sales Corporation of Detroit in less than two weeks after the company started making its annual contracts on July 1, it is claimed.

"The company finds that the men who have handled the Maxwell line in the past are optimistic as to the future. And the dealers and distributors being added for the first time to the Maxwell rolls are equally sure that the country, during 1917-1918, is to absorb a tremendous number of motor vehicles," said an official of the company.

"We look for prosperity, sales and profits. The people of our section have money and are going to buy automobiles. The automobile today is a necessity and is steadily becoming more so.

"This is the substance of what Maxwell motor car dealers in every part of the United States have to say regarding the outlook.

"It is this present and prospective heavy demand that is spurring the distributors to close their contracts early. They want to be sure of getting all the cars their trade will need.

"The Maxwell one-ton truck is also inspiring dealers to hurry and make sure of the Maxwell line. Both the demand and the output of this truck will grow tremendously in the next year, it is expected, and dealers know that the truck is really an asset to their business."

Referring to the quick signing of these contracts for the merchandising of 75,000 motor cars, Walter E. Flanders, president and general manager of the Maxwell company, said:

"The business situation is reflected in these contracts with dealers. This, in my opinion, is conclusive evidence of the prosperity of the nation and of the sound condition of commerce and industry. It is proof, too, of the fact that the American people are resolved to live on the sane, logical business-as-usual plane.

"The new contracts are with the very best class of dealers and distributors in the country.

"Among them are: The Harry Newman-Stratton Company of Chicago, which agrees to handle 8000 cars; John D. Williams & Co., exporters, of New York, which agrees to handle 7500 cars; the McKinney-Curtis Company of Fargo, N. D., which agrees to handle 4000 cars, and the Western Motors Company of San Francisco, which agrees to handle 3000 cars.

"These contracts illustrate the class of dealers being attracted to the Maxwell company by our new sales policy," said T. J. Toner, director of sales.

"We are seeking more and better dealers—striving persistently to build up and strengthen the already strong Maxwell sales organization."

AUTO DRIVEN OVER BLUFF A HUNDRED FEET HIGH.

ZIP HOLLEY, a bachelor farmer, who lives on the Rifle River road six miles north of Sterling, Mich., is the champion hair-breadth escaper of that State.

Every now and then Zip has a hair-breadth escape that would make him rich if he was doing this escape stuff for the movies. But Zip doesn't flirt with death for a million dollars a year, which Charlie Chaplin gets for picking his teeth with a walking stick.

It's born in Zip. He goes around hair-breadth escaping just like it was second nature to him.

On Fourth of July night Zip attended a Polish dance at which a good time was enjoyed by all, including Zip. However, that wasn't anybody's affair but Zip's, he being unmarried and nobody having any right to kick if he went home whoopin' it up.

Zip had done his share of whoopin' and started home in his Maxwell car. It was about 6 o'clock in the morning, and Zip was fagged out, as it were.

Just south of Rifle River, he dozed off and the next thing he knew he and his Maxwell had gone over the brow of Dead Man's Leap, which is 108 feet down to Sam Watkins's corn field.

Zip didn't wake up till he landed in the cornfield, where the doughty Maxwell, as though realizing that Zip must be protected, sprang about over Sam Watkins's corn until, so to speak, it could get "toe hold" and calm down, which it did.

"I was some shuck up, but the car wasn't hurt," said Zip.

This was three hours later when Sam Watkins found him asleep, in the faithful Maxwell.

"I measured one jump of fourteen feet which Zip's car had covered without making a track, after lighting in the corn field," said Jay Ames, the local Maxwell dealer.

"For a feller like me," said Zip, "The Maxwell is the only safe motor car."

Chance to Get Some Quick and Big Money

The Big Bear Oil Co., though only three months old, is drilling one well and will start another soon. This rapid financing is due to the fact that it is a co-operative company, no officer receiving any salary or commission. Your money goes for actual drilling. Officers are efficient and reliable men. We are still selling stock at the starting price of 7½c a share, but this price will advance August 1. Stocks now selling for $20 at the start sold for 10 cents also. Capitalization is only $500,000; stock full-paid and non-assessable. Sold on monthly payment plan if desired. Drilling in the famous Big Muddy field, where all wells drilled to Wall creek sands are over 500 barrels daily capacity. One 500-barrel well should make this stock sell in the dollars. If you want some stock at the 7½-cent price, write at once. Get literature, bank references and map. Wm. G. Krape Inv. Co., 357 Gas & Elec. Bldg., Denver, Colo.

Room for More Settlers.

TWO NEW RAILROADS IN FULLERTON DISTRICT.

Better Transportation Facilities, Development of Great Citrus Ranch and Other Advantages Stimulate Growth of Town—Good Schools and Public Utilities and Ideal Home and Social Conditions.

BEFORE the end of next month the cars of the Pacific Electric Railroad will be running into the city of Fullerton. Sometime within the coming year the trains of the Salt Lake company will also be operating through the growing orange-belt town.

These railroad companies are tapping the Fullerton district without the encouragement of a bonus on the part of the town's people.

They are building a suberb road bed for their cars, excelling the ordinary type of construction. They are eliminating grade crossings all along the line. In place of these at every county crossroad there is to be an over-head viaduct to carry the trains high above the automobile.

The route of the Pacific Electric into Fullerton is virtually a southerly extension of the La Habra line. Branching from the main Yorba Linda-La Habra line at the town of La Habra, the new right of way turns over the Coyote Hills of the famous Bastanchury Rancho to Fullerton. This part of the route passes directly through a portion of the Fullerton oil fields as well as through a country commanding a wide range of scenic beauty by reason of its elevation above the surrounding valleys.

The Pacific Electric has agreed with the city officials of Fullerton to furnish a schedule of at least eight passenger trains a day from Los Angeles, and to erect a substantial and suitable station building in the town. An ornamental concrete viaduct is to be built over Sprada road, where the new line enters Fullerton on its private right of way. The work on this has already been started. The grade cutting through the Coyote Hills has been completed and tracks and overhead wiring have already been laid to the residential district of Fullerton.

The complete right of way of the Salt Lake company has not been purchased and the exact route it will follow is not determined. The company, however, has an agreement standing with the city of Fullerton to have its trains running into the town within eighteen months. It is expected that the road will be completed long before the expiration of this time limit.

TO OPEN NEW LANDS.

Aside from adding conveniences to the present living facilities and contributing to the general welfare of the existing industries, the new roads will open areas of lands, heretofore not available for intensified farming.

Fullerton has, for a number of years past, been the largest shipping point of the Los Angeles-San Diego branch of the Santa Fe Railroad.

Via the Santa Fe, Fullerton is twenty-three miles from Los Angeles. The round trip fare is $1.40. Special reductions on this fare may be obtained by buying commutation ticket books which are issued in various ways. It is also a junction point for the Santa Fe branches running between San Diego and the one to San Bernardino. The latter line is a portion of the Santa Fe's overland route to the East.

DEVELOPING BIG RANCHO.

The Fullerton district will soon have the distinction of having the largest, individual citrus orchard, under one ownership, in California.

This is the Bastanchury Rancho, consisting of 2700 acres and lying in the Coyote Hills north of Fullerton. Approximately $250,000 is being expended in the development of this extensive area and already many hundreds of acres are in a high state of cultivation. By the coming fall the owners expect to have planted over 1500 acres in citrus fruits.

The big ranch is particularly favored as a site for citrus culture because it is so highly elevated and the stock growing on its hillsides is protected from damaging frosts. The great problem in the development has been that of supplying the water.

Due to the rolling and hilly nature of the tract it has been impracticable to attempt to do much leveling. The water has to be conducted to the highest elevations and conducted through cement irrigating pipes over the orchards. The development of the water on the ranch itself and the distribution of it is an unusual engineering feat. Some difficulties have been encountered in this work which have been overcome by original and unique ideas. These are already installed and proving up to the expectations of the designers.

In one location between two chains of hills an artificial dam has been thrown up, creating a ten-acre lake for water storage. This has a capacity exceeding 50,000,000 gallons. From it water is gravitated to points on the ranch nearly two miles distant.

It is estimated by the administration department of the rancho that the company's freight bills with the railroad company will amount to nearly $1,000,000 annually for both incoming and outgoing shipments when the orchards come into bearing.

Until that time large quantities of other produce will be raised between the tree rows. This year the company rented large areas between tree rows for planting to cabbage, beans and other crops and in some cases the individuals who did the renting profited well on the harvest due to the high prices they received in the market and the abundance of the crop they raised.

MUNICIPALITY GROWS.

The city of Fullerton has steadily increased its population until it now verges on the 4000 mark. It has gone ahead with its building activity. A fine new business block and a new packing-house were the largest building items of the year, but they were supplemented with numerous new residence buildings and small store buildings.

Over ten miles of asphalt roadways have been laid by the municipality at a cost near $200,000. All the main streets are paved from curb to curb. Most of the streets throughout the residential section are improved by being either macadamized or oiled.

The city maintains a cosy little park. It also owns its own domestic water system valued at about $100,000 and a $60,000 sewer system with a forty-acre sewer farm in connection, worth $20,000.

Approximately the assessed valuation of the municipality is $4,300,000 and the town will reduce its tax rates during the coming year.

An up-to-date automobile fire department, fully manned and equipped, and aided in its work of combating fire by numerous fire hydrants throughout the city, supplying seventy-pound water pressure, is a feature of the city's "safety first" principles.

Bank and postoffice clearings show steady growth. New business enterprises have come to the town and others are being encouraged to come. Particularly factories are desired and there is a good opportunity afforded for certain classes of manufacturing.

ATTRACTIVE HOMES.

Fullerton is an attractive city to the home lover. As one walks down Commonwealth avenue, a beautiful wide thoroughfare lined on both sides with pretty bungalows and houses, skirted with spreading pepper, camphor and chestnut trees along its curbs that gracefully arch over the sidewalks in tropical luxuriance, he inhales a perfumed air made sweet by many flowers in the gardens of the houses he passes.

The rural life in the district about the town is rural only by name in many respects. When a rural community has paved and macadamized roadways passing before its houses and the country homes have gas ranges and electric lights and all the farms are really just large gardens, it is hard to term the community rural. Between the country rural life and the town there is no definite line of demarcation. The town blends into the beautiful country atmosphere and the country meets the town with such gentle differences as to almost make its differences none at all.

In the matter of temperature the average in the Fullerton district throughout the year is more moderate than in many other cities of the State. Because its geographical location is about twenty miles from seaboard it secures the full benefit of balmy breezes to temper the summer days and yet avoids excessive moisture during winter periods.

It is a particularly healthful locality for orange trees because the humidity is as close to the ideal as nature normally affords. For the same reason the walnut is unusually favored over some other districts.

When a newcomer settles in the Fullerton district he buys a piece of land and has the climate handed to him as a premium. He pays no more for his land than in other places of equal development, but he gets for a heritage a bit of the richest blessing that California affords. So Fullerton puts forth climate as an inducement to new settlers and its people desire to lay emphasis upon this inducement.

Rarely does the winter temperature fall below 40 deg. The summer weather ranges between 80 and 90 deg. for an average, with occasional waves which may be warmer, but these hardly ever exceed two or three days' duration. The nights are comfortable and one has to sleep with covers throughout the summer.

SCHOOLS.

One of the distinguishing characteristics of Fullerton is its $300,000 Union High School and Junior College. This monument of civic enterprise is one of the most elaborate public school plants in the State.

The institution consists of seventeen buildings, located on a fifteen-acre campus. The separate buildings are a great convenience in isolating the various branches of technical instruction from the academic classrooms, thereby eliminating noise from the latter classes and reducing fire risks. Another advantage of the separate-building idea is that the students are compelled to leave the buildings at the adjournment of class session and so enjoy a breath of pure, fresh air.

Modern ventilating and sanitary appliances are installed in all the buildings. Hot and cold showers are provided in the gymnasium. All rooms are heated and cooled automatically, and for this purpose a large engine-house and boiler room is erected on the grounds. The school also has its own water plant consisting of a fine deep well containing an abundance of pure water and the necessary machinery for pumping the water to a storage tank built on the top of a sixty-foot tower.

The general school exercises, plays, debates, lectures and entertainments are held in an auditorium seating 1200. This has a large stage and is provided with electric lights.

The manual arts building houses wood-working equipment, machine and forge shops, domestic science equipment, free hand and mechanical drafting, art leather and brass work departments.

The physics and chemistry buildings are especially planned to facilitate instruction in these studies, while the commerce building has four rooms devoted to the subjects of book-keeping, stenography, stenotyping and typewriting. There are also special buildings for English and other languages, mathematics and surveying.

In the study hall building are the administration offices and the school library and also large assembly-room used as a study room by the students.

Besides giving a number of general courses which are similar to those of the Los Angeles high schools, the Fullerton institution provides two additional years' work in the subjects of English, modern languages and mathematics parallel to that provided in the State universities.

The practical side of education is strongly accented. Girls are taught to make their own clothing, while boys turn out dining tables, davenports, chairs and other articles of furniture. Some of the lesser buildings of the campus, such as the botany greenhouse and an emergency grammar school building, have been constructed by the boys. There is practical field work in surveying, and a serviceable mechanical knowledge of automobiles is acquired in the shops. Girls and boys are graduated each year from the book-keeping and typewriting classes.

The grounds of the campus are ornamented with lawns and a parking of trees, flowers and shrubs. Ball fields and courts for tennis and other games are provided.

One of the things undertaken by this school is the free transportation of the students to and from their homes, a large number of whom live as far as ten miles away in the rural districts. For this purpose five large automobile busses were purchased, with a carrying capacity of from fifteen to twenty-five pupils each. These cover special districts each day calling for the young people in the mornings and returning them to their homes in the afternoons. This convenience is entirely supported by the taxpayers and the students pay nothing directly for the service. There is a garage on the campus to house the busses.

There is a beautiful $70,000 grammar school in the town, and throughout the district comprising the high school union are other grammar schools.

SOCIAL LIFE.

The residents of the Fullerton district are closely cemented socially. In matters of enjoyment, education or business they are allied in organized bodies. One of the dominant factors under this class are the city's churches. There are several artistic church edifices, all of which have large congregations, and a number of tributary organizations. Nearly all the leading denominations are represented.

Fraternal orders are much in evidence. Many of these have erected their own business blocks in the business section. The leading national societies are represented. The business men are bound together in the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association.

Fullerton has a $10,000 library building. This is a gift of Andrew Carnegie. The institution is maintained at a cost of $23,000 annually, which sum is derived by general taxation.

A great deal of interest has been taken by Fullerton young men in the organization of the full strength company of Home Guards. The company has a drum and fife corps. It drills in the main streets of the city every Monday evening, usually attracting a crowd of spectators. The members are all armed and have sufficiently been drilled to execute all the general marching maneuvers. In the emergency of any local disturbance on the part of disloyal citizens it is believed the Home Guards could completely handle the situation. Besides being a protection to Fullerton in this respect, the military company is a demonstration of the city's patriotism, which has already manifested itself by widely oversubscribing its allotment of the Liberty bonds as well as its contribution to the Red Cross fund. Fullerton has two newspapers. There are no saloons.

INDUSTRIES.

The principal industry of the Fullerton district is citrus culture. This is in a great Valencia orange belt. It is there that the famous C. C. Chapman orchards are located.

Next to oranges walnut culture is the most important horticultural pursuit. The district is one of the biggest walnut shippers of this part of the State.

Each year millions of barrels of high gravity petroleum are taken from the oil wells about Fullerton and shipped to all points of the world. The oil industry, although very large, seems as yet to be in its infancy. New wells are being sunk in the hills north of Fullerton and are encroaching almost into the city limits. In many of these wells oil is being found.

Allied to the oil industry is the development of natural gas. This has been piped from the Fullerton oil fields all over Orange county for domestic use.

There is also a poultry and egg industry of some extent in the district, and there is room for an enlargement of it. Raising vegetables on a commercial scale is well established.

Numerous packing-houses for the orange and walnut industries, vegetable packing-houses, an ice plant, steam laundry, three lumber yards, stores, machine shops, garages, grist mills, nurseries, truck farms, ranching and oil fields employ many hundreds of hands.

NEW INDUSTRIES.

Availability of oil fuel and natural gas from the oil fields, access to electric power, development of excellent raidroad shipping facilities, plus the inducement of cheap factory sites, business men believe, should encourage the growth and development of new manufacturing pursuits in the district.

Some time ago a beautiful hospital plant was erected in Fullerton, but it has not yet been opened. It was built by a company having a large number of stockholders, many of whom were residents of Fullerton. A suggestion has been made that this building now be made available for Red Cross work as a hospital for convalescents from the front.

From a farming standpoint the Fullerton district is well adapted naturally to the raising of prolific crops. With its extensive irrigation system, additional crops can be grown between young trees in the orchards, either in or out of season, and as many as two or three such crops per year are possible.

Despite the fact that this type of farm land has, by reason of our international situation, become abnormally valuable, the prices of real estate continue to remain normal and the prospective buyer will not find inflated values as a rule.

BIGGEST MELON CROP.

In Spite of Valley Shortage Shipments from Rich Valley Exceed Those of any Other Year—Other Districts Now Producing.

During the cantaloupe shipping season just closing in the Imperial Valley, more of the melons were shipped than during any other season, the quality was better than ever before, and the price per crate was higher than in previous years, according to a report by the United States Bureau of Markets, just issued.

Up to July 20, 4945 cars of cantaloupes were shipped from the valley. During the 1916 season, 4675 cars were shipped. This number was, until this year, a record for melon shipments from any locality in the United States. Had it not been for a shortage of cars during one week this season, the output would probably have been nearly 7000 cars. It is expected that the total 1917 output will be 5500 cars.

On one day in June, 253 cars of cantaloupes moved out of the valley. Three days afterward, when more than 200 cars per day were moving, came the announcement of the car shortage, and the shipments were cut to 160 cars per day, one car being allotted for every eighty acres. Tons of the ripened fruit were fed to hogs, and yet the high price being received for the fruit netted the growers and distributors a good profit.

Last Tuesday the United States office of markets branch at Brawley was closed, and bulletins on the cantaloupe market conditions ceased. On that day twenty-eight cars were shipped from Imperial, five from Turlock, forty from Arizona, which had just begun shipments; five from Alabama and four from Georgia.

HEAVY WALNUT CROP.

The walnut crop at Saticoy, now maturing rapidly, is one of the heaviest for years, and many trees are breaking with the weight of nuts. A new method of tree propping, being tried out by W. B. Nicholl, promises to do away to some extent with wooden props. He fastens lag screws in the largest branches on opposite sides of the tree, connects them with steel cables making branches support each other.

San Diego.

HEAVY FISH PACK.

Production of Sea Foods Largely Increased—Canneries Working Day and Night—Market Extended to Include Eastern Points.

The production of sea foods by San Diego establishments has increased tremendously during the last few weeks. The unusually heavy run of tuna in the vicinity of the southern seaport this summer has caused the canneries to put on twenty-four-hour working systems, giving lucrative employment to large additional numbers of men, women and girls.

Because of increased costs of operation and higher prices paid to fishermen for their catches, canned tuna will be retailed at a considerably higher figure than last year, the canneries being flooded with orders from far and near.

Growing.

SOUTHLAND FOOD PACK IS TREMENDOUS ASSE

AN OUTSTANDING feature of Southern California's food duction this year is the great increase in the output of goods. Canners of fruit and vegetables began early to growers to plant heavily and made contracts in advance prices. Packers of tuna, albacore and other fish at Long San Pedro and other near-by points are packing more th before. Packers of sea food at San Diego have tremendo creased the industry there and have extended their market ern cities. A company which has been formed in Los Angeles Belgian hares, is contracting with growers and preparing a small packing plant.

Orange County.

HARVESTING BEETS.

Slicing will Begin in One Factory Tomorrow and in Others Soon. Total Acreage is Estimated at Fifty Thousand.

The work of harvesting Orange county's $3,000,000 sugar beet crop has commenced. The early beets are on their way to the factories. The plant of the Holly Sugar Corporation at Huntington Beach will start slicing on July 23, and the Santa Ana Sugar Company and the Southern California Sugar Company plants in Santa Ana will commence two weeks later. The Anaheim Sugar Company, with its plant at Anaheim, and the Los Alamitos Sugar Company, located at Los Alamitos, are counting on busy seasons. The Anaheim plant is receiving beets. It is probable that the total acreage of beets to be harvested for the five factories in Orange county is 50,000. Many farmers at Artesia and Compton grow for the Orange county factories. Reports from the fields indicate everywhere a good yield.

It is probable that the people of Orange county will be asked to vote $500,000 bonds for the improvement of Newport Harbor. The Orange County Harbor Commission's report has been ready for filing for several months, but has been withheld until such time as it was thought advisable to proceed with a call for bonds. Under the law, if bonds are to be called for, the Board of Supervisors must, within fifteen days after the filing of the report, call the election.

There is an understanding between the Harbor Commission and the Board of Supervisors that the report shall be filed in September. Probably the election will be held in November.

"This material for Newport's $125,000 jetty" is a huge sign appearing on ten flat cars loaded with piles to be used in the construction of the west jetty at the entrance to Newport Bay. As soon as the Pacific Electric finishes an extension to the place where the jetty starts, the work will commence.

Ventura County.

MORE MEN NEEDED.

Schools Change Vacation Date and Officials Recruit Workers to Harvest Great Bean Crop. One Man's Dooryard Production.

That there is danger of a serious shortage of labor in the bean fields of Ventura county this fall is the opinion of a number of growers, particularly in the east end of the county. William McKee, superintendent of the Bard properties of 1000 acres near Somis, was in conference last week with School Superintendent Reynolds and the District Attorney regarding the situation. Many of the schools in the county will open early this year to give opportunity for a vacation during the bean harvest. The District Attorney also has a list of names of families in the county who have agred to help with the harvests. The usual number of itinerant workers, from whom the harvesting crews are recruited, is almost entirely wanting this year.

On the rear of his small city lot, in Oxnard, Peck Roberts has this year raised vegetables for the use of his family and has sold in addition. He now has crop coming on which wi even better than the first, ent indications. He has s twelve to fourteen inches

Seraphs Fight Nobly, but Fail to Score.

BY LEEPSON BOWNES.

If Hen Berrry had seven Indian pitchers and didn't have to play anybody but the Seraphs he could float during the baseball season serene in the knowledge that he would never lose a game. Chief Johnson and Indian Smith rubbed it into the Angels twice in one afternoon by the scores of 2 to 0 and 4 to 0.

PAINFUL.

Between them the Seraphs managed to get seven hits, three from Johnson and four from Smith, and while they threatened to score on more than one occasion, they never made it. It was exceedingly painful to the white folks in the audience to see the palefaces mowed down by the remnants of the noble red man's race.

Chief Johnson, yep, the same guy, and Pete Standridge started out to stage a little pitching duel in the opening game and they might have been pitching yet if Bobby Davis hadn't gotten the idea into his head that the ball was a hand grenade, and heaved it into the bleachers.

THE FACTS.

It all happened in the sixth inning. Charley Pick singled and was shoved along to second by Biff [illegible]. Maisel then hit a warm one down to Davis at third. Davis clutched it, stabbed Pick as he came pattering down the line and threw the pill into the stand, trying to get Maisel.

This error stuck Maisel on second

Breakfast bacon comes high, these days.

With the best bacon selling at 50 cents a pound, the farmer who has a few porkers like those shown above, jumps into the bank-roll class in one jump. The pictures were all taken on the Conejo ranch. At the top, Stanley Smith is at the wheel of a Peerless eight, Harold H. Braly is taking it easy on the running board, and Harold Janss (the man with the white trousers and the satisfied look of a successful land owner,) is admiring the blooded hogs. One of the hogs is valued at a thousand dollars, and all of them are worth more than their weight in silver. The next picture shows a valuable stallion, with the largest silo in Southern California in the background. This silo holds forty thousand sacks of grain. Below is a picture of a barley field on the Conejo ranch, and it's a bumper crop, too.

THE SUCCESSFUL FARMER SIMPLY CAN'T GET ALONG WITHOUT A GOOD AUTOMOBILE

BY HARVEY E. WESTGATE.

IF ANY man in the world, more than another, is entitled to a good automobile it's the tiller of the soil—whether you call him a farmer, a rancher, a bean grower or a captain of agriculture. And if there is any man in the world, more than another, who should be able to buy an auto this year, it's this same tiller of the soil—providing, always, that he is a "successful" farmer.

For be it known that farmers have to make quick trips to the city, at times, and a good automobile and good roads make such trips possible. If any one is ill, and a doctor is needed, or the patient has to be rushed to a hospital, the auto is always ready for a speedy run. If any part of the farm machinery goes wrong, the auto again is called into play. If provisions are needed, the auto once more turns the trick. And when it comes to getting over a big ranch, to every corner of it, without loss of time, an auto beats walking or riding a horse a hundred to one.

Then, too, the machine is useful for all kinds of outings—and Southern California farmers do take outings—throughout the year. In the evening, or on Sunday, the successful farmer wants to enjoy a ride to the mountains, or seashore, or somewhere else, and the auto is always ready for such a trip.

In fact, the auto is doing more every year to make farmers forget they are farmers—to make them forget they are miles from the city and the city attractions. Or rather it might be said the auto eliminates this feeling entirely, for a good car brings the city within a twenty minutes' ride of the farm, instead of "ten long miles from the farm." Distance is annihilated, for even if the farm be thirty miles from town, it's only an hour's ride over a smooth boulevard and there is genuine pleasure, instead of real

CLUBMEN DROP BOTH BATTLES.

Y.M.C.A. Handball Stars in Best of Form.

Klawitter Again Wins form Dick Retzer.

Jimmy Reeves Beats Nest in Hard Bout.

A handball settlement between the Los Angeles Athletic Club and the Y.M.C.A. was affected yesterday, and as a result the balance of power seems to hang in favor of the Hope-street institution. Two hard-fought matches between the court cracks of the association and the club, played on the latter's grounds, turned in favor of the Y.M.C.A. in both instances.

Klawitter caused history to repeat itself when he defeated Dick Retzer in straight games, 21-14; 21-14. Klawitter has now twice conquered the Athletic Club man in straight games.

Ample revenge for a past defeat was secured by Jim Reeves of the Y.M.C.A. when he took the best end of a contest with Jack Nest. Three games were necessary in this event, and from the size of the score, it appears that Reeves did most of his winning and Nest most of his losing at the finish. The score was 21-19, 18-21, 21-2.

WESTERN ROADS ARE HUMDINGERS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, July 19.—Thomas A. Ogden, assistant cashier of the Union Savings Bank here, has returned from a motor trip from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to this city and he says that the roads of every State he passed through are nightmares compared to the fine boulevards of California. "I am ready to believe that the greatest attraction that California has is the fine system of roads," he says.

He went to Pike's Peak, Estes Park, Yellowstone Park, Glacier and Rainier National Parks. The weather was fairly comfortable most of the time although very hot in some sections.

ARMY-NAVY CLASH AT SAN PEDRO TODAY.

An athletic clash between the Army and Navy is programmed for San Pedro. There are scores of brawny youths in the training quarters at the harbor — college graduates, undergraduates, and prep school stars. For several weeks the spirit of rivalry has been gradually drawing to a climax.

Today at the San Pedro ball park the solution will present itself. Either the land lubbers or the sea spiders will come through with first honors in the track meet and the sensational diamond contest. There are some real ball players and spike men quartered near the water. The perspiration carnival will not be anything like a State picnic.

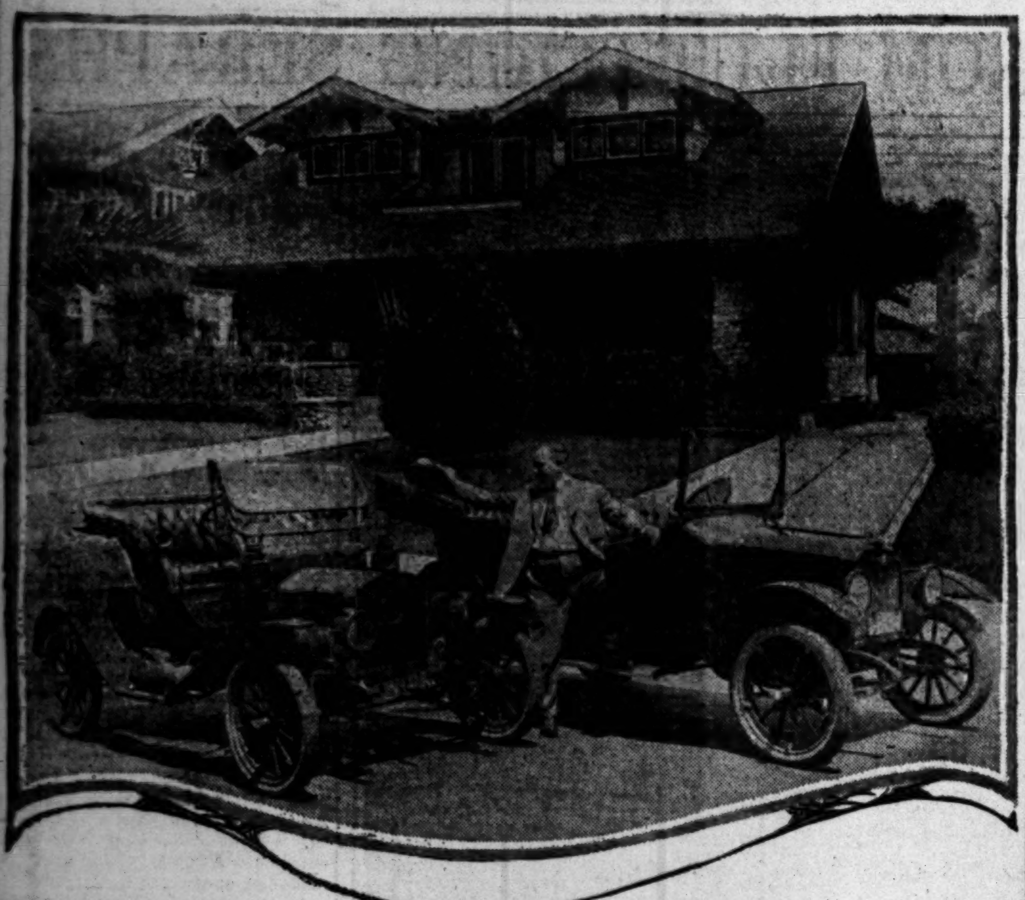
THIS AUTO WAS AN OLD-TIMER WHEN THE MAYFLOWER ARRIVED.



"Columbus" rode in this car.

Sure he did. In fact it was here when he "discovered". America. Also it was an old-timer when the Mayflower reached Plymouth Bay. All of which is explained when one adds that it's a "movie" car. The car on the right is the latest model Maxwell.

THE little old Maxwell shown in the photograph was among those present when Columbus discovered America; when the Mayflower drew up to Plymouth Bay and the pretty pilgrim maidens set foot on Plymouth Rock this car was nearby; it has been on the scene while half a hundred battles raged; it has edged up close to ambushed redskins; from tail-light to top buckles it has been shaken by giant explosions of the present war—for this car has been in the movies.

It developed a mania for motion in the Maxwell factories at Detroit, and has eschewed anything which savored of stillness ever since. It was sold in Detroit in 1910 to Edgar E. Blackwell, a cinematographer whose photography every man, woman and child in America has admired. Blackwell drove the little car 60,000 miles in seven years. Yesterday he bade farewell to the old standby and stepped into a new Maxwell of the latest type.

Mr. Blackwell has himself been more or less intimately connected with the motor car game since the days when it was a law in England that every "steam-driven omnibus" must be preceded on the road by "a man on foot, carrying a red flag." When E. R. Thomas built his first car in the old bicycle shop in Buffalo, Blackwell was there, and so desired to possess one of the new cars that he placed his order at once and secured one of the very first of the 100 "one-lungers" which Thomas turned out in 1901. This he drove until 1903, when he purchased a car of another make and of far more substantial construction, for it held together until 1910, when he procured the Maxwell shown above.

The Maxwell has been driven 60,000 miles. It has covered every inch of road and much plain roadless "landscape" in Arizona, Nevada, Oregon and California. It has been used time and again for a camera stand in Blackwell's motion-picture work, and has often appeared in scenes. After the car had been driven 50,000 miles its owner drove from Reno, Nev., to San Diego, and made no repairs during the entire journey.

But all things made by the hand of man must come to an end, and the stanch little road conqueror has seen its day. As a farewell trip Mr. Blackwell drove the car to San Francisco and back last week, and then bade it goodby, gave it to the junk man, and purchased a new 1917 Maxwell from the Lord Motor Car Company—confident that the record of the older car will be upheld by the handsome new Maxwell which has taken its place.

Farmer Needs Auto.

hardship, as formerly, while making the trip.

Out at the Conejo ranch, where they raise blooded porkers valued at $1000 each, sow and harvest vast fields of barley and beans, and boast of the largest silo in this neck of the woods—with a capacity of 40,000 sacks of grain—they couldn't keep house without a good auto. It costs a little money, to be sure, but what's $1000 more or less, with breakfast bacon selling at 50 cents a pound and top prices prevailing for everything the farmer produces.

Stanley Smith, of Smith Brothers, Peerless distributors, took a ride over the Conejo ranch one day last week with Harold Janss, of the Janss Investment Company, owners of the ranch, at the wheel of one of the new Peerless models. In speaking of the trip, Mr. Smith said:

"The handiness of the Peerless in going through a roadless country with a minimum of gear shifting was well shown when it was driven through the great Conejo ranch this past week by Harold Janss. Although not accustomed to driving a Peerless car, gullies and washes off the road, as well as steep ditches in the ranch highway were negotiated with the greatest facility. The speed with which a party of visitors was driven through the great expanse of the Janss Investment Company's fields of beans and barley shows the efficiency with which a high grade automobile enables ranch owners to supervise operations of big tracts.

"With all kinds of produce at present prices, and labor scarce, owners of big ranches believe that, in a practical way, price is no object in choosing an automobile that will give speedy, reliable and comfortable service. It is a revelation to go out to the Janss Investment Company's big Conejo property and see, for example, three blooded hogs that will sell for enough money to buy an automobile of such quality as the Peerless. Ranch owners are rapidly learning, by actual experience, not only that they can afford a high grade automobile, but that a car which gives the utmost performance without effort is as valuable a piece of machinery, in results obtained, as, for example, the great harvester, the big silo, or the ammonia cooling plant which adds so much to the efficiency of operation of the Conejo property."

BAY CITY BRANCH IS DISPOSED OF.

Upon his return from San Francisco yesterday, Harris M. Hanshue, State manager for the Apperson Bros. Automobile Company, announced that he had concluded negotiations whereby the factory branch there had been disposed of and that hereafter the sale and distribution of Apperson motor cars in the northern half of the State will be directed by the Hartmann Motor Sales Agency. It is said that M. M. Hartmann, head of the company, is the youngest automobile distributor on the Coast, and his alliance with the oldest make of cars on the market occasioned considerable comment in the north.

"The Hartmann Motor Sales Agency is known as one of the most thorough and aggressive organizations in San Francisco," said Mr. Hanshue. "It is their intention to begin an active campaign in the interest of their new line. They will appoint subdealers in all cities and towns where the car is not now represented and establish service stations.

GREER SAYS CONDITIONS ARE NORMAL IN THE EAST.

"THERE is neither a boom nor any semblance of panicky conditions in the East. Everything seems to be as nearly normal today as it was two years ago when I was there."

So stated P. H. Greer of Greer-Robbins Company, upon his return from a six weeks' business trip throughout the automobile manufacturing centers of the United States.

"Many manufacturers are not making as many cars as formerly owing, principally, to the difficulty of securing raw materials and continued scarcity of freight cars for shipment. While it is true that there has been a slight reduction in sales of cars throughout the United States, it is also generally admitted by manufacturers that California has come nearer to maintaining a steady and undiminished demand than any other State in the Union.

BIG CONTRACTS.

I heard considerably more about war contracts in the East than we hear out here, but the public, generally, doesn't know much of anything about them. The government is sending out specifications for big orders and receiving a large number of bids for the material required. But few of these contracts have been let, and it is true that the huge sums of money available for war purposes have not yet found their way into commercial channels. When this volume of money is let loose, it should release a wonderful prosperity, covering the nation like a blanket.

"Most of the automobile manufactories have set aside portions of their plants for government work on a small scale. One factory has been making shells for more than a year; another has a contract for several thousand trucks for gun army purposes. And, so it goes, in conformity with the policy of the Department of War to create efficiency in workmen and industries all over the nation. Then, when the time comes to manufacture on a tremendous scale, there will be thousands of big factories at the beck and call of Uncle Sam.

MONEY MARKET FIRM.

"The eastern money market is firm, but not abnormal in any way. Money remains at about the same price as it has been for practically two years. There has been much talk about the East being money-mad and large cities rolling in wealth as a result of war buying. I found theater and cafe conditions unchanged from last year and the year before. Merchants are enjoying about the same amount of business and buying on about the same scale.

"Generally speaking, I would say that the United States is in a financial state of health that indicates good times for everybody, with vastly better times just ahead."

On his trip through the East Mr. Greer spent practically all of his time in Southern Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and part of Ohio. His mission was purely for business, and he returns with prophecies of greater business for the Coast for the balance of the year.

Coasting down a long grade, with many curves, is dangerous, unless you know the road, especially if the car be running in neutral. Deep sand, a wet spot in the road, or any one of a number of conditions might be met that would require quick work to prevent an accident. The driver has better control if the engine is running and the clutch engaged.

Poor brakes help to keep the doctors and undertakers busy.

CORD TIRES TO BE MADE IN BROADWAY SHOW WINDOW.

THE new, big-business idea of educating the user in the construction methods of a product brings an unusual piece of expensive machinery to Los Angeles this week. It is a compact and intricate special cord laying machine, valued at $40,000, which, with almost human intelligence, builds an endless length of cable cord into the celebrated Goodrich Silvertown.

Preparations are being made to install this demonstration of actual Silvertown Cord tire making in the show windows of the local Goodrich branch at No. 946 South Broadway. Special flooring with heavy supporting beams strong enough to carry the ton and a half weight of each machine, with operator, is being erected.

L. R. Weiss of Akron, O., who is one of the mechanical experts of the Goodrich factory, has personal supervision of the installation of this intricate mechanism.

"The cable cord construction is patented and found only in tires bearing the name 'Silvertown,'" said an official of the Goodrich company.

"The exhibit will be here for ten days or more and the public is cordially invited to see how these wonderful resilient cable cord tires are actually manufactured.

"The Silvertown is the original and only cable cord tire on the market and is popularly known as 'The Aristocrat of Tires' by discriminating motorists."

"I pulled out eight outfits that were broken down, and of this number one had laid beside the road for three days before I helped him," said Reeves. "I was informed at Camp Curry in the Yosemite that it is a common occurrence for them to receive telephone calls for help from those who have suffered some trouble while on the road.

"With those roads properly marked instead of the confusing signs that now exist, and with tow car service for those who are in trouble, the trip into the valley will be relieved of many of the terrors that I find it holds for some motorists. I personally know a number who have talked of making the trip for some time, but it is just that condition that has held them back."

Reeves and his party, for days, caught the limit in trout at Fish Camp.

The Hal twelve in which Reeves made the trip, carried a party of seven and pulled a trailer loaded with camping impedimenta and baggage that weighed, he estimated, about 1100 pounds.

"You must hand it to that boat. I believe it is about the most powerful thing on wheels in the motor car line," said the Los Angeles dealer, who returns to the High Sierras this week with tow cars and an outfit for aiding the distressed motorist, and with him will go 200 road signs.

Although his friends admire his mixture of philanthropy and business, there are those who declare he has temporarily succumbed to the call of the wild, and has night and day visions of mountain streams and trout, big pines singing night lullabys and days that are always cool, and passed amidst scenes that are far from the madding crowd.

Asked when he would return to Los Angeles' busy automobile field, he said:

"Oh, I'll wait until the last car gets out of the valley; if that bird should break down there would be no one to pull him out, otherwise. And wouldn't he be in a h-ll of a fix?"

The brougham model with limousine decorum, luxury and dignity in its design and furnishings allows any member of the family to drive with absolute propriety in the most modish motoring circles. The rear seat accommodates three passengers. The two forward seats are of the individual type with a passage between. There are four doors, which permit any of the passengers leaving the car or changing seats without disturbing the other passengers.

The standard limousine and the imperial limousine will continue to be Cadillac leaders. The number of limousines sold in California last season was limited only by the number Don Lee was able to get, it is claimed.

One unique feature in the Cadillac inclosed models of the limousine and landaulet types is the dictograph used for communicating with the driver instead of the old style speaking tube or telephone.

NEW MODEL.

In addition to the standard seven-passenger limousines there will be a new model, a town limousine for four passengers and with two auxiliary seats. The limousines, landaulets and town cars have a 132-inch wheel base and the open cars, brougham and victoria, 125 inches.

The landaulet type was so popular during the past season the seven-passenger type has been continued and the landaulet town car added.

Don Lee promises early deliveries on practically all models. Orders are now being taken for August and early September delivery.

The first shipment consists of touring cars and it is promised that victorias and broughams will be here within a short time, following the arrival of the first touring car.

The four-passenger phaeton is snappier than that of last year. With the lower body and the smaller wheels this model will increase in popularity, it is predicted.

The total number of motor vehicles in Great Britain has decreased over 200,000 since the beginning of the war. Motor cars have decreased nearly 80 per cent.

An Eyeopener!

TRUCK WITH FLANGED WHEELS USED ON TRACK.

THE White company at San Francisco last Sunday carried to a successful conclusion a demonstration in motor transportation that was characteristic of the progressive methods of its organization, while at the same time it was in line with the foresightedness for which the company has been noted for many years.

The time is near at hand, in the opinion of the White officials, when street and steam railroad transportation in a certain degree will be replaced with that furnished by the bus and the truck. They believe that with paved roadways connecting large population centers, the public can be better served with mobile transportation facilities that can be operated on more frequent schedules and at considerably less cost.

BIG PROBLEM.

They hold, it is understood, that this contention obtains, with particular emphasis, as far as urban and suburban transportation facilities are concerned, and they firmly believe that it is up to the bus to materially aid in the solving of the traffic problem in large cities.

When the war cloud loomed larger and blacker and the possibility of the United States becoming embroiled was engaging the closest attention of the heads of the nation, the White officials felt that national transportation problems would have to be solved if the country was to move men, munitions and supplies in those immense units that the situation would demand. In consequence they began demonstrations with White trucks in several parts of the country.

Following the declaration of war, the country has gradually been apprised that with the mobolizing of the forces for training and for shipment overseas, that an immense amount of passenger and freight rolling stock of the railroads must be withdrawn from public service. It has been estimated that at least 100,000 freight cars will soon be commandeered by the government for its constant use. It is not known that any estimate has been made of the number of passenger coaches that will eventually be withdrawn from the public service, but it is known that the number so taken will greatly impair the natural processes of transportation.

With this knowledge absolutely at hand, the White company has been making demonstrations with the purpose in view of showing how motor trucks may be used on steel rails for the moving of passengers and freight and to supplant rolling stock taken from the public service.

OFFICIALS SEE IT.

The demonstration at San Francisco last Sunday, made on the old tracks of the Southern Pacific, where the old line crossed the mountains, is a part of the company's programme. A score or more of prominent officials of the railroad company witnessed the test and data and pictures were secured by them.

O. R. Fuller of the Pioneer Commercial Auto Company, Southern California distributor of the White cars and trucks, was present and was included in the party that made the trip.

A thirty-passenger bus, such as is used on sightseeing jaunts and built on a two-ton White chassis, was used in the demonstration. The ordinary truck wheels had been removed and in their places were flanged wheels suited to fit the rails.

A stretch of track twenty-six miles long was chosen for the test and included in this mileage were some of the steep grades that caused the line's abandonment in preference to tunnels by the Southern Pacific.

OBJECT OF TEST.

The White made the trip in two hours' time and from the start to the conclusion of the demonstration, there was not a single hitch in the programme.

"Much faster time could have been made," stated Fuller, "but that was not the purpose of that particular demonstration. The sole purpose was to show the railroad officials that a powerful and perfectly-made motor truck can haul freight over the rails and up and down grades that can be traversed by a locomotive and cars. It was some sight, believe me, and was an eye-opener for many a man who was there."

There can be no question about there being a shortage of trucks, according to Fuller. Shortage of transportation and the totally unprecedented demand, will, in his opinion, make it a difficult matter to anywhere near keep up with orders within the next six months.

LITTLE "FOUR-NINETY" SETS RECORD IN NEW ZEALAND.

WORD has just been received by Vice-President L. V. Starr of the J. W. Leavitt company, distributors of the Chevrolet, telling of a record recently established by the Chevrolet in New Zealand.

Driving a "Four-Ninety" model, H. J. Ranger of Dunedin broke the round trip record between Christchurch and Dunedin.

The distance was 246 miles each way, or 492 miles for the entire run. The elapsed time of the Chevrolet was 16h. 54m. The actual running time was 15h. 9m. For the entire 492 miles the Chevrolet averaged 33 miles per hour.

Between Dunedin and Oamaru the car encountered a series of steep hills often used for high-gear demonstrations. Going through each borough the car was forced to slow down to comply with speed regulations, as Ranger was unable to secure a permit for the record dash.

The run was made under the auspices of the Dunedin and Christchurch Auto Association, and a condition of the run was that Ranger use his "top" gear only. High-gear runs in New Zealand are always refered to as "top" gear tests. The Chevrolet was sealed in high and the gear set lever removed. All tools, even to a tire pump, were removed from the car before the start. According to the rules of the contest committee, the car had to start and finish without an adjustment or a repair of any kind.

Officials of the Otago Motor Club officially observed the car en route. The start was made from Christchurch at 2 a.m., and by 10:34 a.m. had reached Dunedin, starting on the return run immediately. At Moary Ranger ran into a heavy fog and several times herds of sheep obstructed the highway, forcing him to slow down on this account.

According to Mr. Starr, the most novel feature of the entire run was the stop at Otaio "for tea." Starr says that it would certainly be hard to imagine a stop for tea of a car in the sensational road races formerly staged between here and Phoenix. Several minutes could have been clipped from Ranger's time providing no stop had been made for tea.

The round trip Dunedin-Christchurch record is the most coveted motor car honor sought by the New Zealand motorists, and in that country rivals our own transcontinental record, for which American manufacturers compete each year.

Now Is The Foresighted Time To Buy Your GRANT SIX
MAKE sure of your GRANT SIX before it is too late. You can get a car now—but you cannot be certain of it if you wait.
The GRANT SIX at $985 is a real investment. Every day sees advances in motor car prices. Do you realize that the man who buys just before the rise is ahead nearly twice the amount of the increase? He not only saves the advance but his own car immediately advances in value.
Price increases all along the line are adding to the used car value of GRANT SIXES. As other cars increase in price the demand for the astonishingly economical GRANT SIX becomes greater.
Now is the time to dispose of your old car and get a new GRANT SIX at $985. It will be good business judgment to do it now rather than later.
You can depend upon it that cars will not be cheaper next year. They will be higher priced and much harder to get.
GRANT SIX offers you a good looking, roomy, comfortable, easy riding light six that gets 20 miles from a gallon of gasoline —a real six with overhead valve engine—the sturdiest, finest light six you can find, and the best buy in the field today.

Gentlemen:

The Velie Cloverleaf is my first automobile, but I am so well pleased with it that I am anxious to express to you the first impressions of a new and inexperienced owner.

I had no intentions of buying a car, but after one ride in a friend's Velie could no longer resist and placed my order with you for a 4-passenger model. Friends and relatives who have had other automobiles for years have nothing but words of praise and admiration for my beautiful car. After owning the Velie for a month, I wonder how I ever got along without it.

I also wish to express my appreciation of your excellent service department. Every department of your organization is alert, intelligent and ready to render courteous assistance to your many customers.

Very truly yours,

Geo. F. Cook

AIR-COOLED AIRPLANE MOTOR INVENTED HERE.

THE man who produces an air-cooled airplane motor, capable of furnishing almost unlimited power, and eliminating much of the weight of motors now used, seems destined to become rich and famous, almost over night. And especially does this hold good at the present time, for many of those who are daily losing their lives in airplanes over the battlefields of Europe, are victims of scalding steam when the water jackets of the engines are pierced by bullets, it is claimed.

Dr. Charles W. Snyder, No. 1861 West Twelfth street, Los Angeles, who now holds patents on an air-cooled engine embodying several principles never before believed to be practical, may eventually prove that he has solved the problem. Many have seen his air-cooled automobile engine make steep grades in low gear, without even "warming up," and some predict the same principle can be applied to airplane motors. In speaking of his invention, Dr. Snyder said:

"The French planes are using air-cooled motors almost entirely, on account of their extremely light weight per horse power. They also possess the advantage of being free from any possible injury to the driver from escaping steam or scalding water, an incident which often happens when a jacket or radiator is punctured by a bullet.

"America has not yet been able to produce air-cooled motors which will stand the test, though they have approached very nearly to success.

"In the ordinary engine the gas contained within the cylinders throughout the power and exhaust strokes is always at a temperature much above any possible temperature of the cylinder walls, and, of course, during all of these two strokes the cylinders must be absorbing heat, which, necessarily, must be taken care of by the cooling system.

"In my motors the exhaust is handled in such a way that the hot gas is within the cylinders only one-third of the time that it is retained in the ordinary motor, and during the other two-thirds of the time, air at atmospheric temperature is passing through the cylinders.

"This is on the principle that if you 'don't heat your motor you won't have to cool it.' In other words, this motor is 'cooled' by preventing the absorption of heat, by direct radiation from the inner surface of the cylinder wall, as well as by the external system of cooling.

"This method of scavenging has been worked out so well that it seems impossible to overheat one of these motors under any condition, and it certainly looks like the best proposition for airplane motors yet produced."

PRODUCE PEDDLER SAVES FREIGHT BILL.

G. J. Platt of Santa Barbara, produce peddler, has increased his earning capacity 50 per cent. with a one-ton truck, according to J. B. Hawks of the Hawks Sales Company, Southern California and Arizona distributor of Western truck attachments.

Until a few weeks ago Platt had been having his produce shipped him on consignment from Los Angeles and had covered his ever-increasing route by horse and wagon. His produce and fruit were not always up to the grade ordered by him, and there were times when he failed to receive all that he ordered, and again, some of it was in poor condition when received. Freight and express rates on his goods, as well as return charges on crates and boxes, also operated to cut down his profits.

His first move to eliminate leakage and add to his profits was the use of his Ford between Santa Barbara and Los Angeles. Driving from Santa Barbara early in the morning he made his own selections on the market, bought much cheaper than by the consignment route and made the return trip in the afternoon. The next day he peddled in Santa Barbara. His buying and peddling were continued on alternate days. But his Ford would not begin to hold all he could sell.

His next move was a truck attachment of one-ton capacity, bought from the J. B. Hawks Sales Company. He says he has increased his income fully 50 per cent., and his next move is the purchase of another one-ton truck from the Hawks company, with double service to follow between Santa Barbara and Los Angeles.

"THE FEMALE OF THE SPECIES IS AS DARING AS THE MALE."

Women motorists on Hemet road.

From Banning to Hemet, by way of Idyllwild Pass, has always been considered "a man's road." Tha[illegible] say, because of the steep grades, sharp turns and numerous danger points, women have been more [illegible] willing to let the experienced "male" drivers handle the wheel. But Mrs. R. C. Garland and Mrs. J. M. Betz, shown above, do not take their hats off to "mere man," and recently they drove over this [illegible] stretch of road without any trouble at all. Mrs. Garland, who drove, gives part of the credit [illegible] Chandler car, which she declares is easy to handle and at all times has plenty of power.

QUIETLY, but surely, one after another of the hazardous, perilous trips of Southern California are being made by women—not by professional drivers or "stuntists," but by just the ordinary woman owner, of whom you probably know a dozen. It is not often that such trips get into the papers, either, but a recent trip of this character deserves mention.

Mrs. R. C. Garland has the record of successfully driving the treacherous fifty-three-mile trip from Banning over the high Idyllwild pass to Hemet. This she did unaided, with another woman as companion. Men were not necessary, according to Mrs. Garland, but when the entire town of Hemet turned out to pay homage to her the men were the first to acknowledge her daring.

Mrs. Garland was accompanied by Mrs. J. M. Betz on the trip and her characterization of the feat was:

"Oh, it's easy if you have the right car. (The car in this case was a Chandler.) I had no idea that I was doing anything heroic, of course, until I pulled into Hemet. When the news spread that two women has made the trip from Banning we were the target for all eyes. I do not know of a trip, however, that I would not attempt with this Chandler of mine. I think it is a pretty even proposition—this touring—the responsibility being divided between the car and the driver.

Continuous upward grade work of thirty-three miles is wearing on any car and any driver, but we found ample pleasure in making the new turns of the road with no shifting of gears. A lumber tru[illegible] the only signs of life we [illegible] entire trip.

"Mountain road driving [illegible] appeal to me as the ideal [illegible]ing. We wound up and up [illegible] were 8200 feet high. Thrills—[illegible] the most wonderful pa[illegible] Southern California [illegible] within eye scope at the t[illegible] Idyllwild Pass.

"This mountain road ha[illegible] semblance to a boulevard, I as[illegible] sure you, and I was even [illegible] at the performance of my C[illegible] on what is supposed to be th[illegible]est, roughest mountain road [illegible] Southland.

"My trip just prov[illegible] tion that a woman need [illegible] tate to undertake the most [illegible] trips, provided she can rely [illegible] her car. I realize now how [illegible] one loses unless the so-called [illegible]gerous tours are taken. Usually [illegible] best scenery is to be found [illegible] such trips."

BIG TIRE COMPANY ISSUES SET OF SERVICE BULLETINS.

TO AID motorists in cutting down tire costs, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, O., announces the publication of an entirely new and complete set of tire service bulletins, in which are set forth the various ways of obtaining more satisfactory tire service.

A noticeable departure from a custom which has too largely prevailed in literature advancing tire information, of enumerating an array of "don'ts" for the tire user, is the positive viewpoint employed. The new Goodyear bulletins, instead of outlining the usual "don'ts," tell the motorist just what to "do" to get real tire service. Valuable hints telling how to add hundreds and even thousands of miles to the life of tires are the keynotes throughout the series.

Naturally, the more common tire ills are treated—individually and specifically—with full descriptions of just why and how they occur. More emphasis, however, is laid upon the remedy, and what is more practical—the means of prevention.

The new series of bulletins reflects a knowledge of tires and tire conditions gained only through years of experience in the tire business. Obviously, the information imparted cannot help rendering assistance of great value to motorists.

As a convenience to automobile owners who wish to obtain big mileage from their tires, all Goodyear service stations have been supplied with these bulletins for free distribution. They will also be mailed free of charge from the main office at Akron, O., upon request.

The bulletins come in a series of eleven and bear the following captions: "How to Increase Tire Mileage," "Proper Inflation Pays," "What to do for Tread Cuts," "Fabric Breaks," "How to Avoid Scraped Treads," "Premature Tread Wear," "How to Use Chains," "How to Make Inner Tubes Last Longer," "Rim Cutting," "Chafed Side-walls," and "The Way to Maximum Mileage."

SIX-CYLINDER CARS ARE SHOWING "SPEED TO BURN."

"THE Hudson racing team this season has forever disposed of the old belief that a six-cylinder car would never be successful in high speed events. When you remember that Super-Sixes finished second at Cincinnati, second at Chicago, first at Tacoma, first at Omaha, and first at Fort Snelling, it is rather convincing evidence that six-cylinder cars, Super-Six-cylinder cars at least, are not exactly out of place in the fast events," said Harold L. Arnold, Hudson distributor for Southern California and Arizona.

"One of the most remarkable features of this wonderful record of victories is the fact that the Hudson entries are heavily handicapped in the matter of weight. Because of their close adherence to stock design, the Hudson entries weigh from 400 to 800 pounds more than the special racing cars with which they compete.

"Few people realize just how light the average racing car is. The Hudson touring car is light compared with other cars of its size and power, but many of the fast racing cars weigh only a little over half what the ordinary touring car does. The fact that the Hudson entries adhere so closely to stock design means that stripped down as they are, they nevertheless are much heavier than the average racing car. Six hundred pounds is probably the average handicap in weight that [illegible] son racers carry.

"This is equivalent [illegible] of four average persons. [illegible] a racing car carrying [illegible] mechanic and four [illegible] side, averaging 104 [illegible] for 200 miles, as Mulf[illegible] did at Chicago, you [illegible] tionably consider it a [illegible] performance. Yet, [illegible] with the other racing [illegible] matter of weight, th[illegible] what Mulford's Huds[illegible]

"This added weight is [illegible] considerable factor for [illegible] propel at speeds past the [illegible] mile-an-hour mark. The [illegible] handicap imposed by it, [illegible] in added tire wear. Spe[illegible] 100 miles an hour mean [illegible] strain on tires. It was [illegible] change tires that cost [illegible] place at Chicago, after he [illegible] the field for 130 miles. A [illegible] meant defeat by a two-second [illegible] for Vail in the deciding [illegible] July Fourth race at Uni[illegible]

"It would have been an [illegible]ter for the Hudson factory [illegible] built special racing cars and [illegible]ened them so that they would [illegible] been no heavier than the other [illegible]ers. But one of the chief [illegible] the Hudson entry into the [illegible] way events this season was [illegible]ject their car in as near stock [illegible] as possible to the terrific [illegible] high speed. To have built [illegible] especially lightened would have [illegible]feated this end. Consequently [illegible] Hudson racers carry a handicap [illegible] weight, but they seem to be [illegible] very well in spite of it."

FIFTY PER CENT. INCREASE IN BUSINESS REPORTED.

WORD was received yesterday by George R. Bentel, the Pacific Coast distributor, that the Jordan Motor Car Company has been elected to membership in the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Membership in the N.A.C.C. is based entirely on the standing of the manufacturer as to the permanency of his business, and to his importance in relation to the trade as a whole.

The honor came to the Jordan company, of which Ned Jordan is the head, in less than a year after it began producing cars. As a result the officials have been receiving congratulations in Cleveland from over the country.

The latest Jordan factory reports received by Bentel show that the business of the company has increased 50 per cent. in the last sixty days. Jordan shipments in May totaled 287 cars, making the total of Jordan sales up to June 1 $2,702,750.

The planned production for the first year, up to September 1, 1917, was 2000 cars. They were built at a maximum rate of ten cars per day. Of this number 1545 of all models had been shipped from the factory by the middle of June. The four-passenger car sales represented about one-third of the entire output. Following the completion of the shipment of 1545 cars orders were on hand for the immediate shipment of 236 more.

"All of which goes to show," Jordan wrote Bentel, "that we were correct in the assumption that there was a big market for medium [illegible] cars of unusual lines. Had we [illegible] to have entered on a big pro[illegible] campaign. I don't believe [illegible] would have had a bit of [illegible] disposing of the cars.

"However, extensive pro[illegible] and big sales would have [illegible]plished just what we have been [illegible]ing to avoid. They would [illegible] taken our car out of the [illegible] class and made it commonplace [illegible] have something to offer which [illegible] of the ordinary, and the only [illegible] we can keep it out of the [illegible] is to make it exclusive—[illegible] sales down. That has been [illegible]icy during our first year, [illegible] success leads us to adopt [illegible] plans for next year."

The Bentel policy of [illegible] trimming Jordans in colors [illegible] the individual tastes of the [illegible]chasers has further carried [illegible] Jordan idea of [illegible] Pacific Coast.

"DEALERS' RACE" HONORS [illegible]

There have been so many [illegible] ers' races" at [illegible] cently, that when any dealer [illegible] certain make of car was [illegible] third place, it is necessary [illegible] "just which race he [illegible] instance, on May [illegible] twelve won second [illegible] July 4, on the [illegible] and third places [illegible] the Haynes car [illegible] sixth place. AIR-COOLED CAR CLAIMS RECORD OF EIGHTY-TWO MILES TO GALLON.

Hamlin congratulates economy-run driver.

[illegible] Hamlin, Franklin distributor, takes his hat off to W. H. Hoblit, because the latter succeeded in driving a Franklin car farther on a gallon of gasoline than Hamlin had ever driven one. This picture was taken at the conclusion of a test, in which Hoblit and two observers declare 44.8 miles was covered on a single gallon of gasoline.

[illegible] the purpose of making a national demonstration of the thrift of the Franklin car, 179 [illegible] throughout the United States, [illegible] July 13, participated and a [illegible] average of 40.3 miles on one [illegible] of gasoline was the result, it [illegible]. A series 9 touring car [illegible] in each instance. Cowles [illegible] of New Haven, Ct., drove [illegible] miles on the single gallon of [illegible] according to reports, and this [illegible] to give the Franklin another [illegible] record for economy. "Eighty-[illegible] of the contesting cars returned [illegible] than forty miles to the gallon," said Ralph Hamlin. "There was [illegible] variation in road and weather [illegible] reported.

"[illegible] Los Angeles entrant did 44.8 [illegible] which was four miles better [illegible] the national average. In 1915, [illegible] Franklin cars engaged in a similar demonstration and the national [illegible] that year was 32.1 with the [illegible] doing 35.1 miles to the gallon. The Los Angeles car was driven by [illegible] A. Hoblit of the Franklin [illegible] force. It was Hoblit's showing [illegible] preliminary run that entitled [illegible] drive the car. Although good [illegible], the showing here did not [illegible] that of the Redlands dealer, [illegible] forty-seven miles, or the [illegible] dealer with a high mark of [illegible]

STRICT RULES.

"[illegible] was stipulated in the rules governing the event, that a series 9 touring car had to be used with top [illegible] windshield open, weather [illegible]. Stock equipment had to [illegible]. The use of special high-test [illegible] was prohibited and only the commercial grades testing from 60 to 65 deg. could be used. The container had to be certified to by the sealer of weights and measures as being exactly of one-gallon capacity.

"Each car had to carry two observers, in addition to the driver. O. T. Johnson, educational secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and Roy H. Compton were the local observers. They were required to inspect the certificate of the fuel test, ascertaining an officially-sealed receptable contained the gasoline, note the main gasoline tank or any other possible source of supply was disconnected and trace out the piping from the container to the carburetor to see that everything was exactly as represented.

"The Franklin car that Hoblit used was one that had been driven across the continent from New York, arriving only a few days before the test was made. The owners left the car here and hurried home again because of military duties. The speedometer showed more than 6000 miles and, so far as was known here, the valves never had been ground nor any mechanical repairs made. Two new tires were put on the front wheels but the rear tires were the same that made the long transcontinental trip. An inverted glass bottle containing the gasoline was attached to a board supported against the windshield and the gas was piped direct to the carburetor.

"The start of the Los Angeles run began at Sixth street and Verdugo road, Glendale. The engine went right to work using gasoline on the five-mile climb through Verdugo Canyon to Montrose, running on high gear. The course led eastward, crossing the Devil's Gate bridge and into Pasadena via the Linda Vista-street bridge, up the steep grade to Grand avenue and south to Colorado street, west across the long bridge, past Eagle Rock, the site of the new home of the Annandale Country Club, through the town of Eagle Rock and back to the starting point in Glendale.

"The distance was seventeen miles and the loop was covered twice. When the starting point was reached for the second time a little more than a pint of gasoline remained in the glass container. With this small supply of fuel, the town of Glendale was crossed to the Los Feliz road and this was taken past the entrance to Griffith Park, up the steep grade into Hollywood and the head of Vermont avenue. This street was taken south and the Franklin had to be checked at Sixth street because of passengers boarding the street car, and again at Pico street. It came to a final stop with the gasoline supply exhausted at the intersection of Thirty-seventh place and Vermont avenue.

"The lay of the land covered included practically every sort of road that is likely to be encountered when driving in this locality. In general topography it is rolling and although there were several opportunities for coasting taken advantage of, it was necessary to climb the grades first. The only dirt road was in approaching Pasadena, where repair work was in progress and the surface was entirely removed. One stop was made to permit an observer to recover his hat that had blown off and that was the only time Hoblit went through his gears. At no other time was it necessary to manipulate the clutch as all other gear shifting was made direct into high from coasting speed, which was one of the most unusual features of the demonstration."

Why doesn't some enterprising automobile demonstrator take a trip through the aqueduct in an automobile, while the water is turned off? Those siphons should offer fairly good grades.

M. GARLAND AND SONS MOTOR ACROSS CONTINENT.

[illegible] W. M. Garland of this [illegible] and his two sons, W. [illegible], Jr., and J. J., with C. E. [illegible], driver, arrived home July [illegible] the real estate operator's [illegible] 34, another remarkable [illegible]-Los Angeles transcontinental [illegible] motor trip had been finished.

[illegible] been a hobby with Mr. Garland [illegible] a number of years to annually [illegible] tour by motor in this country [illegible] abroad. Last year he purchased a Marmon 34 touring car at [illegible], and after touring the [illegible], the car was stored in New [illegible].

[illegible] sons have been attending [illegible] in the East. W. M., Jr., has [illegible] Middlesex School at Concord, [illegible] and J. J. has been a pupil at [illegible], located at Lakeville, Ct. [illegible] Garland returned home last [illegible] promised the boys they [illegible] motor home in the new Marmon at the conclusion of their school [illegible].

[illegible] National Old Trails route, by [illegible] Pittsburgh, Columbus, O., St. [illegible] and Kansas City, was chosen [illegible] the trip, which was made in [illegible] days. The actual running [illegible] confined to thirteen days, [illegible] the greatest day's mileage was [illegible] between Kansas City and [illegible] City, Kan., a distance of 389 miles. This stretch was covered in thirteen hours, and over roads that were in very fair condition.

One-day stops were made in St. Louis, Grand Canyon and Needles and a stop of two days was made at the famous Varmajo Park ranch in New Mexico, where Garland and his sons did some shooting. This ranch covers an area sixty by thirty miles, and upon it more than 17,000 head of cattle graze.

The only rain encountered on the cross-country run was in the mountains of New Mexio. "This is the rainy season in the mountain section in that part of the country, and it naturally follows that one must consequently expect muddy roads occasionally," said Mr. Garland. "This condition only slowed us up a little, however. There was not a time that we were in any trouble on the entire trip."

The weather was so intensely hot at the Needles the party was unable to sleep. A lay-over was in order the following day until nightfall, when the Marmon hit the trail for a night run in order to avoid the heat as much as was possible.

"I am in charge of four cars owned by Mr. Garland, and the new Marmon 34 is one of this number. I have toured with him in Europe and in this country for several years. It's a great car. I have never had any trouble with it in any way," said Haberson.

FARM MACHINERY EXHIBIT TO BE HELD NEAR THE CITY.

WHAT CAUSES CORROSION OF METAL ON BATTERIES?

THE corrosion of metal parts on or about a storage battery is often attributed to a leaky or defective battery. That this is usually due to the spilling or overflowing of battery solution and the neglect of the motorist to keep the exterior of the battery well cleaned, is explained by V. L. Combs, special representative for the Prest-o-Lite Company.

"The corrosion of metal parts about a battery, indicated by a white, lead sulphate coating, is caused by the action of escaped battery solution, which eats into the metal.

"Under ordinary driving conditions, the charging of the battery by the generator causes more or less battery solution to vaporize through the vent holes in the filler caps of the battery cells. This vapor condenses on the battery and to prevent corrosion of the handles, hold-downs and other metal parts, and damage of the battery box, it is essential that the exterior of the battery be cleaned off regularly so that the acid cannot get in its work. This should be done with a clean, moist sponge whenever the battery is inspected or distilled water is added and if the motorist will take a few moments occasionally to do this, there should be little trouble with corrosion.

"At the same time it is well to see that the hold-downs are tight to prevent unnecessary vibration. A thin coating of vaseline on all metal parts not lead coated will also help, acting as an insulation.

"Parts that have become corroded should be well cleaned with a solution of weak ammonia and coated with vaseline.

"Many bad cases of corrosion are caused by the overflow of battery solution due to overfilling the battery cells. In adding distilled water, the cells should never be completely filled; the proper height of the solution is about one-half inch above the battery plates. When the battery is being charged the solution expands and gives off gases. The unfilled portions of the cells are needed to accommodate the expansion and gas. If the cells are completely filled with solution, the natural result is an overflow through the vent holes, which is bound to cause damage.

"A simple way to determine the height of the solution over the cells is to use a piece of glass tubing of convenient length. Insert the glass tube until it rests on top of the plates, place a finger firmly on the upper end to create a vacuum and withdraw the tube. The liquid in the tube will indicate the height of the solution above the plates.

"The battery experts at our service station are always ready to give helpful hints to battery users, no matter what battery they use, and complete literature on battery care can always be had for the asking."

CORPORATION OFFICIAL BELIEVES IN ADVERTISING.

THAT in many ways the entry of America into this war is going to become a great constructive force for the betterment of business in general is the opinion of a high official in the Premier Motor Corporation.

"It was only natural," says this official, "that our plunge into the greatest war of all time should send a chill down our spines, but it has been only a shiver, and we are in no way fundamentally or organically affected.

"We are undergoing a general readjustment, and much of the business that we had a right to expect during June and May has been deferred—but deferred is the right word, and you can rest assured that it will still come.

"I have just completed a swing around the country, and have visited most of the important cities, and I am glad that I have no serious observations to report.

"A late spring has had, in my opinion, more to do with any slowing down in motor car sales than has our entry into the war.

"And in many instances I am able to report that many dealers are going right along, selling about their regular quota.

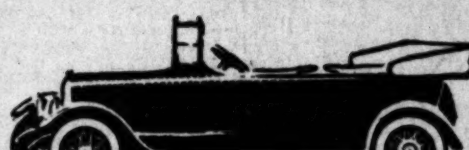
"In some spots business has been more or less dull, and where such conditions exist you can invariably trace the cause to inadvertent economy talk on the part of the individuals who thought that they were serving their country by scaring the living lights out of it.

"We have done all we could to discourage this sort of misguided enthusiasm. We have tried to make our dealers and our newspaper friends see that the war is going to bring about increased prosperity by putting great sums into distribution—and in the main we have succeeded. As a result of the optimism in our newspaper advertising we have been able to keep Premier sales practically up to normal. And I want to say that, if there was ever any real doubt about the efficiency of newspapers, that doubt has been removed in our minds by the actual and tangible evidences which we have observed wherever we have used newspapers consistently. The antidote for sales depression is big copy used judiciously in the vital centers.

"If department stores would sense this fact, and would open the throttle in their advertising, instead of putting on the brakes, there would be very little effect from the war so far as any city's local business is concerned.

"Actual experience has proven that this is not a theory, but a cold-blooded fact."

It has been proven that greater mileage can be obtained on a road where the car has to climb hills, if not too steep, and the driver given an opportunity of coasting a part of the way, than on perfectly level ground. In other words, a car that makes twenty miles to a gallon on level ground, will not cut its mileage to ten gallons while ascending a long grade of about 5 per cent., a grade sufficient to allow coasting "coming down."



Buy that New Car Now

HERE is a car with unusual low cost of operation and maintenance you will be proud to own. For more than ten years REGAL has given greatest owner satisfaction.

Compare these specifications; they mean investment security and insurance against undue depreciation.

STYLE—truly REGAL; reflecting quiet good taste in dignified lines. Cruiser line touring body; oval crowned fenders—straight grain upholstery—14-gallon gas tank in rear.

COMFORT—Deep, generous cushions. Cantilever spring suspension. Easy gear shift and brake control. Ample room for five adults—and, of course, electric lighting and starting.

EVERY TWELFTH PERSON OWNS CAR.

IOWA LEADS, BUT CALIFORNIA IS CLOSE SECOND.

Statistics Gathered at Washington Reflect Prosperity of Country and Testify to the Growing Popularity of Motoring All Over the United States.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) July 17.—Iowa led the United States in 1916 in the number of motor cars registered in proportion to population. She had one car for every eleven persons. California was a close second with one car to every twelve inhabitants. Nebraska and South Dakota had one for every thirteen. Arkansas could show but one for every 116. The average for the United States is one car for every twenty-nine persons, according to figures presented by the office of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, in circular No. 73, "Automobile registrations, licenses and revenues in the United States, 1916."

The New England States were more uniformly supplied with motor cars than any other section. They averaged one car to about every twenty-seven persons. The prosperous corn-belt States also showed a fairly uniform distribution of cars. The South, which does not possess as great mileage of improved public roads as other sections of the country, had relatively fewer cars in proportion to population.

FOUR-PASSENGER CAR IS "ROOMY."

"A four-passenger car with room for five" is the way many people speak of the new Inter-State chummy roadster, after having had a demonstration of the qualities of this car, which is distributed in California and Arizona by the Wright oMtor Car Company.

This particular model has proven a very popular one, according to W. D. Wright, and the extra large demand for it seems to be due to the fact that for a small and light close-coupled roadster, this Inter-State offers one of the smartest jobs found on the market.

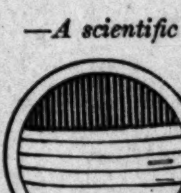
VACATION TRIPS HARD ON SPRINGS.

Some motorists, while on their week-end jaunts and country trips are doing some mighty careless driving, according to R. W. Sheldon, vice-president of the Cambria Spring Company, who said that the summer crop of broken springs will be a considerable one.

"Heavy touring began earlier this season, I think, than ever before, and we have found that of the many springs we have repaired and replaced, a considerable number were on cars that have been driven over mountain roads. A driver should be experienced before tackling mountain driving.

"Lack in this respect not only means injury to a car and the consequent expense and delay, but it has often spelled serious accident and death for one or more of the automobile's occupants.

"Probably one of the most common faults with drivers is to glance from the road to something of interest. 'I was rubbering when I broke that spring' is often heard in our repair department, where from twenty-five to fifty cars a day are repaired."



Hamburger's
Auto Supply Store

Just as the Auto Has Become a Part of Everyday Affairs, So Has the Auto Accessory Department Become a Part of the Department Store.

—The great business success that has been achieved by Hamburger's has proved this.

—If fact, the department store is the logical place for an auto accessories store—for when one comes to a store for the needs of the home, it is a convenience and a satisfaction to be able to fill the wants of the auto also.

—Then you must consider the economy of buying auto accessories in a great department store—for the extraordinary purchasing power of Hamburger's brings many, many items to you at prices far lower than regular quotations.

Overalls —for Women

—Surely it must have been a woman who designed these overalls — for only a woman could realize the joy of their freedom and comfort after wearing cumbersome skirts.

REDLANDS PEOPLE TAKE LONG TRIPS.

REDLANDS, July 21.—Automobile trips to the Yosemite Valley are attracting the motorists of this city and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wyckoff have just returned from a 1000-mile trip made in two weeks. They visited all points of interest in the valley, camped ou each evening and found the roads in the best of shape.

Sidney Burchell, well-known English author, who has a home here, and his wife and daughter, have left for a motor trip to the Yosemite and Lake Tahoe. They will be gone most of the summer. Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Hill, Prof. and Mrs. S. Guy Jomes and Miss Edith Hill have just returned from a trip to the valley and the big trees.

George Hinckley, city engineer, Mrs. Hinckley and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clock have just completed a trip to the valley. Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bill are now there.

SPRING COMPANY TO ERECT BUILDING.

A lease for a term of years was consummated last week by the United States Springs Company, on the property that adjoins its plant, No. 1120-22 South Los Angeles street. The construction of a building on this lot, 50x150 feet, will be started next week, the plans having been completed and approved.

The structure will be devoted to modern office space, large stockroom and receiving, delivery and service departments. The department devoted to the repairing of springs on automobiles and trucks will be thoroughly modern.

The present building is to be exclusively used for manufacturing purposes. Its remodeling will be started in a month's time and when completed a new ventilating system and new machinery equipment will have been installed. Included in this equipment will be six fitting furnaces of special design.

When the new building has been finished the United States Spring Company will have 15,000 square feet of floor space and a frontage on Los Angeles street of 100 feet.

TWO MEN REQUIRED ON TRUCK IN DESERT.

The D. F. Poyer Truck Company, distributor of Republic trucks, now maintains a crew that practically uses all its time in moving trucks from the distributing depot in this city to points in Arizona. The experience of this crew insures the safe and rapid movement of Republics to purchasers in the Arizona territory.

"At first we sent only one experienced man with a truck delivered to a buyer in Arizona, but as we found that might be dangerous, owing to the exigencies of the road in the many desert parts, we now send two men with each truck," said Lester Poyer, who is associated with his father as assistant manager.

Only recently the authorities at San Bernardino have required that no less than two persons must travel in cars and trucks going into the desert, as fatalities have happened to drivers of vehicles, when they suffered accident or ran out of fuel and water. Those traveling over the desert stretches, where there is but little travel, are cautioned to have with them an ample supply of fuel and water.

The D. F. Poyer Truck Company for the past two months has averaged five trucks a month delivered in Arizona, the greatest number having been sold to mining concerns. "Our Arizona territory bids fair to become very important," said Lester Poyer.

SALT LAKER BUYS CAR HERE "ON SIGHT."

Among those who have just recently invested in Detroiter 6-45's purchased from the Turner-Whitford Company, Southern California distributor, are W. O. Kay, prominent business man of Salt Lake City and who maintains an office in Los Angeles; C. E. Kelsey, prominent rancher of Ventura, and Robert Holton of the Western Refining Company.

The man from the Mormon capital was so strongly impressed with the Detroiter that he refused to wait until one might be shipped from the factory. A car was taken from the salesroom floor and shipped to his home by fast freight. Holton made his purchase on the car's record for all-around performance and before any demonstration had been made.

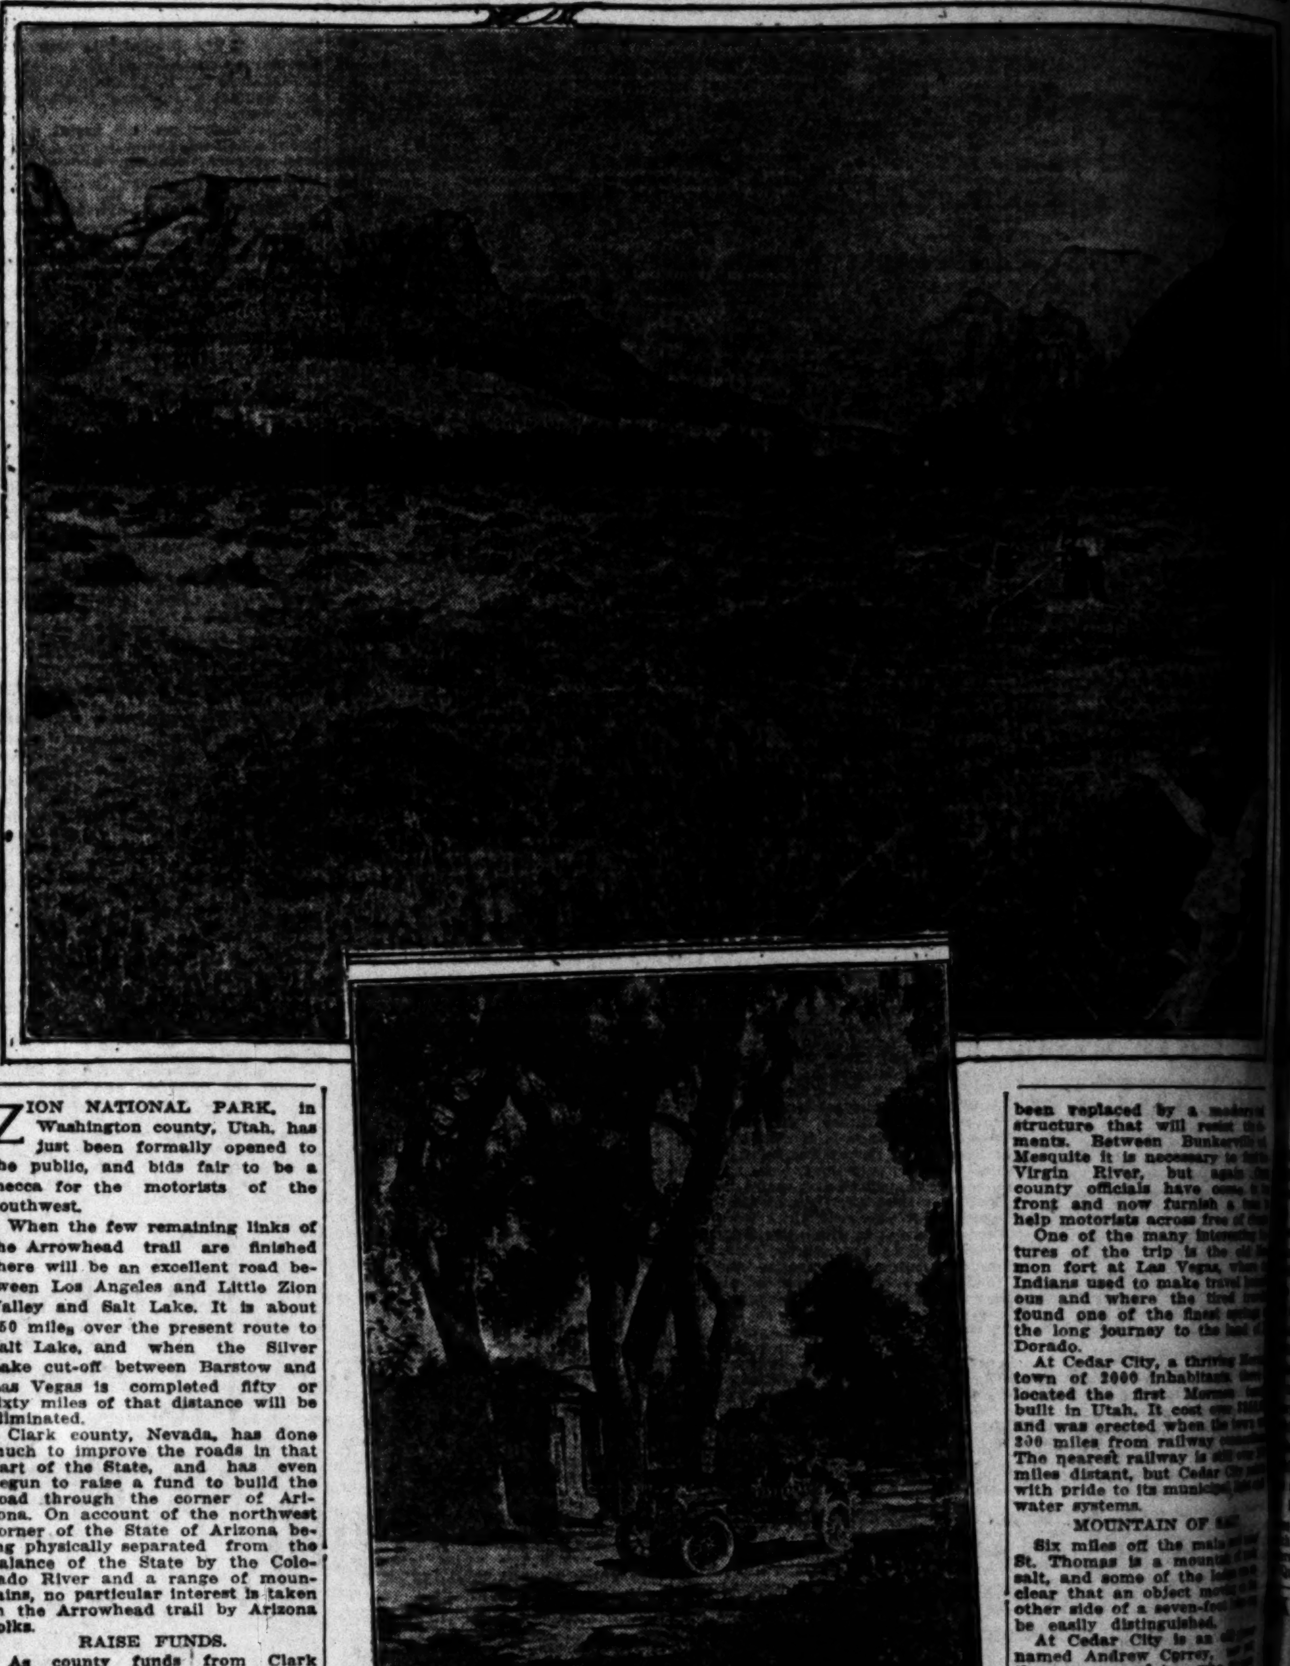
It is with difficulty that the Turner-Whitford Company can keep possession of a Detroiter demonstrator. Which of the salesmen shall have it, and when, has almost become a bone of contention among the members of the sales force.

UP GOES PRICE OF ANOTHER CAR.

In spite of the repeated efforts to prevent an increase in the price of the Premier, its manufacturers have found that because of the constantly advancing cost of materials and the premium at which skilled labor is secured, they can no longer produce the car at the former price, and on August 1st it will advance.

"The increase was made as far off as possible to give those who are contemplating the purchase of a Premier ample opportunity to save the increase," says M. A. Leach of the Leach Motor Car Company, local distributers of the Premier.

UTAH HAS MODERN, THRIVING CITIES A HUNDRED MILES FROM RAILROAD.



Along the Arrowhead trail.

Above is a familiar haying scene in Utah, at this time of the year, in a section of the State that is little known to the outside world. Thriving little towns of several thousand people, a hundred miles or more from a railroad, with municipal light systems and many other modern conveniences, are a surprise to every motorist who follows the trail and suddenly comes upon them. Below is a good view of the old Mormon fort at Las Vegas, which in the early days was a refuge for travelers pursued by Indians. The car in front of the fort is a Packard.

ZION NATIONAL PARK, in Washington county, Utah, has just been formally opened to the public, and bids fair to be a mecca for the motorists of the Southwest.

When the few remaining links of the Arrowhead trail are finished there will be an excellent road between Los Angeles and Little Zion Valley and Salt Lake. It is about 850 miles over the present route to Salt Lake, and when the Silver Lake cut-off between Barstow and Las Vegas is completed fifty or sixty miles of that distance will be eliminated.

Clark county, Nevada, has done much to improve the roads in that part of the State, and has even begun to raise a fund to build the road through the corner of Arizona. On account of the northwest corner of the State of Arizona being physically separated from the balance of the State by the Colorado River and a range of mountains, no particular interest is taken in the Arrowhead trail by Arizona folks.

RAISE FUNDS.

As county funds from Clark county cannot be used in improving roads in Arizona, the citizens of Bunkerville, Nev., have gone ahead with money raised by subscription. As Ed Cox of that city expresses it: "We will concern ourselves with getting the road built and look for State lines afterwards."

Much interest was aroused in the Arrowhead trail last year, when a party of good roads boosters went from Southern California over the Arrowhead trail to Salt Lake. They were piloted by Louis Nikrent in "Cactus Kate II," a Packard twin-six furnished by Earle C. Anthony, Inc., California distributor of the Packard line.

When the plans of the party were laid before Gov. Spry of Utah and he saw the photographs that had been made of the places of historic interest and scenic beauty he assured them of his hearty support, and much of the State road in Utah has been improved since that time by the use of convict labor.

The road has been finished as far north as Springdale at the southern entrance to Little Zion Valley, which comprises the national park. Inside the park the government has begun the construction of a fine system of roads that will afford easy access to the many scenic points of beauty.

At St. Thomas there used to be a wooden bridge, but the floods of last year took it out. It has since been replaced by a modern structure that will resist th[illegible] ments. BATTERIES, MADE HERE, TO BE READY BY SEPTEMBER.

"LOS ANGELES automobile owners whose troubles with starting and ignition storage battery systems have been annoying and expensive, soon will have the opportunity of purchasing a Los Angeles made battery, one guaranteed to have more capacity and a longer life than any battery made," said an official of the new company.

"With continued good luck the Hobbs Storage Battery Company, recently incorporated under California's strict laws, will have its first product—several thousand starting and ignition batteries—ready for delivery by September 15. These batteries will be fresh and absolutely new when placed in the owner's car, and will be guaranteed to have more capacity and 50 per cent. longer life than any battery manufactured.

"H. V. Andrews, one of the directors of Los Angeles' newest automobile industry, who accompanied President A. A. Hobbs to the eastern market to purchase machinery, supplies and material for the plant, which is to be located at 1231-35 South Olive street, is scheduled to return home today. He telegraphed his associates several days ago that President Hobbs had been successful in his quest for the latest improved battery machinery, and that the work of remodeling the building should proceed at once.

"The local capitalists who have taken an interest in the new battery company, are more than anxious for the product of their plant to be placed before automobile owners. Their tests satisfied them that President Hobbs's electrolyte or liquid solution, the secret of his successes with storage batteries, has solved the car owner's problem for all time in overcoming lighting and starting troubles. They have advertised the Hobbs battery with their friends and associates, and have advised them to withhold the purchase of new batteries until the Hobbs battery is on the market."

TRUCK OWNERS ARE ROAD "BOOSTERS."

The motor truck, perhaps more than any other factor, has been the greatest force in advancing the movement for good roads that now is sweeping the country. Rural communities that a few years ago declared better roads were not needed are now ardent champions, and whenever a road is built in some other locality that is not available to them they present their claims for recognition and demand improvements nearer home.

Until the farmers began to use motor-driven vehicles there was an apathy on the part of residents of the country sections concerning the need for better highways. However, according to Wallace O. Gates of the Smith Form-a-Truck Sales Company, when they found that their hauling could be accomplished much cheaper and more effectively by the power wagon than by horses, and began the use of trucks, they experienced the difficulties that are attendant upon travel over poor thoroughfares.

"Farmers rapidly are seeing the advantages of marketing by trucks now, as is evidenced by the demand in rural communities for Smith Form-a-Trucks and other light, economical motor vehicles," Gates said.

MORE THAN A THOUSAND CARS SOLD IN ONE DA[illegible]

"DURING the month of June, all retail sales of Willys-Overland, Inc., were broken. The retail business for that period amounted to approximately $11,150,000, the greatest record for any month in Willys-Overland history," said O. B. Henderson, manager of the local branch.

"These figures are for the United States alone and do not include Canadian nor export sales, which are also heavier than ever; nor has allowance been made for the 10 per cent. of the reports that past experiences prove are not sent in to the home office.

"On Monday, June 25, reports of the sale of 1075 cars at retail reached this company—$888,200 worth—a new high mark for a single day's Willys-Overland trading.

"This proof, furnished by the accurate system of checking retail sales in use at the Willys-Overland headquarters in Toledo, demonstrates that the buying public of the United States has recovered its poise after the uncertainty of events prior to and shortly after the declaration of hostilities with Germany.

"During the first two weeks in June the daily sales averaged about $400,000. During the week of June 17 the retail sales climbed to daily average of about $450,000.

"From June 25 to June 30 the United States' automobile buyers paid more than $500,000 daily for their Willys-Overland cars.

"From one-fourth to one-sixth of the total retail sales reported each day during June were made in the eastern district, the territory which seemed at first to be most affected by the 'war scare.'

been replaced by a modern steel structure that will resist the elements. Between Bunkerville and Mesquite it is necessary to ford the Virgin River, but again Clark county officials have come to the front and now furnish a team to help motorists across free of charge.

One of the many interesting features of the trip is the old Mormon fort at Las Vegas, where the Indians used to make travel hazardous and where the tired traveler found one of the finest springs on the long journey to the land of El Dorado.

At Cedar City, a thriving Mormon town of 2000 inhabitants, there is located the first Mormon temple built in Utah. It cost over $250,000 and was erected when the town was 250 miles from railway connection. The nearest railway is still over 100 miles distant, but Cedar City points with pride to its municipal light and water systems.

MOUNTAIN OF SALT.

Six miles off the main road near St. Thomas is a mountain of rock salt, and some of the ledges are so clear that an object moving on the other side of a seven-foot ledge can be easily distinguished.

At Cedar City is an old pioneer named Andrew Correy, now past three score and ten, who fifty years ago drove a freighter from Salt Lake to San Pedro by way of the Arrowhead trail, as it was the shortest road and was open the whole year round.

The Arrowhead trail will link Los Angeles and Salt Lake much closer and upon its completion will divert quite a percentage of transcontinental traffic direct into Los Angeles from the Lincoln highway.

When the trip was made in "Cactus Kate II" no great difficulties were encountered, and the work that was first done was concentrated on those places that were most difficult of passage.

This was only one of the many trips on which the Packard car was sent by Mr. Anthony, and many new highways and the revival of many old trails are due to the good roads missionary work of the good roads boosters who traveled in the checkered twin six.

With labor the great factor in the industrial activity of the large eastern centers, many of the more progressive factories are going to extreme lengths in seeking to hold the goodwill of their employees so that contentions will not be continually coming up.

Officials of the Tyer Rubber Company of Andover, Mass., manufacturers of Tyrian tires, handled locally by the B. F. Wade Tire and Rubber Company, are especially active in this line, and are doing everything in their power to keep their help in a contented frame of mind, figuring that such contentment is reflected in the quality of the product.

According to Mr. Wade, who has just returned from the Tyrian factory, this factory supports a base-ball team at the plant, around which "Its flexibility enabled the motor to carry the car through all situations with ease and gracefulness. Last year it still had the feature common to all multi-cylinder motors, of not being as quiet as the ideal of automobile designers and owners. The results of the Peerless engineers' experiments in quiet operation have been extremely gratifying. There are quite a number of mechanical refinements that mean still finer balance, even greater freedom from repairs, and certainty of very long life."

National League has Plan that will Win.

Manufacturers All Agree to Co-operate.

Numbered Parts to be Listed with Auto Club.

What is practically a national league for the prevention of automobile thefts through the co-operation of more than eighty of the greatest motor car manufacturers in America has been instigated by the Automobile Club of Southern California, according to a report issued yesterday by Secretary S. L. Mitchell.

In other words, at the request of the club's theft bureau all prominent manufacturers have signified their intention of doing all in their power to aid in the capture of motor car thieves. This activity will center particularly in Southern California, where thieves throng thickest.

It has been found that the determining factor in the recovery of stolen automobiles is usually the motor number of the stolen car—as well as the fifteen or twenty dealers' numbers located on the various parts. In each make of machine these numbers are placed by the manufacturer in or on a different part of the motor.

Some confusion consequently arises when a large manufacturing concern changes the location of the motor number if on a new model, or when a new car is put upon the market. In order to avoid such confusion and to be better prepared in case of theft, the Automobile Club has asked the manufacturers to:

Give exact location of the motor number.

Give a facsimile or impression of the type of dies used for motor numbers, and Furnish the club with a list of all parts of which a numerical record is kept.

That every important manufacturing plant has given the desired information, and this is now on file, is the official announcement made by Automobile Club officials yesterday.

Nowhere else in the United States is such a large mass of similar valuable material so tabulated, and it speaks well for Southern California that its own organization of motorists has been so enterprising in preparing the data and arranging them so they will be available for instant use by authorities anywhere for the identification of stolen automobiles and apprehending thieves.

YOU CAN HELP.

In conjunction with this preparation the club is increasing the circulation of blanks to be filled out by motor car owners, to be also used as a local means of identification. These have been found efficacious in the recovery of stolen cars, and they are now available at club headquarters or at any of the branch offices.

That motorists may better understand the method by which the American manufacturers are co-operating with the Southern California authorities in this theft question, the following excerpts to the club's request to more than 100 factories were yesterday made public:

"Almost every day the theft bureau of the Automobile Club receives inquiries from officers and others throughout this part of the country, seeking information as to the location of the motor number of a certain car they have under observation. When they do locate the motor number they have no means of knowing whether the same has been changed or not.

"We are asking all motor car manufacturers to co-operate with us, and with this information in hand we believe that we can be of greater assistance in recovering stolen automobiles."

So general has been the response and willingness expressed to work with the club in any further plans for the suppression of automobile thieves, made by the manufacturers, that it is probable that additional national movements will be decided upon in the near future, working toward the same end.

All motorists are requested to secure and fill out their individual identification blanks at once, if they have not already done so.

MOTOR MADE HERE FOR NOTED AVIATOR.

A four-cylinder Miller motor for Earle L. Orvington, the noted aviator, is receiving the final touches at the Harry A. Miller manufacturing plant in this city. When prepared for shipment it will have 125 horse power and be capable of more than 2500 revolutions per minute on block test. Reducing gears will bring the propellor revolutions down to 1250 per minute.

Orvington has been one of the most sensational fliers the East has ever known, and only recently returned from France, where he learned the finer points of the art from the French army aviators.

The Miller forces are now building a twelve-cylinder motor for DeLoyd Thompson to be installed in an immense seaplane that is now nearing completion at the factory of the Standard Airplane Company at Plainfield, N. J. This aluminum motor was cast in one piece and will weigh about 900 pounds.

INDIVIDUALITY AND DISTINCTION

Marked individuality of appearance in high grade cars is attained either by remaining behind general progress in body design, or by keeping so far in advance of it that popular tendencies are transcended and anticipated.

White bodies are highly individual in being markedly progressive within the conservative bounds of good taste.

TRUCLY A SWEET SIXTEEN

The White Sixteen-Valve "Four" easily proves that high power, extreme flexibility and rapid acceleration are obtained more satisfactorily by increasing the valve capacity than by adding to the number of cylinders. Increased valve capacity results in higher engine speed and higher power. This is the secret of superior performance.

PAIGE
The Most Beautiful Car in America

A Word of Warning

As long as the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company's present supply of materials lasts, Paige buyers will enjoy the advantage of the present Paige price.

It is estimated that this supply of materials will last approximately 60 or 90 days and when the supply is exhausted it will, obviously, again be necessary to readjust the prices of all models of the Paige line.

Then, as now, the Paige prices will be fixed in proportion to the cost of materials. They are never raised arbitrarily. That is a point on price we wish to emphasize.

But when the last word on price is said you will continue to select the Paige because of its mechanical excellence, its beauty, its supreme quality.

MOTORIST SCORES FIEND WITH "BLINDING LIGHTS."

BY EDWARD C. CROSSMAN.

AFTER having driven a number of hundred miles around Los Angeles county roads at night, and having given thanks to Allah at the end of each return unscathed save as to feelings, I am wondering why the Mt. Lowe people continue to advertise their searchlight as one of the attractions. I care not if said searchlight directed on a gentleman with a newspaper down at the beach does enable him with no other illumination to read this paper—it is no more wonderful than these automobile headlights with which a driver in the environs of San Fernando can shoot another driver in the eye and blind him as he is crossing the North Broadway bridge.

In the days of innocence before the acquirement of the festive Tin Lizzy, I used to labor under the delusion that the purpose of the motor-car headlight was to enable the driver to see the road plainly ahead of him, for say a block or so. I do know that even now there is an occasional old-fashioned driver who worries along without greater illumination than this although he has to drive with one wheel out in the ditch to play it safe when some eight-cylinder battleship heaves in sight with three searchlights going for submarines and destroyers.

I know better now. I realize that if the driver leaving the end of the car line on East Seventh street couldn't see the towers and minarets of Whittier, he'd be ruined, he couldn't drive a mile in happiness and safety. Judging by the lights one meets on that road, most of them drive in safety and happiness all right so far as that consideration goes.

In the more civilized communities of the effete east where the presence of the automobile is recognized, and where certain laws govern the conduct of said automobiles in the interest of the safety of the drivers and passengers thereof, a rude motorcycle cop would snatch bald-headed the variety of fool who drives abroad on a country road with a lighting equipment that blinds for a half-mile every other driver approaching it. California is happily void of such restrictions on the freedom of the dear peepul—three cheers for freedom!

The last session of that misfit aggregation, the California Legislature, passed among its other wondrous legal abortions something that purported to govern the adjustment and direction of motor-car headlights. The efficiency of said laws can be judged by the fact that the Sheriff's office of this country won't touch a driver on the grounds of dangerous headlights, because they know they can't make the case stick. The Legislature repealed an older law providing for dimmers and direction of headlight, and passed a law that looks like something the cat dragged in, providing roughly for a limit of forty-two inches in height of headlight at a distance of seventy-five feet. In other words an aggregation of empty words, the emptiness of which is testified to by the lights one meets on the road these nights, and by the fact that the motorcycle officers are helpless.

I deny the right, legal or moral, of some fool driver to shoot me in the eye with a beam of light akin to that from the bridge of a battleship, blinding me not only as to possible pedestrians and lightless wagons on ahead, but to the very location of the roadway.

Let the driver who goes abroad these nights rise and testify to the fact that about every fifth machine one meets is preceded by a beam of light that blinds the other driver, and that dousing or dimming said lights is a lost art with most of these light-fiends.

Apparently the only recourse is to provide oneself with lights of the same strength and the same criminal adjustment above the spot on the road where they ought to strike—but this is too much like providing oneself with a rifle and shooting back in the general direction of some house from which you suspect bullets are coming. If may be comforting to you, but it merely adds one more danger to the road.

Provisions for adjustment of beam below a certain height or upon a certain given spot ahead are merely provisions making for lovely fights in court that the officers invariably lose. Also as adjustment of height on most cars is a matter merely of turning a nut or screw in the bracket, the ostensible law-abiding driver can convert his lights in two minutes into the menace to life and limb that one finds on the road these nights. Also is the festive spotlight which in the nature of the beast cannot be locked to throw its beams on a certain spot and which a lot of these inconsiderate, unconscionable, semi-criminal drivers merely turn up the road ahead of them to aid their headlights.

KEEPS RECORD.

I have kept careful tabs the last two weeks of driving at night, which is surely no pleasure to the driver as things now are, and I saw just one man with the instincts of a gentleman—this is a chap who dimmed his lights over on the Los Feliz road on the approach of the other car. So rare is this practice, however, that I'll cheerfully pay $10 for every driver with these bright, dangerous headlights who dims his lights on the approach of the test machine, if somebody will give me $1 for every one who does not so dim his lights. The grand rule is to outshine the other man—as a result of which competition you can go to any little rise on a well-traveled road in this country, where the height puts you out of the rays that would otherwise blind you, and watch cars coming with beams of light ahead that reach for a half-mile along the road, like the headlights of a Santa Fe passenger engine.

The other night, coming in the Whittier road on that night of nights to keep off the road—Sunday—the usual beam from a car a quarter of a mile away smote me in the eye. Wriggling around in the endeavor to gain a faint inkling of whether the road ahead of me still continued or whether I was going to drive over some neat thirty-foot drop-off, I suddenly caught a flash from my own light on some bright metal object forty feet or so away. I cut over on the road just in time to miss knocking a fool with an unlighted motorcycle from the edge of the pavement, where he was tinkering with his machine, clear over into the adjoining field. That was a pair to draw to—an idiot coming with the searchlight from the old Oregon on his car, and another standing without lights on the edge of the pavement of a crowded country road. Only, when you play in tough luck instead of in good, as in this case, the motorcycle always turns out to have its lights trimmed and burning—in the testimony in the damage case.

CONSTANT DANGER.

It is the constant danger of hitting some pedestrian who cannot well pack a light on his coattails, or hitting a wagon that carries its light in the bowl of the driver's pipe, or disturbing the sweet young dream of some bunny hugger with a girl and a machine pulled with one wheel on the pavement and the tail-light no man knoweth where, that justifies me in using strong language regarding, first, the aggregation of hicks at Sacramento that didn't pass effective laws, and, second, the sort of driver who takes advantage of the absence of law to make his machine into a menace to the safety of every other car he meets.

The remedy is clear so far as the Solons are concerned.

Bar absolutely the plain-glass headlight lens!

Times there were when this would have played nicely into the hands of one or two concerns, and suspicion would have turned on the advocate of such a measure, but such times are gone. I know of not less than six standard forms of motor-car headlight lenses that take out the glare and diffuse the light and enable the driver to see more than he ever would with the searchlight. There are probably a half-dozen more of which I do not know, and such a sane measure would produce still more effective designs and bring down the price, which need not be at all extravagant when we consider what it costs to make the lowly pop bottle.

BETTER EVERY WAY.

Behind three such types I have ridden enough to know that they not only take care of the vision of the other driver, but so widen and diffuse the light as to make visible the side of the road and curves ahead where the concentrated light shoots clear beyond. When a simple device cast in the glass of the lens not only protects the other driver, but makes driving safer and more pleasant for the owner thereof, why permit the plain glass, which cannot be legislated into safety for the other driver?

As I have pointed out, laws regarding focus and adjustment are piffle, not enforceable, leading to arguments and jury cases in the courts and general acquittals, and then to a general disregard for the law by everyone.

When you compel a driver to adopt a form of lens that bends the rays downward and diffuses them, then you can make a penalty that will jolt the hat off the man who turns his spotlight down the road and uses it for mere driving purposes, because the law can be strict in its provision against the beam from a naked light being turned down a road, and the first motorcycle man can hook the offender easier than he can hook the man with his tail light out. With any other provision the poor motorcycle man has to be an accurate judge of height by the eye alone, and an expert optician besides—and you'll remember that balling out a motorcycle cop is the sweetest form of pleasure known in motoring.

Such lenses as the Conaphore, the Warner, the MacBeth and others either diffuse the light by means of many little lenses in the main one, giving a view of the side of the road and cutting out all glare, or else they bend the rays downward by ridges cast in the glass and giving a bend to the rays as a prism would do. They both prevent glare ahead and light up the sides of the road.

Personally, I'd prefer a lens of this sort if there were not another driver in a hundred miles, because they come nearer to approximating daylight with its even diffusion and softness than do these concentrated beams that are useful for picking up torpedo destroyers at a mile. Most drivers worry along in daylight without insisting on shooting the illumination ahead of them in a beam two feet wide and two miles long.

Barring the plain lens as the only logical solution of the problem is merely a matter of time.

And the driver doubting that the time for the change is right now ought to go take a spin with a boat-load of people, for whose safety he has high regard, along some such road as the Whittier road on a Sunday night.

As any experienced driver knows, the downward focusing of a headlight is a joke, because the first time that car comes up a little rise the other driver gets it in the eye just the same, just the same. This is a characteristic blunder of the whole piffling legislation in California.

ROADS AND AUTOS BIG AID IN WAR.

"Motor cars and the improved country roads for which they are responsible will prove crucial factors in case the Germans should succeed in bringing the war to American shores," says John D. Mansfield, general sales manager of the Dort Motor Car Company.

"The 2,500,000 automobiles now running in this country could move an army of 15,000,000 men. Europe has had no such advantages and it is well worth the study of our military authorities as to just how this wonderful force could be best mobilized and used in case of necessity.

"This thought is also well worth the consideration of civilians. What our cars might do in war is indicated by the wonders they have accomplished in peace. They have been the greatest creators of wealth and conservators of health of any utility we can boast."

PREDICTS HIGHER PRICES FOR TIRES.

"With actual, bona-fide orders for five casings to every casing it can turn out at the present time, the Norwalk Tire and Rubber Company is making a strenuous effort to enlarge its factory facilities," said an official of the company.

"Announcement is made this week of the purchase of an additional factory in Norwalk by this tire concern. The new purchase adjoins the main Norwalk factory and includes a number of brick buildings, one four stories high. This new space adds approximately 60 per cent. more room and most of the finishing processes are to be carried on there.

"In addition to this purchase of factory room, three large concrete buildings are being erected by the factory, all of reinforced concrete and three stories in height. These are expected to be completed during the next thirty days.

"The Lichtenberger-Ferguson Company have received assurance from the factory officials that they will be favored with prompt shipments, so that California motorists will not be disappointed when they desire their cars equipped with these casings.

"From reports of the rubber situation of the last few days it seems that tire manufacturers are all co-operating in an effort to break crude rubber prices by purchasing the very least amount of rubber possible. The effect of this is already being felt, for prices have dropped from 10 to 25 cents per pound," states W. R. Cain, manager of the local service station. "If the price of rubber can be kept down and something can be done to relieve the fabric scarcity there is a chance of tire prices remaining the same for several months. However, I am of the opinion that both rubber and fabric will go higher soon and this is likely to cause another increase in the price of tires."

HALF-SOLED TIRE IS PUNCTURE-PROOF.

The time has come when the owner of a car can take his partially worn-out tires to a shop and have them half-soled, just as he takes his shoes to a cobbler to have half soles put on. No one thinks of throwing away a pair of shoes simply because the soles are worn through in spots, providing the uppers still are good, and certainly no one should throw a tire away if the tread is worn through, providing the fabric underneath is all right.

It was because one man had figured all this out, and had found a way to make "half soles" for tires, that the International Rubber Company was formed. Likewise, the inventive genius of one man resulted, finally, in branches of this company being opened all over the United States.

The International Sales Company, No. 522 West Ninth street, Los Angeles, is the southwestern representative of the parent company, and already has built up a good business. The "half-sole" is merely a thick, new tread, containing plenty of fabric, so made that when an old tire has been smoothed off the "half sole" can be applied quickly. This makes a thicker tire than formerly, really an over-sized tire, and the company gives a guarantee of 3500 miles without a puncture. As a matter of fact, the claim is made that a "half-soled" tire is puncture-proof, or practically so.

MAGAZINE SENT TO LOCAL MOTORISTS.

Auto owners in this city and vicinity were pleasantly surprised to find in their mail this week a copy of the first month's issue of the new motor magazine, "Milestones," with the compliments of a local dealer in auto supplies, and a notice that they had been placed on the subscription list to receive the publication monthly.

"Milestones" is a high-class fiction and pictorial magazine published by the Milestones Publishing Company, and distributed by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, O., for its dealers.

A feature of the first issue is "Gas, Oil and Air," by Ring W. Lardner, one of America's most popular writers of human interest stories. Other features are a newspaper story by Harold Titus, a poem by Edgar Guest, timely war articles, a page of interesting inventions, a page of humor, and several pages of snappy photographs on newsy topics in the popular weekly-magazine style. The publishers promise that the magazine will grow and improve with each issue and soon will be demanded by every auto owner in the territory. The circulation has already passed the 700,000 mark, and will soon be 1,000,000, it is predicted.

AUTOS NOW HAVE "KNOWN VALUES."

"The known value of the present-day automobile has taken all the guesswork out of the purchase of a car," said A. J. Ruth of the Empire Motor Sales Company, local distributors for the popular Empire line.

"The automobile of today is a known value because every standard part has a reputation of its own. That reputation is a matter of common knowledge to the average man interested in automobiles, either as an owner or a prospective owner; he knows what axles, what gears, what bearings he wants; he is more or less familiar with the best carburetors, motors, electric starters and lighting systems, ignition and so on and the most of them have their own opinion as to which is the most desirable—a rear or a cowl gasoline tank.

"The prospective purchaser gauges an automobile today by the parts that are in it. He realizes that if his car has standard parts, he is protected by the guarantee of both the part maker and the car manufacturer; hence, the measuring of the value of an automobile has come to the selection of the standard parts desired and a manufacturer who has had the experience of combining these parts into a perfectly balanced car."

Mr. Ruth reports the sale of a number of cars recently, and says that his company has been enjoying a nice business all along. He feels that conditions locally are going to be better than they have ever been before and that prosperity will assure the sale of a greater number of machines here in Southern California.

FIRST COST—Versus—SECOND COST

Note the Roomy, Comfortable, Luxurious Appearance of the Studebaker "4."

Is a Cheap Car
——Cheap?

Let us consider this question of motor cars in a deliberate, practical "Dun and Bradstreet" sort of a way.

The amount of money you spend for an automobile and its operating expense afterward, represents your investment.

The pleasure and satisfaction you get are your DIVIDENDS.

If you can double—yes, treble—your dividends by adding a few dollars to your investment, THAT'S GOOD BUSINESS!

That's why it is sound judgment to buy a Studebaker "Four" instead of a small cheap car. The first cost is a little higher, but you will get many times the general satisfaction. Here are the features that insure this:

The body is wonderfully comfortable with its adjustable front seats and generously roomy tonneau.

The long three-quarter elliptic springs, together with the deep, genuine leather upholstering, give the superb riding qualities which will enable you to really "smile at miles."

The powerful, efficient forty-horse-power motor will make mountain travel a real pleasure.

The refinement in detail and beautiful appearance will be a continuing source of pride and satisfaction.

A ride in a Studebaker will convince you of these advantages.
It's always a pleasure to demonstrate. Phone us at your convenience, 60439 or Main 3640.

Resigns.

a—It has been the custom to retreat with the bishop to Q3. Instead, it might be well worth experimenting with B-B3, where the bishop would exercise control over Black's queen's wing, the scene of the maneuvers which pave the way for White's subsequent troubles. It is doubtful whether Black in that case would have continued with P-B4.

b—Causing White to lose time in order to retain his KB.

c—In order to prevent Kt-B5, as he did not wish to exchange his QB in case the knight were to seize upon that important point. Moreover, Black would be left with both of his bishops and the preferable position. As it it, the advance weakens the White pawn position somewhat.

d—Very fine play and in Mieses' most forceful style. Among other things, the move forestalled B-K4 on the part of White.

e—To be sure, White might play BxP ch, before capturing the knight, but the ensuing position would not be favorable.

f—19—QxP, QxP, threatening BxP ch.

g—White cannot very well move his KR out of danger, as Black would counter with Kt-Kt5.

h—Carrying out his combination in the proper spirit. From now on it is Black for choice.

i—It is clear that White cannot play KtxKt, as the exchange would bring about a mating position, against which he would be quite helpless. The text move is about all he has at his disposal, because Black threatens KtxKt, followed by K-K4.

j—Much superior to BxR.

k—If B-B6, then White can play RxP.—The Evening Post.

PLACES INSPECTION STAMP ON TIRES.

Motorists will not get the maximum mileage out of their tires, even though all other precautions are given due consideration, until the tires are given the proper amount of inflation, according to the size of the tire, and the load carried, is the declaration of W. D. Newerf, veteran Los Angeles tire distributor.

Newerf is now making practical use of a schedule of proper loads and inflation pressures in his service department, and every customer is given the benefit of its usage. Each tire is tested according to this schedule and the motorist is given advice in tire care by the veteran distributor.

Another feature just inaugurated by Newerf is a stamp placed upon all tire work, which states that it has been inspected and passed upon by him. "It means a lot of individual work for me, but I have the satisfaction of knowing that to the best of my experience of thirteen years in the business, it has been done as I would have it and at the same time it places all responsibility upon me," said Newerf.

NEW YORK IS THIS CITY'S ONLY RIVAL.

Since taking over the distribution of the Mason tire in California and Arizona some time ago, the C. Fred Thompson Tire Company has developed a large volume of business.

In a letter commenting on the good work of the local company, Mr. Mason, head of the Mason company, tells about the work at other points and refers particularly to the New York branch, which has been wonderfully successful in disposing of Mason tires and the only territory that may rightfully outrank Los Angeles as an automobile center.

In addition to having a great many export orders, this branch has already interested several of the large corporations and now has some of the biggest men in the Standard Oil Company using Mason tires, including Herbert Pratt, first vice-president, who has a total of thirty-five cars in his private garage and who is beginning to equip them all with Mason tires.

To determine if the mixture furnished by the carburetor is too weak or too rich, shut off the fuel supply at the tank and open the throttle. If the normal mixture passing through the engine at this particular throttle is too rich, the engine will speed up noticeably as the level in the float chamber is lowered by the exhaustion of the fuel from it, the lowering of the fuel level, of course, awakening the mixture considerably.

Revival of motor car racing on the race track at Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Tex., promises to provide amusement for the people of the two cities and visitors from now on.

Economy runs offer a fertile field for drawing on the imagination. Also an opportunity for drawing on a reserve supply of gasoline.

The OWEN MAGNETIC

Utmost Flexibility

Purchasers of high grade cars have long sought Flexibility of Control—Control that would respond instantaneously and smoothly to the Mood of the Moment, or the demand of the Occasion.

At last it is available.

Not by multiplicity of cylinders with the attending mechanical complexities and rigid transmissions, but with the extreme simplicity of flexible, magnetic power flow of the Owen Magnetic.

No clutch to operate; no clashing, grinding gears to shift; still—an invisible, irresistible force draws you along—like coasting down hill with the power shut off.

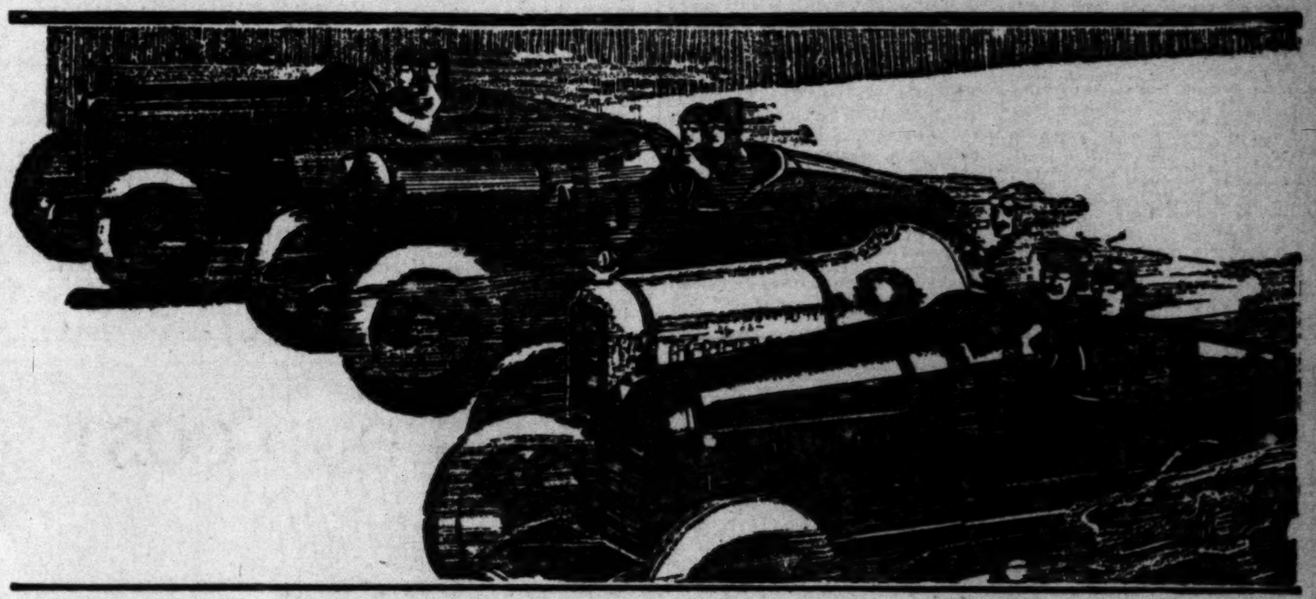
"The Car of a Thousand Speeds"



Hudson Wins at Omaha, Tacoma, Uniontown and Fort Snelling

At Fort Snelling
First in One—Second, Third in Other

In the main 100-mile event at Fort Snelling speedway near Minneapolis, held on July 14, Ira Vail took first place in 1:02:19, defeating one of the fastest fields that has lined up for a speedway race this season. Vail's victory made three first place victories in a row for the Hudsons.

In the 50-mile event the consistency of the Hudson racers was convincingly shown when Mulford finished second and Vail third.

150-Mile Race at Tacoma
First—Third—Fourth

Eleven cars started. Three Hudson Super-Six Specials were entered and all finished. Patterson first — Roades third — Malcolm fourth.

Patterson led at 50 miles and 100 miles and finished a minute and twenty-three seconds ahead of the second car.

Roades and Malcolm each drove Hudson Super-Six Specials which were stock cars they had converted into racers. They are professional drivers who enter and drive their cars independent of factory assistance.

Two Races at Omaha
First in One—Second in Other

Ralph Mulford in a Hudson Super-Six Special averages 101.26 miles an hour in the 150-mile Championship event.

There was a field of 14 starters.

Mulford made one tire change.

In the 50-mile race he finishhed second, 42 seconds behind a Hoskins Special.

Two tire changes in this event cost him first place.

Billy Taylor in a Hudson Super-Six Special finished fifth in both the 50 and 150-mile races.

At Uniontown
First in One—Second in Three

The principal event at the Uniontown (Pa.) meet was run in three heats.

Ira Vail drove a Hudson Super-Six Special. He finished first in the 29-mile heat—second in the 10-mile and second in the 50-mile heats.

A tire change cost him the 50-mile heat by one second.

A dealer's rebuilt Super-Six demonstrator driven by a local Hudson dealer finished 15 seconds behind the winner in the non-professional event. Another rebuilt Hudson finished fourth.

Super-Six Specials Defeat Rival Racers in Championship Events July 4th and 14th—More Proofs of Endurance

Championship Speedway Races again reveal the mighty endurance of the Hudson Super-Six.

In the three July 4th events, Hudson endurance defeated the fastest cars known to racing.

In a field of 28 starters at Cincinnati, Memorial Day, the four Hudson specials finished first in the Free-for-all; Second, Seventh and Ninth in the 250-Mile event.

At Chicago, Ralph Mulford on June 16th established the American Speedway records for 150 miles and for 200 miles at an average of 104 miles per hour.

Made Stock Car Records Last Year

Last year Super-Six stock cars and stock chassis made new and important records for endurance, power and speed. Those were non-competitive tests. They were made against the best times of other cars.

They included the fastest stock chassis mile—the 100-mile stock car record—the one-hour stock car record and the 24-hour stock chassis record. These were officially timed by the American Automobile Association.

Then in addition to these, a seven-passenger Hudson Super-Six Phaeton broke every transcontinental automobile record. It did it both ways in the only double, twice-across-America run ever attempted against time.

All Hudson records are the result of Hudson endurance.

Cars may be built lighter and have more power, weight considered, just as most of the racers are, but none have proved an equal degree of endurance.

That is why Hudsons win.

It is why so many professional race drivers have adopted Hudsons in their speedway races.

In the three July 4th races you will note some of the Hudsons were rebuilt stock cars. They were made suitable for racing because their owners had confidence in them to win prizes.

The cars were entered independent of any factory influence.

Race drivers know that endurance wins. They know they can rely on the Hudson Super-Six to endure.

You, Too, Can Rely on Hudson Endurance

In converting Hudson Super-Six stock cars into racers these men made no change in the principle that accounts for Hudson endurance. They merely made such changes as can be made to any Hudson Super-Six. They did not have to do anything to increase the endurance quality of the cars. That quality is built into every Hudson Super-Six.

You, of course, are not interested in owning a racing car, but when racing reveals a quality so important as that of endurance, as it does with the Hudson Super-Six, then you are interested in its performance.

The speedway shows, in a few miles, weaknesses that it might require thousands of miles of ordinary service to reveal. You are not interested so much in what the performance will be in a car you buy in its first few thousand miles.

You want to know what you can depend upon after the car has seen thousands of miles of service. Look at these records and you will see what you may expect of the Hudson Super-Six.

The speedway test of 150 miles is more trying than thousands of miles you will drive with your car.

You want to know what the car you buy now is likely to cost in maintenance. You want to know how much time it will be in the repair shop after a half season's use. Do not these proofs persuade you to buy a Hudson Super-Six? They should. 37,000 have already bought and they have added to these records their own experience with the Hudson Super-Six.

There are eight body types on the Hudson Super-Six. The Phaeton 7-passenger car sells at $1800 at Los Angeles.

TRIS SPEAKER SECOND TO TY COBB ONCE MORE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 21. — Coming from behind, Walter Cruise of St. Louis has batted into a tie with Ed Roush of Cincinnati for National League honors, unofficial averages released today showing them hitting .331. Roush, playing in 78 games—five less than his rival—has driven out 99 hits for 124 bases, while Cruise has stretched 98 hits for a total of 131 bases. The averages include games of Wednesday.

Leading batters for half of their clubs' games: Roush, Cincinnati, .331; Cruise, St. Louis, .331; Hornsby, St. Louis, .323; Fischer, Pittsburgh, .321; Griffith, Cincinnati, .317; Rariden, New York, .316; Rawlings, Boston, .313; Neale, Cincinnati, .311; Burns, New York, .302; Groh, Cincinnati, .299.

Tris Speaker regained second place in the American League, dispossessing Sisler with an average of .343. Sisler is five points behind. Ty Cobb fell off two points, but is showing the way with .373.

Amos Strunk of Philadelphia is giving Cobb a race for scoring honors, however, the Georgian, with a total of 59, having a lead of one run. Cobb has bagged 120 hits, for a total of 187 bases. In 85 games he has driven out 24 doubles, 17 triples and 3 home runs.

Leading batters for half of their clubs' games: Cobb, Detroit, .373; Speaker, Cleveland, .343; Sisler, St. Louis, .338; Rumler, St. Louis, .327; McInnis, Philadelphia, .315; Baker, New York, .314; Chapman, Cleveland, .310; Heilman, Detroit, .293; C. Milan, Washington, .293; Veach, Detroit, .292.

BOWLING NOTES.

Quite a number of prominent bowlers were drawn in the greatest of all American lotteries. Those whose names are on the honor roll are Andy Mullen, A. C. McCollum, Ray Preder, Harry Marles, "Brick" Wilder, W. A. Brown, Forrest Hershey, Earl Hornbeck, King Chapman and Tim Shafer.

In the summer league at the Majestic alleys, the Wetherly-Kayser team went plumb crazy and shattered all previous league records for high series, bowling over 2954 pins. Those responsible and their score are: Brayton, 911; Phair, 1027; Fisher, 1016. The victims were the Harris & Frank aggregation, who bowled well and rolled up a score that under normal conditions would have won the series. Capt. Abe Cramer says what's the use, when you burn up the drives for 2745 and only win one game. The scores of the losers are: Grant, 785; Cramer, 947; Mackenzie, 1013. That three of the six bowlers knocked over the wood for better than a double century average, tells the story of an excellent exhibition of the tenpins.

Harry Calf opened with the Everwhite team last week, but got off to a bad start.

Vincent Hayes, after six months' absence from the game, dropped into the Majestic and was promptly taken on by "Baron" Kleps, whose specialty is trimming "fish." Vine drew a split in the last frame and the Baron struck out, winning by a nose.

O. J. Forman of Watsonville is in the city for a few days, locating his family for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Meador are spending the week end at Laguna.

W. T. Tupper of San Diego was in the city yesterday.

ANAHEIM TO PLAY FOOTBALL.

Anaheim High School is now sure of placing a football eleven in the league next season, according to Rufus Klawans, who has such things at his finger tips.

One of the familiar sights on Utah's highways has been a banner-bedecked car which goes through the rural districts and small towns in search of army recruits. Sergt. Ben Cherakin was in charge.

BIG LEAGUERS TO BE CALLED.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 21.—Following is a list of the big league ball players caught early in the draft and expected to be called in the first army:

Buck Weaver, third baseman Chicago White Sox.

Joe Jenkins, catcher Chicago White Sox.

Joe Evans, third baseman Cleveland American League.

Leslie Mann, outfielder Chicago Cubs.

Ray Schalk, catcher Chicago White Sox.

Dave Davenport, pitcher St. Louis Browns.

Claude Hendrix, pitcher Chicago Cubs.

Mike Prendergast, pitcher Chicago Cubs.

Max Flack, outfielder Chicago Cubs.

Rowdy Elliott, catcher Chicago Cubs.

Charley Deal, third baseman Chicago Cubs.

"Yassuh," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley. "Talk about doin' yoh bit! I jes' done my two bits."

Angels Fall.

and Jacinto del Calvo, the Cuban flash, pickled the first ball thrown for a triple up against the right-field bleachers. Koerner walked and stole second, but Roy Corhan untied matters by going out on a sharp play, Terry to Fournier.

NOT A CHANCE.

The Angels fought nobly, but didn't get anywhere, as the fat chief had them popping up in the air all through the game. He allowed only three hits and one of these was an infield swat by Terry that was only made a hit by fast legwork.

A peculiar thing happened in the eighth inning, demonstrating that you can't always tell what happened. The first three Seals up in this inning all singled and not a man reached second. Pick singled and was out stealing, Schaller singled and was out trying to make it a double when Meusel made a wonderful throw, and Maisel singled and was out stealing.

ENTER MAG.

In the last of the eighth Maggert got in the game long enough to soil his shirt in a valiant attempt to reach first in advance of one of Roy Corhan's rifle shots. Mag batted for Standridge and Curley Brown undertook to finish up the game.

Curley did so, but not till the Seals had two runs across. Calvo flied to Killifer, Koerner singled and Corhan walked. Baker's long double scored them both. Johnson and Fitzgerald mercifully expired, ending the game.

SECOND GAME.

The second game found the Seraphs still completely bamboozled by the wily redskins. This time Chief Smith wielded the tomahawk and he allowed but one hit more than his esteemed predecessor, the gentleman from Winnebago.

The Seals slipped one run over in the first inning, the same being really enough to win the game, but they figured that Bradley Hogg was a tough guy to beat and scored three more runs later in the game merely to humiliate him for having won nine games in a row.

Old man Fitzgerald, first up, hit a rousing single to right. Charley Pick then whammed one down to Terry and the latter stepped on his own hand in attempting to field it. Fitz thought he would go to third, then changed his mind and decided to go back to second. While he was exhausting himself by his rapid thinking Terry touched him out.

Pick then stole second and came galloping home when Biff Schaller soused one to center for a single. Maisel hit a rather deep fly which Killifer trapped and Boles shot Schaller down as he attempted to steal second.

TWO MORE.

In the sixth inning the Seals slipped a couple more over the platter, using three hits in so doing. The feature of this inning was a long throw by Meusel from right field. He caught a fly in deep right with Red McKee roosting on third and his throw home sailed completely over Walter Boles's head and was caught near the bleachers by Hogg.

Just to make things certain the Seals slid another one across in the ninth inning. The four Angel hits were scattered over four innings and while the Chief was fairly liberal with walks and two men got on through errors he always tightened up in the pinches and kept the Seraphs away from the plate. The scores:

DETOURS NECESSARY IN VISALIA REGION.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, July 19.—The Visalia-Exeter and the Visalia-Dinuba sections of the county highways, as ordinarily traveled by automobilists, have been closed to traffic during the construction of the new paved roads which are now under construction.

Detours from Exeter, Visalia and Dinuba, over roads which up to the present time have remained in fair condition are indicated by signs which have been placed by the automobile associations.

DUCKS WIN FUNNY GAME FROM VERNON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 21.—Portland defeated Vernon in a game of many varied features. Mitchell, subbing in right field, put the ball over the fence. Snodgrass stole home on James in the fourth. Williams's homer in the fourth and in the sixth with none out and Hovlik on third, Vaughn fouled to Fisher, who threw to Pinelli. America's Only Smart Utility Sport Model

This is the only car built in America today that combines the smartness of the sport model with economy and utility.

It is a strikingly smart, stylish car, entirely original-looking with a design all its own.

Extreme measures have been taken to give it a most exquisite finish in a rich gray, trimmed with black enamel and brightened with an occasional flash of polished nickel.

A fashionable dash of color is added to its striking lines by the red wire wheels.

The individual front seats, with aisleway between, are adjustable forward or back, to suit the reach of the driver and his companion.

The rear seat is roomy for two. Front and back, four large people ride sociably in real comfort.

It has four-inch tires and cantilever rear springs—buoyant riding!

The motor is powerful, it is surprisingly economical in the use of gasoline as compared with other cars of similar size.

Let us show you the car now.

Here are the Results of the Sworn-to Demonstrations of Franklin Thrift as Tested out all over the United States.

LAST Friday, Franklin dealers everywhere were doing the same thing—measuring Franklin thrift by mileage on a single gallon of commercial gasoline. Our own record was 44.8 miles per gallon.

Yesterday, we got a telegram from the Franklin factory, announcing the above national average, confirmed by affidavits of prominent men in all localities where the tests were made.

In New Haven, Conn., a stock Franklin covered 82.8 miles on a single gallon of gasoline. That was the highest mileage and a new world's record.

40.3 miles on a single gallon—the average of 179 stock Franklin cars, the ENTIRE number participating in this nation-wide demonstration.

Here you have the Franklin standard of thrift.

Think of the roads, the climate, the weather, all of these cars experienced! Then, think of the significance of such a nation-wide test.

It means, as a car for thrift, the Franklin stands alone among all fine automobiles.

Only a fine car can show such results.

What's Back of it All

Only by the elimination of 177 heavy and troublesome water-cooling parts and complicated mechanism everywhere, can gasoline-consuming friction and drag, wear and tear, be minimized.

Only scientific-light-weight construction and fine materials, rightly distributed, allow a car to put a stop to fuel waste.

More than Miles per Gallon

This easy running of the Franklin means efficiency—waste cutting—all along the line.

Take tires—Franklin owners report an average of over 10,000 miles in a five-year period. Easy, buoyant, gasoline-saving operation is responsible for this record.

Depreciation—Find a used Franklin for sale. Compare the Franklin re-sale price with the prices other fine used-cars bring, in proportion to their first cost. If gasoline is lasting, the car is long-lived. The same wearing drag that boosts the gasoline bill also boosts the repair bill.

Whenever you come to the conclusion that the next fine car that you buy should deliver a dollar's worth of efficiency for every dollar you invest, then you are ready to investigate the Franklin.

"In carrying out these plans it is not the intention of the conference to in any way lower its standards as laid down in the present rules. Freshmen will not be used in colleges where there are more than 100 men in the three upper classes and games will not be arranged between members of the conference and other colleges not in the conference unless these colleges have standards meting the approval of the conference.

"At the present time no members of the conference have completed arrangements for outside games, either with the University of Southern California or with other colleges outside the conference. It is possible, however, that if proper arrangements can be made, a triangle agreement will be drawn up by the University of Southern California, Occidental and Pomona Colleges, whereby games will be played between U.S.C. and these two colleges. It will be necessary, however, that such an agreement be strictly in accordance with the rules of the Southern California Intercollegiate Conference, except that under proper arrangement U.S.C. will be permitted to play members of professional schools who meet the requirements of the conference rules.

"With regard to the military training in the conference colleges, it is definitely known that Throop College of Technology will continue the reserve officers' training course, engineers, as conducted last year, and it is quite probable that similar arrangements will be carried out at Pomona and Occidental."

Six Striking Colors to Choose From This Month

Six striking Jordan color plans—each distinctive and original—yet each in perfect taste. If you order a Jordan this month you may choose one of these colors.

Liberty Blue—dark, but not like the thousand and one other "dark" cars. Optional on Touring Car, Sport Model or Sport Roadster.

Pershing Grey—another Jordan color success—brand new. Optional on either Touring Car or Sport Model.

Venetian Green—conservative—but in keeping with Jordan snap and style. Optional on all Jordan Cars.

Jordan Maroon—very rich and dignified. Optional on Sport Model or Touring Car.

Mercedes Red—the most appropriate color in the world for the smart, powerful Jordan Sport Roadster.

Italian Tan—instantly attracting attention—but not objectionably conspicuous. Furnished on Sport Model only.

Get away from the dull monotonous sameness of the thousands of other cars. Express your taste in the finish of your car. Be different. Drive a Jordan.

But get your order in today. For these special color jobs will be delivered in the same rotation as orders are received.

INSPECT AVALON SITUATION TODAY.

STATE COMMISSIONERS GUESTS OF TUNA CLUB HEAD.

Joel Coxe will Show Visitors Why Anti-seining Legislation Should be Enforced — According to Frank Newbert of Sacramento Difficulties will End Friday.

Traveling in the Kickapoo, the fast cruiser belonging to Joel Coxe, president of the Catalina Tuna Club, California's Fish and Game Commissioners are investigating the Catalina poaching situation today.

The commissioners are here for many reasons, but to the head of the Tuna Club none is so vital as the problem of persistent violations of the anti-seining law by foreign fishermen in channel waters. According to Frank Newbert, chief of the State board, the new seining law to go in effect Friday will have it over present legislation inasmuch as according to the new statue the possession of a seining net is a misdemeanor.

Tomorrow the commissioners will inspect the proposed extension of egg-taking and hatching facilities in Bear Valley, and on Tuesday will leave for Independence to take up golden trout matters.

Five Hundred Indian Languages.

[Popular Science Monthly for August:] Before you write the government or the Smithsonian Institution and request it to send you the Indian name for this or that thing, bear in mind that there is no one American Indian language. On the contrary, there are no less than one thousand languages in the two Americas and practically five hundred distinct Indian languages north of Mexico. Thus, it is impossible to give the Indian word for any English equivalent. If you do receive an answer to your inquiry, the word given is probably chosen from the language of the tribe which once inhabited the particular part of the country from which the request comes.

The Misunderstood Shark.

There seems to be some misunderstanding concerning the way in which sharks attack their victims. Some claim that they turn over as they attack, so as to bite more readily with their receding under-jaw. Others claim, according to the Popular Science Monthly for August, that they attack head-on, swimming to their victim in a straight line. According to J. E. Williamson, whose work in photographing the shark under water for the motion-picture plays "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" and "The Submarine Eye" has been notably successful, the "head-on" description of attack is the correct one.

"I can prove by my pictures that a shark does not turn over to bite," states Mr. Williamson. "If a shark wants to pick up anything from the bottom of the sea he goes right down to it as a cat pounces on a bone and picks it up. A shark does not turn over to bite any more than any other fish does."

Not the whale that swallowed Jonah,

But this fellow looks as though he might have gotten away with a whole regiment of Jonahs had he so desired. This is the 422-pound broadbill swordfish landed by A. C. Parsons of San Francisco on Friday. It is the largest fish of this variety ever caught and was only landed after a fight of over six hours. The monster towed the boat fifteen miles during that time and made repeated attempts to ram the angler and boatman.

MANY ATHLETES FOUND AMONG ARMY PROSPECTS.

Athletes by the dozen are found among those likely to go in the first draft for the new United States Army. Men of international prominence, such as Maurice McLaughlin, the tennis player; Charley Barker, the boxer; Frank Verbeck, Omar Toft, Tony Janette and Glover Ruckstell, race drivers, and Zeb Terry and Carl Sawyer, the ball players, are among those who will present themselves for the first draft.

Following is a partial list of those drawn early and liable to be taken in the first quota. They are classified according to the sports in which they won fame:

Football—Pete Varcoe, Occidental; Louis Cass, Stanford; Tom Sanborn, Stanford; Jack Hunsaker, L. A. High; "Pencil" Marks, Long Beach; Porge Marshall, U.S.C.; Harold Landreth, Occidental; Oliver Weed, Redlands; Red Crites, Whittier; B. H. Douglass, Whittier; Pete Werner, U.S.C.; Rupert Turnbull, Yale; Hugh McNary, Occidental; Karl Haney, U.S.C.; Frank Toolan, U.S.C.; Fred Brooks, California; Voyle Brennan, Pomona; De Roy Gregg, Whittier; H. O. Robbins, Whittier; Al Ralphs, Occidental; Paul Nourse, L. A. High; Len Livernash, U.S.C.

Track and field—Don Dawson, Stanford; Art Coover, Polytechnic; Russell French, L. A. High; Carl Earl, U.S.C.; Wayne Fisher, L. A. High; Earl McDermott, Occidental; Bob Wilson, L. A. High; Dick Stone, U.S.C.; Monroe Walton, U.S.C.; George Brown, Glendale; Birdie Keesling, Pomona; Fred McLain, Occidental; O. Redman, California; Karl Nippe, Walker.

Swimming—Billy Logg, Bimini; Frank Holborow, professional; Art Goldsmith, Stanford; Jimmy Leech, Bimini; Ike Messenger, U.S.C.

Automobiles—E. V. Armstrong, Frank Verbeck, Tony Janette, Omar Toft, Kenny Nikrent, Glover Ruckstell.

Boxing—Charley Barker, lightweight; Joe Nieto, featherweight.

Tennis—Herb Hahn, Stanford; Jimmy Conaty, Sunset; Forrest Cornett, Columbia; Charles Tidball, Occidental; Maurice McLaughlin, former national champion; Walker Keen, L. A. High; Harold Herliky, Pasadena; Erle Barker, California.

Wrestling—Gus Kervaras.

High Up!

NEW RESORT FOR MOUNTAIN TOP.

"BEAR LAKE TAVERN" WILL OPEN IN NOVEMBER.

Plans Have been Completed and Construction Work has Begun on Seventy - five - thousand - dollar Lodge on "Metcalf Bay"—Hostelry to Keep Open Year Round.

Big Bear Lake is to have a new resort. Plans have been completed and construction work has begun on a $75,000 hotel to stand on the fringe of the lake, fronting on and overlooking "Metcalf Bay," and adjoining what is known as "Windy Point." "Big Bear Lake Tavern" is the name given to the hostelry. When complete, the structure will accommodate 300 guests, of both the winter and summer variety, for the new tavern is to be an all-year-around rendezvous.

The opening will take place about November 1, when the tavern will act as host to ninety moving picture folks, who are to spend fourteen weeks in the San Bernardino Mountains filming the winter scenes of nearly a score of photoplays.

Packed snow has always been a barrier in the Bear Lake regions, but F. C. Percival of the Big Bear Lake Tavern Company, is contracting for a gasoline tractor to clear the road during the winter months.

If this feat is accomplished, there is every reason to believe that Big Bear can become the winter haven that its geography and facilities suggest.

A Modest Request.

Cadillac 8

Fourth Year — Fiftieth Thousand
New Model Now En Route

It is with much pleasure that we announce the newest Cadillac Eight creation, the type 57.

The first shipment is now en route and will be here for exhibition and demonstration not later than August 1st.

The new Cadillac adds honor to a long line of superior motor cars.

We believe it approaches more closely to real greatness than any motor car the world has yet produced.

Three years of the most pronounced success known to builders of quality cars has placed the Cadillac in the enviable position where little can be said in announcing a new model that could be more expressive of the predominate position of this eight than to simply announce that it is an improved Cadillac.

For three years the Cadillac has concentrated on the one type—the V-type eight-cylinder. In all that time Cadillac engineers have devoted their energies and their skill to the perfection of a principle and the raising of a standard.

The Cadillac "8" now enters its fourth year and fiftieth thousand.

This mean that buyers of the type 57 profit immensely from all that have gone before.

In appearance the car is slightly changed. The wheels are smaller, the body is lower and throughout there is a noticeable refinement of finish and appointments.

You have enthused over Cadillacs of former years.

Your enthusiasm will reach even greater heights when you view this new Cadillac and for the first time revel in its superlative smoothness and masterly power.

Ten days at the longest should bring the new model to our salesroom. Your inspection is most cordially invited.

The Cadillac Type-57 Chassis will be available with the following body styles: Standard Seven-Passenger Car, Five-Passenger Phaeton, Two-Passenger Roadster with Rumble Seat, Four-Passenger Convertible Victoria, Five-Passenger Brougham, Four-Passenger Town Limousine and Town Landaulet, Seven-Passenger Limousine, Landaulet and Imperial.

Dear Smithey

I got your letter and was glad to hear from you again. I am glad you joined the army, it will do you good. It doesn't matter whether you get killed or not, Smithy. I remember on several occasions when it seemed as though you would be killed and I think it would be better if you had.

Sincerely Yours, Eddie Loomis

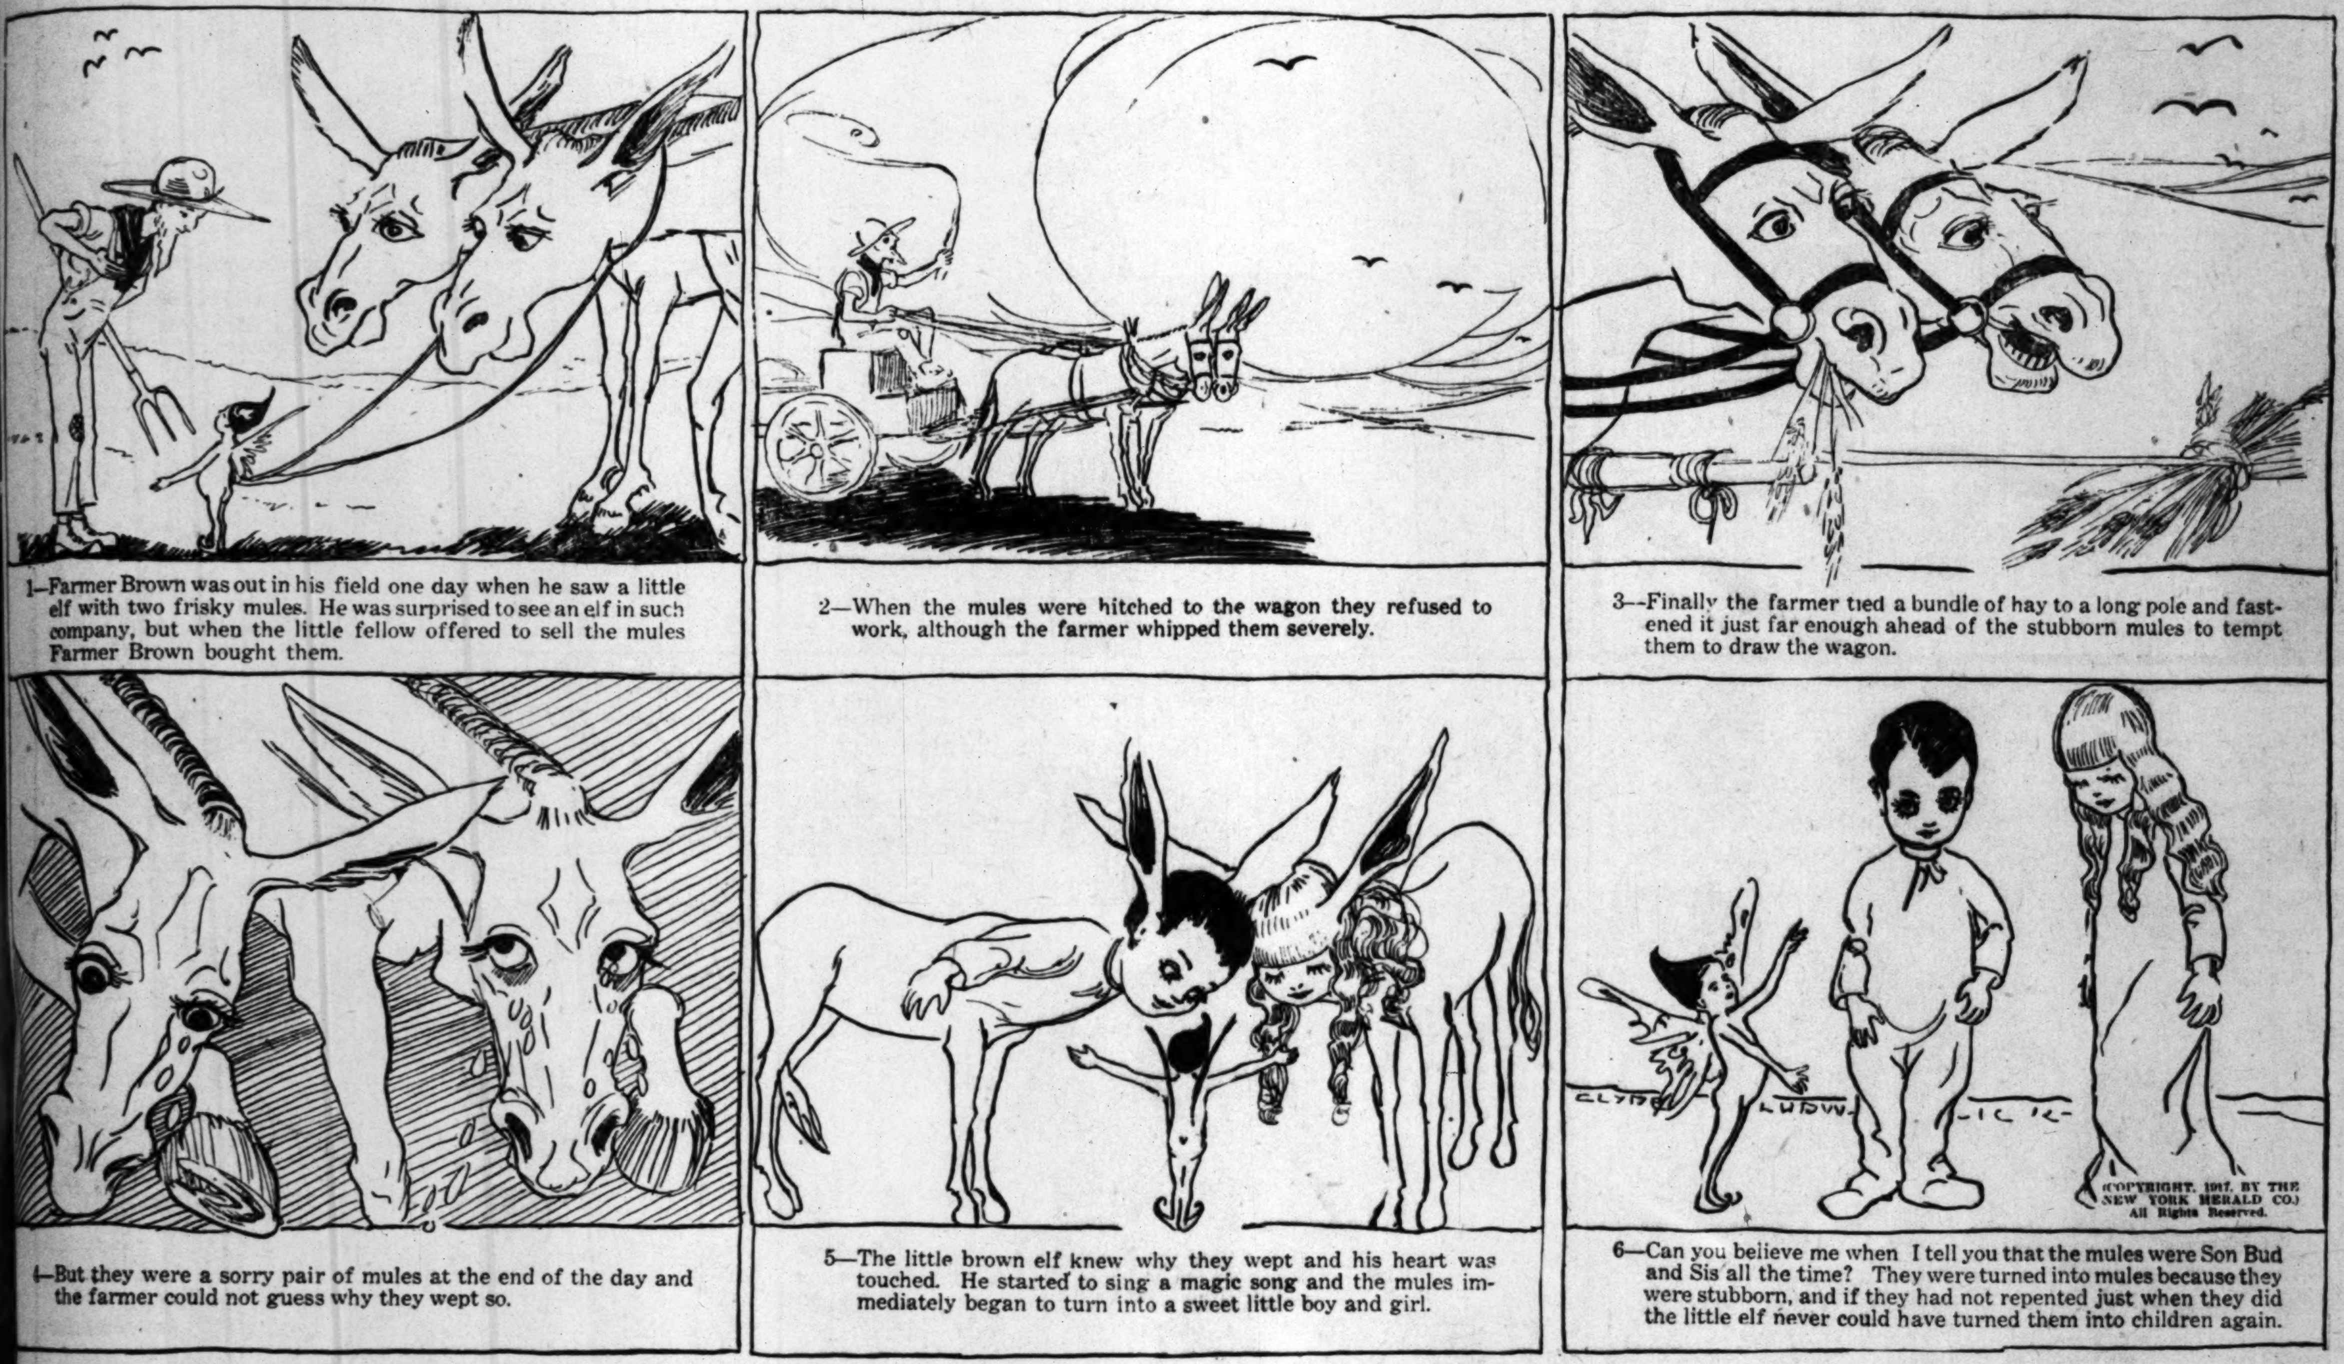
ONCE UPON A TIME

BY CLYDE LUDWICK

THE CHILDREN ARE STUBBORN



1—Farmer Brown was out in his field one day when he saw a little elf with two frisky mules. He was surprised to see an elf in such company, but when the little fellow offered to sell the mules Farmer Brown bought them.

2—When the mules were hitched to the wagon they refused to work, although the farmer whipped them severely.

3—Finally the farmer tied a bundle of hay to a long pole and fastened it just far enough ahead of the stubborn mules to tempt them to draw the wagon.

4—But they were a sorry pair of mules at the end of the day and the farmer could not guess why they wept so.

5—The little brown elf knew why they wept and his heart was touched. He started to sing a magic song and the mules immediately began to turn into a sweet little boy and girl.

6—Can you believe me when I tell you that the mules were Son Bud and Sis all the time? They were turned into mules because they were stubborn, and if they had not repented just when they did the little elf never could have turned them into children again.

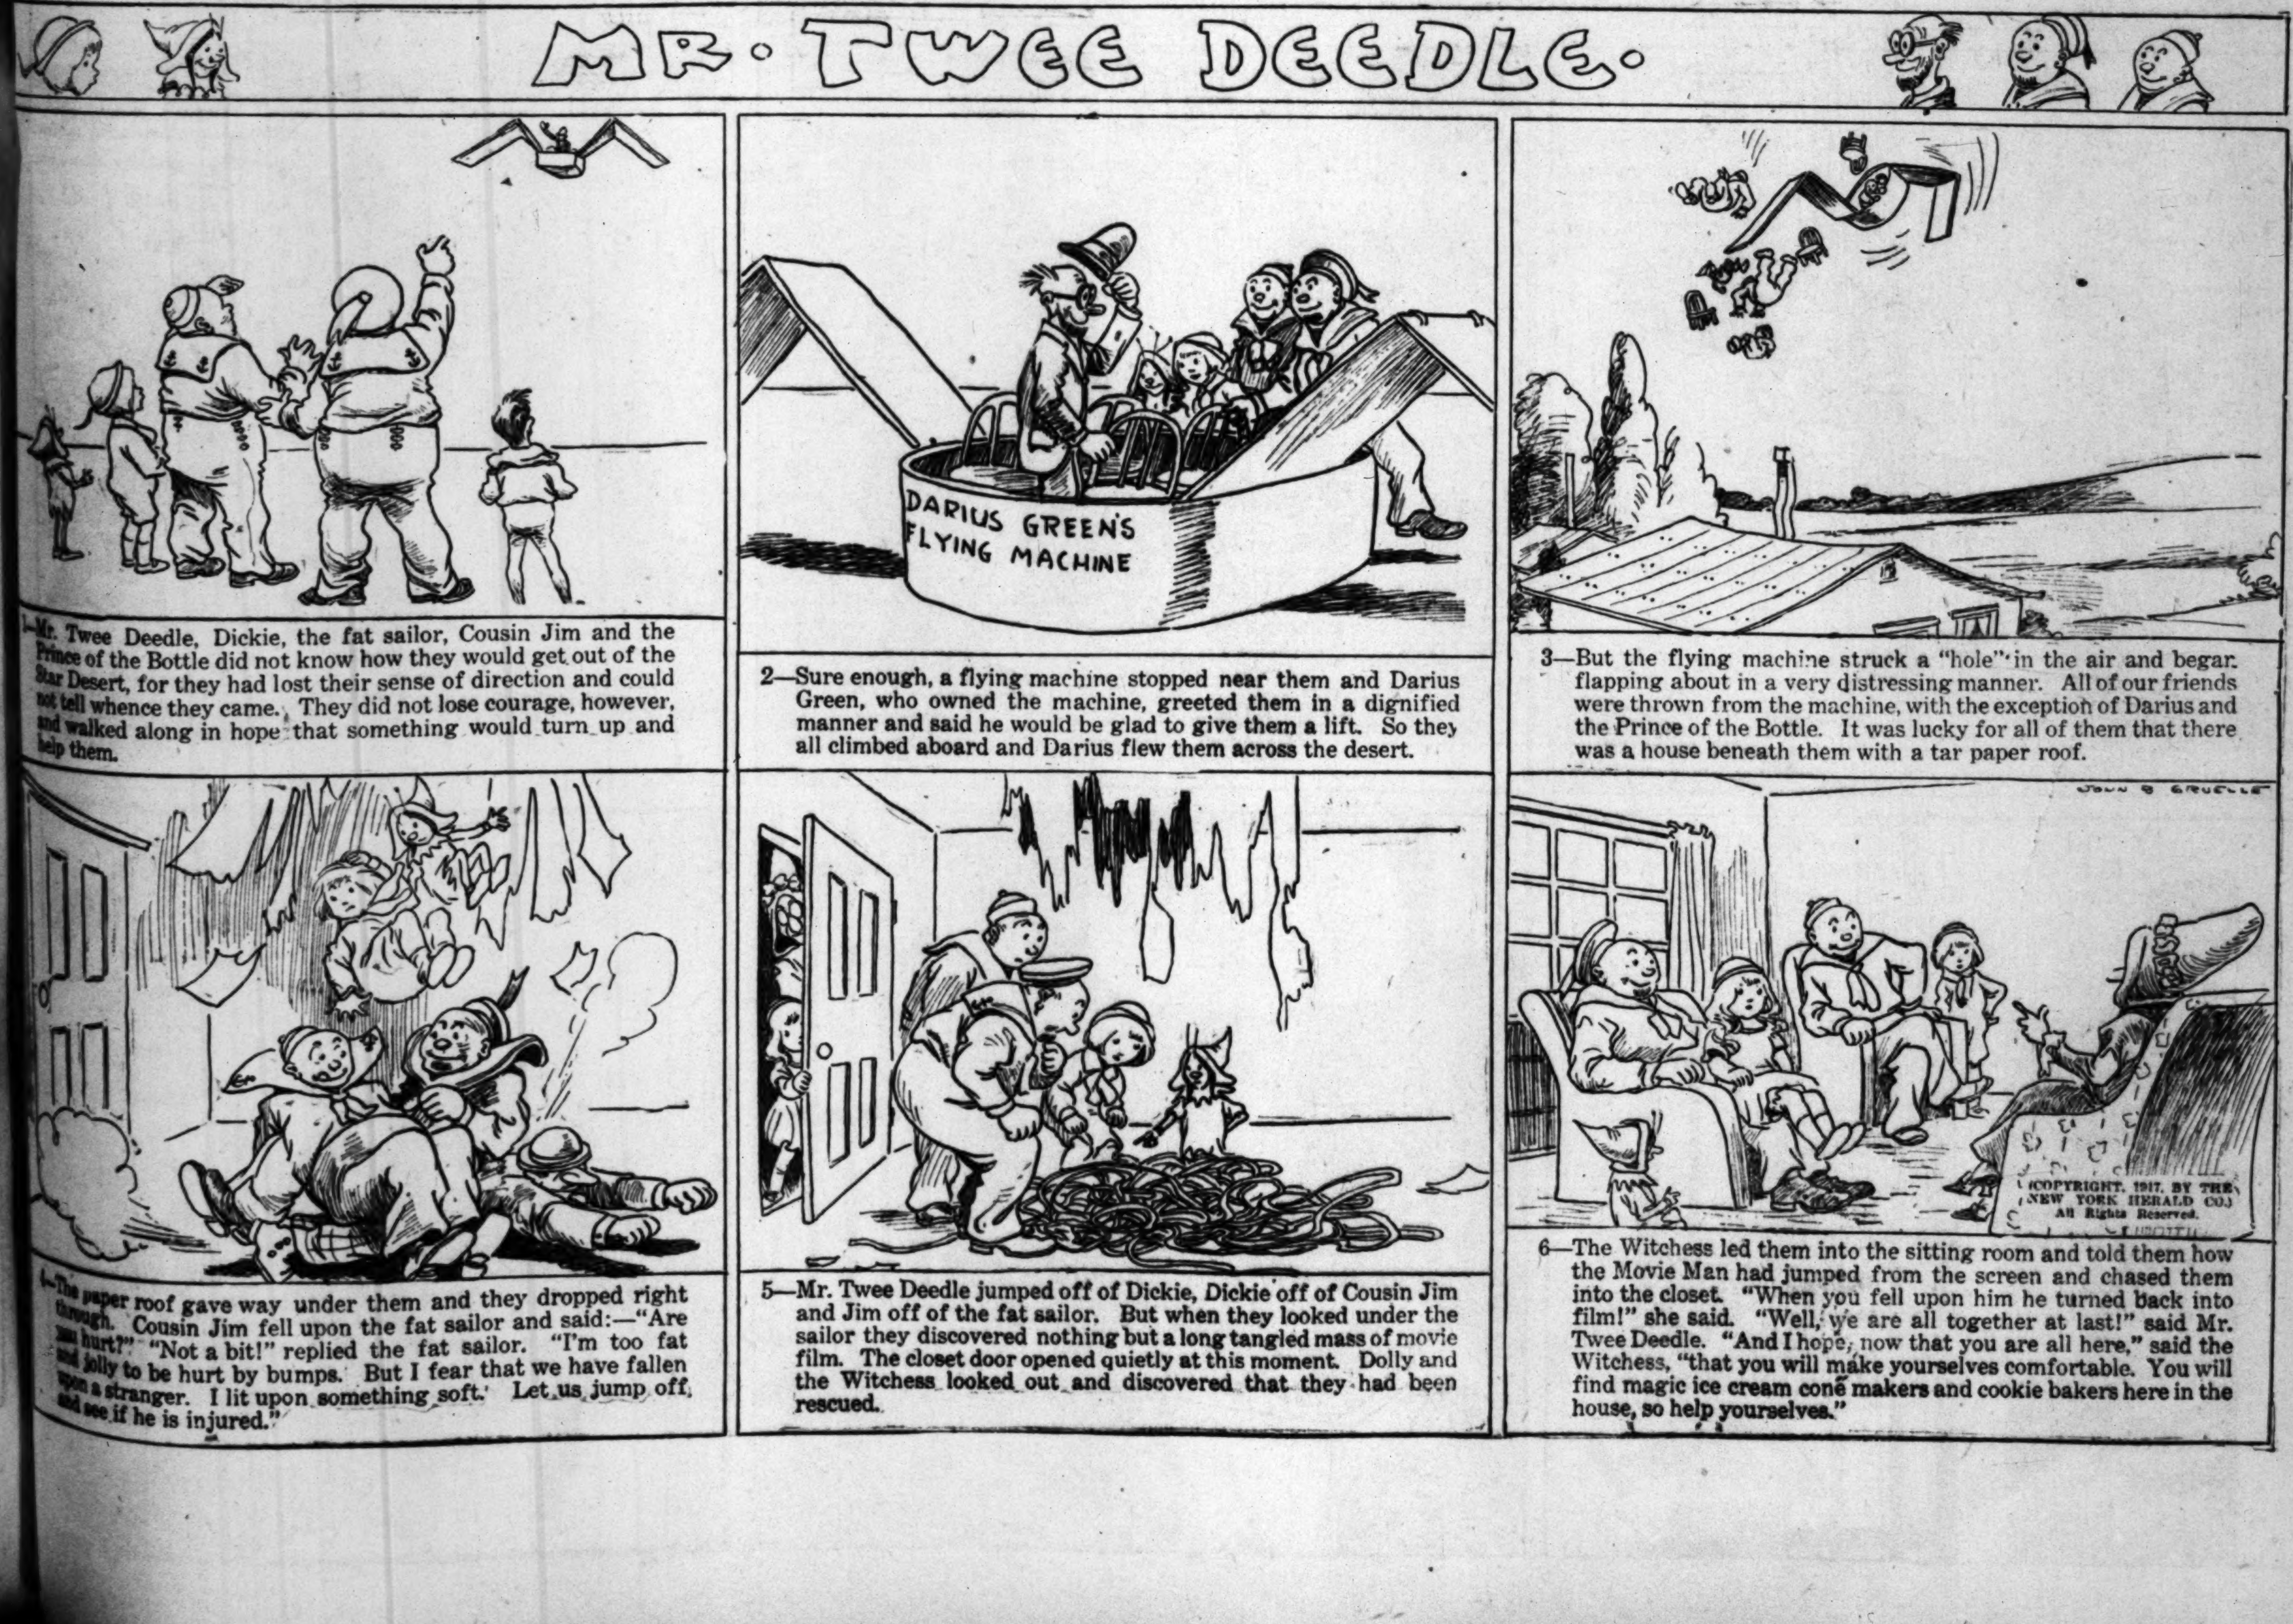
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.



1—Mr. Twee Deedle, Dickie, the fat sailor, Cousin Jim and the Prince of the Bottle did not know how they would get out of the Star Desert, for they had lost their sense of direction and could not tell whence they came. They did not lose courage, however, and walked along in hope that something would turn up and help them.

2—Sure enough, a flying machine stopped near them and Darius Green, who owned the machine, greeted them in a dignified manner and said he would be glad to give them a lift. So they all climbed aboard and Darius flew them across the desert.

3—But the flying machine struck a "hole" in the air and began flapping about in a very distressing manner. All of our friends were thrown from the machine, with the exception of Darius and the Prince of the Bottle. It was lucky for all of them that there was a house beneath them with a tar paper roof.

4—The paper roof gave way under them and they dropped right through. Cousin Jim fell upon the fat sailor and said:—"Are you hurt?" "Not a bit!" replied the fat sailor. "I'm too fat and jolly to be hurt by bumps. But I fear that we have fallen upon a stranger. I lit upon something soft. Let us jump off and see if he is injured."

5—Mr. Twee Deedle jumped off of Dickie, Dickie off of Cousin Jim and Jim off of the fat sailor. But when they looked under the sailor they discovered nothing but a long tangled mass of movie film. The closet door opened quietly at this moment. Dolly and the Witchess looked out and discovered that they had been rescued.

6—The Witchess led them into the sitting room and told them how the Movie Man had jumped from the screen and chased them into the closet. "When you fell upon him he turned back into film!" she said. "Well, we are all together at last!" said Mr. Twee Deedle. "And I hope, now that you are all here," said the Witchess, "that you will make yourselves comfortable. You will find magic ice cream cone makers and cookie bakers here in the house, so help yourselves."

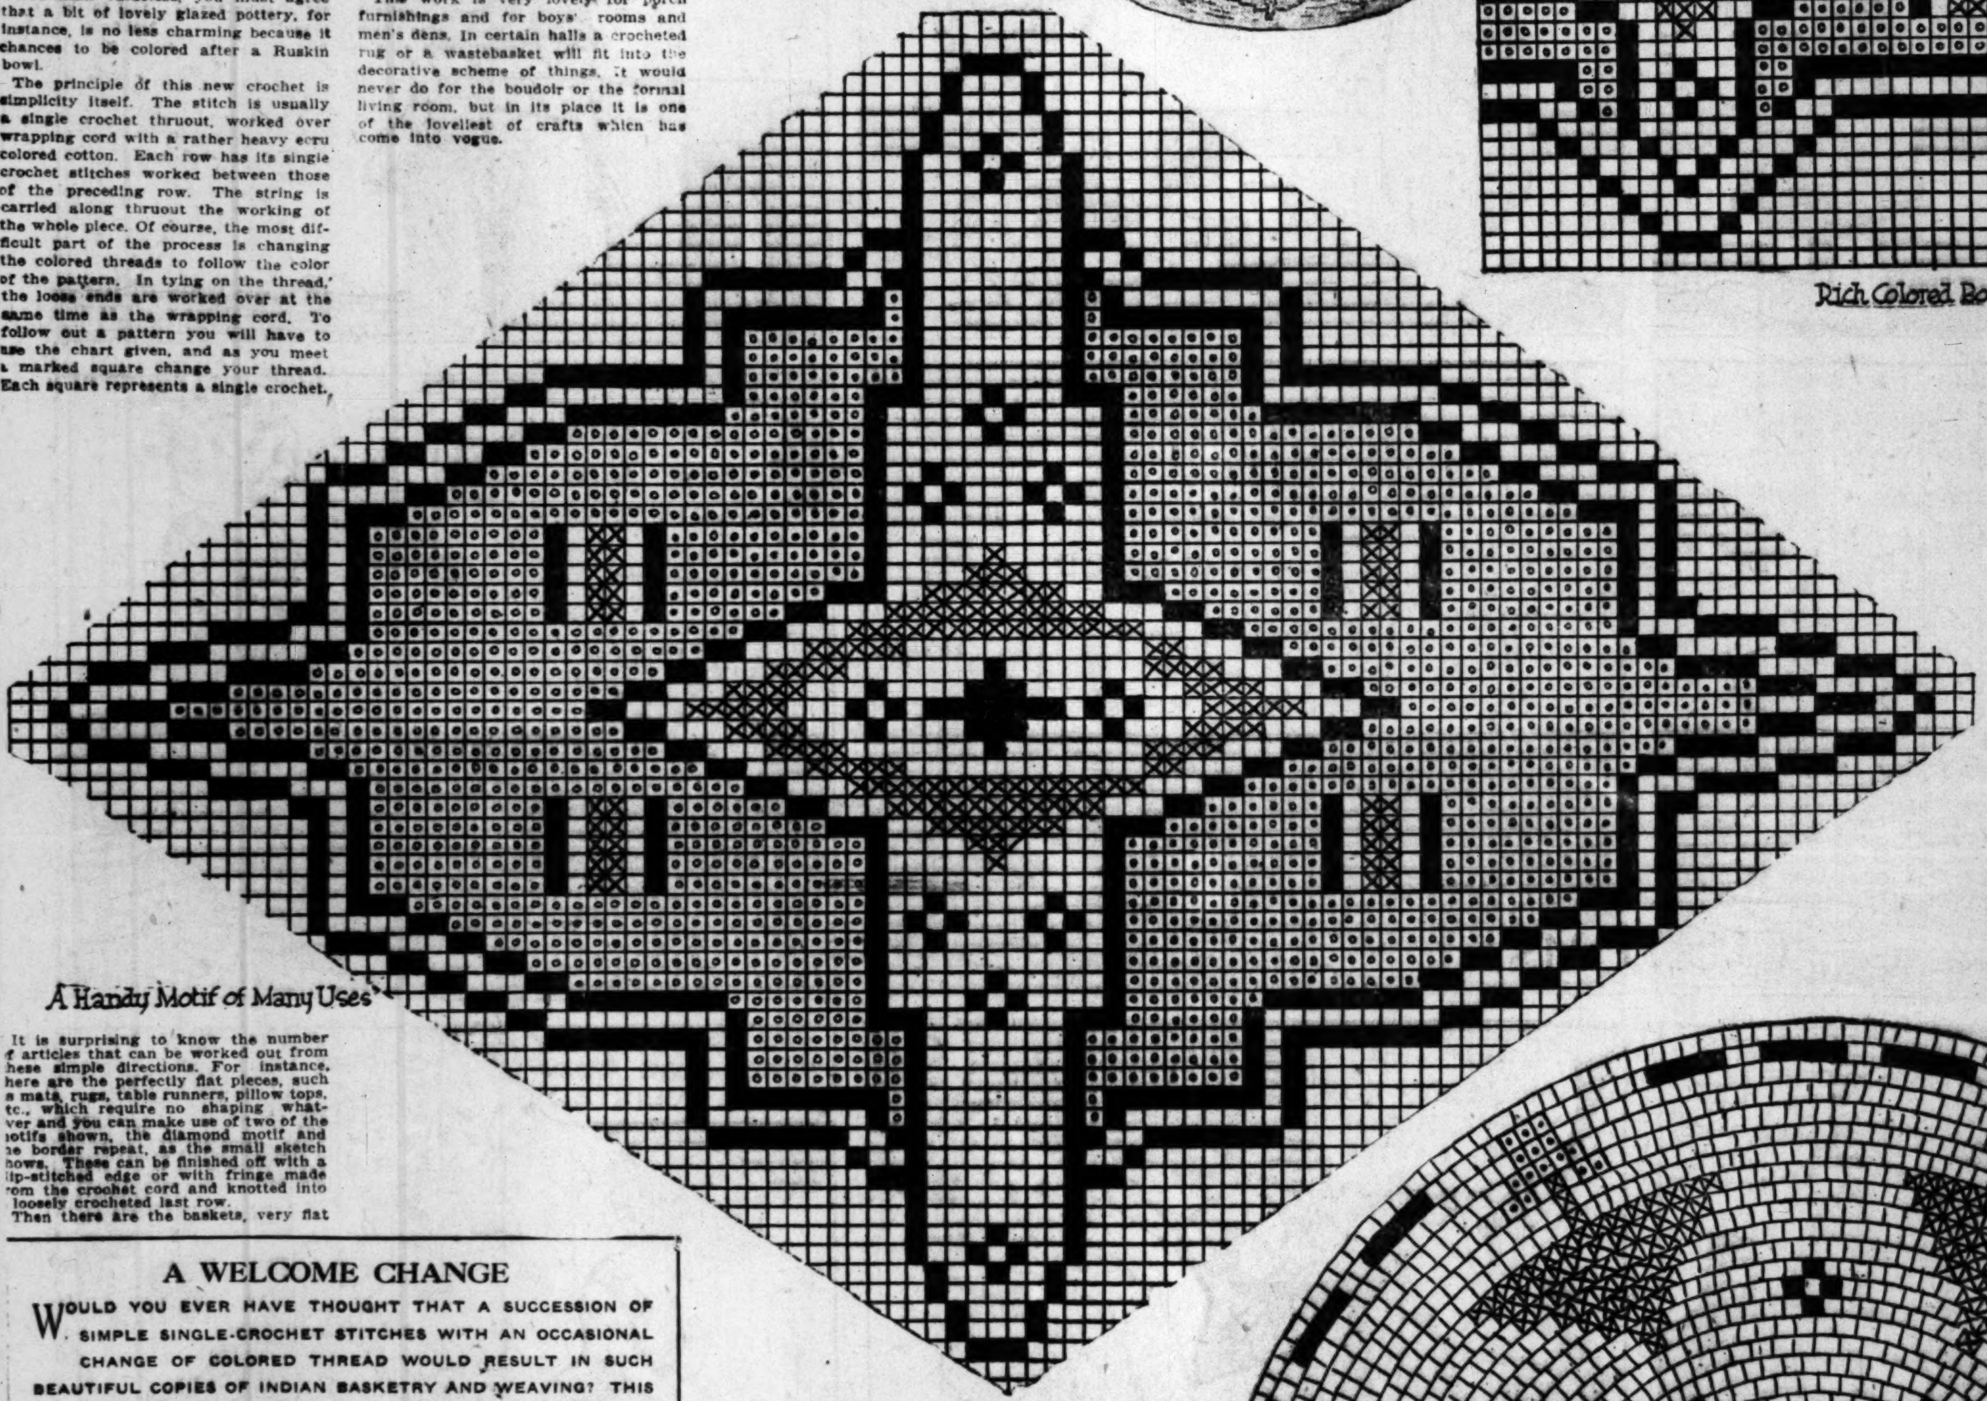
FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

BY ADELAIDE BYRD

INDIAN CROCHET—A NEW AMERICAN ART

ARE you getting tired of cubist patternings or oriental splashes of color in your needlework? Of course, you realize the artistic value of both, but maybe you want something new just for variety? Then, by all means, get acquainted with a new art or craft, whichever you want to call it. It takes the motifs of the American Indians for its designs and works them out in crochet stitches and the original rich colorings of the patterns for baskets and other objects to imitate the famous Indian basketry and pottery. If you put side by side a woven Indian basket, and then one of these new crocheted affairs, you can scarcely tell the difference, and the decorators will tell you that any imitation is worse than valueless, you must agree that a bit of lovely glazed pottery, for instance, is no less charming because it chances to be colored after a Ruskin bowl.

The principle of this new crochet is simplicity itself. The stitch is usually a single crochet thruout, worked over wrapping cord with a rather heavy ecru colored cotton. Each row has its single crochet stitches worked between those of the preceding row. The string is carried along thruout the working of the whole piece. Of course, the most difficult part of the process is changing the colored threads to follow the color of the pattern. In tying on the thread, the loose ends are worked over at the same time as the wrapping cord. To follow out a pattern you will have to use the chart given, and as you meet a marked square change your thread. Each square represents a single crochet.



A Handy Motif of Many Uses

BLACK ■ BUFF ▣
GREEN ☒ BROWN ▣

It is surprising to know the number of articles that can be worked out from these simple directions. For instance, there are the perfectly flat pieces, such as mats, rugs, table runners, pillow tops, etc., which require no shaping whatever and you can make use of two of the motifs shown, the diamond motif and the border repeat, as the small sketch shows. These can be finished off with a slip-stitched edge or with fringe made from the crochet cord and knotted into a loosely crocheted last row.

Then there are the baskets, very flat baskets, with shallow sides and inviting handles, for which the round motif would make an excellent bottom; when it is time to add the sides, the work is merely turned and the single crochets added from the inner side, as it were. In making any round foundation it is necessary to make a loop of the foundation cord and fill this with single crochets as a start, increasing on each succeeding row enough to make the piece lie perfectly flat or cup up into the shape desired. One can have sandwich baskets, waste baskets, sewing baskets, market baskets, sets of table mats, in fact everything which one could find in Indian basketry or weaving. To make handles for the baskets, several strands of coarser cord are required.

This work is very lovely for porch furnishings and for boys' rooms and men's dens. In certain halls a crocheted rug or a wastebasket will fit into the decorative scheme of things. It would never do for the boudoir or the formal living room, but in its place it is one of the loveliest of crafts which has come into vogue.

A WELCOME CHANGE

WOULD YOU EVER HAVE THOUGHT THAT A SUCCESSION OF SIMPLE SINGLE-CROCHET STITCHES WITH AN OCCASIONAL CHANGE OF COLORED THREAD WOULD RESULT IN SUCH BEAUTIFUL COPIES OF INDIAN BASKETRY AND WEAVING? THIS IS THE WHOLE STORY OF A NEW ART WHICH HAS APPEARED ON THE NEEDLEWORK HORIZON. YOU CAN MAKE ITS ACQUAINTANCE ON THIS PAGE TODAY.

To the Smallest Detail

THERE are many persons who do not approve of wearing mourning, and then again there are others who sanction it and even wear it at the propitious time, but who do not wear it properly—that is, they are not mindful of the little details that make for proper mourning. They may wear black frocks and black hats, but they don't hesitate at all to carry a gold-handled umbrella or a colorful knitting bag, and these are only a few of the errors they make. The woman who knows how to wear mourning presents a very attractive picture. The other day a woman came into a doctor's office and every one present recognized her good judgment in selecting her mourning costume. Altho the day was warm she looked particularly cool and comfortable. She wore a black Georgette crepe frock over a thin white china silk lining. Her hat corresponded with her dress, being black crepe over white with a wired bow of black velet ribbon at the side front. To while away the minutes she had brought her knitting—every woman who knows how is knitting something for the boys fighting for democracy. But it wasn't the knitting that attracted attention. It was the bag in which she carried her work that caught the eye. This was made of black lusterless satin and was lined with white satin. On the front was embroidered a small design in dull white beads. Her outfit showed that she used discretion in selecting her costume and accessories, even to the smallest detail. Oh, yes, the dainty white handkerchief she carried was hemstitched in black. One doesn't need heaps of money to show good taste in her mourning attire. Good judgment is the biggest essential.

A Different Touch

EVERYBODY is knitting sweaters so that it takes some little ingenuity to accomplish a sweater which looks different from every one else's in the knitting class. One excellent way to accomplish this end is to use cross-stitch in wool on the collar corners. As most of the sweaters made have a contrasting collar and cuffs, either of plain wool or of angora, it is an easy matter to bring out the conventional cross-stitch design with the colored wool of the sweater. A not too conspicuous pattern should be chosen, because it is not intended to be showy, only a finishing touch. Conventional designs are best. The stitches of the wool are used as a guide in the cross-stitching.

The Long Stitch

IT IS quite noticeable that things are being made as easy as possible for the needlewoman, and particularly for the novice. The vogue for hand embroidery still is strong and it is no doubt because of this fact that fashion has said that the single long stitch should be used more frequently than any other so that one can get the desired effect without spending too much time on the work.

One place where the long stitch is conspicuous is on the new fabric hats. A very stunning blue Georgette crepe model has the crown decorated with long stitches of heavy white floss. The stitches do not bring out any particular design, instead they seem to be placed hit or miss, but the result is extremely pleasing.

As for the flowers that can be brought out in the long stitch there are asters, thousand flowers, chrysanthemums, daisies and a number of other plants that will suggest themselves as you grow enthusiastic in the idea.

The vogue is a splendid one for adding an individual touch to a readymade frock or blouse. In placing the stitches do not draw them tight, and yet do not have them too loose. Strike a happy medium so that each stitch lies perfectly flat and does not pull.

Unique Idea for the Wedding Cake

NO MATTER how much in love with the man of the hour the prospective bride may be, she is never too full of sentiment to ignore a new idea in serving the wedding cake. The woman who is contemplating marriage in the very near future should not fail to consider the latest novelty in individual boxes for the wedding cake. Each box is of triangular shape and looks just like a single portion of cake. Twelve of them are arranged with their points toward the center so that in a mass they look like a layer cake. On every box there is a perky bow of ribbon. The ribbon can be chosen to fit in with the color scheme used for the wedding decorations. Surely this is a pleasant change from the little square boxes with which every one is familiar.

Underwear Easily Made

FOR the girl who is planning her trousseau, or the woman who is going away and is preparing her summer wardrobe, and would like to add a very attractive nightgown or chemise in a hurry, the problem is solved. Of course handmade underclothes are always a delight, and when they can be made practical, too, they have an added charm. A very attractive nightdress and one which no woman need worry about attempting can be made very easily at home.

First, one must choose a suitable material—silk-muslin, batiste or nainsook are dsirable, but, if one can afford it, crepe de chine or washable satin are preferable. Colored underwear is very popular, and pink is certainly the color most in demand. Three yards of 36-inch-wide material are required. No pattern is necessary as the nightgown is sleeveless, held in place by straps over the shoulders, and slips on over the head. Cut the material in half, lay both lengths together, and lap-fell the underarm seams. The lap-fell gives the flattest possible finish, and, therefore, comes in play many times in making underwear. To make the seam, lay the two pieces to be joined with the face sides of the material together, the edges of the under piece extending one-fourth inch beyond the edge of the upper piece; bring the wide seam on the under piece over on the upper piece; turn under the edge and stitch it down flat. After the seams have been closed, the neck must be finished. Turn the edge down, as if making a hem, about one-quarter of an inch, and sew a band of one-inch footing around, stitching down the lower edge also. About seven inches below sew another band of the footing flat on the material. This gives the nightdress the popular empire effect, and the pink material showing thru the footing gives the effect of ribbon encased. Instead of drawing ribbon thru, however, a fine silk cord is used, and the gown can be adjusted to the proper width when tied. Besides being stronger, the cord has the added virtue of laundering without being removed. The shoulder straps are made of a double band of one-and-a-half-inch footing with a strip of the same width of the material inserted between. This is stitched on both edges, holding the silk flat. Two yards of footing are required for the shoulder straps, and three and a half yards for the gown.

Besides being cheaper than lace, the footing looks daintier. This model is particularly pretty when the footing is hemstitched on, giving it an air that makes "bought" underwear so attractive.

You can do hemstitching on an ordinary machine, by placing blotting paper under the material and stitching thru the material and paper. After the hemstitching is finished, trim away the raw edges. Now all that remains to be done is to adjust the length and make the hem at the bottom.

The same idea can be carried out in making the chemise. The upper part is of course made in the same way as the nightgown, except that it might be cut narrower, to fit closer to the figure. Perhaps ribbon should be used for the chemise instead of the cord, being preferable on account of the fact that it might show under the blouse or dress. Only two yards of material are required for the chemise, as it is cut away at the knee and finished in envelope style. It is evident that the envelope style has come to stay, for it has amply justified its popularity. In fact, even nightgowns are finished in this way, and for the girl who does not like to wear pajamas, this is a very simple method of keeping the nightgown in place around her ankles instead of uncomfortably rolling up.

To utilize the same idea, only carrying it still further, the nightgown could be closed at the hem, leaving a gap at each side large enough for the feet to slip thru. An opening can be made in the front at the neck and the gown can very easily be put on.

Don't Despair

A LITTLE trick discovered by a girl who has more ingenuity than [illegible] to make use of it, should be of help to others similarly situated. This girl says she would like to make her own fine collars of Georgette or [illegible] or satin, but to get any amount of hand work takes too much time. So she buys her collars ready made at the neckwear counter, but—and a big but—it is not easy to get the right shape with the right neck line to fit her [illegible] frocks. Therefore, she buys [illegible] collar larger than she needs, [illegible] the neckband and shapes it [illegible] suit her frock, tucking it to make it smaller if needed. Her collars always look as if they grew from her [illegible]

If the child is old enough, get it to blow down the obstructed nostril, after taking a deep breath, while the finger is pressed slightly against the free nostril. Failing this, grasp the nostril behind the seat of obstruction, and introduce a flat article, such as the handle of a salt spoon, beyond it, and endeavor to scoop it out. Tickling the nose with a feather will induce a sneeze that may force the article out of the nostril.

The most common injuries to the eyes are the entrance of small particles of dust, cinders, steel filings, etc. frequently, with the aid of a little winking, the tears wash away these foreign substance; but if the substance lodges in the lining membrane of the upper or lower lid, or is imbedded in the cornea it may be necessary to resort to other means in order to remove the foreign body. If it is in the upper eyelid roll the lid back over a match stick, a tiny roll of cotton or a pencil. The lining membrane of the lower lid is brought into view by simple tension of the lower lid downward by one finger. Another way to inspect the upper lid is to have the patient look down. Then seize lashes and edge of the lid by the thumb and forefinger of the right hand, draw the lid first forward and then downward away from the eye, then upward over the point of the thumb or forefinger of the left hand. The foreign body should be removed with a clean handkerchief. If it is stubborn, a competent physician should be consulted. Never rub the eye when a foreign substance is in it, for by doing so you may do it permanent injury.

To some persons the sight of any one choking is terrifying. At such times and in all cases of emergency a cool, level head is essential. The best thing to do for a choking person is to give him or her a sharp blow on the back. This will frequently dislodge a foreign body in the throat. If the obstruction is only slight, swallow a small piece of dry bread. Children may be held upside down and smartly slapped on the back.

When extracting a splinter use a needle—never a pin; and be sure to sterilize the sharp instrument before putting it near the skin. The needle can either be immersed in boiling water or it can be sterilized in the flame of a match. When the foreign piece has been removed bathe the broken flesh with very warm water, so that the wound will be absolutely clean, and then paint over with diluted iodine. This may smart, but it will prove an efficient germ killer.

When any part of the body has been scalded, dust bicarbonate of soda over it, and then apply a wet cloth. When blisters have formed, prick them with a sterilized needle, and press the skin carefully down, after which apply the bicarbonate of soda as before or equal parts of lime-water and olive oil. The oil should be applied on clean cloths or cotton wool, and the dressings should not be made more often than is required by cleanliness.

It is a valuable thing to know what to do when a person has an epileptic fit. The patient should be caught in the arms of the bystander and laid gently upon his back, with something placed under his head for a pillow, and everything tight should be removed from his neck. Insert a handkerchief, cork or some other available thing between the teeth to prevent the tongue being bitten and wait until a physician arrives.

It is during vacation time that one is often stung—in more ways than one—but just now we refer to the sting of an insect. Be prepared to be the heroine of the day by offering sensible advice. If the sting remains in the wound, it must of course be removed, and then some alkaline should be applied to the part, such as a little ammonia water or bicarbonate of soda. The pressure of a hollow key will often push the sting above the skin so that it can be caught with a pair of tweezers.

Don't read these suggestions and then proceed to forget them. It is really important that you should keep your mind full of little first-aid helps that can be administered before the doctor comes.

as it may, neither you nor any one else can offer advice of benefit to either class of letter except to tell them to take a interest in living. Why, the most of existence can now and then like giving a thrill if one is receptive enough to see its possi and receptive enough to feel it it does come.

me say, just a few words that from the number of times been emphasized and repeat to be graven on the heart of one who "takes his pen in hand." they are, use conservative letter black ink, paper of pale tints— that use tints at all—paper mi r, or any elaborate embellish Plain white or pale tinted un sheets that fold once into their are approved for social corre This rule holds for letter of both sexes. It is unpardon for a man to use his business sta for social correspondence. He however, permitted the use of his club stationery for writing friendly missives. Another point that is more or less puzzling to most people is the use of one's crest, monogram or address. The American man does not usually elaborate his letter paper beyond his address in simple Gothic or Roman lettering; this may be stamped, engraved or embossed. The crest or monogram should occupy no more space than a silver dime will cover; it is placed directly in the center of the top of the page; it should be left off entirely when an address is used. While there is no objection to the use of a crest or monogram on one's paper, the most fashionable stationery shows only the owner's house and street number in Gothic or Roman lettering, or the name of the country place in the upper center of the note and letter paper.

A word about the use of the postal card might not be amiss. It is a precious few who do not abuse this impersonal way of sending word by post. As a means of announcing the meetings of a committee or club, or forwarding an address this use of the postal card offers no objections. Peculiar circumstances may necessitate the use of the postal card for a personal communication, but an apology of some sort must warrant it. The message written thereon should not begin "My dear——" nor should it be closed with any terms of affection. The use of the initials of the Christian name followed by the surname in full is quite all that is necessary.

This brings one to the subject of the beginning and ending of letters. Many a one has to think twice before making the salutation on paper. It is the "Dear" and the "My dear" that necessitate second thought with many. Does "My dear" imply a certain degree of intimacy, or is simply "Dear" more formal? What is apparently the most intimate expression is in reality the most formal, here in America. By many it is looked upon as a bit presumptuous for a man to take the initiative in dropping the "my" when writing to a woman friend. The same is thought of addressing a lady whose communication has opened with "Dear Sir" as "My dear Miss Brown." It is unallowable to begin a letter "Dear Miss," omitting the name. "Madam" or "Dear Madam" is the proper address when writing to either a married or unmarried woman with whom the writer is not privileged an intimate acquaintance.

If the beginning of a letter is a puzzling proposition, the same is even more true of concluding the missive. Following are some of the approved forms of closing: "Very truly yours" or "Yours truly"; the customary expression in business correspondence indicates a certain formality. "Believe me sincerely" and "faithfully yours" are some of the accepted forms for concluding friendly notes and letters. "Affectionately," "devotedly" or "fondly" are not properly used except between relatives or very intimate friends.

Then comes the question of signing one's name. Here again many a one finds herself stumped. In social correspondence a married woman signs herself "Helen Brown," not "Mrs. Thomas Brown." But in concluding a business communication, if she doubts whether the person to whom she is writing knows her married title, she writes it in brackets beneath her name. An unmarried woman signs herself "Mary Jones" unless her communication is a business one, when she precedes her name by the word "Miss" in brackets.

SOLUTIONS TO SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Name for Sewing Circle

MY DEAR Mrs. Adams.
The eight girls in our Sunday school class have organized a sewing circle, but we are at a loss for an appropriate name for it. Will you please print a few names in your column? Awaiting your convenience, I am, B. W.

The following names may offer suggestions: The Busy Bees, Needleworkers' Guild, Flying Needles or the Thimble Club.

Is It Proper?

My dear Mrs. Adams.
I would be very grateful to you if you would kindly answer some of my questions.
Is it proper for a girl who is sitting on the hotel steps to rise when two or three of the young men from the hotel stop for a ten-minute talk? Or, should I ask them to sit down?
Also, my grandmother does not let any one of them take me to the show, two blocks away. She says that I do not know the young men, altho I have been introduced to them? What else is there to do? Thanking you again, I remain, G. C.

No, it is not necessary for a lady to rise in acknowledgment of a gentleman's presence. If you are quite sure that the men would not be obstructing the passageway it would not be improper to suggest that they be seated.

Your grandmother's implication is that you do not know the young men well enough. Perhaps if you presented the young men to her she could better judge of them as companions for you. Perhaps she would not object to your taking short walks or driving with them.

Courtesy and Caste

My dear Mrs. Adams.
I am a young girl 17 years old, and the other day while riding in a crowded trolley with another young girl an old colored woman entered with several packages. She seemed to be quite old and unable to reach a strap. I offered her my seat. Do you think that there was anything improper in that? The girl whom I was with did not approve of my rising to give the woman a seat. I would like your opinion on the matter. Thanking you in advance for this courtesy, I am, PERPLEXED.

True courtesy does not recognize caste. It was highly commendable of you to do as you did. Custom in certain localities may not approve a show of thoughtfulness under these circumstances, but then there are one's principles to be dealt with. And who does not admire a person who has the courage of his convictions?

Various Questions

My dear Mrs. Adams.
Is it proper for a girl to rise when meeting a young man for the first time? Should a girl permit a boy to kiss her? Is a girl of 13 too young to keep steady company? What should one say when introducing a girl and a boy? How should one acknowledge an introduction? What should one say when persons say that they "are glad to have met you"? CHUMS.

No, a girl never rises on meeting a man unless his age or dignity demand that courtesy, or when she is acting as hostess.

Promiscuous familiarity, except between engaged couples, is not permitted.

A girl of 13 who is sufficiently mature for her age must consider accepting the attentions of a single suitor.

To E. T. S.

I regret that I cannot answer your question, since it is not within the scope of my department.

He Has Ceased to Call

My dear Mrs. Adams.
I am a young lady and a senior in high school. I am quite popular, having many friends of both sexes and being the only girl in our family. My four brothers take me out and also bring their friends home to meet me. Now one of these boys asked me to an informal dance, and I accepted. Because I had a very bad cold, we left the dance about 11 o'clock, and as the young man had to catch the 11 o'clock train, I asked him in when we reached home. Because my parents did not happen to be present, this young man attempted to kiss me, and I became very angry. I told him that I did not care to see him any more. Now my brother wants to know why this young man no longer calls at our home; it was customary for him to stay to dinner twice a week. I did not say anything about his ungentlemanly conduct. Did I do right in telling the boy what I did? I do not approve of such conduct. PERPLEXED.

You were quite right in repudiating the young man; it was certainly unmannerly of him to take advantage of the absence of your parents. If your brother persists in questioning you as regards the boy's failure to call, there would be no harm in your explaining matters to him. Otherwise it might be advisable to "let well enough alone."

Youthful Correspondents

My dear Mrs. Adams.
I would like to have your advice on a matter of importance to me. I have been corresponding with a boy of my own age for the last year. I received a letter from him some time in the early part of March and answered it soon after. I always receive a greeting card from him on holidays. On March 17 I sent a St. Patrick's greeting, and up to the present time I have not heard from the boy. Would it be unwise to write to this boy and ask why he is displeased, and what displeased him? I do not want to be unfriendly, yet I do not care to appear too eager to write to him.
Will you kindly give me your advice and oblige A CONSTANT READER.

Since illness or misfortune of some kind may be a probable cause of the boy's silence it would not appear forward of you to write again. Do not, however, as you value your reserve, suggest that the fault may be due to any displeasure that you may have caused. On the contrary, inquire after his health and that of his family. Then if you receive no response it would be unwise for you to make any further overtures.

Attire for the Groom

My dear Mrs. Adams.
Will you please tell me which is proper for the groom to wear at a noon wedding, black or brown shoes? Which is proper for an afternoon wedding? Thanking you for your kindness in replying, I am, HOPEFUL.

Black patent leather shoes are proper.

The Ways of Love

My dear Mrs. Adams.
Can one really love and be so angry at the one loved as to ignore him or her on the street? What does my writing signify? ANXIOUS.

The ways of love are to be subjected neither to reasoning nor foretelling in the majority of cases. However, love should not so far forget itself as to be openly discourteous.

I regret that I cannot answer your next question, since it is not within the scope of my department.

ANSWERS TO BEAUTY QUERIES

REPLIES to letters to the writer of this department will be printed in regular order; but no replies in print may be expected in less than three or four weeks.

Correspondents desiring immediate replies to queries may get them by inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. Personal inquiries will receive prompt attention if accompanied by a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Desires to Reduce

My dear Mrs. Symes.
I read your advice regularly, and am now seeking some for myself. I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 135 pounds. I would like to reduce. I have a round face and a very large bust. I have your diet for obesity, and I am trying to follow your instructions. Will you please tell me if there is anything that I can take internally? I would not look so bad except for my waist and my bust. Is the epsom salts solution any good for reducing the bust? I thank you for any information that you may give me. HEAVY.

Below I am printing general suggestions for reducing. I am printing also suggestions for reducing the waist.

Yes, the epsom salts treatment has proved effectual in some cases. You might give it a trial. Make a solution from one pint of the salts to a gallon of water, and bathe the bust daily. I regret that I have no internal remedy for obesity.

For General Reduction of Flesh

Avoid all starchy and sweetened food, all cereals, vegetables containing sugar or starch, such as peas, beans, corn, potatoes, etc. Have your bread toasted; sprinkle it with salt instead of using butter. Milk, I regret to say, if it be pure and good, is fattening. Skimmed milk may be drunk. Hot water is an excellent substitute for other liquids. Add a little of the juice of limes or lemons to it, if you choose. Limit your sleeping hours to seven at the outside. No naps. You must take exercise.

To Reduce the Waist Measure

Deep breathing will help to reduce the waist measure and enlarge the bust. The stretching exercises, too, are splendid as waist depleters. Raise the arms high above the head; then, holding knees straight, try to touch the floor with the fingertips. Stand erect, place hands on hips; bend from waist as far as possible to the right, then to the left.

Cause of Pain

My dear Mrs. Symes.
Please tell me what causes pain down the spine from the base of the head to the shoulders, and thru the chest. I feel it on arising in the morning. Then after I am up about one hour it passes away. Sometimes it is worse than others. Mrs. H. H. S.

The pain may be due to any number of causes, nervousness being one of them. A personal diagnosis is necessary in your case. You had better see your physician.

Exercises for Reducing

My dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you please advise me as to the method I am following for reducing. Every night I exercise for ten minutes by bending at the waist and bending at the knees. This I repeat in the morning. Should it have any effect? I am always hungry, and it is very hard to follow the diet which you give. But I eat only two meals daily and those are not very large ones. If you will please tell me if I am doing the right thing for reducing or if the exercises are working in the other direction. I would very much appreciate it. G. C.

These exercises, since they bring so many of the muscles into play, are beneficial, but immediate results cannot be expected for only twenty minutes of daily exercise. Could you not increase the period for exercising, say ten minutes more night and morning? You might in addition go in for dancing, the vigorous modern dancing, but particularly fancy dancing are undisputed reducers of superfluity. Long walks, too, must be a part of your campaign against increasing avoirdupois. Hill-climbing and fat are most incompatible. Keep up your diet, increase your bodily activity and gratifying results will be apparent in a comparatively short while.

Is She Too Tall?

My dear Mrs. Symes.
I am a young girl of 16, and I am five feet seven inches tall. Do you think that I am very much too tall for my age? I weigh 122 pounds; is that too much for my size and age? I would like to know if you can tell me how to reduce my ankles, limbs and the calves of my legs. Thanking you in advance, I am, ANNETTE.

No, you are not too tall for your age. In all probability you have reached the limit of your capacity for growing. Your weight is not too much for your height, in fact, the corresponding weight for your height is 132 pounds.

Regular, hard and systematic exercise is the old reliable remedy for reducing superfluous flesh. Long walks, fancy dancing and good hard hill-climbing are excellent reducers. Below I am printing a formula for a pomade, which is recommended for reducing superfluous flesh. You might give it a trial.

Pomade to Reduce Fat

Iodine of potassium	46	grains
Vaseline	1⅛	ounces
Lanolin	1⅛	ounces
Tincture of benzoin	20	drops

Make into a pomade and rub over the fatty parts twice a day. You should abstain from food that is especially fat forming—cereals, potatoes, corn, beans, etc. You should avoid sweets of all kinds.

To Remove Superfluous Hair

My dear Mrs. Symes.
I have been reading your good advice, so have come to you for assistance. I am a young girl of 16. Can you tell me something that will remove hair from the mouth? It is very embarrassing. I prefer to have something that will not harm my skin for I have a nice complexion. I shall be gratefully yours. A READER.

Below I am printing a depilatory, which I am quite sure will answer your purpose. Like most depilatories, it is not permanent in its effects, and must be used from time to time.

A Depilatory

Sulphide of soda or calcium sulphide	100 grains
Chalk	100 grains

Mix thoroly, and keep dry in well-corked bottle until wanted for use. Take enough to cover the part to be denuded and add warm water to it until the proper consistency is secured. Spread over the hairy surface, and allow to remain for from one to five minutes, according to the nature of the growth and the susceptibility of the skin; then scrape off with a blunt blade—a paper knife, for example. It should be removed, as in every case with a depilatory, when the burning sensation is produced. Too long contact with the skin should be avoided and immediately after the hair has been removed the denuded surface should be gently washed with warm water and a cold cream or a bland oil applied to prevent irritation.

Not Too Tall

My dear Mrs. Symes.
I am a young girl, 19 years of age, and 5 feet 8½ inches tall. I weigh 135 pounds. Now I would like to know the proper weight for a girl of my height, also the proper height of the average grown girl. I am discouraged with my height and would like to look less conspicuous. Thanking you in advance for any advice, I am, DISCOURAGED.

Your weight is just about right for your height. The average girl measures from 5 feet 3 inches to 5 feet 5 or 6 inches.

Wearing low shoes and clothing to make you appear smaller are suggestions for making you appear less conspicuous. However, I see no good cause for your being discouraged; you are not abnormal.

FELT and FABRIC HATS BRIDGE the SEASONS

A Chinese Turban from Two Kinds of Satin

Velour Laced With Felt

Felt Crowns Straw Hat

SO IMPATIENT are women growing regarding the change of styles that, if they continue forcing the seasons, they will some day find themselves back to normal, wearing a straw hat in August and a velvet one in February. But not for long would such a state of affairs exist; it would be too prosaic. Very soon an important edict would be sent forth and once again mere man would not dare use a woman's hat as a seasonal index. Right now restless woman demands a change from the straw hat, and she has it in the models of felt and fabric.

The spirit of the Orient has been injected in many smart models, and one illustration of this fact is to be found in the black-and-white satin model with its rolled brim, full crown and colorful tassels dangling from the side.

As if loath to be neglected, a straw brim has attached itself to a felt crown. The two are trimmed with a band of ribbon and a very unique ornament made of the felt.

Suggestive of our Puritan forefathers' hats is the felt model with the extremely high crown. An effective trimming is made of narrow velvet ribbon forming petals of daisies. Their centers are filled with French knots.

Extreme height is the forceful note in many of the newest models. This is true of the toque that is trimmed with a soft bow of satin and has a cross-stitch design embroidered across the front. The embroidered hat once again promises to be a great favorite.

An attractive feature of the smart green model is the manner in which the rolled-back brim is slashed and threaded with white felt. No wonder there is no other trace of trimming.
